“Election Hangovers” [Issue 527]

As the proud father of one of the student hosts of the November 3rd School Board election coverage on Time Warner’s KBEV channel 6, I find it curious that the Beverly Hills Weekly’s columnist Rudy Cole chose to reference a candidate’s appearance on the student run broadcast, yet saw no reason to reference the source.

Nikkie Sedaghat and Dillon Curtis hosted three hours of live television flawlessly, bringing a fresh and new perspective to a program formally hosted by the Weekly’s publisher and Mr. Cole. As Dillon’s father I was privy to the behind the scenes preparation for this program and know that both Mr. Cole and Mr. Gross were invited to appear on several occasions. A final, last minute, personal plea from Dillon to both men to participate in the broadcast was totally ignored.

The perception that Gross and Cole were banned by [Nooshin] Meshkaty which was propagated in an ad in the Beverly Hills Weekly could not be further from the truth. This passing of the torch from the hosting duo of Gross and Cole was inevitable and a long time coming. Dillon, Nikkie and other students from the Advanced Broadcasting class at Beverly High School had an interest and desire to be involved in an on-air and production capacity on the election telecast for over a year, but their requests were continually denied or fell on deaf ears. These students became proactive and with the assistance of the Superintendent and the School Board were given the opportunity to produce and host this community affairs program.

You might suppose that Mr. Gross, who is so involved in BHHS alumni activities and publishes his second and third generation photos following every Beverly graduation, would be interested enough to find at least a quarter inch of his newspaper’s valuable space to acknowledge the accomplishments of the students who worked so diligently to provide three hours of live television for those who tuned in.

Sour grapes and wounded feelings should take a backseat to highlighting the deeds of these talented and dedicated students. Mr. Gross and Mr. Cole should celebrate the historic nature of the broadcast on KBEV and not simply choose to ignore it. Dillon and Nikkie demonstrated their respect and class by paying tribute to Gross and Cole for their contributions over the past 16 years at the beginning of the evening’s program. Instead of crowing loudly in his column about his publisher’s brilliant endorsement record in Tuesday’s election it would have been nice to see some mature reciprocation in the Beverly Hills Weekly. Even though Cole and Gross chose to disregard their balanced, informative and entertaining broadcast, Dillon and Nikkie received congratulations and praise from all sectors of our community.

Publisher’s note: We agree the student hosts did a great job; this isn’t about them. But after hosting the election program for 16 continuous years, there’s no doubt Nooshin Meshkaty and Board Members Myra Lurie and Myra Demeter took the program away from us because they didn’t like the aggressive coverage of the board race. Regardless, the voters have spoken, and we’ll see how the new board chooses to handle the next program in 2011.

Contrary to the statements made by Mr. Cole in his post-mortem election column, many PTA and PTSA (collectively, “PTA”) members in their individual capacities were involved in the recent school board election. PTSA Council co-sponsored the debate. Various candidates were supported by a vast number of active past and present PTA members and officers in their individual capacities. Some candidates had PTA mem-

Corrections

Last week’s column “Election Hangovers” [Issue 527] mistakenly stated that Board Members Steven Fenton and Brian Goldberg were elected four years ago. Both Fenton and Goldberg were elected two years ago.

Brucker Criticized at Council Meeting

Beverly Hills residents Lee Lewis and Ruth Kraft spoke out during last week's city council meeting to criticize Councilmember Barry Brucker for his integral involvement in Board of Education President Nooshin Meshkaty's re-election campaign.

Lewis began by quoting an e-mail exchange with Brucker dated Feb. 4, 2009 in which Brucker wrote that "the opportunity permits is a school board issue [and] not a city issue ... the city council should not meddle in school board issues."

Lewis told Brucker he "could not agree more that members of the city council should not meddle in school board issues or elections." He then read the open letter to the city council published in the Weekly [Issue 525] into the record.

Brucker, who served as Meshkaty's campaign manager, said the open letter was filled with fallacies. He pointed out that both Frank and Steven Fenton supported Councilmember Willie Brien's campaign in the recent city council election, and Vice Mayor Jimmy Delshad supported both Brien's and former Councilmember Linda Briskman's campaigns.

Frank and Steven Fenton, as well as Delshad, however, never served as the candidates' campaign managers.

"I believe that it is something that is provided by our constitution and that is freedom of expression," Brucker said. "I have a constitutional right to endorse or support any candidate. Just because you've got some bone to pick with one candidate, I think you need to have some real inner reflection because you're just trying to toss grenades."

Lewis said freedom of expression shouldn't apply to Brucker because of the chair he sits on.

"It's an unfair power exchange," he said.

Brucker said he contacted one of the signers of the letters.

"I asked her, 'What were you thinking?'" Brucker said. "I asked her, 'If I was supporting your candidate, would you have signed that letter?' and she said, 'Probably not.'"

Many residents have said they believe Meshkaty's defeat in the election was partly due to Brucker's management of her campaign.

Kraft, who did not sign the open letter, said she was "very upset" when she received a letter from Brucker asking her to vote for Meshkaty.

