“Election Editorial” [Issue #628]

[In reference to Election Editorial]: “... despite the obvious academic deficiencies in the City-run preschool program, where the curriculum is not aligned to our Kindergartens...”

As Kindergarten teachers in Beverly Hills, we were appalled to read this misinformed and derogatory comment about our City Pre-schools. Had we been consulted, the Weekly’s readership would have learned that the children we see from the City Pre-schools are far and away among our best prepared students, socially and academically. They meet our expectations for Kindergarten Readiness. We are proud of our collaborative partnership with the City’s Pre-school teachers. It is another benefit of being a child in Beverly Hills.

PUBLISHER’S NOTE: The academic deficiencies in the City’s pre-school program have been well documented by the Weekly in Issues #380 and #486. The City’s “recreational based” pre-school program is not academic-based and the director of the program does not hold an administrative credential. The program does not use a recognized curriculum such as Houghton-Mifflin—or any other (see Issue #486). This is where the impetus has come from for a BHUSD-run pre-school, which has gotten its start via the transitional Kindergarten program. None of the five incoming Board of Education members sent their own children to the City’s pre-school program.

Block responds to the Courier

This letter is written in response to the Courier’s un-bylined Nov. 4 first-page article captioned “Roxbury Park Puts City into Banquet Business.” The facts regarding the proposed Roxbury Community Center are as follows:

The proposed multi-purpose room is not intended, designed, or equipped to serve as a banquet and catering facility. One only has to look at the size of the proposed kitchen of 625 square feet and its limited equipment to confirm the same. In comparison, Greystone, which is intended as a banquet and catering facility, has a fully equipped catering kitchen containing 1,315 square feet, or more than twice the size of that proposed for the Community Center kitchen. The proposed Community Center kitchen has been designed to satisfy the standards of the County of Los Angeles for the Senior Nutrition Program. Although the proposed multipurpose room will on occasion be used to serve seniors meals, the existing Roxbury Community Center has done so for years. The fact is a 300-seat banquet facility was specifically deleted from an earlier concept of the Community Center by the City Council in May 2008. To state that the now proposed community Center is intended or will be able to compete with hotels, restaurants, and temples in our community as a venue for weddings and other events is absurd. If approved by the City Council the Community Center will be built with all of the amenities of a gymnasium, and will be large enough for one single full-size basketball court, not two.

The proposed Community Center will provide an additional 67 parking spaces over and above the parking presently available and is in compliance with an independent parking analysis commissioned by the City Council in 2008 which concluded that a total 254 parking spaces would be necessary at Roxbury Park to accommodate the parking needs for the proposed Center and the park. Interestingly, the City Council at the urging of area residents and local homeowners associations deleted

Goldberg, Margo and Hall elected to school board

Brian Goldberg, Noah Margo and Lewis Hall have been elected to the Beverly Hills Board of Education. The semi-final official results became available on Monday, nearly one week after the Nov. 8 election, due to the delayed process in counting write-in votes for Margo.

Margo became the first successful write-in candidate in Beverly Hills since Mayor Barry Brucker was first elected to the school board in 1997.

As of Wednesday afternoon, Goldberg received 2,217 votes, Margo received 1,204 votes and Hall received 978 votes. Frances Bilak came in fourth with 917 votes and Andy Licht, who dropped out of the race, received 760 votes. The official canvass ends Nov. 21, when the results are tentatively scheduled to be certified.

Election Department Executive Liaison Efrain Escobedo at the Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk's office Escobedo told the Weekly last week that approximately 1,200 Vote By Mail ballots and 551 ballots at the polls were set aside in the Beverly Hills election because they were identified as containing write-in votes. On Tuesday, Escobedo confirmed those numbers and said this included ballots that still had the stub attached. He said the County is still in the process of tabulating the number of write-in votes that were de-processed, which could occur for reasons including if a voter wrote in a non-qualified write-in candidate or if a voter voted for more than three candidates on the ballot.

Margo was not the only individual to receive write-in votes in Beverly Hills. Other voters wrote in Barack Obama, Mickey Mouse and at least three voters wrote in Judie Fenton for school board.

Margo said the most challenging part of his campaign was educating voters on how to properly cast a write-in vote.

"This accomplishment which is due largely to a handful of friends and family, including my wife Laura, is only the first step in my dedication to our schools," Margo said. "I look forward to serving this community with the same zeal that I ran with these past few weeks."

Margo and Hall both said their favorite part of the campaign was meeting voters.

"Some of the people I met were amazing in terms of their compassion, intelligence, and insight, and that was the best part of the campaign," Hall said. "Essentially I didn't know that many people when I started, so I think that was [also] the largest challenge I had for the election."

The three board members will be installed at the Board of Education reorganization meeting on Dec. 6.

"I'm very excited about my own re-election and I'm very much looking forward to developing a good working relationship with both Noah Margo and Lewis Hall as we continue to work to move our district forward," Goldberg said.

John Millan testifies for defense in Christiansen case

John Millan

Former Board of Education member (2003-2007) John Millan testified Tuesday in former BHUSD Facilities Director Karen Christiansen's trial at the Clara ShortridgeFoltz

Criminal Justice Center in Los Angeles. Christiansen faces four felony conflict of interest counts related to her work in Beverly Hills.

When asked in a phone interview if Millan testified in support of Christiansen, Millan said, "I was subpoenaed by the defense. I don't know if that means I was in support of her."

In response to a follow-up question asking if Millan indeed supports Christiansen, Millan replied, "Nothing that I want to express. I'm in the middle of testimony. I don't know if that is proper for me to [discuss]."

