Student Suspended after Injuring Beverly High Teacher

Beverly High students allegedly pulled a prank in a special education class Wednesday, Nov. 18 that resulted in the injury of social studies teacher Joanie Garratt after she was attacked by a student, according to witnesses.

Garratt heard the commotion in the nearby special education classroom and attempted to videotape the chaos caused by several students — who sources say planned to sneak a garden hose into the classroom, flood it and then toilet paper the classroom and hallway — when one of the pranksters charged at her, ripped the camera from her hands and smashed it into the ground.

Garratt suffered an arm injury and received medical attention, according to the Beverly Hills Education Association Consensus newsletter.

The consensus also reported that a different student verbally assaulted a substitute teacher with vulgar language.

Editor's note: The photo on the cover is of the Broad Contemporary Art Museum, which is part of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Similar to plans for the new Broad museum, BCAM is a three-story building that opened in February 2008.

The school's administrators were allegedly warned about the prank several hours prior to the incident by a BHEA member. Administration said it didn't interpret the warning as a specific, imminent threat to safety, and no action was taken.

According to sources, Carol Courneya, an instructional assistant, called campus security. No administrator was present during either of the assaults.

The student was subsequently detained and suspended for five days.

Garratt has filed assault and battery charges against the student, who has been allegedly harassing Garratt with e-mails since the incident.

No arrests have been made, said Lt. Tony Lee from BHPD. The case is currently under review by the district attorney's office to determine whether there is probable cause for an arrest.

BHEA President Chris Bushée said there are several options for union members who are victims of assault, one of which is to file a police report.

"[Also], any time an employee is injured on the job then all medical treatment should go through the state's [workers] compensation program," Bushée said. "The third option available is there is a safety article in the contract."

The Safety Conditions of Employment states that if a teacher believes the safety conditions are not satisfactory, the teacher can file a grievance to seek better safety conditions through the employment contract.

Bushée said physical battery on employees rarely happens, though verbal abuse through inappropriate language occurs with greater frequency.

"I would certainly not say it's something that happens often, but there have been several cases over the last few years where students have used clearly inappropriate language directed toward employees," Bushée said. "There's an education code that protects employees from that sort of verbal assault."

Bushée said unresponsiveness from the high school administration regarding misbehavior is not common.

"In this particular case, it was unfortunate that we had an employee be very proactive hours before [and] that given the effort of the employee to make sure that there would be a safe environment for students and staff members, that two teachers still ended up being assaulted," Bushée said. "[We need to] take a second look at the practices that [administrators] follow when specific warnings come in about specific misbehavior that may occur in classes. The administration should re-evaluate its procedures in that regard."

Garratt would not comment on the incident.

Assistant City Manager Katie Lichtig Named City Manager in San Luis Obispo

Katie Lichtig, Beverly Hills' assistant city manager and chief operating officer, has been named city manager of San

Katie Lichtig

Luis Obispo.

Lichtig has worked for the City of Beverly Hills since 2005. Prior to this, she had served as the city manager of Malibu.

Lichtig will be responsible for managing San Luis Obispo's 358 employees, as well as the city's budget of nearly $100 million. San Luis Obispo has a population of approximately 43,000, compared to Beverly Hills' population of about 35,000. She is slated to step into the city manager seat on Jan. 19.

"While we will all miss Katie, this is a terrific opportunity, and we wish her all the best in her new role," City Manager Rod Wood said. "Katie is an excellent administrator and has been a great partner in leading this city over the last four years. Her incisive strategic skills and ability to multitask effortlessly have helped all of our departments deliver exceptional service. Katie is a very talented leader and a true mentor to our staff. San Luis Obispo is lucky to have her lead their team."

Mayor Nancy Krasne said she appreciates Lichtig for her service to the city.

"Katie has been a huge asset to the City of Beverly Hills, and our loss is certainly San Luis Obispo's gain," Krasne said. "While Beverly Hills is accustomed to top-notch staff, Katie has been an extraordinary talent and a key driver of the outstanding level of services our residents, businesses and visitors receive."

