Metro extension route

Because of tremendous political pressure from Century City developers, it is sad to say but there is really only one sure way to stop the final location decision by Metro of routing the subway through our city (by going under Beverly High) to the Century City high rise office buildings, instead of the more logical way, along Santa Monica Boulevard, as was originally proposed by Metro.

The "sure" way to stop the high school routing is:

Mayor [Barry] Brucker (with the support of the City Council) has to write a letter to Metro to tell them that the City of Beverly Hills will take the matter all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary, in order for the city to protect all of the present and future high school age children living in Beverly Hills.

No one can prove that digging a subway under Beverly High, which was built 84 years ago, does not increase the risk to the existing school structure from the possibility of a major earthquake. Even if the school structure has been improved, that was done long before anyone dreamed of the underground subway route.

No one could or did predict the disaster that has recently happened in Japan.

No one would be foolish enough to predict what would happen to an 84-year-old building that was not designed to withstand an earthquake ... with a subway underneath it.

If anyone else feels they have a better solution before Metro announces they have made the "final decision," I would like to hear it now ... not after it is too late.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY of RECIRCULATED DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT

The City of Beverly Hills has prepared a Recirculated Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for a proposed new 44-unit condominium building (Residences at Saks Fifth Avenue). The EIR was previously circulated for public review between November 15, 2010 and January 18, 2011, and is being recirculated as a result of changes to the levels of significance associated with several impact areas. The following impact areas were changed from Class III (less than significant) impacts to Class II (significant but mitigable) impacts:

- Aesthetics
- Land Use and Planning

The abovementioned changes to impact areas, as well as other edits and clarifications, are shown in strikeout/underline within the text of the Recirculated Draft Environmental Impact Report.

The project site is located between the 100 blocks of South Camden and South Peck Drives, immediately south of the commercially-zoned properties fronting on Wilshire Boulevard. The project site is identified as 125 South Camden Drive, and occupies six lots totaling approximately 1.12 acres in size.

The proposed project would result in the demolition of the existing surface parking lot located behind the Barney's retail store, and permanent vacation of a portion of the north-south alley that runs through the center of the project site. The new structure would be a six-story, 44-unit residential building with a two-level subterranean parking garage with 127 parking spaces. The net floor area of the proposed building would be 118,840 square feet, which results in a net floor-to-area ratio (FAR) of 2.44 to 1. The project includes approximately 16,220 square feet of communal and private open space that would be provided in the form of courtyards and terraces. The proposed project would be 66-feet and six stories in height at the northern portion of the site, adjacent to the 85-foot tall Barney's retail building to the north of the project site. The project would then step down to 55-feet and five stories in the middle portion of the site. In the southern portion of the site, the project would step down to 45-feet and four stories, adjacent to the existing multi-family residential development to the south.

Of the six lots proposed for development under the project, the four northern lots are currently zoned R-4-P (Residential Parking Zone) and the two southern lots are zoned R-4X2 (Multiple Residential Zone). The R-4-P zone allows for either multi-family residential development or commercial parking facilities (but not both within the same project), and the R-4X2 zone allows for multi-family residential development. The project consists strictly of multi-family residential development, and is therefore compatible with the permitted uses for the project site. The height limit for the two northern lots is 55-feet or five stories, and the height limit for the four southern lots is 45-feet or four stories. Proposed development on the two southern lots complies with the established height limits, but development on the four northern lots exceeds the established height limits.

Approval of the project requires approval of: a Vesting Tentative Map, a Zone Change to amend the Municipal Code to establish a new overlay zone (which allows for increased height and building length), the Multiple Residential Planned Development Overlay Zone (MR-PD); a General Plan Amendment to reflect the proposed overlay zone and to exceed the 60-foot height limit identified in the General Plan; a Development Plan Review to construct the project; and an amendment to the City's Streets Master Plan to allow for an alley vacation for a portion of a public alley that bisects the project site.

The Draft EIR analyzes the following potentially significant environmental effects of the project:

- Aesthetics
- Air Quality
- Greenhouse Gas Emissions
- Land Use and Planning
- Noise
- Transportation and Circulation

PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT ON THE RECIRCULATED DRAFT EIR

The Recirculated Draft EIR is being circulated for a 25-day public review period, from April 15, 2011 to May 9, 2011. During the public review period, written comments concerning the adequacy of the document may be submitted by any interested person and/or affected agency. Following the public review period, written responses will be prepared for inclusion in the Final EIR.

April 29 date set for Measure 2P hearing

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Ann Jones will hear the City of Beverly Hills' application for a preliminary injunction against the two-hour free parking initiative, Measure 2P, on April 29.

"An expedited hearing has been set for the 29th and that will be back in front of Judge Jones to determine whether it's a valid measure or not," City Manager Jeff Kolin said. "Meanwhile, we have been looking at the measure, and are in the process of evaluating different implementation alternatives."