"It wasn't right," Kraft said. "I don't think anyone has done that before, or they haven't to me. So I think, Mr. Brucker, you have to be cautious and do things properly."

BHPD Arrests Burglar After Suspect Breaks Car Window

Beverly Hills police officers arrested a burglar who shattered the window of a parked car last Saturday in an alleged attempt to steal items in the vehicle located near Charleville Boulevard and Arnaz Drive.

Officers responded to a report of two male suspects fleeing the area at approximately 4:30 a.m. and arrested one of the suspects, Jason Anthony Casosola, 31, for burglary and parole violation.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: November 19, 2009
TIME: 2:30 PM
LOCATION: Commission Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its SPECIAL meeting on Thursday, November 19, 2009, will hold a public hearing beginning at 2:30 PM to consider:

A request for a Variance to allow the construction of a fence within a front setback that varies in height between 10 feet and 17 feet 1 inch, for a property located in the Hillside Area of the City at 9481 Sunset Boulevard. The proposed fencing extends the length of existing fencing in order to provide fencing along the property's entire street frontage. The proposed fencing is consistent in height and design with existing fencing (wrought iron) in front of the primary residence, and includes the relocation of two existing vehicular access gates and their associated pilasters.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. A Class 3(e) Categorical Exemption for new construction of residential accessory structures (including fences) has been issued and the project has been determined not to have a significant environmental impact and is exempt from the provisions of CEQA.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Ryan Gohlich, Assistant Planner in the Planning Division at 310.285.1194, or by email at rgohlich@beverlyhills.org. Copies of the applications, plans, and Categorical Exemption are on file in the Community Development Department, and can be reviewed by any interested person at 455 North Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

ORDINANCE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ADOPTION OF AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS REGARDING WATER EFFICIENT LANDSCAPING AND PARKWAY SURFACES AND AMENDING THE BEVERLY HILLS MUNICIPAL CODE

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on November 17, 2009, at 7:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in the Council Chambers, Beverly Hills City Hall, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, the City Council of the City of Beverly Hills will consider adopting an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance of the City of Beverly Hills Regarding Water Efficiency Landscaping and Parkway Surfaces and Amending the Beverly Hills Municipal Code." A summary of this Ordinance follows:

Summary of Ordinance

An Ordinance of the City of Beverly Hills Regarding Water Efficiency Landscaping and Parkway Surfaces and Amending the Beverly Hills Municipal Code

Assembly Bill 1881 requires cities to adopt the California Department of Water Resources State Model Landscape Ordinance no later than January 1, 2010. The City has opted to adopt its own ordinance, which is intended to be as effective in conserving water as is the Model Landscape Ordinance.

The proposed ordinance establishes a structure for planning, designing, installing and maintaining water efficient landscapes. The proposed ordinance requires an applicant to submit a landscape documentation package for review and approval by the City prior to installing any new landscape area of 2,500 square feet or more. This applies to all landscape areas of new residential or commercial development projects, including city projects and facilities and landscape areas which are altered by more than fifty percent (50%). It also applies to new installation of landscape area irrigation systems. Applicants must complete a worksheet that addresses soil conditions, grading plan, irrigation plan, and plant material in order to fit into a prescribed water budget. The ordinance also makes an additional amendment to the provision regarding parkway landscape. The proposed ordinance now allows the abutting property to plant and maintain the parkway with grass or other plant material that is maintained at no more than six inches in height as approved by the City's Arborist.

A certified copy of the entirety of the text of Ordinance is available in the office of the City Clerk, Beverly Hills City Hall, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Room 290, and is available for public inspection at that location.

Beverly Hills Moves to Ban Animal Declawing

The Beverly Hills City Council moved to enact an ordinance banning onychectomy (declawing) and flexor tendonectomy procedures, except in the case of medical necessity for the welfare of an animal. A second and final reading of the ordinance will occur at the council's next meeting

Tuesday, Nov. 17.

The council moved to approve the legislation before the enactment of Senate Bill 762, which will prohibit municipalities from outlawing a veterinarian or licensed professional from conducting or participating in an onychectomy. Any ordinance approved after Jan. 1, 2010 which proposes such restrictions will be in direct violation of this state legislation.

"The city council is proud to take the lead in protecting animals against this barbaric procedure," said Mayor Nancy Krasne. "Beverly Hills has a long-standing reputation as a community which supports animal rights, and this legislation furthers our commitment to safeguarding animals."

L.A. Marathon Course to Include Beverly Hills

A portion of Los Angeles Marathon will be run in Beverly Hills for the first time in the race's history.

The field of runners will enter Beverly Hills at the intersection of Santa Monica Boulevard and Doheny Drive, then head south on Doheny Drive to Burton Way, race organizers announced Monday as they unveiled the course.

Runners will continue west along Burton Way and little Santa Monica Boulevard to Rodeo Drive, where they will run to Wilshire Boulevard.

The course will continue west along Wilshire to little Santa Monica Boulevard, where it will continue until it merges with big Santa Monica Boulevard, just past the Beverly Hills city limits.

