“School funding plan”

First things first – a huge thank you to the City Council and [Vice Mayor] John Mirisch in particular for their efforts on behalf of our school children. That said there are some very important details on the new arrangement that are at best foreboding for the following year – let’s investigate.

The way the City has provided money to our school district is telling in that it is all short term in nature e.g., the City has effectively fronted us the money from the 9900 Wilshire project years before the City will actually collect developer fees and it has opened up the escrow account for field maintenance. Both of those are fixed one time amounts and definitely not available again next year. This funding is the exact equivalent of rooting around in the sofa looking for lost coins to make the mortgage payment and then celebrating because you found just enough. It entirely misses the big picture – our school district as currently structured is financially unsustainable and although I wish it weren’t the case, no amount of fundraising is going to close a $4 million per year gap in the near term. The other consideration is that this is both an election year and surplus year for the City, which makes replicating the City’s generosity far from likely. And sorry, but to even be speaking of an endowment as a short term solution is silly – a 5% spend rate of $4 million per year requires an $80 million foundation. There are only two feasible solutions – an annual parcel tax or a complete rethink of how our schools are structured and operated. Unfortunately, the likelihood of a parcel tax being voted in is very low given the history of a lack of planning or management stability around the Measure E bond initiative. Then of course is the risk that even if the parcel tax were approved under Gov. Jerry Brown’s new school funding initiative there isn’t any guarantee the state wouldn’t just take the money away in ‘fair share’ redistribution anyway.

So, let’s stop with the pie in the sky and lay out a straightforward plan. Priority 1 has to be getting the general fund that actually runs the schools into a sustainable position and that means immediately moving to a Programmatic Budget where each and every program such as math, football, dance is priced out. Then we finally conduct a zero-based budget just as Brian Goldberg has recommended time and again. We do need help with this, both from a technical perspective and to remove as much emotion as possible. That means we hire the FCMAT team who would whip through this in no time, are extremely professional and would give the community confidence in the process. Priority 2 has to be about recapturing confidence in our academic proficiency. Just because school API scores are holding up or even slightly improving doesn’t mean there is a direct correlation with the school’s performance. Our district needs to conduct an open formal survey of every family attending school to find out how many tutors are actually being used to supplement our children’s education. My hypothesis is that a brigade of tutors is obscuring the weaknesses in our curriculum and teaching – and I would love to be proved wrong. The process would be to share the survey questions in advance and have public comment before actually publishing to ensure transparency and the most balanced approach. This survey information alone will provide great insight into where

City Council discusses $10.2 million surplus; agree on school funding proposal

The City Council gave staff direction on appropriating $10.2 million budget surplus at its study session on Jan. 24.

During the discussion, councilmembers reached a consensus on supporting the plan to help the school district fill its $3.5 million budget deficit.

The plan that came out of the city council/school board liaison committee meeting on Jan. 11 was approved by the Board of Education on Jan. 22 and provides a mechanism to provide $4.05 million to address the shortfall in BHUSD's general fund. The plan is comprised of three components: an advance by the City to the school district of $1 million owed to the schools when the 9900 Wilshire Boulevard project breaks ground, $1.25 million paid to the district by the City for access to additional space, such as extended library hours or access to Beverly High's northern field, and the release of $1.2 million from a turf fund currently in escrow.

The $1 million from the 9900 Wilshire Boulevard project would then go to the City when the project breaks ground. This money would come from the surplus. Mayor Willie Brien said at the session that if something with the project changed and the amount owed changed, the burden of repayment would not fall on the district and the risk would fall on the City. Brien said he did not expect anything related to the project to change.

The $1.25 million paid by the City for additional space would also come from the surplus.

The $1.2 million in escrow was negotiated as part of an earlier Joint Powers Agreement, which was earmarked for turf field improvement. Because Measure E funds are expected to address field improvements, the Board and the City can mutually agree to release those funds. The first $600,000 would be released immediately after the plan was approved and the other $600,000 would be released on a matching basis if and when the community can raise $600,000. This portion would allow for $1.8 million in funding to restore programs that were slated to be cut.

Brien said the liaison would move forward in drawing up documents regarding the school funding plan now that the city council had reached consensus.

Hawthorne parent Stella Sarraf, who spearheaded a change.org petition requesting that the City use the surplus to help fill the school's budget deficit, submitted the petition to council members at the study session. The petition has received 888 signatures to date.

"We need to embrace our younger demographic to safeguard Beverly Hills from becoming a retirement community," said Sarraf. "Therefore the state imposed financial problems of our schools are inherently the community's problem and thus the City and the City Council's problem. We need to work together to come up with long term solutions."

Sarraf said she was grateful for the proposal but thought that it was simply treating symptoms and not addressing the underlying problem facing the district.

Sarraf proposed the creation of a City commission to find longer-term solutions and possibly a working endowment for the schools.

In addition, staff had recommended appropriating the surplus to support police staffing and hiring incentives, fighting the Metro subway alignment, land acquisition, matching funds for Beverly Gardens fundraising, and budget stabilization.

According to the staff report, staff did not recommend that the City council delay the seven percent water rate increase for one year because it could mean a 10 percent increase for residents the following year.

The majority of the council supported finding a way to ease the cost of water rates to the residents and if possible, appropriating money from the amount recommended by staff for land acquisition or budget stabilization to ease those costs.

Vice Mayor John Mirisch questioned why the City would raise rates for residents by seven percent when the Metropolitan Water District only raised rates five percent.

Mirisch said the surplus does not have to be a one-time situation, especially regarding the plan with the school, and the city council could provide long term solutions to the school funding problem.