Kolin said in a statement that no matter what Judge Jones decides, the City Council has no plans to reduce or eliminate the City's long-standing, two-hour free parking program.

On January 4, Judge Jones ruled Measure 2P invalid, and it was uncertain whether the measure would appear on the March 8 ballot.

The 2nd District Court of Appeal stayed the decision pending the election. The initiative passed 3,452-2,112 in the March 8 election.

On April 13, Jones declined the City of Beverly Hills' request to issue a temporary restraining order against implementing Measure 2P.

"The city was looking for direction from Judge Jones regarding what to do with Measure 2P pending a final decision from her, and she declined to issue a temporary restraining order but set an expedited date for a hearing request for a preliminary injunction," City Attorney Larry Wiener said.

Steven Reyes of Kaufman Legal Group said that Judge Jones' decision signals that there's hope Measure 2P may be implemented in the future.

"I think it's good news for the voters of Beverly Hills who voted overwhelmingly in support of Measure 2P," Reyes said. "Going forward, [Judge Jones] agreed with our request that the issue was important enough to be briefed more fully before she made any decisions."

The City Council will discuss options for implementing Measure 2P during its next study session on April 21.

Bijan, Rodeo Drive designer, passes at age 67

On Tuesday night, mourners gathered outside House of Bijan on Rodeo Drive to remember Bijan Pakzad, the iconic fashion designer and owner of the by-appointment-only boutique. He passed away on Saturday after suffering a stroke. He was 67.

TMZ reported on Friday that Bijan had suffered a stroke on Thursday and was being treated at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. The boutique announced his death on Saturday via a recorded message.

Nicolas Pakzad described his father as larger than life.

"[He was an] icon not only for fashion and menswear, but for Beverly Hills and all immigrants in America," Nicolas said. "He came from Iran, and he always accredited America to his success."

According to his website, Bijan was born in Tehran in 1944 and received his education in Switzerland and Italy. Before coming to the United States, he lived and traveled in Europe for more than 15 years after graduation.

"His persona and his character was so passionate," Nicolas said. "I've read a lot of things saying he came from a prominent rich family. That's not necessarily true. They weren't poor, but they were by no means as successful as my father was the day he passed. He worked very hard for everything he had and to reach the level that he reached. He's touched so many people."

Nicolas said it was clear to him how many people his father touched by the thousands of e-mails he has received since Bijan passed away.

"Many people say he gave them identity, that he made Iranians into Iranian Americans," Nicolas said. "He gave so many people in the Persian community their identities."

In a video posted on Bijan's Web site, www.bijan.com, Bijan said he began designing clothing at age 15. In 1976, he established his business in Beverly Hills by designing seasonal collections and complete wardrobes and accessories for influential men, including heads of state, industry leaders and royalty. He also designed jewelry and perfume, and he claimed to be the most expensive designer in the world.

"From day one, [the boutique] was by appointment," Nicolas said. "That kind of played on his idea of exclusivity, all about the quality of the clothing, not the quantity. He never made more than a few ties of each design. Rodeo Drive gave him a place where

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Council of the City of Beverly Hills, at its adjourned regular meeting to be held on Thursday, April 21, 2011, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the City Hall, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, will hold a public hearing to consider adoption of:

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS AMENDING THE COMPREHENSIVE SCHEDULE OF TAXES, FEES & SERVICE CHARGES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 2011/2012.

The proposed resolution will increase the taxes, fees, and service charges that are charged to the public for the various activities and services as set forth in the schedule for fiscal year 2011/2012. The majority of the fees and charges would be increased by 0.7% based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for November 2010 to reflect the increase in the City's costs. In some cases, the fees were adjusted to reflect a change in service level, more equitable distribution of costs, or to obtain full-cost recovery, rather than by the CPI. The fees would become effective on July 1, 2011.

Copies of the proposed Resolution and the Fee Study Report are available for review or purchase in the Office of the City Clerk, Room 290, 455 N. Rexford Drive, and in the Finance Department, 3rd Floor, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California. Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard. Written comments may also be submitted and should be addressed to the City Council, c/o City Clerk, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, 90210. The comments should be received prior to the hearing date. If you need more information, please contact Carolyn Johnson at (310) 285-2459.

Please note that if you challenge the Council's action in regard to this matter in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

that was embraced.”

Although Bijan was known for his signature yellow, Nicolas said his father had a knack for working with many colors.

“He had an extreme talent for being able to use colors like lavender, red and blue and make it look chic and masculine,” Nicolas said. “He could make anybody look chic.”

According to Bijan’s Web site, his clients and supporters included Presidents Ronald Reagan, George H.W. Bush, George W. Bush and Bill Clinton, and former governor Arnold Schwarzenegger.

“His relationship with his clients was beautiful,” Nicolas said. “Clients came before everyone. It was mutual; they loved him. He loved all the presidents that he dressed. He adored the Bush family and they adored him.”