Lichtig has more than 25 years of public service experience, including senior management positions with the cities of Santa Monica and Malibu. She began her career in Washington, D.C. in the Department of Treasury and the Office of Management and Budget.

"Beverly Hills has been an incredible professional and personal growth opportunity for me as I have had the pleasure of working with outstanding councilmembers and a seasoned executive in Rod Wood," Lichtig said. "Growing up nearby, when I joined Beverly Hills, it felt like coming home. While I am excited about this new opportunity, I will miss the support, guidance and friendship of the people of this community and our extraordinary city staff."

Jim Sharp

Longtime Resident Jim Sharp Passes at 75

Jim Sharp, a 40-year Beverly Hills ophthalmologist, passed away Sunday, Nov. 29 due to complications from a neuromuscular disorder. He was 75 years-old.

Sharp has worked on the staff of Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, Loma Linda University, and he was an associate clinical professor at UCLA. He served proudly in the military for two years as part of the U.S. Air Force stationed in Ankara, Turkey.

Sharp served as president of the Beverly Hills Rotary Club from 1994 through 1995, with 25 years of perfect attendance.

"Jim was one of the most delightful gentlemen I ever met," said fellow Rotarian and former Mayor Les Bronte. "And he had a fantastic sense of humor. He was a quiet kind of guy but extremely bright and active."

Bronte worked with Sharp and his family for the last 30 years within the Rotary Club and in school and community issues.

"He was truly a great family man and a wonderful personal friend," Bronte said.

As a physician, Sharp touched many lives, performing more than a handful of pro bono work for his patients, sometimes offering his services free of charge for those who couldn't afford to pay.

Sharp's stepson and Beverly High graduate Roger Hyman said he doesn't consider Sharp a stepfather; Sharp was his father.

"He helped me through high school and taught me a lot of things," Hyman said. "He filled in a lot of voids I had at that time."

The family will hold an open funeral service this Sunday, Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. at Mount Sinai Memorial. Sharp is survived by his wife, Rhoda, of more than 32 years, stepson and two grandchildren.

Councilmembers Clash Over Transparency Levels of Lobbyist Badge Program

During its study session meeting Tuesday, city councilmembers voted 3-2 against releasing a memo to the public sent by City Attorney Larry Wiener to the five councilmembers.

The memo addressed issues of constitutionality surrounding the lobbyist badge program that was recently passed by the city council.

Both councilmembers John Mirisch and Barry Brucker voted in favor of releasing the memo in order to clarify any misconceptions or confusion the public may have and to reassert the ordinance's constitutionality.

"If non-confidential information is being withheld, and we're not sharing all the information with the residents that we can, then we're only being partially transparent, and that's like being a little bit pregnant," Mirisch said. "This information was non-confidential

Mirisch had requested a letter from the city attorney explaining the legality of the ordi-

Fenton for Board President

On Monday the newly-elected Board of Education will select its new President.

Normally we support the seniority system. But occasionally a change in rotation is not only warranted, it is required. This is one such year.

In two successive elections, the community has rebuked the Brucker/Lurie/Meshkaty schools movement. Their "curriculum reform" plan has failed. Their outsider administrative selections have been poor. Confidence in our local schools is unfortunately at an all-time low.

Board member Myra Lurie's last tenure as Board President coincided with a mass exodus of administrators during the disastrous summer of 2006 (see "Will the Last

"It's hard to imagine a more treasonous act than encouraging a bunch of outsiders who don't even live here to sue the BHUSD—yet that's exactly what [Myra] Lurie has done"

Person to Leave the BHUSD Please Turn off the Lights?", Issue 346). If she becomes Board President again, we can expect plenty of teacher bashing, a larger district office pushing paper around, and more of what the community clearly keeps voting against. How will that possibly move us forward?

Although the voters keep rebuking her agenda, Lurie is defiant, most recently arguing in the Courier's a post-election article that "(school-aged) parents don't make up a majority of voters", so apparently their opinion doesn't matter. But excuse us, who pays the taxes around here? You don't have to be a school-aged parent to care about public education. The community knows what it wants from the schools, and we certainly haven't seen it from the Brucker/Lurie/Meshkaty movement.