"We are thrilled to be part of the Los Angeles Marathon and to welcome runners and visitors to our city, especially the Golden Triangle, home to some of the most recognized landmarks and famous streets in the world," Mayor Nancy Krasne said.

The 26-mile, 385-yard course will begin at Dodger Stadium and end near the Santa Monica Pier

The 25th Los Angeles Marathon will be held March 21. All the previous races had been held within the Los Angeles city limits.

The new course, which organizers bill as having a "landmark every mile," is part of an effort to reverse the declining interest in the race by its new owners, a group controlled by Los Angeles Dodgers owner Frank McCourt.

The number of finishers declined from a record 20,169 in 2006 to 16,941 in 2008 to 14,061 in this year's race, which was run on Memorial Day, after having been held in March since its inception. The number of entrants was not available.

Registration for the race is more than 75 percent ahead of the 2007 pace, when a record of more than 24,000 entered, Marathon President Russ Pillar said. Organizers plan to limit entries to 25,000.

"We are thrilled to see such a great response to the Stadium to the Sea Course," Pillar said. "We designed this iconic course with runners in mind and we expect it will quickly make the Los Angeles Marathon a 'must run' among the world's major marathons."

Beverly Hills Unified School District • Tuesday, November 3 Election • Official Votes Cast — Semifinal

The voter turnout this year was actually higher than in 2007. Once all the provisional and late absentee ballots are counted, turnout is expected to reach close to 4,000. The Beverly Hills Courier inaccurately reported the vote totals in last week's issue. This year's semifinal official 3,672 ballots cast is only 115 ballots less than the 2007 final official votes of 3,787 ballots cast.

New and Old Restaurants

And in defense of teachers

By Rudy Cole

You may not have known this, but you have a direct economic interest, just short of partnerships, with six Beverly Hills restaurants!

This is the number of eateries that rent space in city-owned properties: Kelly's Coffee and Fudge Factory (444 N. Rexford Drive), Flame International (430 N. Camden) CA Coffee Soletto (434 N. Camden), Bailey's Bakery (327 N. Crescent) and Wolfgang's Steakhouse (445 N. Canon).

Now, you can add to that list the most impressive new addition to our eating choices since Wolfgang Puck departed West Hollywood for North Canon Drive — Bouchon Beverly Hills.

Of course, any time you shop or dine in Beverly Hills, your tax dollars help fund city services, but these restaurants and other businesses including the Beverly Hills Market and Whole Foods, also pay considerable rent to your city.

Bouchon is a major coup, a big win for our city hall economic team. (More on who helped make this happen in our upcoming review.) This restaurant, part of the group that owns and operates what has been called the best restaurant in America, The French Laundry, is taking most of the available space in the Gardens, the city-owned building just north of the Beverly Hills Montage. It will officially open next week, and we will do our Irene V bit in a future issue.

However, the opening of Bouchon is just part of the enormous growth taking place in the city's restaurant inventory. In 30 years, the number of dining choices has almost doubled, even though the business and resident population has remained fairly static, and with a very few notable exceptions, they have a longer life span than in many other cities.

The most impressive expansion of prestigious restaurants is on North Canon Drive, with South Beverly Drive a close second, although here many are fast food.

A casual visitor to our village would assume we either have a huge Italian population or an insatiable desire for pasta. Italian restaurants continue to dominate our dining options. The Drago family is one reason for this condition, and they continue to expand.

Their family diners include Enoteca Drago (410 N. Canon), Il Pastaio (400 N. Canon), Via Alloro, their newest, (310 N. Canon), Il Buco Paninoteca (105 N. Robertson) and Piccolo Paradiso (150 So. Beverly Drive), where Weekly publisher Josh Gross has a regular table.

Considering our heritage, what is surprising is the meager number of delicatessens here, or is it because we have one of the best: Nate 'n Al's. Interestingly, our historic eatery made it onto the list of best deli's in America in a new book on that category, but the same work cited Langer's as superior. Maybe it was that deli's geographic location, so close to what used to be the drug center for Los Angeles, Alvarado Boulevard, that gave them a "higher" score. (Yes, Langer's is very good, but not superior to Nate 'n Al's)

So, part one of a random update on restaurant choices, and some very personal observations, including reruns of past opinions:

Favorites: Spago, The Grill on the Alley, The Belvedere at the Peninsula (when Michael is on duty,) Parq at the Montage Beverly Hills and Circa 55 at the Hilton, all for very different reasons.

Spago is simply the most attractive, best managed, most consistent food quality diner in Beverly Hills. Add to that Wolf and Barbara's table visits, the front desk cheerful greeters, celebrity diners such as Fred Hayman, and you have a winning entry. We should add, at a corner booth in the bar area you will often find former Courier publisher March Schwartz with wife Linda, and last week, with Linda proclaiming March still "has it," surrounded by a small army of gorgeous ladies.

The Grill on the Alley is a close as we can come to a New York dining experience. Consistently excellent food, an electric atmosphere and an equal number of celebrity guests, it has had a long and successful run at an awkward site.