Civic leaders recognized Bijan for his contributions to the community. On May 8, 2010, then-Mayor Jimmy Delshad awarded Bijan the key to the city and declared May 8 Bijan Day in the City of Beverly Hills. Governor Schwarzenegger awarded Bijan the Governor’s Award For Excellence in Fashion, and he was the keynote speaker at the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce’s Business Excellence Awards in 2007.

Bijan’s interest in luxury automobiles was apparent from the cars he parked in front of his shop on Rodeo Drive and the 23-car garage at his Beverly Hills home, where he stored his signature yellow Ferrari, a Rolls Royce Phantom and other vehicles.

Nicolas said Bijan loved parking cars from his collection on Rodeo Drive, “just so Rodeo Drive would have the glamour to it that it deserved.”

“His store and his marketing efforts helped establish Rodeo Drive as the world-renowned luxury retail destination that it is today,” a press release from the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce stated. “The Chamber joins Bijan’s family, many friends and customers in mourning the passing of the ‘larger-than-life’ personality, Bijan Pakzad.”

Bijan is survived by three children, Daniela, Nicolas and Alexandra.

Former mayor Jimmy Delshad did not return phone calls from the Weekly.

City Council may appear on Real Housewives of Beverly Hills

Lisa Vanderpump receives a city proclamation from then-Mayor Jimmy Delshad on March 1.

Residents in attendance at the Beverly Hills City Council meeting on March 1 may have noticed a camera crew on hand filming the proceedings. The Bravo crew was present to film Real Housewives of Beverly Hills cast member Lisa Vanderpump receiving a city proclamation from then-Mayor Jimmy Delshad.

At the City Council study session on April 5, the city council approved a location agreement, authorizing broadcast rights and use of the City’s shield, which appeared on Vanderpump’s proclamation, to Bravo. Each city councilmember present at the March 1 meeting was asked to consider signing an individual appearance release, to allow their images to be aired on the television show during its second season. The City will charge the producers $1,500 for use of the City’s shield in a televised format.

Vanderpump, owner of Beverly Hills restaurant Villa Blanca, was recognized for promoting Beverly Hills as a friendly city and for her business contributions.

“Lisa Vanderpump is the person that has been writing about Beverly Hills, has been promoting Beverly Hills and has done a lot for Beverly Hills,” Delshad said during the proclamation ceremony on March 1. “She’s not only a successful actress, philanthropist and business owner, she’s also owner of the very stylish Villa Blanca restaurant. Through Lisa’s many ventures, she has promoted the Beverly Hills name and its brand in a very positive manner.”

At the April 5 study session, Deputy City Manager for Public Affairs Cheryl Friedling pointed out that because the City Council Chambers is a public venue, the public is allowed to come in and film. Chief Assistant City Attorney Roxanne Diaz said that since the City could not have prohibited filming, the film location agreement would legalize the location from Bravo’s standpoint, by allowing the production company to get all the releases it needs to check off.

“Our company is a very front-door company,” Ken Schoech of Bravo and Evolution Media said. “We like to follow the rules. We always pull our Beverly Hills permits.”

Mayor Barry Brucker, Vice Mayor Willie Brien and Councilmember Lili Bosse all supported the agreement, but councilmembers John Mirisch and Julian Gold expressed concerns about the terms of the location agreement, which Gold said were “way too broad.” Mirisch suggested establishing an agreement that limited the use of the footage and the shield.

“I happen to have several friends in the entertainment business, one of whom is a law-

The city needs to get grip
By Rudy Cole

If for some inexplicable reason, you accidentally find yourself watching the Bravo cable channel and you think you are viewing a Beverly Hills City Council meeting, don't place a panic call to Time Warner; what you may have stumbled on is a replay of an actual event:

Then-mayor, Jimmy Delshad, presenting a proclamation to the Real Housewives of Beverly Hills cast member Lisa Vanderpump, which may be airing on Bravo soon, but was actually filmed at a legal meeting of the Beverly Hills City Council. (See our related story on page 5.)

One obvious question comes to mind: What in the world were they thinking?

The City of Beverly Hills is officially validating this insipid and, yes, insulting characterization of our community, not only by proclamation but by legitimizing the act and agreeing to appear on an episode of the show.

"I don't care what you write, just spell my name correctly," may not be the best mantra for our city, still hoping to project an image of sophistication, social responsibility and intellectuality, and then giving any kind of credibility to the latest incarnation of this Housewives series.

First, the obvious: The stars of the program neither live in our city or are involved in any of the more traditional civic and charitable endeavors that help identify us. So, why give them a proclamation?

The equally off-the-mark and far more successful television show, Beverly Hills 90210 never had a proclamation, to steal a line from the "Never had a dinner routine" of Red Buttons, and not just because the high school used in the exterior shots was in Torrance. The show may have had some dramatic moments, and it certainly ran forever, but it too had little to do with real students of Beverly High. It made the zip code more famous, and so the branding value helped offset the lack of realism of the show itself.