Millan was scheduled to continue testifying on Wednesday morning.

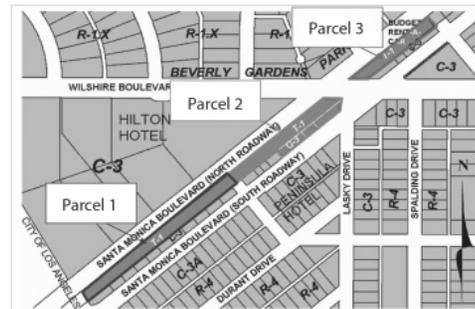

Christiansen's attorney Philip Kaufler presented his opening statement Tuesday, following three days of testimony from witnesses that included Board of Education member Myra Lurie and former BHUSD Superintendent Kari McVeigh, who were called by the prosecutor, Deputy District Attorney Max Huntsman.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: November 22, 2011
TIME: 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard
LOCATION: Council Chambers
 Beverly Hills City Hall
 455 North Rexford Drive
 Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its special meeting on Tuesday, November 22, 2011, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, to consider the project described below. The public is invited to attend the public hearing to comment on the project.

Project Description

The project includes the proposed rezoning of three parcels of former railroad right-of-way property from Transportation (T-1) to Commercial (C-3); General Plan land use amendment from Railroad to Low Density General Commercial is also proposed. In addition to the proposed rezones and General Plan amendment for all three parcels, development of a three-story, 42-foot high, approximately 90,000 square foot commercial/office building with a three-level subterranean garage accommodating 274 parking spaces is proposed for the Wilco property, at 9844 Wilshire Boulevard.

The Planning Commission will also consider a revised project that contains a new four-story, 66.5-foot in height office/retail building containing approximately 96,000 square foot floor area and a three-level subterranean garage accommodating 307 parking spaces at 9844 Wilshire Boulevard.

A Final Environmental Impact Report including the Draft Environmental Impact Report and Comments and Responses has been prepared for the project. Updated technical studies may be required to document the changes in impacts associated with the revised project proposed for the 9848 Wilshire Boulevard property. The Planning Commission may provide direction and comments on the project and/or make a recommendation to the City Council.

Project Location

The project site is located on three properties including:

- 9900 Santa Monica Boulevard (Applicant: Roxbury Management Co.),
- 9844 Wilshire Boulevard (Applicant: Wilco LLC) and
- 9817 Wilshire Boulevard (Applicant: Mr. Jeffrey Mirkin), in the City of Beverly Hills.

The properties, which together total approximately 3.3 acres in size, are located along Santa Monica Boulevard, between the north roadway of Santa Monica Boulevard and the parcels fronting onto the south roadway of Santa Monica Boulevard, on either side of the intersection of Santa Monica and Wilshire Boulevards.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City, and an Environmental Impact Report has been prepared.

Copies of all relevant material, including the project specifications, the environmental initial study and all documents referenced in the EIR are available for review in the offices of the Community Development Department of the City of Beverly Hills.

If you challenge the Commission's final action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Rita Naziri, Senior Planner in the Community Development Department, Planning Division at 310.285.1136 or by email at rnaziri@beverlyhills.org. Copies of the applications, plans, and all environmental documents are on file in the Planning Department, and can be reviewed by any interested person at 455 N. Rexford Drive, Suite 100, Beverly Hills, CA. 90210.

City views future Horace Mann parking structure as public parking opportunity

A proposal by representatives of the City of Beverly Hills to include public parking—at the City's expense—in the proposed parking structure at Horace Mann may face resistance from the PTA. City Councilmember John Mirisch and Deputy City Manager David Lightner made the suggestion at the Nov. 9 Board of Education study session, during which the Board refined its construction plans for Horace Mann, which were previously discussed on Oct. 25.

The Board reaffirmed its decision to construct a 62,000 square-foot, two-story building on the corner of Robertson and Charleville boulevards that will house the middle school, library and a new multi-purpose room among other things. The Board also decided to double the amount of proposed subterranean parking spaces for the school's own use for a total of 100 spaces, which will be located under the proposed building and the turf playing field, along Robertson Boulevard.

"That part of town needs parking," Mirisch said in a phone interview. "We're interested to see when building underground parking if maybe they can build some additional underground parking to revitalize the neighborhood."