With her advocacy of the asinine "District of Choice" legislation, Lurie has made it clear she cares more about out-of-district permits than she does about the needs of our residents. It's hard to imagine a more treasonous act than encouraging a bunch of outsiders who don't even live here to sue the BHUSD — yet that's exactly

Steven Fenton: He has a plan

"[Steven] Fenton has a plan to turn around the schools. Let's throw him the ball and let him run with it" what Lurie has done with the permit families.

So Lurie may mean well, but she is perpetually wrong on the issues. Finally, with a newly elected Board, we need a President who is right on the issues.

Steven Fenton knows what made the Beverly Hills schools great. He knows that more permits are not the answer now that we are transitioning to basic aid funding. He grasps that we need five principals and a superintendent who have taught in our schools, and understand the unique complexities of our community. Best of all, he recognizes that you can't take outsider administrators from Las Vegas or Santa Monica and expect them to succeed in Beverly Hills.

As the top vote-getter in the 2007 election, Fenton has a broad mandate to stabilize the patient with some bold and necessary corrections. We have lost our way in the last few years, but along with Brian Goldberg and newly elected Board members Lisa Korbatov and Jake Manaster, there is hope.

just wanted to clarify this commentary that it was not illegal. The letter was so benign."

Both Brucker and Mirisch said other councilmembers voted against releasing the memo because they felt it would set a precedent that would require the council to release closed-session information to the public.

"In the five years I've served on the council, I've never once had an issue with a colleague divulging closed-session information or attorney-client privilege nor even requesting it," Brucker said. "So there would be no precedent with something as benign as whether something was constitutional or not. It's just information."

Mayor Nancy Krasne said it was unfortunate that the letter was delivered as a confidential memo, and though she would be happy to discuss the memo, she would not release it and waive attorney-client privilege.

"I think waving privilege is not a precedent that I wish to set," Krasne said. "Ever. The fact that the badges are not unconstitutional isn't the question. The question before us last night was do I wish to release a confidential memo. And the answer is no."

Krasne said that although this particular memo was not controversial, a future memo may contain a legal strategy.

"If we set a precedent of releasing and waiving a confidential memo, the city is totally vulnerable," Krasne said. "And I'm not doing it."

Councilmember Willie Brien agreed that the contents of the memo were not the issue. The issue was the principle of waiving privileges between the council and the city attorney.

"[It] wasn't in the best interests of the community," Brien said. "Transparency and the role of transparency in government is taking an issue, getting staff input, taking public hearing and public comment, having councilmembers ask their questions, make their comment and make their case, and voting. I believe that that's exactly what we did. The process was completely transparent."

Board Bored? Never

Fighting never stops
By Rudy Cole

Just when you thought the school board battles could not possibly become more tangled and exacerbating, a way is found.

If the scheme plotted by the new board majority goes according to plan, a special meeting will be held tomorrow to swear in newly-elected members Lisa Korbатов and Jake Manaster. As of the moment this happens, Board President Nooshin Meshkaty and Dr. Myra Demeter will be out and voteless.

Why? So that the new board can more comfortably elect the next president and vice president. According to our sources, this means that Steven Fenton will become president and Korbатов vice president.

Traditionally, and in less contentious times, the new members would be inducted at a regular scheduled meeting, outgoing members would be honored, and then an election of officers would be held. Board members would be permitted their final hurrah — thanking friends, commenting on their service and hearing tributes from colleagues.

That was supposed to happen next Tuesday but then the date was changed to this Monday. Yes, there will probably be some recognition of Meshkaty and Demeter Monday, but they will be sitting in the audience, if they even attend, having been officially removed Friday.

Aside from being callous and tactless, another tradition will also be broken: the elevation of the vice president to board president. That should have been Myra Lurie and not Fenton.