Some years back, when Marian Dern was West Coast editor of TV Guide, she called to ask if the people who actually live in Beverly Hills had any reaction to the hit TV series, Beverly Hillbillies.

I probably paraphrased the Gone with the Wind line: "Frankly, we don't give a damn."

Mostly true then and now. That series was sophomoric but not truly offensive; the Housewives is.

How to explain allowing this to happen, the official recognition? First, councilmembers try to "go along" with minor requests of incumbent mayors. If a mayor wants to honor a visiting aunt from Des Moines, colleagues will generally acquiesce. However, this time more insightful leadership would have been in order and, although it is not easy to tell the bosses "no," the city manager and staff could have tried to intervene. (Maybe, off the record, they did.)

Which brings us to a second type of program that has both literally and figuratively been bouncing all around our city, the changing name of a planned food event.

Although no one is quite sure what a second installment of the Taste of Beverly Hills will eventually be named, assuming it survives the approval and vetting process, its rapid change of venues has been exhausting to follow.

Last year, a moderately successful "Taste" was held in conjunction with our celebration of the joining of a date and zip code, the Beverly Hills 9/02/10 opening ceremony and restaurant show that followed.

Now, it is back, with the same promoters but a different game plan, and there are

The student-actors were no more reflective of our city than the "real" women on this "reality" program.

I found a list of subjects for some of the early episodes, and in case the council failed to actually study the program and its format, here are some examples of how the "real" Beverly Hills housewives are portrayed:

"The 'wives' look at Camille Grammer's racy past pictures."

"Lisa Vanderpump asks the psychic questions, but Lisa just gets offended."

"Camille answers a viewer's questions about her soft core porno past."

Certainly, you must have heard the same kind of conversations at your latest lunch with the girls? No? Well that's what some middle western enclave may assume is the real Beverly Hills, at least if they also happen to catch the then-mayor of our city handing out the proclamation of approval.

Our self-image and how we are perceived in the "real" world is not so fragile as to be seriously harmed by this or any other exaggerated portrayal of our community. The sky is not falling on our public image.

We will survive this struggling series just as we have outlived Beverly Hillbillies and Beverly Hills Ninja. I just can't remember any mayor, with approval of the city council, rushing to distribute official recognition and implied approval by proclamation of these problems.

The "Best" organization has returned, first with a request to use Roxbury Park for a Labor Day food show and then retreating to Rodeo Drive when they learned about Peggy Kaus, Ken Goldman and Dr. Charles Aronberg.

The Rodeo Drive venue may either not be acceptable to the street's denizens or not sufficient for the event planners, so they jumped to La Cienega Park, keeping Rodeo as part of the plan. The final plan may mean going back to 9900, last year's venue, even though we have heard rumblings from our Building and Safety people that new inspections of safety will be mandatory.

The city has denied that La Cienega will have to be shut entirely to park users during a possible food show, but even if it is kept open, the program would disrupt normal park use on an important holiday and certainly impact nearby residents.

First, a side issue. When the Best group, clearly a competent event planning association with connections to our community, brought the 2010 Taste to the council for a then-very rapid approval, representatives of the Beverly Hills Education Foundation appeared alongside the promoters to proclaim that significant funds from the event would go to BHEF, a sponsoring organization. Certainly, that helped convince the council to lend its name and give approval. Now, it is time to report to the city through the council what amounts were actually received by BHEF. The school support organization plays a vital role in supporting public education, but its name should not be used unless there are provable benefits.

As for the event, there are other questions that cry for answers. Last year, the Taste had a mix of Beverly Hills and Los Angeles restaurants. This year, the focus and structure seems even less of a Beverly Hills promotion.

Events are good, important as a tool for inviting people to come to Beverly Hills. But when they arrive, do we want to introduce them to eateries that pay no taxes to the city and are outside city limits? What about the additional benefit to retailers when visitors dine in the city? Mostly lost, if they eat on La Brea.

Just suppose the city was promoting retail shopping and invited South Coast Plaza to occupy Rodeo Drive at the start of the Holiday Season? Probably would not win love and approval. So, why showcase Los Angeles dining?

Some other problems in process, but a shout-out of thanks to the city's public information officers and staff at Recreation and Parks. Their job is to implement programs approved by the council and yes, to advise decision makers on feasibility.

What about how decisions on events are made? This program may serve a valuable lesson in how to properly use community resources and the professional staff.

This is too far into approval without bringing in official and semi-official groups for, at best, an opportunity to win public approval.

This is a major event, with real community impacts and while the city council needs to buy into the concept first, before it has a real green light the Recreation and Parks Commission needs to evaluate the benefits and hold public hearings to allow residents and park users to express their concerns.

Because there are many city resources involved, even if costs are supposed to be covered by the promoters, the Conference and Visitors Bureau should be consulted and because Rodeo Drive is being suggested as a place for exhibits, it too should have a place at the decision-making table. Both receive heavy city support funding and both have very valuable membership expertise.

