"Two Leaders Are Dumped"

Thank you, Beverly Hills Weekly, for covering the uproar that has ensued at Beverly Vista School and within the community since Principal Irene Stern was guided into retirement by Superintendent Hubbard and the Board of Education. The Weekly also covered the massive turnout by school staff, faculty and community members at the Board of Education meeting on Feb. 28 to protest this action. Since the board is able to cloak itself under the auspices of the oft cited Brown Act, the attending public is unable to get an answer to their queries. The Beverly Vista family has been left in the dark in regards to why this has been implemented. Now, almost three weeks later, and amidst much turmoil, we are all still scratching our heads as to why this has transpired. Typically, a small community relies upon their local newspaper to investigate issues that affect them, and to report responsibly and without bias. This community has noticed that there is one such local paper that does actually report on important current civic events.

Here are the two big buzzwords:

accountability and responsibility.

Your Rudy Cole gave us another demonstration of his all-knowing, insider's sophistry regarding the forced retirement of Irene Stern. If he weren't so completely misinformed and was a lot less arrogant, he might have been able to present a sensible article. But he failed.

Cole tells us "... but Stern is not running an independent shop and whatever her successes, and they are many, the whole system falls apart when a principal refuses to heed the direction of the superintendent, as it appears to be the case here." Cole must have access to information that no one else does. He could present the community with a kind gift by citing JUST ONE direction of the superintendent that Mrs. Stern failed to heed. He will not be able to because no such event ever happened. Mrs. Stern, as do all good administrators, receives a great many instructions and directions from her supervisors. Most times, she proceeds without comment or says, "good idea." However, sometimes, the direction may have potential problems associated with it which she will point out to the supervisor. As a subordinate, she feels obliged to identify possible concerns and pitfalls to the boss. That may or may not alter the instruction. But, when the final direction is issued, it is followed. I challenge Mr. Cole to show any instance of failure to comply on Mrs. Stern's part. If he doesn't show us any, we'll know why.

Secondly, if her refusals to heed direction have caused the "whole system to fall apart," where are the evidences of that? What system has fallen apart? If he doesn't have details or examples he ought to retract the statement.

Cole goes on. "Nothing that caused Stern's removal had anything to do with dishonesty or any ethical or education related behavior only her unwillingness to accept reality that the super is her boss." Cole does not know that for a fact. Did he interview Mrs. Stern? No, he did not. If he is not quoting Mrs. Stern then it is conjecture. Is he quoting Dr. Hubbard? If so, he ought to tell us that. The remark is absolutely untrue. Repeat—absolutely untrue! Mrs. Stern knows who her boss is and always has.

Dr. Hubbard was schooled in a system which advances the concept that new superintendents should remove all holdovers and build a management team of new hires who are then "de facto loyal" to the new boss. Under Hubbard, this process is well under way in BHUSD and will continue. That's why Mrs. Stern was pushed out to satisfy Superintendent Hubbard's learned managerial philosophy. That's a rotten reason to trash someone else's career.

Rudy Cole likes to throw names and inferences and value judgments around as if the world was waiting breathlessly for these pearls. He makes a whole bunch of other foolish and unsupportable statements in the

Applicants Vie For Land Next To Proposed Sports Center

Vocal Montage opponent Probity is among the applicants.

By Andrea Simpson

Probity CEO Robert Zarnega

Nineteen applicants have turned in Request for Qualifications (RFQ) for the Community Recreation Center/private development adjacent to the proposed sports center site bounded by Third Street, Foothill Road and Alden Drive in the Industrial Area of the city. Among the applicants are some familiar Beverly Hills names like J.H. Snyder Company and Probity International, a staunch opponent of the Montage Hotel project.

Probity CEO Robert Zarnegin, whose company owns such projects as the Peninsula Beverly Hills, funded hundreds of thousands of dollars to oppose the "No on Measure A" campaign. At the time, Probity also made critical comments about the mayor and City Council.