The Belvedere (at the Peninsula) has the best server in the city, in Michael, and an innovative chef. It is also one of our most sophisticated rooms, has an excellent reception team, including Ramon, but when Michael is not on duty, the service does become less attentive. Most loyal patrons: Sooky and Sam Goldman, so who can argue.

Parq has reinvented itself. The revised menu now includes some excellent additions from the mezzanine's fine dining "Muse" now open mostly for private parties. New menu choices are more moderately priced, and superior to previous offerings. Front desk people are totally efficient and professional. Former mayor Les Bronte recently entertained a visiting business group from Australia there.

Circa 55 also continues to surprise and improve. As a team, the wait staff, especially during lunch and breakfast, is the most people friendly in our village. The Sunday brunch setting, with pool side dining, has become a Beverly Hills family tradition.

Most attractive outdoor dining: Caffe Roma. "A Cow Jumped Over the Moon" at the Rodeo Collection, best Kosher, fine night time entertainment; Mc Cormick and Schmick's, best moderate priced fish restaurant; Bombay Palace, finest Indian luncheon buffet and very low cost; Cafe Rodeo, at the Luxe, best kept secret on Rodeo, street seating with great people watching and very reasonable prices for all day food service.

Best steak houses: Wolfgang Puck's Cut at the Beverly Wilshire, superior quality, high tech design but priced to keep out the economically challenged; Ruth Chris's Steak House, best restaurant on South Beverly, busy, noisy, great steaks and baked potatoes, but often very slow service; Mastro's, so noisy it makes Ruth's sound like a library, good food and service, pricey, fine people watching but somehow not for my age group.

Breaking the Italian groupings on North Canon, Xian, by far the best Chinese food in town. More Italian: Try Porta Via, where some of our politicians dine including such diverse types as Linda and Gary Briskman, Steven Fenton, Robert K. Tanenbaum. Genial owner Peter Garland takes community service seriously, serving on many civic organizations, as does Celestino Drago, next door. Of course, this absolutely should not matter, but if you still enjoy checking out wonderful-looking women, try either of the latter. Josette knows I do this only as an eye exercise. As for La Scala, a few doors further north, great salads, but service goes from bad to terrible.

Busiest hotel restaurant: Blvd at the Beverly Wilshire, always good service; most romantic: Il Cielo, most historic bar: Polo Lounge at the Beverly Hills, good off Canon Italian: Da Vinci and La Dolce Vita, moderately priced and good quality; Kate Mantilini (Lya Cordova Latta and former state senator Alan Sieroty are frequent patrons.) Popular but definitely not among my favorites: Trilusa, very distracted service, Il Fornaio, they manage to foul up, pun intended, every egg item on the menu, and that other Chinese restaurant on Wilshire, name omitted in deference to my friend Gloria Jennings who loves the place, but where the only items worth eating are the un-fortune cookies.

One other Chinese diner with a mixed review is the venerable Mr. Chow. Very, very pricey, celebrity crowded and high noise level, often long waits, but diverse Chinese menu makes it worth visiting.

What we continue to lack is a really good Mexican restaurant, and since I try not to even walk near any place that has sushi on the menu, I am no judge of that frightening offering. As for "health food" diners, I am barred at the entrance.

We'll do more next week when we review Bouchon, but let me have your opinions - good or bad, and will include. But what a difference a few decades make. Aside from out hotels, it was hard to find any restaurant open after 9 p.m. (Nate 'n Al's still closes about then) and we had very limited options for eating out. The old La Scala on Little Santa Monica, then an entertainment industry choice, La Famiglia on North Canon where Sinatra and Dean held court, Romanoff's where Mike wouldn't seat you even if his place was empty unless you were a close personal friend, one of the original Brown Derby's now a Bvlgari at Rodeo, the legendary Luau on Rodeo, and, what we most lack, a large number of family, low priced restaurants.

The restaurant with the most political history was Robert Anderson's (the father of Robbie) Gourmet at Canon and Little Santa Monica. Upstairs, private, pre-Brown Act, deals were struck when judges, who had considerable clout, and council members dined.

Biggest boost for restaurants: day time valet parking, once banned all over the city. Major problem: employee parking.

No wonder there were few successful day time restaurants until very recently. The city had a ban on daytime valet parking, now available all over the city, except on impossible streets such as Little Santa Monica.

A continuing challenge for restaurants, and for other businesses, is employee parking. Nearby neighbors constantly complain about violations of permit parking zones and unlawful use of permits. What the city needs, and has considered but not tactically implemented, is a shuttle system with efficient pick ups and deliveries from satellite parking structures such as the one on La Cienega.

Most outrageous comment of the week, by an outside guest on CNN: Citing the Fort Hood disaster as an example of why government does not work and as a reason for rejecting health care reform legislation.

Close second: A community newspaper editorial challenging the right of teachers to belong to a trade union! And the opinion that a past teacher's strike was "vicious." The reasoning that professionals have no right or need for unions is specious and illogical. The writer must know that many in our village do belong to "professional" unions such as the Actors, Writers, Producers and Director's Guilds, all trade unions. The decades ago strike was horrendous for our community, but the teacher's were not "vicious." They made a very bad decision to picket a school board member's home but that does not rise to the level of "vicious" with images of violence and destruction of school property.