However, Lurie backed one loser in the election, Meshkaty, and has been at odds with both Fenton and Dr. Brian David Goldberg on loads of issues, including out-of-district permits. Her position was hardly politically correct; the parents she supported can't vote in Beverly Hills elections.

This is not the first time the expected rotation of officers has been aborted, but it is very rarely done, and when it was, it created enormous anger and dissension on the board and in the community. Does this district and this new board really need that now? When the then-board majority by-passed Gerald Lunn Jr. in late 1999, the repercussions lasted for years, and Lunn was hardly as popular as Lurie.

Lurie is a product of the PTAs, having worked her way up and through the education community. No other current board member can match that experience, history or involvement. More than that, Lurie is a meticulous student of the process: she does her homework, researches issues and is always prepared at board meetings, and that is not always true of some of her colleagues. No one, not even her detractors, doubt her intellectual qualifications or her strong constituency in the education community.

It was her turn, and her experience and understanding of the process was something the board needed, now more than ever.

Perfect? No, I did not approve of her outing of colleague Goldberg's legal problems. But Lurie has a highly developed sense of morality, not always to her political advantage, and felt she had a responsibility to bring to the board issues that had to be aired.

Interestingly, if you watch their behavior at board meetings, you will see that Goldberg and Lurie are totally friendly and both have moved past the lawsuit disclosures. Lurie has not made attacking Goldberg a crusade, and he has come to understand her motives. They still disagree and Goldberg is not likely to support her for president, but at least they are communicating.

But there is one big mystery in all this internal power machinations: Why has Goldberg been passed over for board vice president? If Lurie is denied her rotation as president and Fenton takes her place, Goldberg should have the right to be vice president, ahead of both Korbатов and Manaster.

Does Goldberg feel too wounded by his lawsuit issues? Is the demand that he resign from the board, made by the Beverly Hills North Homeowner's Association, so distracting that he willingly stepped aside for a board member serving her first day?

Goldberg is not without supporters. In fact, a strong group of community leaders came to his defense last week, disagreeing with the North HOA board's demand that he resign.

This might be a good time to put something else to rest: What really has motivated the North HOA? Former Mayor Robert K. Tanenbaum is president of the association and, as a lawyer, feels the legal issues in the Goldberg lawsuit go to the heart of moral judgment and ethical conduct. While I disagree and feel that whatever mistakes Goldberg may have made, the problems were really those of his father and that, in any case, all of this happened before Goldberg was elected and has no relevance to his board work or service. In a sense, both Lurie and Tanenbaum did a service by airing the legal and moral questions. They took it from rumor to public debate, and that was in the interests of full disclosure.

What is not true, despite the e-mails floating around the city, is that Lurie somehow convinced Tanenbaum to enter this battle. Lurie and Tanenbaum are neither political allies nor close friends. If anyone on the board is close to Tanenbaum it would be Dr. Myra Demeter, not Myra Lurie, but Demeter has kept under the radar on the Goldberg debate.

I asked Goldberg why he would consider stepping aside for Korbатов. He said he thought "this would help the healing process" and that all the controversy surrounding his legal issues would be a continuing distraction.

Goldberg also faulted the present board for adopting a rule that would require four votes to prevent a vice president from becoming president. This assumed that Meshkaty would win and that the Fenton-Goldberg coalition would have a majority but not the "super majority" the rule would require.

That too is irrelevant since there are now three, not two new members. Also, what the board should have been advised is that no board can adopt rules for a new board and that at every election of officers, new rules can be adopted. What the present board may have tried to achieve could have easily been set aside by three, not four votes.

Which brings us to Steven Fenton.

First, he won. The candidates he supported in the board election easily defeated the one incumbent, and his frequent opponent on the board, Meshkaty. Fenton obviously feels this gives him a voter mandate to change not only board policies, but board leadership. Clearly, at least for now, he has the votes.

If his plan holds together, and it is almost certain it will, Fenton will be board president and not Lurie, and Korbatov will be vice president.

Is that really in Fenton's interests? Is it good for the district? No, on both counts. Fenton is a political junkie, has interest in running for other elective offices and needs a success story for his work on the board to make that happen. Just looking at the history of similar board battles, he should have learned that the community does not take kindly to personal in-fighting — usually blaming all those involved for not being able to work together.