Probity's other projects include Four Thirty North Rodeo Drive, a collection of retail shops on Rodeo Drive; Villa Toscana, a mixed-use development consisting of two and three bedroom townhouse condominium units and a single-story retail structure on Wilshire Boulevard in Santa Monica; and is the former developer of Maison Reeves, a luxury condominium project on South Reeves Drive at Gregory, which was subsequently sold to another developer.

According to Probity CFO Dan Parks, Probity is proposing a mixed-use project consisting of an upscale boutique hotel and residential condo units that he said the company thinks will provide a better return to Beverly Hills on the city's land. Probity also proposed an apartment alternative because of the city's indication that it does not want to sell the land but lease it. Probity has teamed up with Urban Partners which has worked on a number of public-private ventures in Southern California.

A letter dated January 4, 2004 sent to former Mayor Mark Egerman, council members and planning commissioners from Probity, outlines the basis of Probity's opposition to the Montage Hotel development, one of which states that the addition of another Beverly Hills hotel will lead to rate cuts and reduced occupancies at existing hotels.

"...we believe, based on our knowledge of the Beverly Hills hotel market, that the introduction of 200+ additional keys and related amenities in the luxury hotel market will likely lead to rate cuts and reduced occupancies at existing hotel properties, some of which are already experiencing historically low occupancies and average daily rates. The City's efforts in favor of the Montage project may very well threaten the existence of several hotels already realizing little or no operating profit and lead to little or no increase in occupancy tax collections," as stated in the letter.

Parks said, however, Probity's proposal is not a luxury hotel.

"We're proposing an upscale hotel which would be at a price point of around $300 per room or perhaps as low as $250. The luxury market ranges, I think for the most part, upwards of $400 on an average rate and in our earlier letter we were raising a concern of the saturation of the luxury market. I think in Beverly Hills there is a real lack of that next tier down in terms of room quality and price point," Parks said.

In other campaign material signed by its major funding source, Probity, the "No on Measure A" proponents wrote that the city and Montage are "lying" about the subsidy; money for schools, fire and police; and parking. "What's the Council hiding?" another letter stated

As a result of this criticism, Parks said he hopes Probity will not run into any resistance from the council with its proposal.

"I know there was a lot of acrimony in the process. I know that some people threw the word 'liar' around. We were on the receiving end of that, at least I think as often as people associated with us were dishing it out," Parks said. "I think when you step back you realize that people are going to have disagreements and perhaps one party can actually be wrong without making them a liar."

According to the Probity website, Parks is directly responsible for all of the company's accounting, budgeting, forecasting and internal control functions. Also a licensed real estate broker, prior to joining Probity, Parks was chief financial officer of a large apartment and office development company in Burbank.

"I think we can move beyond that. I hope we can move beyond that," added Parks, who was also critical of the council and Montage. "I think on a positive note, one of the things we were very critical of with the Montage process was that the city did not have this kind of public contest, [which] is what an RFQ is, to determine the best use of that site. I'm very happy to see that they're doing that this time around. Whether we get the project or not, I think they'll wind up with a deal that's much better for the city as a result."

The city is exploring the option of using a portion of the site across the street for private development to cover the costs of the recreation center construction.

J.H. Snyder is currently constructing The Crescent, a mixed-use project on Wilshire and Crescent. Snyder was unavailable for comment.

The RFQ process is intended to evaluate the developers' qualifications and to provide a preliminary concept of what they see on the site. According to Community Development Department Director Mahdi Aluzri, once the list is narrowed it's taken to the council for approval, but the council will have no say in the first cut. City staff is currently scheduling the second round of interviews at which point those applicants are invited to participate in the RFP (Request For Proposal) process which should include a specific development proposal.

The council will be involved in a land use study session in which members will vote on whether commercial, office, residential or hotel use is best suitable and viable for the area, Councilmember Steve Webb said.

Once the council has selected the type of use, staff will bring three finalists back to the council

All meetings will be in open session.

"Whichever developer, whether it's Probity or Jerry Snyder, makes no difference to me," Webb said. "Who comes forward with the best deal and in the best interest of the city, that's who I want. We're looking for those who have the best qualities and have what's best in mind for the city, and if turns out to be Probity, I don't have a problem."