Brien created an ad hoc committee to address the Water Enterprise Fund consisting of himself, Councilmember Julian Gold, Treasurer Eliot Finkel and Public Works Commission Chair Barry Pressman. Brien said he felt they needed to look at the entire Water Enterprise Fund and gain a better understanding of the fund. Brien said they will hold $2.5 million from the surplus that will not yet be allocated to see if that can be used to offset water rate increases when it comes back for discussion.

Staff will bring back a resolution to the council to be voted on allocating funds from the surplus.

City holds community meeting regarding possible dog park

The City hosted a meeting on Mon., Jan. 28 at Roxbury Community Center to poll residents in regards to a possible dog park in the City of Beverly Hills.

Staff presented those in attendance with feedback forms. They received 51 forms and of them, 37 said they supported a dog park in the City of Beverly Hills. Of those 37, 29 were residents and five lived within a couple of blocks of the City, according to City Recreation and Parks publicist Jessica Emerson, who said numbers were still preliminary as of Tuesday.

The recommendation from the Recreation and Parks Commission was to use the croquet field in Roxbury Park as a location for the dog park. The City council had directed staff to conduct community outreach regarding a possible dog park in the City and Roxbury Park.

Director of Community Services Steve Zoet said those who opposed the dog park at that location had concerns that the park would bring impacts such as parking concerns or barking dogs. Zoet also said there are a large number of dogs that make use of Roxbury Park at present.

"There clearly were members of the community voicing their concerns as well as there were quite a number indicating their support," said Zoet.

Zoet said City staff's role is to explore different options. He said staff has been responding to resident's request for a dog park, as well as direction from the Recreation and Parks Commission, and the City council.

Some concerns among speakers on Monday included impact of the park, whether it would service large or small dogs, and whether it would change Roxbury Park from a neighborhood park to a destination park, according to Emerson.

Zoet said some members of the community had expressed concerns about mixing small dogs and large dogs in the same area.

"There was some perception on the part of some that the existing areas proposed were too small to accommodate both," said Zoet.

Zoet said this was an example of some of the things staff would have to do "due diligence" on and present to the Council, so councilmembers may factor terms of use in their decision to move forward, if they decide to move forward.

Zoet said staff will review feedback from the community further and will likely present it to the City council at its next meeting on Feb. 5.

City Council unanimously designates six properties as local landmarks

In one unanimous vote, the Beverly Hills added six local properties to join the Beverly Hills Hotel on the local register of historic properties on Thursday, Jan. 24.

The new Beverly Hills landmarks are the 1910-Virginia Robinson Estate and Garden, the 1925-Beverly Hills Women's Club, Greystone Mansion, the Beverly Hills Post Office on Crescent Drive, the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed Anderton Court on Rodeo Drive, and the Lloyd Wright-designed Karasik House at 436 Spalding Drive. The Karasik house was the home of Jacob Karasik.

"This will be one of the proudest votes that I will make as a councilmember," said Councilmember Lili Bosse. "Our history is the heart of who we are."

All of the properties up for consideration already appear on the National Register of Historic Places.

Beverly Hills Women's Club President Jill Collins addressed the council before they made their final vote. Collins said the club had been under threat of subdivision and sale under a past Women's Club board with the argument that there was not a modern purpose for the club. Since then, the club has been nationally recognized as a landmark and she said she was glad it would be locally recognized as well.

Greystone Mansion, which was constructed in 1927, is historically significant for its connection with Edward Doheny Sr. and because it reflects early residential development in the City.

"I just think it's wonderful. What a great night," said Councilmember Julian Gold. "Congratulations to the [Cultural Heritage Commission] and staff. I think you've done an amazing job in a short period of time.

Councilmember Barry Brucker said it was a wonderful night for the City and Vice Mayor John Mirisch said there

Cole may lose public defender, requests bond reduction

The Missouri Public Defender's Commission has filed a request to withdraw a public defender for former Beverly Hills resident Bruce Cole, currently facing five felony counts-- one count of theft and four counts of securities fraud related to a failed business deal between his company, Mamtek and the city of Moberly, Mo.

"The public defender commission who runs the public defender system filed a request for the public defender to withdraw because Mr. Cole's assets exceed federal poverty guidelines," said Raymond Legg, Cole's public defender.

Reports from media sources in Missouri have claimed Legg filed the request, but Legg said he was not the one who filed the request.

"In addition, Mr. Cole's social security exceeds federal poverty guidelines for a family of two. That and the assets he has in escrow were the primary basis for the commission's motion," said Legg.

Cole has said in court that he does not have the ability to pay for a lawyer.

Beverly Hills criminal defense lawyer Ronald Richards said the judge will likely try to get Cole to hire a lawyer.

"Most people wouldn't want to go unrepresented," said Richards. "He'll force him to do something is what I believe will happen."

Cole will also have to prove that the money he uses to pay for a lawyer is not the money he acquired illegally.

Richards said he was surprised Cole would request a public defender.

"It's hard to believe he would be going from very wealthy doing large deals and hiring a public defender," said Richards. "Public defenders are for the poorest of the poor and I think that he is sending a bad image to the court over there by insisting on a public defender. Then, he gives the state the right to audit his finances in the criminal case, which tactically I think is a bad idea for him."

Legg also filed a bond reduction on Cole's behalf. Cole is requesting the court reduce his bond from $500,000.

Cole has said in court he can come up with funds to pay for an attorney if released on bond and allowed to travel to California. Richards said it is very unlikely the judge will rule in Cole's favor.

"If he can't even afford a lawyer, the court is going to think he's a flight risk," said Richards. "The loss amount is much greater than $500,000. It's not a high bail."

Judge Scott Hayes passed ruling on the bond reduction until Friday, Feb. 1.