Fenton could have been the first elected official in our city ever to win an election outside Beverly Hills — for state assembly, state senate or congress as examples.

Secondly, and although Manaster too has PTA ties, Lurie has the history of being the parent-focused board member. (Goldberg too has considerable parent support, especially in the Horace Mann area.)

Fenton has great name recognition and a good political family lineage, is a very effective campaigner and a fine communicator. He won and should have helped end the divisiveness by not blocking the rotation for president. Now, the challenge he faces will be far more difficult.

Goldberg also expressed the opinion that this whole process of automatically moving from vice president to president should not be followed. He did not rule out trying to become president next year.

That too has built in problems. You can hope that a board VP learns from leadership and experience when assuming the gavel. That process works for the city council, which has almost never passed over any vice mayor, no matter the council alignments. Many times in the city's history, councilmembers became mayor who were clearly in the minority on issues.

Not playing by those rules would hurt the council, city commissions and it will harm this board's efforts at restoring community confidence in our schools.

However, it's a done deal. The process the new majority has adopted has one strange quirk. Friday, when the board swears in Manaster and Korbatov, Meshkaty will be out. Guess who will be president of the board of education until new officers are elected on Monday? Myra Lurie.

What is also callous is the treatment of Meshkaty. She should have been permitted to leave the board with some sensitivity, presided at her last meeting and given the recognition she deserves for her years of service to our schools while still a board member.

In our village, political coalitions are seldom very stable or permanent. Korbatov and Manaster have yet to face any test, and although they appear to be part of the "new leadership," they are very strong, independent types. Be interesting to watch.

Finally, a word about Demeter. She anticipated all of this and made her departing comments last week. She will probably not even be there Monday. Her speech was quite good and a strong recital, not only of her own work, but of the challenges the district faces. We will try to capsule some of her comments in a future issue.

However, as one friend and reader said: "you must be very weary of trying to follow all this board in-fighting." Probably time to move on to such minor problems as how the city will fare with a new city manager.

Sometime next month City Manager Rod Wood will be leaving and Jeff Kolin, the present city manager of Santa Rosa will take over. Next week we plan to report on what the people in his current community think about him and his work. Wood told us Kolin is a top-notch professional and a good fit for the city.

When Wood leaves, there are certain to be changes, but Kolin would be well-advised to make them very slowly. He is inheriting a very able professional staff with competent leadership in almost every city division and department.

His job will be far more complicated because the city is losing the number two person on the management staff: Katie Lichtig. Katie has moved on to a very prestigious new job: City Manager of San Luis Obispo.

Interestingly, she starts her new job one day before Kolin takes over.

Katie was highly respected by the city staff and could easily have become our own city manager — she would have been the first female city manager in our history. She will be missed.

Had a recent tour of the "residences" (condos) at the Montage Beverly Hills and they are really spectacular. That and their recent five-star rating merit more attention — probably next week.

Speaking of hotels, the Four Seasons has apparently closed its dining room "for renovation," and the Beverly Hilton Thanksgiving buffet keeps getting better each year. If you or your significant other has no desire to cook for the holidays, their Christmas buffet is a good option. How was I to know that it is against the rules to bring a take-out, doggie bag to buffets?

BHHS Girls' Basketball Team Wins Opening Two Games of Season

Norman boys' soccer team routs St. Bernard in opener.

By Steven Herbert

Miranda Abdul-Mansour scored 26 points and pulled down 10 rebounds helping lead Beverly Hills to a 77-62 victory over South Torrance Tuesday in a championship bracket second-round game of the Inglewood City of Champions Holiday Classic girls' basketball tournament at St. Bernard High School.

The Normans outscored the Spartans, 21-9, in the first quarter and 20-11 in the second, taking a 41-20 halftime lead.

Beverly Hills outscored South Torrance, 23-20, in the third quarter, increasing its lead to 64-40. The Normans were outscored 22-13 in the fourth quarter.

