An idea for the Hilton

The Beverly Hilton Hotel wants to build a hotel at the intersection of Wilshire and Santa Monica Blvd. The rest of us want to rid ourselves of the horrible traffic at that intersection. If the Hilton agrees to make Santa Monica Blvd. an underpass at the Wilshire intersection and also provide a pedestrian overpass then we should allow them to build their hotel. This sounds like a good compromise to me. As an aside: Would you spend $500 million for something unless you thought it was a done deal?

grades 9-11, was lowered to 5 percent for those student records that are assigned a performance level weighting factor of 200.

The addition of the CST in life science for grade 10 also had an effect on the assignment of 200 point score assignments for some students. Students in grades 9-12, are now required to take at least one of the CSTs in science or the student will be assigned 200 points in the API calculation for the end-of-course science content area.

Penalties are also in place for students who did not pass the California High School Exit Exam (CAHSEE). The grade 12 students who did not pass in 2004 or 2005 and were eligible to retake the CAHSEE in the 2005-06 school year, were counted in the 2006 Base API for grade 12 students. Students who have not passed are counted as a non pass which reduces the overall score by a weighted score.

In total there are 16 Beverly High seniors who did not pass the (CAHSEE) and four who did not take the exam at all, 34 Beverly High juniors failed the exam while 23 have not yet taken it. All students who did not pass have the opportunity to retake the exam as seniors. Students who do not take the exam result in a lowered API base score.

Despite the penalties, BHUSD schools went up four points from the Base API calculated during the 2005-2006 school year and All BHUSD schools had an increase in their API scores except Beverly Vista which dropped by two points.

“[Beverly Vista’s lowered API score] is insignificant,” said Straus. “It is a couple of points. A one or two point fluctuation is insignificant in terms of the school’s performance. The students change every year, so do the scores.”

At a score of 864, Beverly Hills

Unified’s Base API is lower than those from neighboring districts. It is lower than Las Virgenes by 4 points, lower than Palos Verdes by 33 points, and lower than La Canada by 50 points.

“In comparable districts we believe we could do better,” Straus said. “One issue is math in 9th grade. As we continue to work with the teachers on aligning teaching to state standards, it will be a continued focus to line up classroom practice so students can better understand the material they will be tested on. We believe our test scores can be even better. But they are very good now. We are getting A’s but we also want to set the standard.”

Hawthorne School's tile wall constructed in 2004

Tile walls, brick project to be installed in three Beverly Hills schools

El Rodeo, Horace Mann and Beverly Vista schools are selling a chance to be a part of history to students, alumni and community members.

El Rodeo is selling six inch square tiles that can be painted by students, alumni or community members, to be mounted inside the entrance wall to the school. The project is in effort to commemorate the school's 80th anniversary and to honor the legacy and heritage of the institution. The tiles are on sale for $80 a piece until May 1 when they go up to $100. An anniversary celebration will take place on May 6th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school playground. The event will feature a boutique with 15 to 20 vendors, a bouncy slide, a DJ for music and free food and drink throughout the day. Former principal Frank Scott will be in attendance. Tiles purchased can be painted by the purchaser any time through June 21 or the project leaders, Jolie Jashni and Teddi Gilderman, will commission an artist to paint the tile for the purchaser. For further information call (310) 229-3670.

Horace Mann has a similar project in the works. Headed by PTA parent Tina Wiener, the fundraiser will sell tiles for $100 and feature an event on June 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school. The community can come paint the tiles at the school event or they can go to Color Me Mine on Beverly to paint at their convenience. The tile wall will be mounted at the entrance to Horace Mann near the fountain area. The wall will be installed by next fall. For further information call (310) 229-3680.

Beverly Vista will be selling engraved bricks to be installed in the court yard of the soon to be opened multi purpose building, Building B. The mason has donated his time and labor to install the bricks. They are $100 per 4 inch by 8 inch brick and the proceeds will provide supplemental funds for the new building. The bricks will be laser-ed with the family name and a message of the purchaser's choice. The project will be complete by the unveiling of the new building in August or September. A form for purchasing the bricks is available on the Beverly Vista Website at <http://bv.bhusd.org/about/-index.jsp>. All bricks must be purchased by May 1. For further information call (310) 229-3669.