City welcomes Endless V to Beverly Gardens Park

The Beverly Hills City Council, the Fine Art Commission, and members of the community welcomed Jaume Plensa's Endless V at Beverly Gardens Park on Jan. 24.

The piece is located on Santa Monica Boulevard between Rodeo and Beverly Drives. The piece has been installed in the same area as Yayoi Kusama's Hymn of Life: Tulips. Roxy Paine's Erratic has also been moved from its previous location in Beverly Gardens Park along Santa Monica Boulevard between Rexford and Crescent Drives to the same area as the Kusama and Plensa pieces to form a sculpture garden.

Councilmember Lili Bosse said the piece is her favorite in the City.

"What I love about it is, it really speaks to me and it represents our community. It's a piece that has eight different languages and eight different letters from different languages molded in together to represent a person sitting kind of like Rodin's Thinker," said Bosse. "You can look at that and see yourself in it and I think when you look at this piece, we can see ourselves and see our community in it."

Bosse said she purposely drives by the piece so she can see it.

Another Board Debacle And Notes on Other News

By Rudy Cole

If you tried to sell this plot to a story editor, you would probably lose all credibility for believability, but this is all real and it happened right here in our own little village.

Yes, it is another debacle in what has become a fading Beverly Hills issue: the subway route. Try to follow the real scenario because there is a surprise tentative ending:

From almost the first salvo fired by the more militant and vocal members of the school board, the targets were our Los Angeles County Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky, a key MTA board member, and Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa, MTA chair. Because they favored the Constellation route, they were both blasted for doing the bidding of a Century City developer and other heinous crimes. These personal, and some say politically motivated blasts, made negotiations by the MTA with the school district almost impossible. At the same time, these same board leaders were doing the same to the council majority.

To be fair, the current board leadership, Jake Manaster, president, and Noah Margo, vice president, have been far less confrontational and have tried to work more closely with the City than their predecessors, Brian Goldberg and Lisa Korbatov.

But back to where the plot sickens. At almost the start of the battle, the Board hired a Washington lobbying firm to attempt to block federal funding for the subway if it included the Constellation route.

The lobbyists, who some claim work mostly with Republicans, asserts that it is making good progress with the Secy of Transportation Ray LaHood and that he "could" block federal funding for the subway if it did not change routes.

Now, enter the political nightmare. For many months, there was speculation that the next Transportation Secretary, if President Barack Obama won reelection, would be Mayor Villaraigosa – the target of some board members' smears. Clearly, if the Board was paying huge sums to lobbyists to reach whoever held this key office, and since it was no secret it might go to the Los Angeles Mayor, why didn't someone caution our board to lower its voices?

True, Villaraigosa may not be nominated and might not be confirmed: Bedroom politics could derail his appointment.

But what are the political realities here? No matter who heads Transportation, the local decision makers and that includes Yaroslavsky and whoever is the next Los Angeles mayor, will play the most important role in route choices, not a member of the cabinet looking at funding needs, capabilities and other transportation priorities. To think this is ever going to be a decision made by the Secretary, contrary to local direction is totally naïve.

More important, no matter which party controls the House, members pay considerable attention to the representative of the district when it comes to any spending. Our congressman, Henry Waxman, has also felt some fire from the more hysterical anti-Constellation people, and while expressing a willingness to listen to our concerns about safety, has been supportive of the Constellation route. Here too, the spear throwers, political agendas and fanaticism has hurt our cause.

Whatever lobbying we do, either with competent professionals or our political leaders, the key Washington player is not the Transportation Secretary, but Waxman.

So, another strategy shot to hell, but just maybe the louder voices will be muted in the interests of the City and not have the subway route battle used to settle old political scores, or even partisan prejudices or campaign opportunism. In any case, this is not likely to be totally resolved for a long, long time.

Turning to another school issue, City funding under the Joint Powers Agreement, but first some kudos to district finance committee members Mel Spitz and Herb Young for warning the Board that the community has no clue on what they are doing on financing or progress on construction programs. This led the board, at long last, to consider retaining a public information officer, something it has not had for decades.

For the first time in my memory, I feel compelled, for whatever meaning that might have, to oppose a proposed, and very likely to different topics, we are appreciative of his support," said BHPOA President Sgt. Michael Publicker. "With his history of service to the community, we thought that [Brian Rosenstein], too, would be a good candidate to foster a good relationship between the City and the police officers' association."

Publicker said Brien and Rosenstein were the only two candidates to contact and meet with the BHPOA.

be approved, supplemental City appropriation to the schools – this time from an expected City surplus.

When the school leaders learned that the City was expecting this surplus, about $10 million, they and council supporters, made an urgent appeal for the City to, in effect, increase the current Joint Powers Agreement, by about $4 million.

Yes, a good part of my concern is money being, mostly, wasted on lobbyists fighting the subway route and by the district's real failure in anticipating revenues and expenditures and planning to prepare for fiscal realities, including uncertain state financial funding – on which the district is almost totally dependent.

What if there had been no surprise City surplus? In fact, it is not fair to expect the City to cut and reduce spending so that the Board can have a safety net – one they never expected.

Now, I am totally supportive of paying teachers, in our district and everywhere, far more than they now receive – and their salaries are out of balance with pay in the private sector. That is a given.

However, if the City has reduced pay and benefits for its own employees and, more important, cut the number of City workers, including in our police, fire and code enforcement departments, while the Board sees no urgency to do the same, it is time to step back and examine present and future needs and responsibilities.

This is an election year and it would be unlikely for council candidates to say no to our schools, no matter how complicated the financial demands. However, the JPA alone is historic and magnanimous, and the schools were supposedly satisfied with the amounts. So, consider the impacts on full City staffing and other City needs while sending a message to the school board: the City is not an open ended piggy bank.