The Athens Group, a Probity competitor and Montage developer, disagrees.

"You're kidding. After they spent a couple of million dollars trying to stop a beautiful hotel project that the city and the community want and after they back a lawsuit that is costing the city hundreds of thousands of dollars, it takes a lot of nerve to apply for a hotel project," Athens CFO Jay Newman said. "According to Probity, there is a glut of hotel rooms in Beverly Hills. I guess this glut only relates to hotel rooms not owned by them."

Other well known RFQ applicants include Goldrich & Kest Industries, Lambert Development, Forest City, The Related Companies; Accord Interests, Ensemble Investments, and Standard Pacific Homes.

Goldrich & Kest is a real estate investment partnership with more than 200 properties, mainly in California. Government-subsidized projects represent more than half of its housing portfolio. G & K Industries leases several retirement and nursing homes to third parties and operates two itself.

Lambert Development has worked in a variety of developments that include luxury condominiums, mixed-use retail-loft properties and the renovation of historic sites. For example, The Brannan and The Oriental Warehouse, mixed-use and loft developments, in San Francisco

Last year the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced that a landmark $1.2 million disability settlement was reached with Lambert and other developers and general contractors involving one of Lambert's mixed-use projects, The Renaissance in San Diego, which resolved a discrimination complaint alleging violations of the Federal Fair Housing Act.

A condominium owner filed the complaint alleging he had to request and pay for accessibility modifications that, by law, should have been included in the complex when it was constructed in 2003. HUD's Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity investigated the com-

Mark A. Stern Westlake Village, CA via bhweekly.com

I write to respond to comments of Rudy Cole in issue #335 discussing the departure of Irene Stern as principal of Beverly Vista. Parents, students and teachers came to the Feb. 21 Board of Education meeting to remind Dr. Hubbard that he is employed by Beverly Hills taxpayers. The board also was reminded that these taxpayers, many of whom contributed time and money to election campaigns of board members, felt betrayed by those members who sat so smugly and passed notes to each other as the public spoke. The taxpayers of Beverly Hills voiced opposition to the low ball tactics used by Hubbard and the board in this matter. Dr. Hubbard and the board should be proud that BV students excel on California state tests. The academic success of BV students is a consequence of classroom discipline and teacher respect not observed on other BHUSD campuses by this

I am not privy to the substance of any disagreements between Dr. Hubbard and Mrs. Stern. Perhaps she recalled the introduction and failure of Whole Language at some schools in the 1990s and cautiously questioned the rationale of many new instructional programs being introduced in BHUSD K-8 schools. I certainly do!

Students in grades K-5 no longer receive traditional A, B, C letter grades. Standardsbased learning has been introduced to modify the curriculum and grading system previously used at each school. Thousands of taxpayer dollars have been spent by BHUSD to pay substitute teachers to staff classrooms while teachers attend workshops wherein highly compensated consultants discuss how teachers should embrace and teach these standards. The consultants review scenarios discussing when a student could be deemed correct by answering 2+2 equals 5.

Meanwhile, pull out classes for advanced fourth and fifth grade math students have been eliminated. Pull out classes have been replaced by the concept of differentiated learning whereby teachers are expected to be able to teach to all academic levels in a classroom using subgroups of students who are separated into clusters according to ability. While BHUSD is using these innovative programs, students in Korea, Japan and Europe are mastering mental multiplication skills allowing these children to correctly multiply four digits by four digits in their

Hopefully, standards-based learning is successful in BHUSD. I suspect some students will progress and succeed. Those students who do not, however, had better hope grandpa designates them as beneficiaries of generation skipping trusts funded with extensive holdings of appreciated California real estate. It will be difficult to sustain a Beverly Hills lifestyle while earning mini-

Mrs. Stern produced positive results at BV even if she may have questioned or challenged Dr. Hubbard. The board and Dr. Hubbard should focus upon problems such as the Beverly High teacher who had so many first semester students fail or drop out of an advanced math course that the class had to be canceled. The fiasco surrounding the nine-month construction project of the El Rodeo playground would have been averted had Hubbard's staff stayed focused on that ball. The El Rodeo auditorium is an embarrassment to a community so closely associated with the entertainment indus-

The public will be watching Dr. Hubbard. He has purged talented teachers and exceptional administrators from BHUSD schools. I hope he does produce positive results for Beverly Hills schools. He better select his puppets carefully. If current test scores decline, he may arrive at Lasky Drive one morning and find that his key no longer unlocks the door to his office.