Whether or not school districts have unions, the whole profession has seen significant advances in pay, benefits and professional standards because of education oriented unions. Our own can often be abrasive and too militant, but we need to also recognize their contributions to public education and their legal, absolute right to organize. By the way, that includes our police, fire and municipal unions too.

Was it accurate to report that successful board candidates, backed by the BHEA, would "not give in to union demands?" I doubt if any board member, new or present, would use that kind of language.

Reasonable collective bargaining, yes. Responding to political pressure? Not the same at all, and not a constructive way to bring all of the players in the school drama into a peaceful path of doing it for the kids.

BHHS Football Team Shuts Out Morningside

Normans set to play host to Culver City Friday night.

By Steven Herbert

Beverly High kept its hopes alive of qualifying for the Southern Section football playoffs with a 31-0 victory over Morningside Friday night, but two things that haven't happened in several years will have to occur for the Normans to reach the playoffs.

The first would be Beverly Hills defeating Culver City (8-1, 4-0 in league play) Friday at 7 p.m. at Nickoll Field in the regular-season finale for both teams. The Normans are 0-4-2 in their last six games against the Centaurs, including a 57-27 loss last season, the most points allowed in a game during Carter Paysinger's 19 seasons as coach.

Some more recent history also works against Beverly Hills (4-5, 2-2). Its four victories have come against teams that are a combined 5-31, including two winless teams.

The other element would be a Hawthorne victory over Santa Monica (3-6, 2-2). The Cougars (0-9, 0-4) have a 41-game on-field winless streak dating back to 2005. Hawthorne has been outscored, 170-19, in league play and 454-67 overall. The Web site calpreps.com projects that the Vikings will win 48-14 and the Normans will lose, 44-19.

Beverly Hills opened the scoring against Morningside (2-7, 1-3) at Coleman Field in Inglewood with a first-quarter field goal by Willy Wood. Josh Newman threw six- and 66-yard touchdown passes to Daniel Bradbury in the second and third quarters.

Cameron Countryman ran 16 yards for a touchdown and Jon Davidi threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to Donovan Dicken in the fourth quarter.

Girls' Tennis

Beverly High is scheduled to play host to Chino Hills Ayala, the second-place finisher in the Sierra League, in a Southern Section Division 2 playoff match today at 2 p.m.

If Beverly Hills wins, it would face the Redlands-Anaheim Esperanza winner in a second-round match Saturday. The Normans would play at Esperanza, the third-place team in the Sunset League, while the site of a match between Beverly Hills and Redlands, the second-place team in the Citrus Belt League, would be determined by a coin toss.

Under Southern Section rules, the team with the fewer home playoff matches plays host to the next home match. If both teams have played the same number of home matches, the site is determined by a coin toss.

The Normans could face Channel League champion Santa Barbara in a quarterfinal Tuesday. The Dons defeated Beverly Hills, 14-4, Sept. 23 in a non-league match at Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara was ranked third in the final poll released Monday, the Normans fifth.

All matches in the first four rounds are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

Girls' Volleyball

Beverly Hills def. Culver City, 25-17, 25-21, 25-10

Mallory Smith had 10 kills, Syline Kim six kills, Tamara Skootsky four kills and 10 blocks and Emily Rosen 12 digs for the Normans Oct. 20 in an Ocean League match at the Swim-Gym.

"That was another outstanding match for us, particularly offensively," Beverly Hills coach Marla Weiss said after her team completed the first round of league play 5-0. "The nice thing that's happening there is that we are splitting up our offense quite a bit. We don't have one big girl."

Skootsky "has become a really dominant middle blocker in our league," Weiss said.

Beverly Hills def. Hawthorne, 25-8, 25-9, 25-8

Skootsky had seven kills, with just one error, seven blocks and four service aces in what Weiss called "another outstanding match," while Leora Kashani had three kills Oct. 23 in an Ocean League match at the Swim-Gym.

"It wasn't much of a challenge for us, but it's nice that we are playing pretty consistently at a high level," Weiss said, who described the match as her team serving and "Hawthorne makes a mistake."

"One of the problems early is that we were having inconsistent matches and inconsistent days from one day to the other. It looks like we're becoming a little more consistent."

What's Next?

The Normans will play host to Lakewood Mayfair, the second-place team in the Suburban League, tonight at 7 p.m. at the Swim-Gym in a Southern Section 3-A Division second-round playoff match.

The Monsoons were ranked eighth in the division in the season's final poll released Sunday, while Beverly Hills was ranked ninth.

The Normans defeated Covina Northview, 25-21, 25-6, 25-21, in a first-round match Tuesday night at the Swim-Gym.

If the Normans win tonight, they would face the Pasadena Mayfield-Garden Grove winner in a semifinal Saturday at 7 p.m. The site of a Beverly Hills-Mayfield match would be determined by a coin toss, while the Normans would play at Garden Grove.