Side issue: A significant number of residents still believe that their property taxes are the main source of revenues for our City and our schools, or that the two agencies are legally joined. Of course, neither is close to reality. Since "Jarvis," the state funds schools, and must do so equitably for all districts, and most City revenues are generated by the business district.

The first Joint Powers Agreement came almost immediately following the passage of Prop. 13 (Jarvis) in 1979 and was for about one tenth of what the City now approves.

Then-Mayor Charles Aronberg conceived and pushed through the plan – the only legal means of "giving" schools money by paying for school services and facilities the City would use. Remember, the state could not provide funding based on school budgets but had to follow court rulings mandating total equality for every child in every district. The key court ruling was Priest.

Some sketchy updates on development projects: First, the council turned down a request from Vice Mayor John Mirisch to revisit the 9900 Wilshire (Robinson's May) entitlements since the successor owners have approached the City for some revisions in their approved application.

But there is little chance this will move forward quickly. The first obstacle will be to obtain a demolition permit for work on tearing down the old department store edifice. This can only be done during school vacations -- to minimize impacts on El Rodeo. It is now almost too late to accomplish and obtain City approval for this year, even if the proponents started this week.

The Orthodox group that owns and operates the old Beverly Hills Y facility has reportedly approached the City to consider a swap or purchase. The current owners have kept the sports and exercise programs alive where others had failed, but they may now feel the need to move on or operate something else in the former Industrial Area.

The 7-Eleven appeal from a decision by the Planning Commission denying their application for a store in Beverly Hills off Olympic should be heard by the council next week.

The long awaited final steps in an overlay zone change for the "Gateway" project - three separate property owners on Little Santa Monica – appeal before city council is not likely to be heard until April.

BHUSD Chief Facilities Manager retires

BHUSD Chief Facilities Manager Nelson Cayabyab is retiring effective Feb. 1, according to Superintendent Gary Woods.

Cayabyab supervised Measure E construction, which has begun at Horace Mann, as well as planning at the other schools in the district.

Woods said the short-term plan is to lean on Bernards Brothers Construction until Cayabyab's position can be filled.

"They're intimately aware of what we've been doing, they've worked side by side with Nelson, so Bernards will be in a lead position right now," said Woods. "So will our consultant Tim Buresh, who was a former director of facilities for LAUSD."

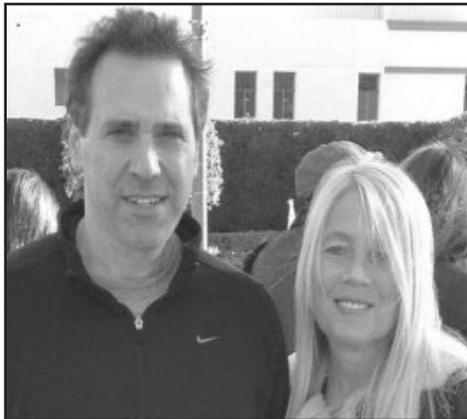

Buresh oversaw the construction of 72 schools as LAUSD director of facilities, said Woods.

Woods said he and Chief Administrative Officer Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard would continue their role of oversight.

Woods said the long term plan would include a public posting of the position opening and a series of panel interviews. Some panels would include community members as well.

"It's a very specialized position, so we will be encouraging all qualified applicants to apply," said Woods.

Lili and Jon Bosse donate $100,000 to BHUSD

Jon and Lili Bosse

After the Board of Education and City Council both approved an agreement that will potentially fill the BHUSD's budget deficit with $4.05 million, Councilmember Lili Bosse and her husband Jon Bosse have announced they will donate $100,000 to the schools.

"I was hoping that other people will jump on board and do the same thing because as I believe even though our City is such a well known community in the world, we're really a very small town that kind of look out for each other and we need to have a successful school system," said Lili Bosse.

The plan includes a component that asks the community to fundraise $600,000. As part of a previously discussed JPA agreement, $1.2 million in funds are currently in escrow and had been appropriated for turf field improvements. Because Measure E funds will cover the cost of field improvements, the plan allows for $600,000 to be released into the district's general fund and the other $600,000 to be released on a matching basis when and if the community can raise $600,000. This portion of the agreement could account for $1.8 million to restore program funding at the school.

However, not all $600,000 must be raised before the City matches the funding. Bosse said she thinks the matching component of the plan is a "wonderful idea."

"It's very inspiring, it builds community and I'm thrilled that Jon and I were able to start it off and I'm hoping that it will reach the $600,000 soon and I'm even hoping at some point we can continue to keep this up with the schools where the City will continue to match donations," said Bosse. "It's not just a onetime deal. I think it's a wonderful model for fundraising and community building."

we are succeeding and where we need to concentrate on improvement. Priority 3 is to regain community confidence in the Measure E program because it has been lost. This takes just a couple of simple steps - a) stop all planning and expenditure for anything but the Horace Mann rebuild which is on solid footing, b) refinancing the already issued Capital Appreciation Bonds, which are nothing more than a time bomb and banned in other states plus promising under pain of death to never consider this nonsense again, c) a complete and detail accounting of what has been spent to date including the severance packages, lawyer fees and lobbying etc., d) a commitment to transparency before any new work commences - I am very sure Tim Buresh is qualified but it just plain doesn't look right that he was being paid an unknown amount (under client attorney privilege) for assistance in attempting to block the subway and now is a consultant on new construction without an open RFP etc. Priority 4 - Engagement with the community has been missing for a long time and everyone would benefit from a series of truly open 'town hall' meetings on each of the first three priorities - the general fund, our curriculum/teaching and then the construction and bonds. Each meeting should be following publication of the detail results of relevant information. We are blessed with an incredibly well versed community who are more than willing to help if given the information. The City Council has given us a year - let's not waste it.