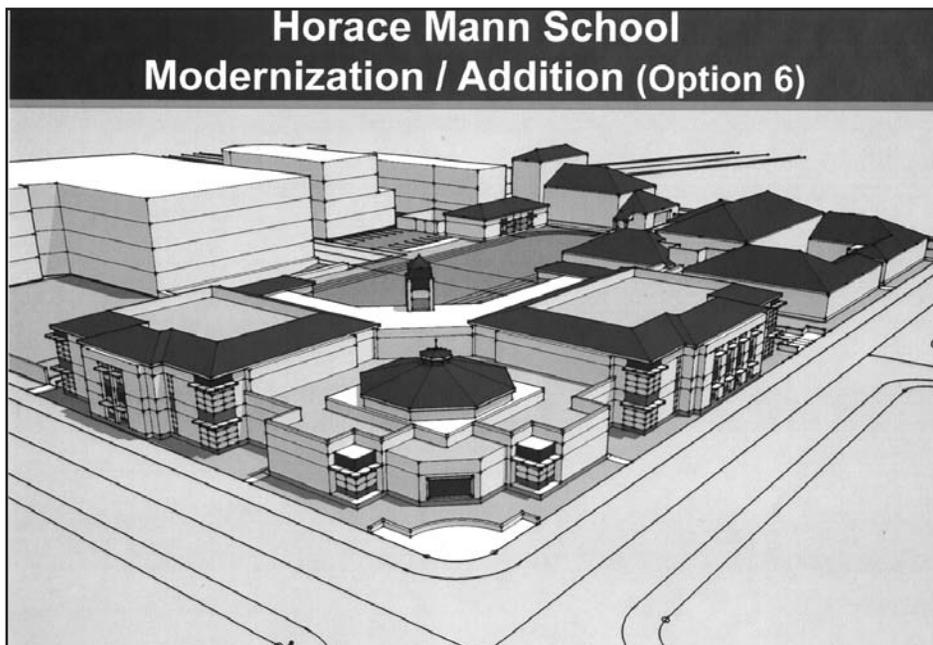

Mirisch acknowledged it would be important to address security issues and make sure unauthorized individuals would not have access to the school grounds as a result of the parking situation.

"Obviously school needs are first and primary, but working [public parking] into what they're doing would be a good example of what kind of cooperation we have come to expect between our schools and the City," Mirisch said.

Horace Mann PTA President Howard Goldstein, who also serves on the City's Southeast Development Task Force chaired by Mirisch, said the idea has already generated concern from parents.

"There are dozens of parents that I have heard from that seem to take issue with the fact that there may be a commercial venture underneath Horace Mann and they have proposed a resolution with regard to that issue," Goldstein said.

That resolution, Goldstein said, would outline the concerns of the Horace Mann community. To take effect, Goldstein said the resolution would need to be approved by the Horace Mann PTA executive board and the PTA general membership. The next general membership meeting is on Dec. 1 at 8:30 a.m.

Plans for a new Horace Mann building on the corner of Robertson and Charleville boulevards were presented on Oct. 25

Board member Jake Manaster expressed concern about the proposal with regard to security. He also said it presented practical challenges, because constructing additional parking would require the City to take on significant expense. The Board's decision to add 50 parking spots increased the total cost of the modernization project by approximately $5 million to a total of $62 million.

"We're open to a discussion but it would require the City to do a lot of different things," Manaster said. "I can't see how that would be economically feasible for them."

Among the practical challenges is the limited amount of access available to the proposed garage due to the building's footprint.

"Right now it's really a space issue," Superintendent Gary Woods said. "If you see how the footprint is laid out, right now Arnaz [Drive] is the only entrance point we can build into the parking garage as it is currently configured. The ramp has to be a certain length."

If the City wants to use the garage for commercial use, another access point would be needed, Woods said. Woods said a meeting was scheduled for this past Wednesday for City and school district staff to discuss possible options.

Another issue the school district must deal with, Woods said, is mitigating soil contamination that has been identified in the area in which the new building and underground parking is proposed. Woods said the source of the contaminant and how deep the district will need to dig to mitigate the site is under review.

Fine Art Commission considers new purchase

The Fine Art Commission is continuing to look into bringing a new piece of art to Beverly Hills, to potentially display in Beverly Gardens Park on Santa Monica Boulevard. The Commission's recent decision not to commission a glass piece by Dan Graham has allowed the City to pursue art by Spanish artist Jaume Plensa.

After considering two of Plensa's pieces at its Oct. 20 meeting, the Commission unanimously decided to pursue Endless III, a human figure made up of stainless steel letters of the alphabet fused together. Commission Chair Judi Friedman said several languages are represented on the piece.

"It's a magnificent piece and [promotes] the idea of crossing over using the English language, the Hebrew language, the Cyrillic language. I hope everybody loves it," Friedman said.

Next, the Fine Art Commission plans to evaluate costs associated with the piece, including shipping costs, since Endless III is currently on display in a New York City gallery. Friedman said the Commission will review the information with City Council liaisons John Mirisch and Lili Bosse. Ultimately, the purchase requires approval from the City Council.

The Commission also discussed the possibility of mounting a 15'-by-32' mural by the late Southern Californian artist Millard Sheets over the entrance to the garage adjacent to the Beverly Hills Public Library.

The City is currently evaluating whether or not the garage entrance will be able to support the ceramic mural, which weighs approximately 10,000 pounds, Friedman said.

"[The murals are] just beautiful," Friedman said. "To have them back in the City would be wonderful."

Friedman said the mural, which is currently in storage, was previously displayed in the court of a Beverly Hills hotel, and that the hotel donated the mural to the City when it was remodeled. She was not sure why the mural was in storage, but she said Carnevale Lohr, Inc. has provided free storage to the City for the past 17 years.

BHPD seeks $82,000 reimbursement for two Obama fundraising visits

The protection and security services provided by the Beverly Hills Police, Fire and Public Works departments during President Barack Obama's three visits to Beverly Hills in April, September and October cost the City of Beverly Hills approximately $115,000, according to BHPD Lt. Mark Rosen.

Citing the belief that the Democratic National Committee is responsible for reimbursing the City for costs related to presidential visits when the purpose is entirely or primarily for fundraising, Rosen sent a letter to the DNC on Oct. 12 seeking reimbursement of $82,044.53 for the April 21-22 and Sept. 26-27 visits. As of press time, BHPD had not received a response from the DNC. Rosen said BHPD is in the process of requesting reimbursement for the October visit, which cost the City approximately $33,000, and inquiring about the request Rosen sent to the DNC last month.