Wolfgang Puck restaurants to stop serving Foie Gras

Some people will do anything not to have to eat liver. Wolfgang Puck, famous chef and restaurateur, announced that he will stop serving Foie Gras, or fattened duck liver, in his upscale restaurants following protesting outside of his Beverly Hills Spago restaurant.

Protesters Kristina Wilde and Valerie Bell stood outside Puck's Spago restaurant on Wilshire daily for over a year and a half to protest the use of the politically incorrect meat.

Foie Gras is created by force feeding the ducks through inserting a metal tube into their throat three times a day; the result is a diseased liver that expands to ten times its normal size.

Puck does not attribute his decision to halt the service of the fattened duck liver as being of the protesters influence but the protesters beg to differ.

"I feel that [the decision] had something to do with us," Wilde said. "We thought Puck was a great chef to begin with and we appreciate his decision we are very proud of him for making it."

The protest was headed up by animal rights group Farm Sanctuary.

Flory Schultheiss

Beverly High English Teacher 1966-2004
Tarzana, CA

How did you first get to Beverly Hills?

I graduated from college at Dennison University in Ohio and I had decided with my girlfriend in the 4th grade that when we grew up we would get an apartment together. We kept in touch for all those years up until we both graduated from college. She got a position at Cedars Sinai as a physical therapist and I got into grad school at UCLA in the English department. We drove out to California together in my little Dodge Dart down route 66— and we discovered that Cedars was quite far from UCLA — we thought they would be next door. When I was at UCLA I heard that the best school districts were the smaller ones. So I applied to La Canada, Beverly Hills and Santa Monica. The first acceptance I got was at La Canada but I also had an interview at Beverly. They said they could hire me later. I liked La Canada but I was really far from UCLA and the friends I made there. So I applied to Beverly Hills the following year and was accepted in 1966. I didn't know a soul there. But it had an excellent reputation and the reputation proved to be true.

Tell us about the high school when you first got there.

It was called a lighthouse school then. It was one in a half dozen in the US that was looked at as having a superior academic offering to the students and also being innovative in trying new programs. I think you could not find a much better education at the time than Beverly Hills High. It offered many languages, programs, had an observatory. It was a very exciting place to be. I would work very hard on my lectures. My fiancé was an army security agent stationed at Fort Devens, and he would hitch hike to Harvard to research my lectures. I was part of teen teaching for seniors and we would have to review the lectures. The senior team members were very strict. For the new people we were intimidated by the situation but at the same time I was impressed by it. I spent all my time on preparing class lectures and grading essays. I could not imagine being married and teaching at Beverly High let alone having children and working there. In the end, I did both.

What made you want to be an English teacher?

I was fortunate because I always wanted to be a teacher and I knew it. I think when I was younger in High School I thought I would like to be an elementary teacher but the college I studied at, Denison University, did not offer an elementary program. I think it was a blessing because I really enjoyed being a high school teacher. We were required to have two teaching fields there. Mine were history and English. I almost had a double major in the fields. I never wavered in being glad I was a teacher. My senior year I had to do a comprehensive examination and I had to decide what to study in grad school. I really enjoyed English more. I did teach history one semester following my maternity leave and I seriously considered staying but my department chair at the time, Kully Rabkin, had a serious talk with me to come back to the English department. So I did. I enjoyed my colleagues and dealing with great literature. In the last 10 years of teaching there I taught AP art history as well as English. It was extremely exciting for me and opened up a whole new world which is still a part of my life.

How did the school and kids change over the years?

Demographically the school has changed. The entire school was White upper middle class when I started, primarily Jewish. Now the school has many ethnic groups. I don't really think the students have changed at all. A year ago this time I was back in the classroom because they needed a teacher in AP English. And my former colleague and friend Marilyn Wulliger [interviewed in issue #317] and I split the assignments and I have to say the students have not changed at all. The students at Beverly are really eager to learn and like to be challenged. They are trying to get into good colleges and get ahead in life. They come from families that respect education. While demographically the school has changed I really feel the students haven't changed at all.

Have student writing skills improved or not over the years?