FIRST FORUM

But which three will win?

By Andrea Aldana

The Beverly Hills Municipal League hosted the first city council candidate forum in the City Council chambers on Tuesday night.

Moderator Thomas White, chair of the Municipal League, interviewed five of the candidates separately, before proceeding with a panel discussion where the candidates answered questions from the audience. Candidate Michael Talei did not participate in the forum.

Questions for each participant varied, but all five participating candidates were asked their position on the Westside Subway Extension route alignment and funding for the schools. The audience filled all of the seats in the council chambers and overflowed to the next door conference room that was set up with television monitors.

In a randomly selected order, Mayor Willie Brien was interviewed first followed by Vice Mayor John Mirisch, former Mayor Nancy Krasne, attorney Katherine Cohan and Planning Commission Vice Chair Brian Rosenstein.

White asked Brien to clarify his position on the subway alignment noting that he has said multiple times that he opposes to route under Beverly High, but also attended Metro's groundbreaking ceremony for the Westside Subway Extension.

"I have always supported the Westside Subway Extension," said Brien. "Anyone who believes that we have a traffic problem, and I've heard for many years that we do, one has to just realize that a subway will reduce the rate of traffic growth going through the City of Beverly Hills."

Brien also said that if the City wanted to redevelop the southeast area of Beverly Hills, a stop at Wilshire and La Cienega would bring a transit oriented approach to the City, bring up retail and ease congestion. Brien pointed to Culver City as an example of an area that was revitalized in anticipation of the expo line.

"I have said from the beginning that the route that I support for the subway is the Santa Monica alignment," said Brien. "I've said it over and over again. I can't be clearer. I can't be any more consistent."

Brien also said he led the way in hiring legal representation against the route and bringing a hearing to Metro.

In regards to funding for the schools, Brien noted he was part of the liaison committee that created the plan to offset the shortfall in the district's budget for 2013-2014 year. He said he negotiated the current Joint Powers Agreement and noted he made a commitment to the schools in his state of the City address.

Mirisch reiterated his philosophy toward local government being about putting the residents first. He called the residents the "heart and soul" of the City.

Mirisch said he believes the City at times treats its residents like ATMs and pointed toward Roxbury Park as an example of a project that was changed when the community spoke out against the previous proposal.

"A time when I was the lone no vote was when it came a time to increase the water rates. That was a 4-1 vote and I voted against that," said Mirisch. "I definitely get the sense that people feel that the solution for the City very often is to raise fees or raise taxes and that they'd rather perhaps that we provide them with better value for money and do a better job at that before the instantaneous solution is 'let's just go back for more money.'"

Mirisch said he has written articles in the L.A. Business Journal, Huffington Post and the L.A. Jewish Journal in support of the schools regarding the MTA issue. He said Metro was a bad model of local government and an example of "crony capitalism at work." Mirisch, who is a Horace Mann parent, said there was no reason why the recent City plan to help the district would be a onetime deal.

"We do have a surplus at the City and I think if we play our cards right, there's a lot more where that came from and I think that we should be committed, again, because this is no fault of the schools to helping the schools with problems that are not of their own making," said Mirisch.

Krasne said she was not a professional orator and said she was just a neighbor who was unhappy with the way City affairs were being managed.

"I don't like block voting," said Krasne. "I think every particular item should be addressed individually and looked at on its own merit. With that being said, this council hasn't always acted that way."

BOND BATTLE

Could new legislation interrupt the Board of Education's construction plans?

By Andrea Aldana

At a time when the Board of Education is deciding how to move forward with the Measure E bond schedule, Assemblymembers Ben Hueso (D-San Diego) and Joan Buchanan (D-Alamo) have introduced legislation to regulate the use of controversial bonds, known as capital appreciation bonds (CABs) on Jan. 25.

Capital appreciation bonds are bonds that allow borrowers to delay payments until the bond's maturity at a higher interest rate. They are used when there is not enough tax rate capacity to support current interest payments.

They have been criticized as risky bonds because they assume property values will grow in the future and can pose a problem when projected growth rates are not met. In some cases, this type of bond could result to be 10 to 20 times more than the amount borrowed, especially when the bond's maturity is greater than 25 years.

About 200 school districts in the state of California have used CABs, according to a Los Angeles Times analysis.

The proposed bill would reduce the maximum maturity of capital appreciation bonds from 40 years to 25 years and limit the repayment ratio to a maximum of $4 in interest and principal for every $1 borrowed.

A letter dated Jan. 17 from California State Treasurer Bill Lockyer and State Superintendent Tim Torlakson to California school districts warns that CABs with terms exceeding 25 years "place the repayment obligation on future taxpayers who likely will not benefit from the capital improvements financed by CABs" and "reduce those taxpayers capacity to finance construction and modernization projects their own children will need."

Some districts who have delayed payments for 30 or 40 years face paying back up to 20 times the amount borrowed.

The BHUSD currently has $60.5 million in capital appreciation bonds, about $60 million of which came from the first series of Measure E bonds, according to Keygent Managing Director Tony Hsieh. The first series of bonds issued by Measure E was a total of $72 million.

The CABs issued by BHUSD have a maturity of 24.5 years and a repayment ratio of $3.4 to $1, within the legal limitations of the proposed legislation.

As an example, the New Haven Unified School District, a blue collar district in the East Bay of the San Francisco Bay area, where former BHUSD superintendent Kari McVeigh (2006-2008) is now superintendent, has multiple CAB sales - one series issued in 2009 is a $25 million sale with 25 years of maturity and $4.9 debt ratio, over the proposed limits.