Costs associated with presidential visits in 2011

	April 21-22	Sept. 26-27	Oct. 24-25
BHFD	$3,581.08	$3,943.16	$3,211.91
Public Works	$0	$3,879.99	$1,912.87
BHPD	$35,097.29	$35,543	$27,744
Total	$38,678.37	$43,366.15	$32,868.78

Source: BHPD

"We are obviously interested in providing protection for the president of the United States but our understanding is when the presidential visits are strictly or primarily for political fundraising purposes as opposed to duties of the presidency, then there should be some reimbursement from the political campaign that is benefiting from the fundraising. In this case that would be the Democratic National Committee," Rosen said.

In a September 2009 letter responding to the City's request for reimbursement for Obama's May 2009 visit, the DNC's general counsel Robert Bauer claimed as a private organization, the DNC did not participate in security or traffic control planning. He recommended BHPD contact the Secret Service.

According to Ed Donovan of Secret Service Public Affairs, the Secret Service does not have a funding mechanism in its budget to provide reimbursements.

DNC spokesperson Michael Czin issued a vague statement in response to the Weekly's request for information about reimbursement for presidential visits: "The Obama Victory Fund [the joint fundraising committee of the DNC and the Obama campaign] reimburses for travel expenses consistent with federal regulations."

Czin did not respond to a follow-up phone call or e-mail from the Weekly.

Following Obama's recent visits to Beverly Hills, Councilmember Julian Gold requested a discussion at the Nov. 3 city council study session about City costs associated with VIP details.

"I think it's great they want to be here," Gold said. "This is not a political comment in any way; this is just about cost to the citizens of Beverly Hills."

According to BHPD Capt. Mitch McCann, there have been over 30 dignitary visits to Beverly Hills so far this year, requiring varying levels of protection. McCann said First Lady Michelle Obama's visit in June cost the City approximately $3,800. Most visits require limited involvement by the City and cost the City nothing or very little, Rosen said.

The City Council directed City staff to follow up on receiving reimbursement for Obama's two recent visits.

"I'm not saying we should give up our relationship with the Secret Service, but if the rules allow us to be repaid, I think we should explore what it would take to be repaid," Gold said.

The City could relieve itself of the financial burdens associated with presidential visits by ceding responsibility to the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, but the City Council agreed it is beneficial to the City to provide protection services in order to maintain control of the protection detail and any related law enforcement/traffic functions.

"If we say we're not going to provide that protection, they bring in CHP [or] the Los Angeles County Sheriff," McCann said. "We lose control over the protection of our city, the ability to negotiate the travel and the amount of time something's going to be locked down. We want to keep the responsibility of protection so we can have some input."

Concert for the community at the K.L. Peters Auditorium at Beverly High on Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. Conductor Gary S. Greene will take the audience on a musical journey from Carnival of the Animals with actress June Lockhart narrating to Sleigh Ride. The repertoire also includes the melodious finale of Dvortak's Symphony No. 8, Rimsky-Korsakov's exciting Capriccio Espagnole, selections from the musical Grease and more.

BHHS Football Team Routed By Culver City in Season Finale

The Beverly High football team's worst season since 1993 ended with a 43-0 loss to Culver City Thursday night in an Ocean League game at Nickoll Field.

The injured-depleted Normans (2-8, 1-4 in league play) trailed 21-0 at the end of the first quarter and 36-0 at halftime.

"We couldn't move the ball," said Brandon Adams, Beverly Hills' starting quarterback for most of the season but who played outside linebacker against the Centaurs (7-3, 3-2) because coach Donald Paysinger wanted him to be more rested to play on defense.

"We couldn't establish our run, then we couldn't throw."

The Normans were shut out for the second time in three games. Beverly Hills went 169 games between shutouts from 1991 to 2006, then suffered its next shutout on Oct. 8, 2010 in a 53-0 loss to Alemany.

The Normans are 0-7-2 against Culver City since 2002.

Beverly Hills' record was its worst since 1993, when it was also 2-8. The Normans finished in a three-way tie with Hawthorne and Morningside for fourth place in the six-team Ocean League.

BHHS Boys' Cross Country Team Advances to Southern Section Finals

Beverly High finished fourth in its 15-team heat in Saturday's Southern Section Division 3 boys' cross country prelims to qualify for the Southern Section Finals.

The Normans finished with 113 points, one fewer than fifth-place Apple Valley Granite Hills. South Pasadena was third with 104, while West Torrance won with 66, eight fewer than runner-up Los Angeles

Will it mean change?

City notes and dining thoughts

By Rudy Cole

Now that the election from hell is over, what can we expect from the school board, with two new members?

Next month, when Noah Margo and Lewis Hall join returning members Dr. Brian Goldberg, Lisa Korbato and Jake Manaster, will there be major changes in policy, continuation of some obvious personality conflicts or a more collegial atmosphere?

First, the battles on the last board were not as contentious as they appeared. Actually, the five members were more in agreement than apart—this was obvious when they came together in giving strong support to their newly appointed superintendent, Dr. Gary Woods. The board, the major stakeholders—teacher's union, PTA and students—all want him to succeed, as does the whole community.

Major changes? Dr. Brian David Goldberg will be elected board president and take office in December succeeding

Lisa Korbato. Departing the board will be two-term member Myra Lurie and, after only one term, Steven Fenton. (Jake Manaster will be elected vice president, and he has been a modifying voice on the board.)

Lurie remained on the board through big political changes. Her first term and part of her second found her with strong allies in John Millan, Myra Demeter and Nooshin Meshkaty. That began to change when Goldberg and Fenton won four years ago, and later when Korbato was elected.

Although the two new members had very different lists of supporters, there will probably not be too many personality conflicts, at least at first. Margo, a very balanced and rational education leader, who did his grunt work at the school level, did have election and before ties to Fenton. Hall was encouraged to become a candidate by Lurie.