I don't think students write as well as they used to. However it is because there simply isn't the kind of concentration in writing as we used to be able to give them. I think it is because of larger class sizes and the fact that teachers are asked to do so many other things, more administrative work than there used to be. I should add that many teachers at Beverly put a strong emphasis on writing and there are some excellent writers in the school such as [English teachers] Gwen Graham and Bonnie Miller, who taught my own children, and many others put this emphasis on their students. Students at Beverly High write very well, mostly it is students at other high schools I have worked with that need improvement.

Tell us about some of the students and teachers you worked with.

In the very beginning of my career there was a history teacher named John Rosemond. He died far too young. He was a mentor to me and a wonderful teacher.

Another teacher who was very much a part of my life is Florence Quertermous who also was a mentor to me. I had many friends whose company I have really enjoyed over the years. Unfortunately some of them died too young. There are some great friends I still keep in touch with such as Charlie Atol, Susan Srere, and Gail Shafran. However I still have many close friends and we get together in our ladies group every few months. Some of us have retired and some are still in the school system.

There are a lot of students I remember also. Two that stick out right now because I have been in recent touch with them. One is named Anna DeAlto Tilles. She is now an elementary school teacher and her daughters are now seniors. She recently wrote an email saying she remembers me counseling her in preparation for college and she is now doing that for her children. Another student is David Kipen. He is national director of literature in Washington DC. He is in touch with my husband and me because of his interest in literature and film. Jamie Nemiroff is another. I just got an email from him last week.

Both of your kids graduated from Beverly High. What was that like?

Rod ('92), my son, went all the way through Beverly Hills schools from K-12. Sally ('89), except for second grade, where are they now? cont. on page 11

Brucker and North need to chill

Appearing at Council meetings brings action
By Rudy Cole

When Verizon wanted to place a servicing unit in a north residential area, neighbors appeared at an open meeting of the city council and expressed their fears.

When one of our oldest restaurants, Cheesecake Factory, had difficulty obtaining a loading zone, the manager used the public input time at the start of each council meeting to ask for help.

In these and countless other examples of democracy at work, the council and the city manager Rod Wood responded and dealt with the issues, satisfactorily.

The city also has established a call in telephone line permitting residents to talk about any problem not on the agenda prior to the start of the formal meetings.

All this is good government at work, but what the city should bring back is an office of ombudsman – a one-stop staff member who has the ability to help expedite issues, explain procedures and, most often, resolve questions that may frequently require attention from more than one city agency.

Most residents know a councilmember, certainly many knocked on their doors when campaigning for office, and do contact them directly for help with issues ranging from street repairs to trash collection.

Actually, that is a major role of councilmember's and especially whoever is mayor. Although the council has a support staff, they no longer have a full time assistant assigned to "case work."

In West Hollywood, as an example, each councilmember has his or her own deputy and most of their duties relate to handling citizen concerns, plus handling appointments, research and liaison with city staff. In Los Angeles, where councilmembers are full time, they have very large support staffs and hereto the work is mostly citizen problem calls.

No comment about city staff would be complete without recognizing the very different mind set of our professionals. The across the counter people are service oriented, and that's true of almost every city department. If you have ever had an issue in other communities, you know how different, how sensitive almost all our people are compared to other government agencies.

Much of the credit for this goes to our present city manager Rod Wood and to his predecessor, Mark Scott. But it was also reinforced by former Mayor Max Salter who once toured every office at city hall with a friendly reminder: The people who come here are your "customers" and need to be treated that way.

The continuing attack and counter attack between Vice Mayor Barry Brucker and the Beverly Hills North Homeowner's Association is confusing and amusing, as a comic character used to exclaim.

In case you missed it, the North have had attack pieces, and there is really no other way to describe them, targeting Brucker and he has responded with equal vigor and emotion.

The issues the North raises have to do with possible, not actual, actions Brucker may take in the future, especially on land use questions. The other problems the North cites are more puzzling.

As one example, although Brucker did support the Montage Hotel during the referendum, he was not a member of the council when they voted approval. In fact, his endorsement of the yes vote was very cautious, less enthusiastic than the other successful candidates and, after all, it did win voter approval.