Under the proposed legislation, districts would be given the option of refinancing CABs with maturities greater than 10 years and schools would be required to provide school boards with public reports that detail borrowing plans. The reports would include cost of the bond, a comparison with alternative forms of financing, and the reason for using capital appreciation notes.

Hsieh also said that Keygent has been conservative in their assumptions. Hsieh said recently assessed value in Beverly Hills had seen a growth of about 6.8 percent, but that was not a smart value with which to make future assumptions. The estimate the group is using is about 4.5 percent of assessed value growth, which would require about 50 percent of the issued bonds to be capital appreciation bonds. Hsieh said they group is being conservative and hopes the growth rate is higher than they project.

During the bond acceleration town hall on Jan. 15, Hsieh said capital appreciation bonds issued by the BHUSD are callable and can be refinanced in the future to current interest bonds if future interest rates allow.

During the town hall, Board of Education Vice President Noah Margo presented a plan which would accelerate the issuance of the remaining Measure E bonds and increase the tax rate for property owners Krasne said she's attended most of the Metro hearings and has stood "shoulder to shoulder" with the Board of Education.

"To be really candid, I do have a disagreement with some of the other councilmembers because initially I asked them to hire an attorney to represent the City's interest in the MTA," said Krasne. "Certainly we want a Metro to go through the City but where it stops and how it goes through were different questions."

Krasne said the attorney representing the City could have prevented litigation, which is costly.

Krasne also said if elected she would like to see a line item budget and that "every dime is accounted for." She said the police and fire departments have suffered cuts and she wanted to see those positions restored.

Rosenstein also supported the JPA and thought the recent plan to restore funding at the schools was well thought out. He supports the Westside Subway Extension, but would not support the alignment under Beverly High.

White said his nomination papers included a number of real estate developers and lobbyists, but felt that Rosenstein put the residents first. He asked him who would be disappointed if Rosenstein was elected.

Rosenstein said he was a resident's first candidate. He said he supported the general plan in terms of development and had a record of doing so as vice chair of the Planning Commission.

"As far as who's going to be disappointed, I can tell you just a perfect example. One of the people you probably referred to represented the Avalon Hotel in front of the Planning Commission. The Avalon Hotel has currently a free parking restriction on it. They are not allowed to charge for valet parking. They came forward and asked for that restriction to be removed," said Rosenstein. "I determined that that was going to be greatly impactful on the residential community and I was the 2 of the 3-2 vote on that, so I voted against the lobbyist."

White asked Rosenstein to comment on the City's financial management.

"I watched years of budget cuts, where you know furloughed workers, we cut 100 positions from the City government, and we had cut $30 million from the budget, and that was a painful time," said Rosenstein. "We lost police officers, we lost fire services, we lost senior services, we lost CERT, [and] we lost our school resource officers. These are all things that I would like to see restored."

He said as the economy strengthens it's important to restore the services.

Cohan said as an attorney, she felt she could be a good mediator and would like to see more unity and transparency in local government. She also did not support tunneling under the high school.

The next candidate forum will be held on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in the council chambers and hosted by the Southwest Beverly Hills Homeowner's Association.

Some business triangle property owners to see reduced tax rates

The City Council unanimously voted to transfer savings directly to business property owners in the community facilities district, when bonds are refinanced this year, at the formal meeting on Jan. 24.

Some property owners in the business triangle formed a special tax district in 2002, which was underwritten through the issuance of bonds. The bonds generated $13.5 million in street improvements along Rodeo, Beverly and Canon Drives.

The bonds in 2002 were in the amount of $16,215,000. Staff has recommended the council refinance the bonds to take advantage of a 3.3 percent interest rate. The current interest rate on the bonds is 4.9 percent. Staff estimates the district will save almost $3.4 million over the next 15 years, with a net present value of $1.5 million, according to the City staff report.

Outreach conducted by City staff found that the majority of property owners within the district prefer being transferred the entire savings via reduced special tax rates as opposed to using a portion of the savings to fund further improvements to the district.

Horace Mann PTA launches fundraiser

The Horace Mann PTA will be selling bricks to line the walkway to the new Horace Mann auditorium. The cost for a personalized 4 in. x 8 in. brick is $100. An optional take home replica is $50. from the current rate of $49.71 per $100,000 to $111 per $100,000 of assessed value. The acceleration plan would reduce the repayment schedule by 22 years and save taxpayers approximately $2 billion in the long term, according to Margo.

Margo said accelerating the bond would allow the district to issue 50 percent of the remaining $262 million in current interest bonds, in which districts make interest and principal payments semiannually and at a lower rate. The remaining 50 percent would be in capital appreciation bonds.

On Jan. 17, Lockyer and Torlakson asked school districts in California to put a moratorium on CABs via a letter while legislation was introduced and voted on in the current legislative session.

The bill would have to be approved by both houses of the legislature and signed by the governor.

The Board must decide by June 30, if they want the acceleration to take place this year.

Key points:

- Capital appreciation bonds (CABs) allow borrowers to defer payments until bond's maturity.
- Current interest bonds (CIBs) are lower-risk bonds, in which interest and principal are paid semiannually.
- CABs have been considered risky deals by State Treasurer Bill Lockyer.
- CABs are considered by state officials to be especially risky when the bond's maturity is over 25 years and the debt ratio is greater than $4.
- Notorious cases involve CAB notes of 30 to 40 years. Poway Unified School District faces almost $1 billion repayment on a $105 million CAB -- a 40 year note.
- Legislation has been introduced at the state level which would regulate CABs to a maximum of 25 years and a debt ratio of no more than $4 per $1 borrowed.
- The CABs currently issued by BHUSD have a maturity of 24.5 years and a debt ratio of $3.4 to $1 borrowed.
- CABs are issued in order to complete projects at schools when the legal tax rate on property owners as required by proposition 39 is at its maximum level and CIBs are not an option.
- The Board of Education can legally raise the tax rate from its current level of $52 per $100,000 to $111 per $100,000 in assessed value.
- Under the proposed acceleration schedule, half of the remaining Measure E funds would be in CIBs; the other half in CABs.