Personal reservations: Not convinced this has real benefits for our restaurants or community; not sure it has local sponsorship or involvement and very doubtful the event approval process is a model for good governance. This does simply not have a good "taste," yet.

This community is indeed very fortunate to have so many socially conscious and involved houses of worship serving us. Good Shepherd, Beth Jacob Congregation, Beverly Hills Presbyterian and BH Methodist all are very involved in city life. (Beth Am is outstanding, but not within city limits.) But this week, with parallel religious dates, we salute three for different reasons.

All Saints Episcopal and Temple Emanuel have joined resources for a very meaningful charitable support effort. More on this soon, and how you can participate. Note: Rabbi Laura Geller has been listed by the Forward newspapers as one of the world's leading women rabbis.

All of the Christian houses of worship will have important services for Easter, but for one of the lesser known of these, and one of the most friendly and welcoming, you might want to visit Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church at 436 South Beverly Drive (where Canon and South Beverly meet).

Their pastor, the Rev. R. John Sperling, is a very spiritual, charismatic and people-oriented leader. The church began construction in 1941 and has been very much a part of the community ever since. For time of services, please call (310) 277-1164. (Appreciation to PR contact Dana Toma for keeping us informed.)

Beverly Hills lost one of its most well-known citizens last week with the death of the legendary Bijan Pakzad. Condolences to his family and his longtime business partners and friends, the Mahboubi family. Together, they, along with Fred Hayman, Jerry Polone, Jerry Magnin and others helped create and define Rodeo Drive.

Next week: Final results, Best of Beverly Hills, and Local Hero.

Rudy Cole served for eight years as a member and chair of the city's Recreation & Parks Commission. He was also President of the Greystone Foundation and served on three other city committees. Rudy can be reached at: Rudy@bhweekly.com.

yer who actually drafts contracts for people who are appearing in so-called reality shows," Mirisch said. "She once told me that—you can see it in the contract here—they basically ask you to sign your life away. ... I certainly have no intention of signing anything that onerous. ... I would not have a problem with—again without signing our life away or our rights away—to allow use of filming here and the shield and all that within the context of the show. I do think though we have to make sure it's limited to that ... [and] that it's in keeping with the classiness of the city."

Diaz said one way the City can protect itself is by obtaining editing rights from the production company.

"In full disclosure, one of the ways we try to protect the city's brand is by editing rights but that's not something they're willing to provide us," Diaz said.

Diaz said the city attorney's office would work with the production company to come to an agreement that is favorable to both parties.

"What we would try to do in this location agreement is limit the uses of the clip for this show and try to limit the uses elsewhere in other shows where we wouldn't want it to be, because we want to see it in context of the show which, many of you were here, it's just a simple proclamation ceremony," Diaz said.

Diaz and Brucker called the footage benign.

Gold said he authorized the location agreement conditionally.

"If you actually engage in this discussion and cannot come to agreement with them about appropriate language for the contract, my vote in that circumstance would be, no, we should not do it," Gold said. "Presuming you come to an arrangement that you're comfortable with that you think protects the city, then I'm okay with it."

Mirisch said he agreed with Gold.

"You may not be able to get editing rights but you can certainly restrict usage, and I think that's going to be one of our main concerns," Mirisch said.

BHPD, DMV and Transportation crack down on disabled placard abuse

On April 12 during a targeted enforcement operation, four investigators from the Department of Motor Vehicles found that one quarter of the vehicles displaying disabled parking placards on the 300 block of North Camden Drive at that time were not in compliance with the law. Four out of 16 drivers were caught misusing the placards.

Investigators targeting the same area on Feb. 28 issued seven citations for disabled parking violations.

"Bottom line in all of this, we get quite a few complaints from citizens and merchants regarding placard abuse," Beverly Hills Police Lt. Mark Rosen said. "The problem is parking is very limited in Beverly Hills. It's not fair to people who have a legitimate need for [disabled parking] and that's why we take such a serious interest in this."

Russell Platamone, parking services manager for the Beverly Hills Department of Transportation, said that the department is committed to making sure people are using placards properly.

Platamone said that according to the California Vehicle Code, parking enforcement officers are authorized to request identification from individuals using placards to make sure they are in compliance with the law. Platamone said that most of the time, people understand why they are asked to show identification.

"They are very cooperative and they are thankful because they know we are helping them to protect their rights," Platamone said.

Rosen said the North Camden Drive location was targeted because of a complaint from a resident, who had noticed a number of cars parked with disabled placards in front of a fitness club, Sports Club LA.

"What makes handicapped parking difficult to enforce, is not everyone has a visible handicap," Rosen said. "People [who] have

Need a ride? Beverly High students have an app for that After Beverly High senior Raj Vir found himself stranded without a ride, he wanted to find a solution. So he and three other Beverly High students came up with a prototype for a smartphone application that would help individuals find a ride anywhere at any time.