Mayfield is the division's top-ranked team.

The semifinals are scheduled for Tuesday.

Girls' Cross Country

Beverly Hills 20, Santa Monica 35, Culver City 83, Morningside 109

Senior Daniel Redick won in 16:59.33, as the Vikings' seven runners swept the top seven places.

Mount San Antonio College Invitational

Ali Hatcher was Beverly Hills' top finisher, finishing 36th in 17:32 on the Green Course Oct. 24, one second behind John Demel of Phelan Serrano, who finished 35th.

The Normans finished 19th among the 24 teams in the race with 431 points, 15 points behind 18th-place San Leandro Arroyo. Whittier La Serna won with 94.

Lee McAllister of San Diego Helix won in 15:58

What's Next?

The Normans' boys' team is scheduled to compete in the third heat of the Southern Section Division II prelims Saturday at 2:34 p.m. while the girls' team is scheduled to compete in the fourth heat of the Southern Section Division II prelims Saturday at 4:10 p.m. Both races will be held at Mount San Antonio College in Walnut.

Boys' Water Polo

Beverly Hills 7, Torrance 5

Justin Brezhnev scored in both overtimes and Tracy Ainslie scored three goals in an Ocean League game Oct. 14 at the Victor E. Benstead Plunge in Torrance.

Tartars junior David Lee scored both fourth-quarter goals, the second with 3:52 left, to tie the score, 5-5, and send the game into overtime.

The Normans trailed 3-2 at halftime, then got two goals from Ainslie and one from Austin Shaheri in the third quarter to lead 5-3 entering the fourth quarter.

Torrance opened the scoring 43 seconds into the game on a goal by Adam Moine. Beverly Hills tied the score 1:23 later on Kevin Suarez's goal. Lee scored with 44 seconds left, giving the Tartars a 2-1 lead.

The second quarter was scoreless until Ainslie scored with 1:07 left. Torrance took a 3-2 lead on Nathan Bee's goal seven seconds before halftime.

Norman goalkeeper Ben Haber made seven saves.

Beverly Hills 11, Culver City 7

The Normans scored four unanswered goals during a 2:13 span of the third and fourth quarters, breaking a 5-5 tie in an Ocean League game at the Swim-Gym Oct. 19.

Justin Ezor began the run by scoring with two seconds left in the third quarter. Shaheri scored with 6:27 left, Brezhnev with 5:34 left and Ainslie with 4:49 left.

The Centaurs cut the deficit to 9-7 with 1:40 to play on two goals by Alex Myers, but Beverly Hills (17-4, 4-1) wrapped up the victory as Ezor and Brezhnev scored in the final 1:23.

Ainslie, Brezhnev and Shaheri all scored three goals.

Haber made nine saves.

The Normans led 4-2 at halftime. Back-to-back goals by Howie Stanger and Dario Fantella pulled Culver City into a tie with 3:24 remaining in the third quarter. Beverly Hills regained the lead 41 seconds later on Shaheri's goal. The Centaurs re-tied the score on Francis Torres' goal with 21 seconds left in the quarter.

Ainslie, Brezhnev and Shaheri scored consecutive goals in the second quarter to give the Normans a 4-1 lead. Myers scored with 1:43 left in the half.

Ainslie scored the only goal of the first quarter. Torres scored 38 seconds into the second quarter, tying the score 1-1.

What's Next?

The Normans were scheduled to play top-seeded Whittier La Serna, the Del Rio League champion, in a second-round Division 5 playoff game Wednesday that was expected to end after the Beverly Hills Weekly's deadline.

If Beverly Hills won, it would face the Fullerton Sunny Hills-Covina Charter Oak Pasadena Mayfield-Garden Grove winner in a quarterfinal Friday at 3:15 p.m. The semifinals are scheduled for Wednesday.

Beverly Hills Fire Department Receives New Ladder Truck

The Beverly Hills Fire Department received a new 100-foot tractor-drawn aerial ladder truck after nearly two years of design and production.

The new addition replaces a 20-year-old truck, which the fire department plans to sell to partially offset the cost of the new truck, scheduled to be placed in service over the next several weeks. Unlike the outgoing ladder truck, the new truck features new emergency medical equipment and compartments that allow for better delivery of advanced life support services.

bers and officers on their campaign committees.

PTA bylaws prevent PTA organizations and their members in their official capacities from directly or indirectly participating "in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office." Accordingly, all campaigning must be done in an individual capacity, not under the banner of PTA. Many of us are working behind the scenes. All our PTAs do try to remind and encourage our parents to educate themselves on the candidates and get out and vote.

BHEA is a partisan organization whose mission is to advocate on behalf of its teacher members, much like any union, to protect the workplace rights and conditions of its members. A union endorsement simply means that the union leadership believes that the candidate will serve the best interests of teachers (not necessarily, students). Unlike BHEA which can (and did) campaign in favor or against candidates and spent money on its choices, PTA is a non-partisan 501(c)(3) charitable organization, charged with the responsibility of promoting the welfare of our school children and working for quality education by participating in the decision-making process establishing school policy. Accordingly, in order to fulfill our mission, PTA leadership must maintain a good working relationship with any board member who is elected. We must also raise money from our parent members and cannot afford to create political enemies.