What is most intriguing about this flap is the past relationships. Brucker came onto the council as the one least identified with the establishment, however that is defined. His first place vote, although narrow, was probably due to his perceived independence and willingness to challenge or at least question previous council majority actions. In an even larger sense, Councilmember Nancy Krasne now has that job.

Brucker's first months on the council had him questioning a wide range of issues, some dear to the North. He also challenged the Chamber of Commerce's deal on promoting branding of the logo and received a blistering letter from the company contracted to do the work for his troubles. Just one minor example of Brucker's traveling his own path, right or wrong.

Most important was Brucker's initiating of a tough ethics ordinance, a North HOA priority. In case you missed the debate on this one, it had mostly to do with restricting former city councilmembers coming back to the council on behalf of developers.

After considerable debate, and there are still major questions on fairness involved, the council did place inhibitions on the so-called "revolving door." Although the ordinance eventually had the support of the whole council, it was Brucker who led the charge. In fact, Brucker is not satisfied with the current law and wants to make even stronger restrictions on city officials, not just councilmembers, from returning as lobbyists.

Incidentally, some of this is now academic. This council is the first in years that has no lawyer members and that may not be in the public interest. True, there are legislative advocates that are not lawyers, but the ethics rules mostly apply to them. In fairness, the other side of the argument is that former lawyer/councilmembers can and do give clients a more realistic view of the possible, and frequently modify land use applications more likely to win city approval.

Certainly Brucker has become more aligned with what the North sees as the power group. Possibly they have themselves to blame for pushing Brucker into the arms of his colleagues.

As for the North's check list rating of Brucker, and they gave him all F's and one D., the reality is not quite so clear cut. Brucker did support the vote to remove two-hour free parking, but there is some hope this will soon be modified. Councilmember Krasne is determined to restore two hour free and Brucker is likely to support a change. But he has not voted to widen Santa Monica Boulevard and Mayor Jimmy Delshad, whom Brucker strongly backed in the election, pledged to vote against any widening. Brucker received another F for "excessive development" but he has yet to vote on any major project.

This has more to do with expectations than reality, more about what both Brucker and the North thought would be their relationship. Brucker's response to the attacks could have been more temperate, and the North needs to at long last learn to modify their rhetoric.

Honestly guys, the sky is not falling. A continuation of the estrangement serves no purpose and only intensifies personal differences and is not conducive to problem solving. As a side show, its fascinating, makes for good column fodder, but just keeps people apart when we need some coming together.

Why? Because we are soon, and at long last, to complete the process of adopting a new general plan for the city. If old battles, personality conflicts dominate the debate, we will miss an important opportunity to apply rational decision making to a responsibility that demands reason and logic.

Knee-jerk reactions, rigid views on heights and density, will muddle some realities: The new general plan will decide how we view future changes and where and how we can use planning to set visionary guidelines for the city.

Reality? There are simply too many sections of the business area that are unattractive and even abandoned. Deterioration is infective and a new general plan needs to create proper incentives, within limits and recognizing impacts on traffic that bring viable improvements. Where? Look at the abandoned stores between Linden and Spalding on the north side of Wilshire Boulevard. How about an ugly mini-mall at our eastern entry? What is to become of the former railroad right of way near the Peninsula?

The contrast between the marvelous retail sections and the under utilized is an obvious challenge that will be part of the general plan study. The North needs to be part of that process as does every other group, including a new association representing less confrontational residents. Fighting old wars, sticking to rigid views and mouthing emotion packed slogans is not what we need.

Do I agree with Brucker on every item on his personal agenda? Not at all. Is the North wrong on every issue they espouse? Hardly. While debate is healthy, and differences inevitable, a coming together by everyone in any leadership role is more essential now than ever - future generations will suffer if it doesn't happen. Brucker could help by not making every person who disagrees with him an enemy of the people and some in the North need to be more cautious in keeping their stories straight.

Now, if this doesn't offend all the partisans, I'll try to do better later.

My thanks to all those who asked to be more involved and supportive of Theatre Forty. Your names will be given to their board and they will soon put together a support group.