"We always need rides when we're at parties and other places," Vir said. "A lot of times we get stranded at school, so we wanted to find a way home. Currently what we would do is call random people or call our parents, but there's no efficient way to send it to everyone at once."

With the application, called Dependable Ride, individuals would push a button indicating they need a ride home. By way of GPS, the app would notify pre-approved friends and relatives that the user needed a ride.

This idea will take the team of Beverly High students Vir, senior Ronit Kumar, junior George Qiao-Guan, and freshman Cole Hackbarth to the Pete Conrad Spirit of Innovation Summit at NASA Ames Research Center in Silicon Valley from April 28 to May 1. The team, called R Squared, earned a $2,000 grant from the Conrad Foundation to travel to the summit and develop the idea.

The students were asked to write and develop a business plan, and they were selected as finalists in the cyber security category. At the competition, all four students will participate in a presentation highlighting the students' business plan, marketing efforts, and next steps. The students will have the opportunity to attend seminars and meet venture capitalists, investors and entrepreneurs. If the students win, they will be awarded an additional $5,000 to further the idea.

The students have been working on the project and preparing for the presentation for the past four months.

"We became very dedicated, working after school," Qiao-Guan said. "Now we're coming in during spring break to work on it some more."

Beverly High entrepreneurship teacher Eileen Kahn has all four students in her robotics class.

"This was a business plan competition, so it melds together science and technology and entrepreneurship," Kahn said. "They're used to working with each other. It's a good mix of minds and abilities because each one has a different talent that they've brought to this, which is very helpful."

Since marketing is a vital part of the competition, a public vote is part of the scoring process. To vote for R Squared, visit http://conradawards.org/teams/finalist_teams. The students are also vying for the opportunity to tour Facebook Headquarters by competing for the most "likes" on Facebook. To support the team, visit www.facebook.com/dependableride.

ailments may be going into the health club for physical therapy. There's no doubt there is handicapped [parking] abuse going on. We'll do everything we can do to enforce it."

Rosen said that depending on the nature of the violation, people who misuse disabled placards can be cited, have their placards confiscated, be arrested, and/or have their vehicle impounded.

"Our main concern is to get the illegal placards off the street," Platamone said.

DMV investigators waited for people to park on North Camden Drive and watched if they put up a disabled placard. The investigator engaged individuals who put up placards in conversation, and then checked to see if the disabled placards belonged to them.

Platamone says he does not think of targeted enforcement operations as sting operations.

"It's more of a helping hand, because we do have a lot of people [in Beverly Hills] that have the placards," Platamone said.

Platamone and Rosen said that the Department of Transportation is considering a joint effort with DMV and BHPD to address disabled parking abuse, in addition to the department's current effort, the disabled persons placard enforcement program.

Rosen said the DMV will also work in conjunction with the Medical Board of California, to investigate whether disabled placard abuse is beginning with doctors who might be issuing placards to people who don't need them.

"You'll see us out there on a daily basis, police employees and Department of Transportation employees, actively citing vehicles that are parked in handicapped zones without the benefit of placard and placard abuse," Rosen said. "In addition to daily enforcement, we [do] targeted enforcement. We don't want to intrude upon people with legitimate need. We want to make sure placards are lawfully issued and used."

Don't rely on the company who gave you a potentially defective hip implant to advise you on your legal rights!

DePuy Orthopaedics, a division of Johnson & Johnson, has issued a worldwide recall of its ASR™ Acetabular System for Total Hip Replacement, after determining that these hip implants may fail at an alarming rate. The "metal-on-metal" composition of these implants can release particles into the patient, potentially causing serious and painful reactions — sometimes requiring complete revision surgery.

Reportedly, Johnson & Johnson has been seeking medical releases from recipients so that their claims adjustors can speak with you directly and possibly take down statements without your having counsel present — an unwise action for any recipient to do.

Having a defective hip implant in your body clearly demands having your own lawyer. You must be very cautious with dealing with the manufacturer or its representative without proper legal representation.

If you have a DePuy ASR™ product, please call us immediately, as there are time limits for filing a claim. You might already have problems with the implant about which you are unaware, so please contact us — and certainly do not forfeit your legal rights without talking to us.

agreement between BHUSD and BHEF, providing the education foundation the sole right to commercialize the district's trademarks. The Board also approved a contract between Cherokee Inc. and BHEF for form.

"There's only one high school in the world that has a name that is recognizable internationally," BHEF Chair Jonathan Prince said. "That is Beverly Hills High School. There are fine high schools all over the world, but none of them have name value. ... For the first time ever, we are going to work as partners to monetize the brand, which is Beverly Hills High School."

Board member Steven Fenton expressed concern that the district's lawyers had not yet seen the document.

"We need to keep moving this thing forward but we should have somebody at one of our law firms bless this," Fenton said. "I think as trustees of the school district, we shouldn't sign any legal document without having a lawyer take a look at it."

Board member Myra Lurie, who expressed support for the agreement, also suggested the need for a full indemnification clause for the custodial agreement.