Jaina Abdul-Mansour, Miranda Abdul-Mansour's twin sister, had 17 points and 10 rebounds, Chelsea Austin 15 points and 14 rebounds, and Lisa Kliman 11 points, including three 3-point baskets, and 11 rebounds, for the Normans (2-0).

Beverly Hills point guard Natalie Moy had five points, including a 3-point basket, 10 rebounds and nine assists. Serena Shlomof added two points and Brittany Pourmorady one for the Normans.

Beverly Hills 73, Sun Valley Poly 51

The Normans began employing a full-court zone press in the second quarter, when they outscored the Parrots, 38-8, in a first-round game Monday at St. Bernard High School.

"They turned the ball over a bunch of times and we turned those into layups," Beverly Hills coach John Braddell.

The Normans made 17 of their 24 shots in the second quarter, including 3-point baskets by Kliman and Moy, taking a 52-23 halftime lead.

Beverly Hills outscored Poly, 15-8, in the third quarter, with Kliman making her second 3-point basket, increasing its lead to 67-31 entering the fourth quarter, where it was outscored, 20-6.

The Normans were outscored 15-14 in the first quarter, despite Miranda Abdul-Mansour scoring 10 of her game-high 22 points, including a 3-point basket.

"We started off a little slow, a little shaky," Braddell said.

Jaina Abdul-Mansour, Miranda Abdul-Mansour's twin sister, scored 12 of her 18 points in the second quarter. Austin added 14, Kliman eight, Moy five, Lena Maitkova two, Pourmorady two and Shlomof two for Beverly Hills.

Junior guard Ruby Ramirez scored 19 for Poly, making three 3-point baskets, and junior guard Victoria Meza 18, with four 3-point baskets, one in each quarter.

What's Next?

The Normans were scheduled to play Los Angeles Washington in a championship semifinal game Wednesday that was to begin after the Beverly Hills Weekly's deadline. Beverly Hills is scheduled to complete play in the tournament Friday and Saturday.

The Normans are scheduled to play at Saugus Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in a nonleague game.

Boys' Soccer

South Bay/Westside Tournament

Beverly Hills 8, St. Bernard 0

James Karlin scored three goals and Parsa Peykar two Tuesday as the Normans opened the season with a rout at St. Bernard.

Beverly Hills led 5-0 22 minutes into the game.

Josh Newman and Aaron Soleimani also scored for the Normans, who also receive an own goal.

Beverly Hills goalkeeper Yonatan Ginsberg made two saves in the first half, while Matthew Davidov made one in the second half.

"We just weren't challenged," Norman coach Steve Rappaport said. "It was really like practice where we were really able to do everything. Our whole team played exceptionally well."

Beverly Hills played without junior forward Mauricio Araujo, who Rappaport expects to be the team's leading scorer. Araujo, a transfer from Los Angeles University High School who was sidelined because of a sprained ankle, is expected to make his debut with the Normans Tuesday.

Beverly Hills is attempting to bounce back a 10-13-2 season and failed to qualify for the Southern Section playoffs.

"It seems like we have an excellent chemistry this year, something we were missing," Rappaport said. "One thing that seems to be very different in our team is the movement of the ball and the ability with the talent we seem to have to take the player most people would say is our best player (Mariano Gonzalez) and not have to play him in the middle of the field all the time."

Gonzalez had two assists against Vikings, and Jonas Brock, Caio Carvalho, Elijah Lichtenberg and Willy Woods one each.

What's Next?

The Normans are scheduled to play El Segundo today at 3 p.m. and play host to Santa Monica Crossroads Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Nickoll Field in South Bay/Westside Tournament games.

Boys' Basketball

The Normans are scheduled to play Santa Monica New Roads Monday at 7:30 p.m. in a first-round game of the Sax Elliott Tournament.

If Beverly Hills wins, it will face the San Pedro-Los Angeles View Park winner in a championship quarterfinal Wednesday at 8 p.m., while a loss would relegate it to a consolation quarterfinal against the San Pedro-View Park loser Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The tournament will continue through Dec. 13. All games will be played at the Swim-Gym.