BHHS To Hold Second Round of Interviews for New Football coach Norman girls' soccer team defeats Santa Monica, Inglewood By Steven Herbert

A second and final round of interviews to fill Beverly High's football coaching vacancy will be held Monday and a new coach will be hired "sooner rather than later," according to co-athletic director Jason Newman, who declined to be more specific.

Some of the approximately 12 applicants who were interviewed in the initial round of interviews Tuesday will be interviewed again, Newman said.

"We think that we have some terrific applicants," both in "football knowledge and experience," Newman said.

About 40 people applied for the position which became vacant when Donald Paysinger resigned after four seasons, Newman said.

Girls' Soccer

Beverly Hills 1, Santa Monica 0

Kayla Kohan scored in the 70th minute off Ellie Dubin's cross and Kylie Colvin and Amanda Manaster combined for the shutout for the Normans in an Ocean League game Jan. 16 at Nickoll Field.

Ashley Aviram was also credited with an assist for playing the ball wide to Dubin, Beverly Hills coach Ryan Franks said.

Both teams took 10 shots.

Colvin made three saves in the first half and Manaster seven in the second.

Norman forward Sarah Patterson had the best scoring opportunity for either team in the first half, beating Vikings goalkeeper Sarah Lipshy on a breakaway and the ball appeared to be rolling into the net, but was cleared away by a sliding Santa Monica defender before it crossed the goal line, Franks said.

Elena Rust and the Beverly Hills back line "were solid," Franks said.

"Anytime you beat a quality program like Samo or Culver City, it's a great win," Franks said. "It was a great team effort tonight, everybody contributed and the girls left it all on the field and that's all you can ask from your team."

Beverly Hills 4, Inglewood 0

Dinah Pourbaba scored twice, Kaela Reifelt had a goal and an assist and Aviram also scored for the Normans in an Ocean League game at Nickoll Field Jan. 18.

Beverly Hills (8-6-2, 4-0 in league play) led 1-0 at halftime and outshot the Monarchs 28-4.

Colvin and Manaster combined for the Normans' sixth shutout of the season with Manaster making four saves.

Boys' Soccer

Santa Monica 2, Beverly Hills 0

The Normans led in shots, 11-5, and goalkeeper Milton Joyner made three saves and allowed two first-half goals in an Ocean League game Jan. 16 at Santa Monica.

Sophomore defensive midfielder Cole Offer was chosen as Beverly Hills' player of the game by coach Steve Rappaport for making nine defensive tackles and playing a solid game.

Beverly Hills 1, Inglewood 0

Phin Bauer scored in the 45th minute off Offer's assist and Joyner made five saves for his third shutout of the season in an Ocean

League game Jan. 18 at Inglewood as the Normans improved to 9-6-2, 3-1.

Girls' Basketball

Culver City 62, Beverly Hills 42

An injury- and illness-depleted Norman team "made a bunch of mistakes" in its loss in an Ocean League game at the Swim-Gym Jan. 23, coach John Braddell said.

Beverly Hills played without Jessica Melamed (illness) and Dorsa Mehrannia, its second- and third-leading scorers and a third starter, senior guard Megan Yee, Braddell said.

"It hurt us a lot," Braddell said of Mehrannia, Melamed and Yee's absences. "I don't know if it will change the outcome, but I'd like to give a shot" with the three playing.

The Normans led 7-4 at the end of the first quarter, but were outscored 14-13 in the second quarter and 24-13 in the third to trail 42-33 entering the fourth quarter.

Natasha Allen led Beverly Hills with 13 points. Jazz Anderson added 10, Arianna Mazzarini seven, all in the fourth quarter, including a 3-point basket, Natasha Kashani three, and Emebet Aklilu and Taylor McBride two each.

Hawthorne 55, Beverly Hills 49

The Normans trailed the Cougars by four points with about one minute to play, got a steal but squandered the opportunity for a potential breakaway layup when they turned the ball over and were unable to get any closer in an Ocean League game at Hawthorne Friday, Braddell said.

Beverly Hills (13-10, 3-3) trailed 15-9 at the end of the first quarter, then outscored Hawthorne 12-7, in the second quarter, cutting the deficit to 22-21 at halftime. The Normans were outscored 16-11 in the third quarter and trailed 38-32 entering the fourth quarter, when both teams scored 17 points.

"We just didn't rebound the ball well," Braddell said. "I thought we played well defensively in their first possessions, but it's tough when you're giving them seconds and thirds."

Mehrannia returned to action, scoring six points on two 3-point baskets in the fourth quarter. Yee made a free throw and played about a half a quarter before re-injuring herself while Melamed remained sidelined, Braddell said.

Anderson scored 17, Allen 14, Kashani seven and McBride four.

Boys' Basketball

Santa Monica 63, Beverly Hills 62

The Normans led 54-44 with three minutes, 48 seconds to play, and allowed what proved to be the game-winning layup with 17 seconds to play in an Ocean League game at Santa Monica Jan. 16, coach Jarvis Turner said.

Beverly Hills missed a potential game-winning layup as time expired, Turner said.

The Normans were outscored 14-6 in the first quarter, but outscored the Vikings, 21-12, in the second to take a 27-26 halftime lead. The score was tied, 44-44 entering the fourth quarter as the Beverly Hills was outscored, 18-17, in the third quarter.