But there was no hostility between Hall and Margo in the campaign and they seemed to have few differences on education policies. The Hall win was not as close as expected. He actually had a wider margin than Goldberg had four years ago.

Goldberg's win, and his campaign, was impressive. He had the endorsement of both newspapers and this columnist even though we too have differences on school policies. (This column supported Hall and Margo, as well as Goldberg.) Of course, the only strong contender was a write-in (Margo) and the others were almost totally unknown.

Goldberg could, by example, lead the board to finding areas of agreement and not the distracting spats of the past. Very often, presiding officers actually become the real moderates. Manaster will also be a helpful voice for consensus building.

You could earn a doctoral degree analysis of this election, assuming anyone would believe your report. Last-minute drop-outs, and one too late to have his name removed from the ballot; a nasty little episode involving a very public dispute with a student, all made more news than real education challenges such as school funding, plans for future construction and repairs and loss of programs, including adult education. Even the contentious student permit issue vanished.

We can also hope, for the sake of providing a more united front on the subway alignment issue, that his board will find the means of working more closely with the city council. Clearly, that's what the community expects.

Final thoughts on numbers. Again, many of the people with the most at stake in this election, the parents, did not vote. When the final numbers are released, the total will be well under 20 percent turnout.

Three of the candidates ran very visible media and personal contact campaigns; Frances Bilak, Noah Margo and Dr. Goldberg, and Hall confined his efforts to walking and emails. His campaign gained immediate credibility when he managed to have his kickoff at the Salter's home. He did have excellent education credentials, the support of Lurie and many of her former board allies and Mayor Barry Brucker. He is very likable, not easily panicked, with strong educational experience, just not well-known in the community.

Numbers? In a campaign with no strong challengers and few real issues, Goldberg totaled 2,170, a few more yet to be counted. However, in a very strong field with countless divisive issues, four years ago Barry Brucker won with 2,983 votes for council. Widest margin in any recent council election? Lili Bosse who carried every city precinct in the last council campaign.

For different reasons, both Lurie and Fenton will be missed. They did share a major political asset: their families' community involvement. Fenton's family, especially his father Frank, who had years of government elected office service, and was highly respected, and Lurie's in-laws are the legendary Goldman's, Sooky and Sam helped both.

One side note on Hall's win. Although Andy Licht withdrew from the race, his name remained on the ballot and many school activists actually wanted him to win anyway. He could have opted to accept the election and serve, or, more likely have given the board the right to appoint a successor. Licht would have been a good board member, but that strategy fell short, but only by about 200 votes.

And speaking of the board, former president AJ Willmer has released an amazing statement in support of actually tunneling under the high school as the preferred subway route.

He said we could not disregard the highly competent scientists who studied the safety, seismic factors, and recommended the Constellation, and not the Santa Monica Boulevard alignment.

Willmer is hardly some political extremist or rash opportunist looking for a quick moment of attention. He is very much a part of the establishment. After leaving the school board, Willmer has served on many key city and board commissions, including finance and technology. He is president elect of Beverly Hills Rotary and his wife, Debbie, is a leading city physician.

More on his exclusive statement next week and an update on the subway alignment decision process. Although I respect Willmer's integrity and expertise, I continue to hope there is a viable alternative for the subway route. What is very unhelpful are thoughtless attacks on those with whom we disagree. This is an open and fair process, and we should respect all those involved.

Speaking of keeping things in balance, there has been more opposition hype on plans for improvements at Roxbury Park than positive explanations of what to expect.

Understandably, park neighbors are concerned about enlargements of facilities and activities that could impact their neighborhood. Those fears have not been allayed despite mammoth changes in the project, mostly responding to resident interests.

We need to keep this in balance, and the city needs to be more out front on what will actually survive the planning process, and we need that now, before too many hard lines are drawn.

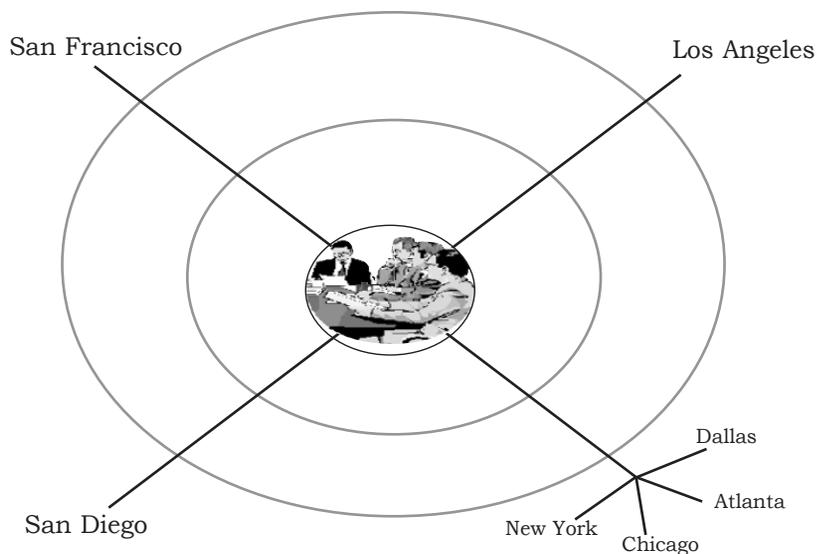

The conditions in the park hardly match our visions of first-rate city services. Impacted are park users, and especially our seniors. What is superfluous are statistics on how many residents, as opposed to visitors, actually visit or use the park. We don't have to show our identification when we enjoy Los Angeles city facilities, including the Greek, Griffith Park and the Zoo, and isn't part of our outreach efforts a hope that more people will come to our city to shop, dine and stay at our hotels?