The Normans defeated New Roads, 63-52, in a first-round game of last year's tournament as Greg Townsend scored 30 points, 26 over the final three quarters. Beverly Hills then lost its final three games of the tournament, finishing eighth in the 16-team field.

The tournament is named for the late Sax Elliott, a Beverly Hills coach and athletic director responsible for construction of the Swim-Gym. He is also credited with the introduction of basketball's glass backboard, the square on the backboard intended to aid shooting accuracy and the multi-colored basketball.

Wrestling

Chaminade Tournament

Payton Bahk (119), Matthew Kohanbash (103) and heavyweight Romeo Soofiani won all five of their matches to finish first in their weight classes, helping the Normans to victories in four of their five matches Saturday at Chaminade High School in West Hills.

Beverly Hills began the tournament by defeating Vaughn. The Normans lost to Glendora in their second match, then defeated Westlake Village Westlake, Calabasas and Studio City Harvard-Westlake.

Murtaza Abbas (189), Armand Farrokh (152) and Matt Flagel (171) all won four of their five matches for the Normans to finish second in their weight classes. All three wrestlers suffered their only loss against Glendora.

Girls' Water Polo

Valley Girls' Varsity Water Polo Tournament

Beverly Hills 7, Garden Grove 6
Mallory Smith scored the game-winning goal for the Normans with six seconds to play in their season opener Monday at Santa Ana High School.

The Argonauts had tied the score on Kaitlyn Frain's goal with two minutes, 42 seconds left in the fourth quarter of the pool play game, 25 seconds after Smith scored the second of her three goals, giving Beverly Hills a 6-5 lead.

The Normans led 5-3 at halftime, but Garden Grove's Brianna Vi scored the only goal of the third quarter and she tied the score 50 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Brenda Nguyen of the Argonauts scored the game's first goal, but Rebecca Yukelson and Alli Friedman scored in the final 21 seconds of the first quarter as Beverly Hills took a 2-1 lead.

College Basketball

Percy Miller, a 2008 Beverly High graduate, made his 2009-2010 debut for USC Friday, scoring two points, pulling down a rebound and having an assist in three minutes of play in a 74-43 victory over Coppin State at the Galen Center.

Miller had to sit out USC's season-opening 77-67 nonconference victory over UC

Riverside Nov. 17 at the Galen Center because of an unspecified infraction, an athletic department official said, and did not play because of a coach's decision in a 67-59 loss to Loyola Marymount Nov. 21 at the Galen Center.

Miller had one turnover and did not record any other statistics in two minutes of play in Sunday's 51-48 loss to Nebraska at the Galen Center.

WILL BEVERLY HILLS SNAG THE BROAD MUSEUM?

Negotiations are under way to land a cultural museum

By Kimberly Cheng

Eli Broad

Both Beverly Hills and Santa Monica are vying to be the cultural epicenter of the 2,000-piece collection of contemporary art owned by philanthropist and billionaire Eli Broad — and neither city will take no for answer.

The two were pitted against each other after Broad decided to enter negotiations with multiple cities in order to fast-track his museum's development. He nearly doubled the size of the original plans for the building, and said there is a third possible location, but he declined to name it.

"We don't want this to go on indefinitely, which can happen when you're dealing with cities," Broad said in a Los Angeles Times article. "It could be three years, and I'm 76 years of age."

Broad plans to create a $200-million endowment that would generate $12 million a year to run the nonprofit institution, which would also serve as the Broad Art Foundation headquarters.

Broad had approached Beverly Hills about building his museum at the southeast corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Santa Monica Boulevard.

The proposed Beverly Hills model includes a 126,000-square-foot, three-story building on a narrow, arrow-shaped parcel of land between Santa Monica Boulevard and Little Santa Monica Boulevard. It stretches from Wilshire southeast to Charleville Boulevard, and is currently occupied by two-story retail buildings.