Hopefully, all our entertainment groups read the Los Angeles Times story on the troubles are former locals, CAA and ICM, are having in adjusting to life in Century City. Power lunches are just not as much fun, when you are rushed for time.

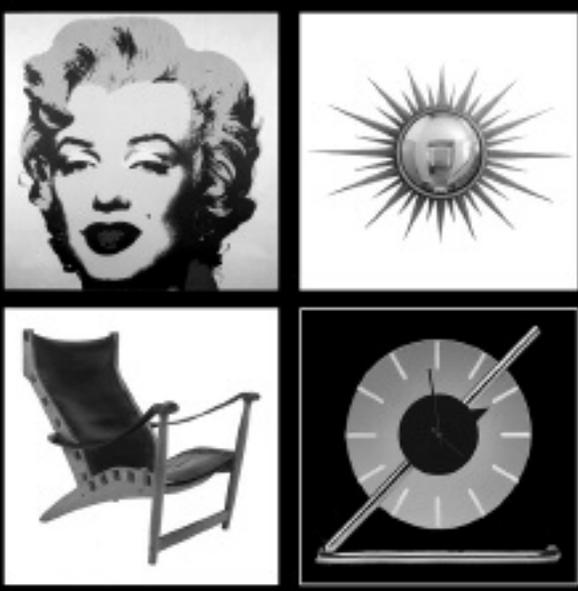

The restaurants of Beverly Hills still welcome most of the agents that opted for the high rise wonders of our giant neighbor, but the food court at the mall hardly equals the pleasures available in our more upscale eateries such as the Belevedere at the Peninsula, Spago's, The Grill, BLVD at the Beverly Wilshire or Circa 55 at the Hilton, to mention just a few.

Speaking of restaurants, it seems fairly obvious that we have never had so many and so large a diversity of dining options. Most notable is what has happened to South Beverly Drive and North Canon. Time for a column on eateries, so let me know about your favorites.

NEIGHBORS SAY HAWTHORNE MURAL HAS TO GO

Why the large blue and yellow school mural has some residents seeing red

By Amanda Parsons

Betsy Myers speaking at Tuesday's Board of Education meeting

With some of the highest property values in the country, Beverly Hills residents do not usually complain about the view, but some North Rexford Drive inhabitants have taken up the cause of removing a local school mural they deem as an eyesore.

In September 2006, a mural which reads "Hawthorne" was painted on the Spanish Style auditorium of Hawthorne School without the approval of the Board of Education. The mural was, however, approved by then-interim superintendent John Fitzpatrick.

"The mural and what it represents is completely not consistent with the city's signage policies," said North Rexford Drive resident Betsy Myers who has decided to head the cause of the removal of the school mural. "Shouldn't signage be aligned with the code requirements of the city of Beverly Hills? Just so there is visual integrity in the city let alone the visual integrity of the school buildings themselves."

Signage requirements listed in the City of Beverly Hills Municipal Code do not apply to schools. Schools are under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education and individual district policies are mandated by each district's Board of Education, leaving the Beverly Hills Unified School District in charge of school signage issues.

In effort to determine what the board's signage requirements are Myers contacted current BHUSD Superintendent Kari McVeigh, Hawthorne Principal Alex Cherniss, Hawthorne PTA President Jeny Melamed, and Beverly Hills Mayor and fellow North Rexford Drive resident Jimmy Delshad.

"I think the mural is much too large for a place in Beverly Hills," Mayor Jimmy Delshad said. "It is not to the quality and standards of Beverly Hills."

Myers claims that after contacting the above named individuals multiple times she was denied answers. It was only after she filed for a California Public Records Request that certain members of the party responded with what Myers calls, a "questionable email."

"[Myers] did file a public information act requesting a copy of an email from the previous superintendent stating that he authorized the mural and she got that," BHUSD Superintendent Kari McVeigh said. "She also requested a contract but we don't have it. The PTA has it and they are not required to provide it under the freedom of information act."

Hawthorne PTA parents Jeny Melamed and Stacey Raskin did not return calls from the Weekly.

"As far as I have been told, the school board was not informed that the mural was going to be painted," Myers said. "According to school board policy, all contracts are supposed to come before the board and as far as I understand these contracts did not."