Justin Ifekwunigwe scored 18 for the Normans, including making three 3-point baskets. Ronan Massana added 13, including a 3-point basket, Ryan Manoocheri 11, including three 3-point baskets, Ben Cohen seven, Siavash Yektafar six, Jalen Sands four, Keimon Downey two and Daniel Dayan one for Beverly Hills.

Inglewood 62, Beverly Hills 35

The Normans trailed 41-28 with 6:00 left, then allowed 11 unanswered points in an Ocean League game at Inglewood Jan. 18, Turner said.

Beverly Hills (9-9, 2-2) trailed 14-9 at the end of the first quarter 30-20 at halftime and 41-28 entering the fourth quarter.

Yektafar scored 12, including making two 3-point baskets, Brandon Neman five, including a 3-point basket, Cohen, Massana and Sands four each and Dayan, Ifekwunigwe and Manoocheri two each.

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS AMENDING THE MUNICIPAL CODE TO ESTABLISH A REVIEW PROCESS TO DETERMINE SUBSTANTIAL COMPLIANCE WITH CERTAIN ZONING CODE STANDARDS BASED ON SPECIFIC FINDINGS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS HEREBY ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. On December 13, 2012, the Planning Commission held a duly noticed public hearing, which was continued to the following meeting on December 20, 2012, at which the Planning Commission adopted Resolution No. 1660, recommending that the City Council amend the Zoning Code to establish a process by which deviations from development standards occurring as a result of construction can be approved if certain findings are met. On January 8, 2013, the City Council held a duly noticed public hearing, received public testimony, and thereafter introduced this Ordinance.

Section 2. This Ordinance was assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. It has been determined that adoption of this Ordinance would not have a significant environmental impact and is exempt from CEQA pursuant to Section 15061(b)(3) of Title 14 of the California Code of Regulations. The City Council hereby finds that it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility that the adoption and implementation of this Ordinance may have a significant effect on the environment.

Section 3. This Ordinance is consistent with the objectives, principles, and standards of the General Plan. The contemplated deviations from zoning code standards that would be authorized through the proposed substantial compliance determinations involve minor changes to the City's development standards, would not alter or change designated land uses, and would not be contrary to any of the goals, policies and programs in the General Plan.

Section 4. This Ordinance is consistent with the recommendations of the Mayor's Task Force on Governmental Efficiency as presented to the City Council on December 19, 2011. In its report, the Task Force included a recommendation to establish a procedure through which minor deviations from zoning code standards that occurred as a result of construction could be approved in certain instances.

Section 5. The City Council hereby amends Section 10-3-203 of Article 2 of Chapter 3 of Title 10 of the Beverly Hills Municipal Code by adding the following language, with all other language in that Section to remain unchanged:

"G. Substantial Compliance Determination. An applicant may seek a determination that a project substantially complies with the zoning code if, after a development project has been approved, a building permit has been issued and the City has approved placement of the footing, it is discovered that the project as constructed does not meet the requirements of the zoning code or conditions of approval. A substantial compliance determination may be approved, with or without conditions, for the zoning code standards listed in the table included in this section if the reviewing authority makes all of the following findings:

1. That requiring strict compliance with the zoning code would create substantial financial hardship for the applicant;
2. That the items that deviate from the code would not exceed the permissible deviations stated in the table included in this section;
3. That approval of a substantial compliance determination would not result in substantial, adverse impacts to neighboring properties;
4. That approval of a substantial compliance determination would not pose a threat to life or safety;
5. That the circumstances surrounding the request for a substantial compliance determination do not indicate that the applicant intended to deviate from the zoning code standards.

Nothing in this section shall allow the amount of front yard paving, the floor area of a building, or the height of a building to exceed the limitations in the zoning code.

Nothing in this section shall authorize any encroachment onto the public right-of-way or onto neighboring properties.

The reviewing authority for a substantial compliance determination shall be the director of community development. If, in the opinion of the director an application merits review by the planning commission, the director may refer such application to the planning commission and the planning commission shall serve as the reviewing authority for such application and shall conduct a noticed public hearing regarding the requested substantial compliance determination.

Notice of a public hearing, an intended decision and a final decision shall be provided in accordance with Section 10-3-3602 of this code.

The applicant or any person aggrieved by any decision regarding a substantial compliance determination may appeal to the planning commission, if the original decision was made by the director, or to the city council, if the original decision was made by the planning commission, as provided in title 1, chapter 4, article 1 of this code.

Zoning Standard	Permissible Deviation
Building Encroachments into Required Setback Area	Building walls, architectural projections, balconies, awnings, chimneys, and porches may encroach no more than ten-percent (10%) into a required setback.
Fence and Wall Location, Length, and Height	In terms of location, height and length, fences and walls may be built no more than ten-percent (10%) beyond the applicable zoning code standard or condition of approval unless approved by the Planning, Design Review or Architectural Commission. In no event shall the fence or wall block an automobile driver's field of vision when exiting a driveway.
Minimum Drive Aisle Width	The width of a drive aisle may be up to ten-percent (10%) narrower than the width specified by the city's minimum parking standards or a condition of approval.
Minimum Parking Stall Dimension	The dimension of a parking stall may be up to ten-percent (10%) shorter in each direction than specified by the city's minimum parking standards or a condition of approval. No more than one parking stall shall be eligible for this deviation. Parking spaces in single-family zones are not eligible for this deviation."

Section 6. Severability. If any section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause, phrase, or portion of this Ordinance or the application thereof to any person or place, is for any reason held to be invalid or unconstitutional by the final decision of any court of competent jurisdiction, the remainder of this Ordinance shall be and remain in full force and effect.