I fully understand the neighbors' fears, continuing despite the reductions. But it is somewhat akin to a homeowner buying a property across from say, Hawthorne School, only to discover that students actually arrive every morning. Past city leaders made sure we had schools, and they too about residential, and parks—just not enough to meet any rational standards of demand.

At the same time, more outreach, not only for Roxbury, but all our parks is needed. Yes, youth sports, seniors, tennis players and others love and use our parks, but bringing more residents into programs, activities or simply quiet use, needs to be promoted.

OTHER NOTES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST:

Tired of cooking for Thanksgiving, Ben Franklin's favorite holiday and the one that is truly ecumenical? Most of our hotels will have special menus although our most famous eatery, Spago, will be closed.

Since we favor buffets, and no I will never again subject Josette to Hometown (not my hometown) I can safely, and with family unity, recommend one of the best in all of Southern California: The Beverly Hilton. Circa 55 is a venue that merits raves.

The many tables will include all kinds of salads, veggies and main dishes, not just turkey. For the meat eaters, incredible desserts and even a crepe station. It is popular, so make reservations soon: (310.274.7777)

Where does the establishment dine? Aside from the Hilton, most of our opinion molders do favor hotels, Spago and the Drago eateries. The Montage tea room is very popular as is Caffe Roma.

Il Fornaio also has a Thanksgiving promotion this year. (310.550.8330)

plans for an additional two-level parking structure under the existing tennis courts.

The plan for the Community Center as proposed today is in substantial compliance with the plan approved by the City Council in May 2008. That plan was only approved after more than 12 meetings with Roxbury Park shareholders and 11 earlier conceptual designs. The proposed Community Center will sit on a footprint substantially identical to the size of the existing footprint, and will be comparable in size to the existing Community Center with the interior senior courtyard enclosed. The estimated cost of the proposed Community Center has already been included in this year's City budget, and approximately 50 percent of the estimated construction costs will come directly from Recreation and Park funds which cannot be used for any other purpose other than recreation and park use.

The building plans to construct the proposed Community Center are presently out to bid. Hopefully the bids will come in as previously estimated. If not, the plans for the Community Center will have to be revised. In either event, no final action will be taken with regard to the proposed Community Center without future public hearings.

Recently spotted the Konheims (almost spoiled his dinner when I asked if he would consider running for city council—but wouldn't he be an excellent city official) the Goldsmiths, the Haymans, Sooky and Sam Goldman, Susan Strauss, Richard Stone, Lya Cordova Latta and Sandy Stein are just some of the regulars.

Great servers, and quiet, adult environment.

Speaking of politics, a real play for power will probably take place next year, unless the courts throw out the citizen redistricting plan, when two popular and successful incumbents will have to face each other in a Democratic congressional primary.

Now in the same district, Congressmen Howard Berman and Brad Sherman will run in a largely valley area.

What is very surprising in the family battle—both are liberal Democrats, are the impressive endorsements Berman is receiving from leading Democrats. Most often, when there is a strong primary, elected officials avoid making endorsements. Not this time.

From Governor Jerry Brown to our Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky, Berman has the top party leaders in his corner. His list also includes Sen. Dianne Feinstein, Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and, of course, his long time ally, Cong. Henry Waxman.

Although both are very able, Berman has by far the best resume and is more popular in the Congress. He also represented our community in the legislature, where he was a major player, before moving to his valley district.

POLICE EVENTS: Two good dinners, both worth supporting—the annual Beverly Hills Police Officers Association Black and White Ball and the more recent Jack Webb dinner, funding for a Los Angeles support group.

Attend both, but the Beverly Hills event is strictly for our own cops while the Los Angeles soiree is broader and not to be confused by similar appeals.

JACK'S BACK

Former lobbyist Jack Abramoff speaks to the Weekly in a Beverly Hills exclusive By Melanie Anderson

1977 Beverly High graduate Jack Abramoff's new book, Capitol Punishment The Hard Truth About Washington Corruption From America's Most Notorious Lobbyist, came out earlier this month. Abramoff was released from federal prison in June 2010 after serving three and a half years for crimes related to his work as a lobbyist in Washington, D.C.

So, how does a guy from Beverly Hills end up at the center of a national lobbying scandal?

That's an interesting question. I never really thought of it like that. I don't know that I wanted to end up at the center of a national lobbying scandal no matter where I was from. I'm not certain I have a how-to, an idiot's guide to winding up at the center of a national lobbying scandal but it just sort of happened, unfortunately for me.

We moved to Beverly Hills when I was 10 years old. We actually moved to the Beverly Hills post office [area]. I went to a school outside of Beverly Hills [Warner Avenue Elementary School] for a couple of years. Then we moved to the flats and I went to Hawthorne. I graduated from there in 1973 and then I went to Beverly [High], and had a great experience at Beverly as virtually everyone does. Then I went to Brandeis and there I got involved politically. I was involved a little bit politically both at Hawthorne and at Beverly High but much more intensely at Brandeis and I got involved in the College Republicans and eventually became national head of the group, which is what got me into the national political scene.

In your book, you mention a Los Angeles Times piece that suggested your campaign for student body president at Hawthorne signaled your loss of innocence. What's your response?