A last note in response to the Weekly's derogatory comments about PTA presidents not making good board members: au contraire, mon frère. PTA is a fertile breeding ground for community leaders in our city — the list of PTA presidents (and other PTA leaders) who have risen through the ranks of PTA to become excellent civic leaders is long and distinguished.

Franny Rennie and Nadine Neiman (PTSA Council Presidents)
Cindy Dubin and Azy Farahmand (ER PTA Presidents)
Laurie Okum and Marty Ornest (BV PTA Presidents)
Monique Gibbons (HM PTA President)
Lorraine Eastman and Dana Gilbert (HAW PTA Presidents)
Aviva Laufer and Ronit Stone

(BHHS PTSA Presidents)

Rudy Cole Responds:

Certainly, the women (and men) involved in PTA perform invaluable services to our schools, giving countless hours of volunteer time and energy for the kids. But they doth protest slightly too much. The PTA leaders' letter attempts to explain something I did not even suggest: I said very clearly PTA could not make endorsements.

What is equally apparent is that many, if not most, of those signing this letter supported a losing candidate and were simply not effective in getting out their own members. That was the obvious message in the column, and the proof is also unmistakable: less than 20 percent of eligible voters cast a ballot. The teachers' candidates did win, and they were active, not just as an organization but as volunteer campaign workers. What was also not mentioned, and how quickly we forget, this column did support one of the same candidates most letter signers endorsed.

"Korbatov, Manaster Elected; Meshkaty Defeated" [Issue 527]

Congratulations, thank you and a shout out, to Lisa Korbatov and Jake Manaster for winning, and moreover running such open and honest campaigns for School Board. The voters listened and watched the televised Forums. They attended community coffees, spoke vociferously about his or her concerns, and asked some very targeted and difficult questions. This was no easy Beverly Hills group, but they did educate themselves about the pertinent issues pressing our community, and voted their consciences.

This was not an easy campaign from anyone's point of view, but what does stand out is the quality and integrity of the individuals that will now be sitting next to Brian Goldberg and Steven Fenton. Myra Lurie, too. So many topics have divided us as a community, and now we have hope that on Dec. 8, we will be walking down a brighter and more transparent path, united in hopes for an incredible future.

Best wishes for the success of the new BHUSD. We know you have your work cut out for you.

ROD REFLECTS

The Weekly's exclusive interview with retiring City Manager Rod Wood

By Kimberly Cheng

Your predecessor Mark Scott worked for the city for many years, but you were hired from outside the city as city manager in 2004. What was that like?

It is more common today to get your senior executive positions in another city than the one you're in. Historically, people would start out and work their way up and ultimately maybe become the boss. I think there's two dynamics that changed that. One is people today aren't willing to wait 25 years to get their chance and then maybe not get it.

And then I think there's a second reality that's been around forever, and it's [that] you can't be a profit in your own land. When you've been someplace for a long time, everyone knows you, and you're kind of role-set. When you move up to that front seat, the role is very different. And the organization, the community, everybody tends to resist your change in role. So my advice to young assistants looking to become city managers [is] don't become a city manager in the town you're in. You need to be able to make the changes you need to make to fit your management style without a lot of resistance. And when you're brand new you always get that privilege.

What were some of first things you took on when you became city manager?

My job was to come in and take the organization to the next level, and [there were] three things I saw that needed to be addressed. One was the organization itself. The prior approach required a more authoritarian approach, and today you work better, particularly with the newer generations, in teams, structures and giving people a certain amount of autonomy in their jobs. But you still have to maintain accountability. You agree on what you want the outcomes to be, and you get out of their way and let them do their jobs.

The second area was the infrastructure because all the money had to go into taking care of the debt the prior Civic Center project created. The infrastructure hasn't been replaced in the last 30 years, and it's falling apart. The roads are falling apart, the water lines are falling apart, the sewer lines are falling apart. So we made a substantial commitment in the budget to address the infrastructure needs. Probably $12, $15 million increase in funding for infrastructure.

The third area is that I had a concern that the city was resting on its laurels. We have a world-famous brand, and when we developed that brand initially, it was about the rich and famous who lived here. There was no Rodeo Drive, and Fred Hayman and a couple of others literally created Rodeo Drive. And we've been living on that reputation. [But] this city no longer has exclusivity. Nine percent of the geography in this city produces almost 80 percent of the revenues. It is paramount [in order] to maintain that quality of life that we re-establish the brand and re-establish who we are and where we are in that marketplace.

What is your proudest accomplishment?

[In Beverly Hills], by far, [is] getting the organization and getting the people in this organization to self-lead and be self-starters. They will look and find problems, address the problems, fix them and do a great and terrific job of doing that. Companion to that, is the commitment that was already here but really developed further. People's commitment to being the best of the best. They work for a world-class city, and they want to be world-class employees.