"I'm excited about the positive opportunity that comes with this proposed branding arrangement, and I'm grateful to BHEF for bringing it to us," Lurie said after the meeting. "Despite our obvious close bond and trusting relationship with BHEF, I did not think it would be prudent for us to sign an agreement which states that BHEF would not be held liable nor responsible in any manner whatsoever, for any of its actions or inactions in connection with the custodian agreement. I also wanted to make sure that BHEF had adequate insurance in the event of products liability."

The custodial agreement was approved for a two-year term, subject to good faith negotiation over the following six days and with the addition of a "reasonable, satisfactory indemnification clause," Board member Jake Manaster said in his motion.

Prince said BHEF is interested in negotiating contracts with a number of companies to sell products with the Beverly High brand. Cherokee Inc. counts Target and Mervyn's among its clients.

"On a night when we were talking about teacher's salaries and budget cuts, what better way to solve our problems than to make more money?" Prince said.

Beverly Hills removes penalty charges for excessive water consumption

The Beverly Hills City Council has lifted penalties for excessive water consumption, effective April 13.

On April 12, the Metropolitan Water District removed the regional drought declaration, which allowed Beverly Hills to lift its restrictions. According to a MWD press release, regional water supply conditions have improved because of this season's storms and the public's continued conservation and water use efficiency efforts. Governor Jerry Brown announced the end of California's drought on March 30.

The City of Beverly Hills mandatory watering days program will remain in place. According to a City of Beverly Hills press release, city water consumption has declined by 12 percent, exceeding MWD's goal of Small change makes big difference at Hawthorne

For three weeks, Hawthorne students from all first- to eighth-grade classes collected change and donations and raised $6,753.69 for the school's Pennies for Patients fundraiser, benefiting the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. To kick off the program, the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society visited Hawthorne and gave a presentation at an assembly. Each student received a small box in which to collect donations.

Mary Montague, fifth-grade teacher and service learning advocate, said students donated their own money and collected donations from community members. The program was designed as not only a fundraiser, but as a service learning project.

"We related it to the science program, to learn about the body and blood systems and cancer and just about being healthy," Montague said. "Then we related it to the math curriculum. This was a huge thing that all of the classes put all of their money together and counted all of their money. The younger grades did a lot of math lessons of separating pennies, dimes, nickels and quarters. We connected to language arts. We had an honored hero named Eva, a seven-year-old girl who was diagnosed with leukemia at age four. The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society gave us a picture of her and a little bit of information and we wrote her cards and letters."

On July 1, 2009, the City of Beverly Hills implemented its Emergency Water Conservation Stage B, which imposed irrigation restrictions and required a 10 percent reduction in water use per customer.

"We are very proud of the residents of Beverly Hills because when we established our Stage B restrictions, we were hoping for at least 10 percent reduction in water consumption, and we actually obtained [12] percent and we feel that as a community, the lesson of conservation is being learned," Public Works Commission Chair Steven Weinglass said.

In other Public Works news, environmental utilities manager Shana Epstein has accepted a position as the water general manager for the City of Ventura after more than 10 years with the City of Beverly Hills.

"Shana Epstein has been an inspirational source of city management," Weinglass said. "We will miss her. She's one of those walking encyclopedias of Public Works for this community and she's invaluable."

Epstein's last day in Beverly Hills is May 3. "I've enjoyed my tenure here," Epstein said. "I've really learned and grown and I hope I've helped the city as well."

MONUMENTAL DESIGN

Mitchell Dawson discusses the progress of the Beverly Hills 9/11

Memorial Garden

By Melanie Anderson

On Sept. 11, 2010, the Beverly Hills 9/11 Memorial Garden had its groundbreaking ceremony in front of the Beverly Hills Fire Department, on the northwest corner of Rexford Drive and Little Santa Monica Boulevard. This Sept. 11, the monument will be dedicated on the 10th anniversary of the terrorist attacks. The Weekly, which first covered the memorial in Issue #573, checked in with committee co-chair Mitchell Dawson about the progress of the memorial.

What's the status of the Beverly Hills 9/11 Memorial Garden?

We actually broke ground for construction [on Monday]. We had all the rebar delivered. We have a tremendous committee, an ad hoc committee and residents committee, that includes a landscape architect, who's a former police officer [that] just retired, and people involved in the community. We're moving ahead, and we're on schedule for our September 11 unveiling.

Where did the idea for the memorial originate?

The idea came from the Port Authority of New York. Beverly Hills was one of the few cities—I think it's because of the acclaim of the Beverly Hills Fire Department—one of the few cities in the country to be honored and asked if they would like some of the scrap metal from the Twin Towers, which were melted in effect from the heat of the crashes, to be used for memorials within their cities. Fire Chief Tim Scranton approached me—I was then president of the Beverly Hills Rotary Club. I had said to him at the beginning of my year, 'If you need help in any area, let me know. I'll get the money from the club.' They needed money to transport the scrap metal, which weighed tons, and they did not want to use any city funds whatsoever, which remains the case. So the Rotary Club pledged $3,000 for the transport, and it was so transported. This was a year ago. Then a committee was formed to make it happen, a 9/11 memorial to those individuals and firefighters and police and people in airplanes that perished in this horrific event.