School board policy 3312 lists that business and non instructional operations contracts must, "to be valid or to constitute an enforceable obligation against the District, all contracts must be approved and/or ratified by the Board of Education (Education Code 17064)." The contract for the painting of the mural was not approved by the Board.

However the policy also states that "the Board may, by majority vote, delegate the power to enter into contracts on behalf of the District to the Superintendent or designee."

"I have requested a copy of the painting contract by filing a public information act because we don't know who signed it or whether they had the power to do so," Myers said. "Until we have a copy of the original contract to see who signed it, we don't know if the mural is legal."

McVeigh claims the contract is not the board's responsibility.

"This was not a school board contract," McVeigh said. "It was a PTA contract. PTA paid for it and it was not sponsored by school district. It was authorized by the superintendent so it was painted. It is very typical and very appropriate for matters like this to be handled this way."

According to McVeigh, BHUSD lawyers deem that the implementation of the mural was perfectly legal and in compliance with state regulations.

"I have no concerns on the issue," McVeigh said. "This was a legally authorized and implemented painting on a building that we have the authority and right to do. The fact that Ms. Myers doesn't like it doesn't take away the fact that we had the right to do it."

Myers assembled a petition, complete with 16 signatures, which she presented to the Board of Education at the Tuesday meeting requesting that the removal of Hawthorne's mural be placed on the Board agenda. She also requested a measure be placed on the agenda to establish Board signage standards that they align with the city's municipal codes. The board acknowledged that they would place the matters on the agenda for the May 7 meeting.

"It might be useful for the Board to undertake an examination to determine the facts concerning how this Mural was painted on school property without apparent proper review, authorization or consent," Myers said during her three-minute speech to the board.

A statement submitted by Raskin was read aloud by Board of Education President John Millan following Myers' statement to the board.

The statement read: "The Hawthorne PTA fully supports the mural that was painted in the fall of 2006 on the front of their school... Parents and children take great pride in Hawthorne School and all that it stands for. The initiative to paint the mural came shortly after beautification day of our school. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder and there are 650 students along with their families and teachers who see great beauty and happiness in this mural."

"My primary focus and concern as principal of Hawthorne School is on the education and safety of our students," Cherniss said. He declined to comment further.

As far as the murals at other schools go, Myers says she has no problem with any other BHUSD school murals currently. "I really haven't looked into the other school murals. I have my hands full with Hawthorne."

she only attended school in Beverly Hills during high school. But, I loved being able to have them come in to the Beverly Hills schools because we got to be together in the commute in the car and they got a good education. Neither of them hung out in my classroom so I didn't see much of them. They each had their own activities. I think they really wanted to be on their own.

When did you retire and what are you doing now?

I retired in 2004, and now I am very busy. My sally has two children ages 1 and 3. I see them almost daily and babysit them on a regular basis. I am so fortunate because they live nearby. I am also a university supervisor at Cal State Northridge where I observe English teachers as they do their student teaching in high schools throughout the county. I also am a lecturer at the Norton Simon Art museum. I enjoy both of these positions tediously. I am on the board of the Friends of the Beverly Hills Library and I enjoy keeping my connection with Beverly Hills through a group connected with the library. I live in Tarzana with my husband John. He is chair of the cinema and television art department at CSUN.

Who do you keep in touch with?

Alli Jason-Fives, Gwen Graham, Marilyn Wulliger, Lucie Hinden, Celeste McDonald, Florence Quertermous-Nulsen, Judy Somers from Horace Mann and many more.

What advice would you give to a young teacher just starting out today?

I think you know if you want to be a teacher. Realize that you have the most responsible position society asks, and that is the education of the youth of the country. So it is really up to you to be inspirational in helping each child achieve their full potential. It is a tremendous responsibility but at the same time it has tremendous rewards to enjoy the intellectual challenge as well as the fun of being with people who are evolving and maturing and keep your enthusiasm.

CAN YOU TURN YOUR $1 MILLION IRA INTO $10 MILLION?

If you are over 70 and have accumulated more money in your IRAs and Pensions than you need to live on, Alan Kaye can show you how to create more money for your heirs and favorite charities than you ever anticipated!