Helping people be the best and helping people advance their careers, helping people succeed is my greatest joy. Of my whole career, the thing I'm most proud of is every principal assistant I've ever had has gone to be a city manager. That's a pretty good record.

Who have you enjoyed working with the most?

I found it interesting here that almost all the past mayors have stayed involved in the community. Most communities, a couple years after somebody leaves the city council, you never see them again. But here, once they have made that commitment to community, they stay and engage. So I would have to say its working with a whole bunch of the past council members and mayors in the city. They've continued that commitment, whether it's MeraLee [Goldman] and her commitment to so many wonderful forums and activities or Vicki Reynolds with the Annenberg Center. Allan Alexander's virulent persistence with mass transit. They've been a huge asset.

The two biggest projects in the city during your tenure have been the Montage and the Hilton. The Montage is not yet operating up to capacity, and the Hilton has yet to start construction.

Find me a hotel anywhere in the United States that's operating up to capacity. This is a very tough recession. I think our hotels, by comparison to a lot of high-end resort hotels, are still doing pretty well, much better than a lot of the competition. The Montage is well-managed. It's got a well-financed owner, [and] they'll work their way through this economy.

In a tough economy, I don't know why any hotel would try to go out and get financing in this current finance market, much less spend a few hundred million dollars building hotels. So I'm not surprised at all that [the Hilton] project's on hold until the economy improves. They have five-year entitlements so they have tons of time to wait for better economic conditions.

What's something funny or interesting that's happened over the past six years?

People who know me know that I take what I do very seriously but I try to not take myself too seriously and I tend to find humor in just about everything. Not real tragedy, but I can think of a couple people who came down to make a political protest of the council and brought a guitar and sang. It's been a very interesting place.

Many people have said city staff is sometimes bloated and inefficient. What would you say to them?

I think there's validity in that. One of the things I did the first year I was here was reduce the number of people in management positions by almost 30 percent. I think the money should go into the service we provide and not into management. Overall, I've reduced the size of the workforce by over 200 people, and that was before the recession. I think we've engaged in a series of aggressive management audits in every single department in terms of the things that we're doing well and the things we could do better.

On average, audits are about 400 pages thick. We've taken about 85 percent of recommendations and implemented them, and there's always about 10 to 15 percent that don't apply under the circumstances. For example, any audit would say we have way too many police officers to meet any standard in the industry. We're proud of that. We're proud of having a two-minute response time and not a five-minute response time.

What advice would you give to the new city manager, Jeff Kolin?

He inherits a good organization. He inherits a great staff. They're very solid. Get out and know the community. Don't let yourself get bogged down in the day-to-day stuff. Stay at the strategic level, all of which he'll do. He's an extremely capable person. I could not be more pleased with who they've selected. There isn't anybody they could have selected I don't know. I've been doing this [for] 38 years. I know pretty much all the managers in California. Jeff was a particularly capable person and a very likeable guy.

The North Homeowners Association has been very critical of you.

I was hired by a council to come in and set out a certain agenda which included a number of major projects which they didn't like. One of things I've learned in this business is people identify you and what you do with the councils that are in place, and they didn't like that council, [so] why would they like me? I am doing that council's bidding. I took an oath of office to carry out the direction of the city council. If a different council were in, and they wanted to see that the Montage never happened, I would have done my very best to see that that didn't occur. If they have their beef, they really have it with the city council, not the staff. The staff does what the city council directs. At least they will on my watch, and they certainly will on Jeff's.

Tell us about your move to La Quinta with your wife, Gina.

We have moved all of our possessions. That actually probably accelerated my retirement of more than a few months. I have made it a career of buying high and selling low. This time, things worked for us. We were actually able to find a house at the bottom of the market. We found a $1.4 million home for sale for $617,000, so we were able to get a wonderful home that we really look forward to retiring in at a price we actually could afford. I'm on a contract here as the interim city manager until the new city manager could be hired which should be sometime around Feb. 1. So we drive home Thursday morning and we come back Sunday night.

What will you miss most about the working for the city and the city itself?

I've been through all the [issues] numerous times in four different cities. Names and project names change but the issues remain the same: infrastructure, land use, public safety. People in Beverly Hills may be a little more affluent than other people but they don't have any different set of wants and needs when it comes to the government.

I was really ready to retire from the career. I was little bit more hesitant about retiring from the job. It's kind of an interesting twist. Usually you're ready to leave the job and not the career. It's such a unique opportunity and experience of being able to work with the people here. I've never had a better staff. I've never come in contact with people who are so committed to doing their best. I've enjoyed the community including the North Homeowners. I don't think they really believe it, but I hold them in high regard and respect. [So what I'll miss about the city is the] same thing I'll miss about the profession: all the wonderful people I've come in contact with.

What do you want to be remembered for?

My hope is that in some way, however small it might be, I have made a positive difference in somebody's life and in this community. Very few people are remembered by history. It's about what you know you tried to do, whether anybody else knows or not isn't that important. At the very best, you know your family and friends will know. There's a lot of things I could've done in life, but there's nothing I would've rather done.