A 43,000-square-foot museum and an adjacent 6,100-square-foot outdoor sculpture court would be located on the top floor. The original plan had only called for 25,000 square feet of exhibition space.

An additional 67,000 square feet would house an archive for undisplayed art, as well as offices for all three Broad foundations, including art, education and medical research.

Beverly Hills requested another 10,000 square feet of commercial space — about a third of which would consist of the museum's restaurant and store — to fuel street life along Little Santa Monica Boulevard.

"We're a world-class, cosmopolitan city, and an art museum at one of the most prominent intersections in California would be a great place for a world-class, cosmopolitan art museum," Beverly Hills City Councilmember John Mirisch said. "The Broad Museum would be a wonderful complement to the Annenberg Center and the Paley Media Center. Without a doubt, Eli Broad's collection is one of the finest collections of modern art in the world, and Beverly Hills would be a worth home. It really would be a match made in heaven."

Mirisch said one advantage Santa Monica has is a redevelopment agency that can be used to help fund the project.

"We do not have that advantage, unfortunately," Mirisch said. "But we need to look at not only the cost but the long-term benefits."

Although Broad said parking is a problem at the Beverly Hills site, the proposal includes an underground parking garage with 170 spaces.

"Parking is a problem in a lot of parts of town," Mirisch said. "We'd work to find a good solution as an element of the project as a whole which would meet the needs of the Broad Foundation, the museum and the neighborhood."

Broad said the city would have to acquire the privately-owned property and lease it to the foundation for a nominal amount. The city would then own the building after the lease expires.

"The city and the Broad Foundation continue to explore the potential development of a museum at the gateway at Santa Monica and Wilshire boulevards," said Beverly Hills City Manager Rod Wood. "We believe Beverly Hills offers a prime location in a unique world-renowned city, and we hope to be successful in working out a mutually acceptable agreement."

Santa Monica city officials approached Broad more than two months ago and proposed building the museum on the 2.5 acres of city-owned land between to the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium and the Santa Monica Courthouse.

The Santa Monica City Council voted unanimously during its Nov. 17 meeting to launch formal negotiations with Broad in order to secure the museum site, which is currently occupied by a partially-covered surface parking lot two blocks away from the beach.

"Santa Monica's master plan for the arts has long contemplated a major museum in our civic center, so the Broad proposal is of great interest to us," said Santa Monica city councilmember Kevin McKeown. "The Broad Foundation's collection of contemporary art fits the Santa Monica style, and having such a resource just a block from our public high school promises generations of educational opportunities, and the nurturing of artists as well as the arts in our city."

Plans outlined in a report by Santa Monica City Manager P. Lamont Ewell call for the city to lease the land to Broad's foundation for a "token" amount and to contribute roughly $1 million for design, construction, parking and landscaping.

The report says Broad has requested that the city absorb the project's permit costs and pay for the required environmental impact review.

According to Ewell's report, "the benefits of the proposal are readily apparent. A world-class cultural amenity...would significantly advance city policies that strongly favor promoting the arts and fostering cultural opportunities" in an area "with a relative small expenditure of public funds."

In addition, Broad and city officials will discuss selling the existing Broad Art Foundation, which is located in Santa Monica, to the city for $6 million. Because of space issues, the 1927 building can't hold all of Broad's art, and has never been opened to the public due to parking problems.

"We don't know which of those sites are going to work out," Broad said. "None of them are without complications."

Broad said Los Angeles "would have more contemporary art space for the public than any place in America" with the inclusion of his 43,000-square-foot museum.

Broad's art collection, which increases by 25 to 100 pieces every year, can adequately showcase different exhibitions without competing with the Los Angeles County Museum of Art and the Museum of Contemporary Art.

Broad and his wife Edythe have collected works from artists such as Jeff Koons, Damien Hirst, Roy Lichtenstein and Jasper Johns. His foundation has loaned pieces to nearly 500 museums more than 7,000 times since 1984.

Broad Foundations spokesperson Karen Denne said there is no specific timeframe for the completion of the project. She declined to comment on what Broad is looking for in a museum site, citing ongoing negotiations.