At age 70½, people who have IRAs, Pensions and 401k plans are required to take minimum annual distributions that are subject to ordinary income tax. If you don't spend or give that money away, it could be subject to estate taxes as well. After income and estate taxes, those in the highest brackets could be leaving their families less than 1/3 of what they anticipated.

Why bother to make "wise" investments when it is likely that more than half of your accumulated wealth will go to the government instead of your family?

Simple Solutions!

If you have a large amount of money in your IRA, you can gift your annual distribution to your family, using that money to buy a life insurance policy that would create tax-free money for your heirs. In many cases, using the money to buy life insurance could give your heirs more than they would receive after-tax, by continuing to accumulate the funds in their retirement plans.

Assuming that your retirement plan earns a return of 5% annually, you could withdraw that amount without diminishing the principal. One client with a $1 million IRA used his annual distribution to buy $3 million of life insurance to benefit his family. If he doesn't spend the principal, his plan is to leave the balance of his IRA to his own charitable foundation.

Under current law, without life insurance, his $1 million IRA would have to grow to more than $10 million, so that after income and estate taxes, his family could get the same $3 million that life insurance would pay tax-free. What's more, he can now leave more money to charity than he ever expected to.

Why wait for your $1 million retirement plan to grow to $10 million? As president of the Alan Kaye Insurance Agency and vice president of Barry Kaye Associates, Alan Kaye has helped thousands of people meet their goals by creating insurance plans that best satisfy their needs.

If you are over 70 years old and not maximizing the use of your assets, find out how life insurance can provide you with the opportunity to leave more tax-free money for both your heirs and charities. Call for a free consultation and be sure to ask when Alan Kaye's next free seminar will be held in your area.

A Message To Our New Friends in Beverly Hills –

We are delighted to have this opportunity to introduce ourselves to this remarkable community.

As the developers of 9900 Wilshire, the proposed project designed by Richard Meier, we are committed to bringing the highest quality to Beverly Hills. We believe that our background in delivering superior luxury residences on an international stage belongs in Beverly Hills.

We specialize in premium residential projects in a number of international markets and our current projects include some of the most sought after addresses in the world including Monaco, London and now Beverly Hills, California. We are perhaps best known for our One Hyde Park project in London, designed by Lord Richard Rodgers who is, along with Richard Meier, a Pritzker Prize winner.

9900 Wilshire is already being hailed for its commitment to environmental sustainability and landmark design. Richard Meier has specifically planned 9900 Wilshire to be traffic neutral, and it will not generate more traffic than the department store it is replacing.

We believe that transparency makes good neighbors. As your new neighbors, we want to reassure you that we are committed to this remarkable plan without any changes and are eager to enhance and execute it at the highest level.

And as your new neighbors, we want you to know about us. Our purchase was financed by Credit Suisse, through its New York City office. Our equity partners are Kaupthing HF, a European bank, along with CPC Group (owned by Christian Candy). There are no other partners in this project.

Beverly Hills is a world-class city, on a par with London, New York and Paris. We are honored and excited to become a part of this vibrant and exciting community.

Over the coming weeks and months, we will be holding informal get-togethers to answer your questions and listen to your ideas. Please feel free to contact us at 310.407.1601 to arrange for a meeting.

The Beverly Hilton
REVITALIZATION PLAN

An environmentally friendly design with 4.5 acres of open space and gardens

Before

After

Site of current Palm Court/Oasis building

The environmentally friendly design will:

- Replace concrete with more open space and public gardens.
- Achieve the U.S. Green Building Council's nationally recognized LEED® certification for environmental sustainability.
- Use the latest energy efficient lighting technology, and implement innovative waste management, recycling and water conservation programs.

The revitalization plan will also:

- Replace outdated hotel rooms with five-star rooms in a new Waldorf=Astoria building, resulting in 50 fewer hotel rooms on the property, and add new luxury residences.
- Provide $5 million in major traffic improvements paid for by The Beverly Hilton to reduce traffic congestion at the corner of Wilshire and Santa Monica.
- Double tax revenues paid by The Beverly Hilton to the City, resulting in over $12 million each year for local services like police, fire protection and schools.