How was the committee formed?

Chief Scranton was in charge of the committee and there is an ad hoc committee that was put together which includes Fire Chief Scranton, Police Chief Dave Snowden, BHFD Captain Joe Matsch, Michael Liangson, Jennifer Castellanos, Reggie Sully, who does construction, Gidas Peteris, who's our architect volunteer, and Jim Ply, who is a recently retired Beverly Hills police officer. He's a magnificent landscape architect. Those were the technical people. [They all] gave a lot of time. All of this is gratis work.

Now as to the laypersons committee, it's [committee co-chair] Jeanne Reynolds, [former mayor] Linda Briskman, Judie Fenton, Lillian Raffel, and Brian Rosenstein. We formed [last fall] about working on how to raise money and how [the memorial] would look, which led to the ultimate design of the inverted melted [piece of scrap metal].

What will the memorial look like?

It's a big giant piece of steel. It actually melted from the heat in a V-shape. It's going to be inverted, upside down, basically bent in half [and placed] with two mock Twin Towers—on a lesser scale of the towers—and it's going to be totally landscaped as a memorial to those who have perished. There's going to be a donor wall, which will include one major donor—a Beverly Hills family; many, many Rotarian members who have donated—most all of the club; as well as the general public. We sent out requests, letters of what we're doing, and it's on the website [beverlyhills-911memorial.com].

Now that we're a little more than halfway between groundbreaking and dedication, can you report on the progress of the memorial?

Last Sept. 11, Beverly Hills City Councilmembers spoke, our city manager spoke, and Assemblymember Mike Feuer spoke. That was the initial groundbreaking so to speak, a pronouncement of what we're doing. Just yesterday [Monday], they got some landscaping in. We stood there with shovels and took some pictures. Things are in place. Permits have been approved and pulled from the city. We went through the appropriate process through the Department of Building and Safety. That's who issued the permit. Most importantly, [the groundbreaking took place] to recognize obtaining of the building permits and the beginning of work, beginning of construction. We have an absolute deadline, obviously, and it's going to come up quickly.

Architect's rendering of the Beverly Hills 9/11 Memorial Garden.

What still needs to be done?

Most all of the construction concepts have been agreed upon by the committee and approved by the Department of Building and Safety. We are now finishing the concept of the donor wall and the story of 9/11 that will be told at the site. It will be a permanent engraved feature on a monument wall, within the confines of the gardens. The monuments built will tell the story of the 9/11 tragedy.

At this point, are you where you expected to be with fundraising?

No, we're not. We're more than we expected. We're very pleased with people being very gracious in donating.

How have members of the community contributed aside from monetary donations?

There have been a good handful of people who have donated in kind, such as the Courier and the Weekly that gave full-page color ads, very appreciated. We have a company that has donated the rebar, which is very expensive.

What does the community involvement say about Beverly Hills?

It says everything that Beverly Hills is about, people using their best efforts, donating their time and expertise, money, and resources to do something important that honors our American heroes.

Who else has gotten involved?

Brad Burlingame, president and CEO of West Hollywood Marketing and Visitors Bureau, found out about our project. He contacted Chief Scranton. [Burlingame's] brother, Charles, was the pilot of American Airlines Flight 77, which was hijacked and flown into the Pentagon. It's one thing to read about this story or see it on the news, but when you're shaking hands with the man who lost his brother flying that plane, it takes on a whole different perspective, as would be the case meeting anyone who lost a family member [on 9/11]. It was chilling. He's just a wonderful guy. [Burlingame] contacted Chief Scranton and then came to the meetings, gave his input. And he thanked us, the Beverly Hills Fire Department, for what we are doing. He's currently involved on an ad hoc basis. He was helpful in making sure we honored all those who perished, which goes far beyond just those people [who were] in the Twin Towers. He attended the 9/11 unveiling of the BHFD memorial on Sept. 11, 2010.

What do you think this memorial's significance is for Beverly Hills?

It is an opportunity for our fine city to acknowledge and honor the suffering caused by the attack and the loss so many people felt, including [those in] Beverly Hills and the United States of America. It's an opportunity to honor our heroes.

How can community members still become involved?

We will be accepting donations of any and all amounts, through June 15.

Is there a way community members can be involved other than making donations?

They should contact our committee through the Beverly Hills Fire Department. There are always opportunities for people to help with good things.

After dedication, how do you envision the memorial being used?

Like most, if not all memorials that are done well, it's an important opportunity to make sure that the 9/11 attack and response of our country will never be forgotten. I think it will be a place that will draw people to see it, an important monument for the city, and [a place] for those that do want to reflect and be reminded of what we went through, and how we grew from it as a country.