That was a very disappointing episode in terms of the way the media portrayed it. At that point, the media was trying to do everything they could to make me out to be a villain, so they re-characterized everything in my life, even my charitable giving, as somehow a nefarious deed. They re-characterized what frankly for me was an episode of which I was very proud. The truth is what happened there is very innocent. My reaction and response to it I thought was very meritorious as did the administrators and the folks who were involved in it, but at that period of my life when everything I did was being portrayed as evil and bad, I guess it was only natural they wrote it up the way they did. They even wrote that I flattened some line-backer from Inglewood High School in a way that damaged him, as if that's not what you're supposed to do when you're playing football. There was no limit to what people were saying about me. The Louisiana papers actually went as far as to blame me for the state of the levees during Katrina. I guess I shouldn't have been at all surprised that they took an innocent and meritorious episode from my childhood and made it look like I was some sort of boss tweed at that tender age.

What happened in that Hawthorne election?

I ran for student body president in the eighth grade at Hawthorne against David Factor, a very fine fellow. The day before the election I was in a flag football game and I got a severe concussion and wound up going to the UCLA emergency center and was put home in bed. I couldn't go to school that Friday. Friday was the vote and the vote was exactly tied. So if I had been there I would have won. Over the weekend on a Sunday, my parents thought one way to cheer me up would be to have a little gathering of my friends, a barbecue, so they went out and bought hot dogs.

I sort of stumbled my way into school the next day for the [run-off] election, hoping my vote would be the deciding vote. But before the election I was pulled into a room by Mr. [George] Fourgis with David. Mr. Fourgis said, 'Somebody told us you had a party over the weekend.' I told them, 'Yes we did; my parents put that on.' He said, 'Well, we have rules that you can't violate the campaign finance limit.' It was like [$15]. I said, 'Yeah, I know; I didn't even buy pens. I used pens we had around the house.' He said that the party and the hot dogs that were served probably violated [the campaign finance limit]. I realized at that point I'd done so. He said, 'I'm going to leave it up to David what to do,' but before David answered, I said, 'Look, I didn't mean to, but I violated the rules, so I've got to pull out of the race and I concede to David.' I was a little kid so I was a little teary. I wanted to win obviously. Mr. Fourgis gave me a big hug and said, 'Look, one day you'll be proud of the fact that you did this.' I was proud that day. I was proud every day until I read [that article] in the Los Angeles Times.

How did your College Republicans background lead to lobbying?

It actually led me out of politics eventually. I became head of President Reagan's grassroots lobby on Capitol Hill. After a fairly rough period during the second Reagan term [when] there was a lot of turmoil in the administration and that was pre Iran-Contra, I kind of took off. I had a bad experience with the chairman of the lobby. I kind of left politics and went and made action movies for about a decade. Ultimately what happened was the Republicans won Congress in 1994. They took over Congress and a lot of the lobbying shops didn't have Republicans who knew these guys, who knew [Newt] Gingrich, [Dick] Armey and [Tom] DeLay. I knew them and so actually at synagogue on the Saturday after the election, [Jonathan Blank], the managing partner of one of these big firms [and a] member of our synagogue, came up to me and he basically offered me a job to be a lobbyist. At first I thought, 'Oh God. I don't want to be a lobbyist.' He brought me in to [the firm Preston Gates Ellis and Rouvelas Meeds]. I met with him and saw what they did and it looked pretty good and I became a lobbyist, unfortunately.

In your book, you claim you did not intend to break the law and were not aware at the time that what you were doing was illegal. How did you perceive your actions?

You know I was so deeply meshed in my clients and their fights, the wars that went on, that I just slowly kept pushing the envelope. The analogy I would give is if you have a pot of boiling water and you take a frog and put it in the pot, it jumps right out because it realizes there's a problem. But if you have a pot of cold water and you have a frog in there and you start heating it up, ultimately you're going to cook the frog and the frog won't know it until it's too late. That was sort of what happened with me. I just kept going and going, anything to win. I lost sight of the lines in the sand and wound up breaking the law.

At what point did you realize you were in real trouble?

When my law firm fired me and they wouldn't stand by me. I realized at that point that this was serious in a way that it wouldn't be repaired. I thought throughout the whole beginnings of this that it would blow over like everything blows over in Washington. Once that happened, I started to for the first time think that this thing was not going to blow over.

Turns out you were right. What happened next?

I was right about that. It's sort of like you're falling into a hole and you're kind of waiting to either grab onto something and stop your fall or to hit the bottom. Neither of those happened; I just kept falling and falling really until I landed in federal prison. That was the real thud [when] finally I stopped falling. I could finally look up and think, 'At least I know where I'm at.' Until then it was one big terror, one thing after another. As I mentioned earlier, I was getting blamed for everything in society. People thought me the devil. People didn't know anything really about me and what I really did and didn't do. Everything that people said stuck. Everything they said got put into

Wikipedia, everything people made up got dealt with in whatever way. Ultimately I was made into a cartoon and I chose to not defend myself at the Senate hearing mainly because Senate hearings aren't designed to enable you to defend yourself. They're designed to get you. I was involved in enough of them before that to know that. Unfortunately I didn't really have a way to put a brake [on] this thing.

You spent 3 1/2 years at a federal prison in Maryland. What was that like?

It wasn't Beverly Hills; I can say that. It was about as bad as you can imagine. Prison is the worst. I wasn't in a violent prison; I'm sure those are even worse. Any prison is bad. Any time you lose your freedom, you lose the ability to have communication regularly with your family. People take so much for granted. I did. Little things in life, showering in a shower that hasn't been used by 40 other guys, sleeping in a bed that isn't a terribly thin mattress over very hard bars that dig into your back. Thing after thing about federal prison was horrible. Unfortunately, they give away a lot of time for people to go to federal prison and I got my share as well.

What role did your faith play while you were in prison?

Since I was a little boy, I've tried to be an observant Jew. I don't always meet up to the mark; many of the things that had to do with my scandal, I certainly didn't. I'm not a saint; I'm a sinner [but I] try not to be. I'm a human being. My faith is obviously very important [to me]. It sustained me and certainly gave me lessons for getting through the valley of death that I entered.

In the prison we had a small group of Jews. I gave classes to them. None of them were religious or necessarily had any deep knowledge or background, but I gave them remedial and introductory lessons about Judaism, teaching them about their faith. We had Sabbath dinners, we had all of the holidays we were able to celebrate. I taught classes about different bible books to them. I tried to make their time, and of course it made my time, easier.

In your book you discuss the illusion of reform in Congress to eliminate corruption related to special interests. What do you think needs to be done to actually reform the system?

As I go through in the book, the things that need to happen are pretty much all related to money and longevity and power of these congressmen. The overall problem is that the federal government is in too many areas of our [lives]. There are 20,000 lobbyists running around Washington because the government is involved in hundreds of thousands of things they were never intended to be involved in. Until and unless the government is pulled out of those things there will always be lobbyists and there will always be corruption. Any time you have power, any time you have the ability of people to control things, you're going to have corruption.

The goal has got to be to eliminate those areas where corruption is more likely to be found and try to tighten things up. What I do in the book is I delineate a number of areas where people can focus to get Washington clean. One of the most pernicious centers of corruption in Washington revolves around the hiring of former staff and congressmen by lobbying firms, the so-called revolving door. Now they have a waiting period where if you leave Congress, you can immediately be hired by a lobbying firm but you can't lobby your member or you can't lobby certain folks for a period of one or two years. I would make it so that if you were a congressman or if you were a staffer you could never become a lobbyist. You could never go from the smoke filled room into the room of the lobbyists. That's No. 1.

No. 2 I would bar completely any gratuity, any meal, any trip, anything from a lobbyist or somebody getting federal money, grants or contracts in any way to any congressman or any staffer. [That means] no gifts, nothing, not even a glass of water, nothing that could create indebtedness, nothing that could create gratitude. Those two feelings, which are normal and natural feelings on the part of people, they create the possibility and the likelihood of corruption. I would also bar that same group, lobbyists and people benefiting from the federal government, from giving any campaign contribution of any kind on a federal level. If you want to take the federal government's money, if you want to lobby them, make that choice, but you can't do both. You can't at that point give politically. That would do a lot I think to reduce the impact of the lobbyists' money in congressional races.

Among other things I write about, I would say the laws that Congress has [made] should be applied to them. For example, recently this notion of insider trading [that] goes on—I gave an interview last week to CNBC about it—it's horrific that these guys can use insider information, and actually it's worse than insider information, which is something that the company knows about. This is information the company doesn't even know about. That they can use this information for their own personal gain is an outrage. That needs to be ended.

Finally, the other thing I would support at this point in my life is term limits. Congressmen can be there for a certain period of time, senators as well, and then they've got to go, they've got to get out of town and not hang around as lobbyists, and not keep the system tied down by some future nonagenarian senator. That one is a particularly gruesome one for some of these folks. When my book came out there was a fairly vociferous, negative, hostile reaction to it. They actually reacted to it before it hit the shelves. These folks, as well as some of the senators who I named in the book, are upset that somebody's coming out and saying this stuff but it's tough. I don't owe anybody anything at this point in terms of that and I am speaking the truth.

You recently reconnected with some Beverly Hills friends. Tell us about that.

When I was in prison they had all these new things develop, Facebook, Skype, Twitter, all these things that weren't around when I went in. When I got out they were here and I have been able to effectively use them to basically put myself out there so if people want to reconnect with me they can. I've tried to go out of my way not to make somebody uncomfortable. If somebody wants to reach out to me, and wants to have a connection with me, I'm as excited as can be. But I don't want to make anybody uncomfortable; obviously I know what the story is. So I have to be very careful. [I've been in touch with friends] from Beverly [High], people I hadn't been in touch with for over 30 years.

How have they reacted?

Unbelievable support, love and friendship, and the best in the world. It really makes you appreciate your home.

Your father recently married Barbara Miller Fox, who is a well-known philanthropist in Beverly Hills. Tell us about that.

I'm thrilled about it. Barbara's amazing. I miss my mom every minute of every day and I love her, as I know my dad does, and my brother and sister. But Barbara is just an incredible woman and somebody we love deeply.

What's next for Jack Abramoff?

A couple of things. I'm doing the book, I'm going to be doing speaking tours and I'm working with a major company on a television program that I'm going to host and hopefully we'll have some news about that at some point soon. I'm looking at another book and hoping the future brings things that are a little more peaceful and better than the past.

BHHS Runners Finish Second, Third in Southern Section Prelims

A 2-3 finish by Brianna Simmons and Sydney Segal in Saturday's Southern Section Division 3 girls' cross country prelims helped Beverly High qualify for the Southern Section Finals.

The Normans finished fifth in their 14-team qualifying heat Saturday to receive the last automatic berth in the finals. The top five teams in each of the three heats qualified for the final, plus the sixth-place team with the fastest team time.

Beverly Hills finished with 127 points, three fewer than sixth-place West Torrance. The Normans' point total matched West Covina South Hills, but the Huskies finished fourth because their sixth-place runner finished ahead of Beverly Hills'.