Thomas Hayostek Beverly Hills

I had the good fortune of working with Mrs. Stern on a daily basis for many years. I knew her when she was an excellent history teacher. I worked with her when she was a devoted assistant principal and an outstanding principal. I think it's a very sad day for Beverly Vista families when the principal, who has led their school under the most difwhereare they they now?

Gene Eaves

Hawthorne Instrumental Music Teacher, 1960-1996 BHEA President, 1978-1989 Sylmar, CA

How did you become an instrumental music teacher?

When I was at [U]SC, I started off as a performance major on viola. I had to work my way through SC, so I worked 40 hours a week and went to school. I couldn't practice to keep up with that, so I went into music education and had never been happier. And that's how I became a music teacher.

How did you first get to Beverly Hills?

The head of the Music Ed department at SC was contacted by the then elementary music supervisor [in Beverly Hills] and she asked, "Who would you recommend?" I was still in the service, but I would be out in June, and he recommended me. It happened that Bob Holmes, who was the [Beverly High choral teacher] for many, many years and I did practice teaching at Hollywood High and we became acquainted. He also recommended me, so that's how I came to Beverly [Hills].

You taught all over the district.

I've been all over. When I started in 1960, there were two of us who taught as a team. We went around and taught music at all four elementary schools. George Wing, who was the orchestra man at the high school for years, was having trouble with his back and they would have a sub for me and I would go up and teach orchestra at the high school. It was easier for them to get a sub for me than it was to get one qualified for George.

Do you remember your first principals?

There were four of them. At Hawthorne, it was Clorine Jones, who had been a supervisor of music herself in a previous incarnation. At El Rodeo, for only one year, it was Homer Cornick, John French at Beverly Vista, and at Horace Mann it was Dave Haserot.

Out of all the schools you've taught at in Beverly Hills, did you have a favorite?

This is difficult. But I found that the students and the parents in Horace Mann were closest to my own experience in growing up. I found that they had the clearest idea and the greatest appreciation for what the education system in Beverly Hills could do for their children. They were very much supportive of the teachers and I just felt comfortable there. I think it was the up-and-coming school in the district, Horace Mann being the area of small home owners, and to a great extent, apartments, the other two schools were either old money or nouveau riche. So I felt comfortable there and I think we made a great deal of progress. I was very proud of that school. It was never the largest of the schools, but the parents were very supportive. The Corwin family was very, very good to me. [The late Principal] Dave Haserot, who was a musician himself-- he had played clarinet through college-- he was always very supportive of music though he never insisted that I do one thing or the other. He was very good about letting me pick the music for graduation. I was there eight years before I played "Pomp and Circumstance" twice. I was able to pick other literature which I think the students needed or I could do better on, and it was wonderful. He was very supportive but not manipulative. He said, "I want a good performance." That was his only directive.

You were president of the teachers' union (BHEA) for 11 years. How did you first get involved?

I had been teaching seven or eight years and a friend of mine at the high school, another teacher, Simone Laidig, was running for president. One of the people from Horace Mann came to me and said, "I'ts time you got involved in the association. There's a slot open for vice president. You really don't have to do anything; you just have to show up." I said, "That's my kind of thing." I was duly elected, and Simone was elected. Simone was a rather sensitive type, and she resigned. The bylaws said that the vice president will accede to the presidency and finish out the term, and that's what I did. I liked what I was doing, and they liked what I did, so that started the 11-year time that I was president.

Can you mention the names of other teachers who were active in the union over the years?

There's not too many of them who are still teaching. Sylvia Contreras [Nelson], a foreign language teacher traveling at the elementary schools. She was a representative when I was elected vice president and she stayed with me until I finished my tour of duty. Betty Nichols from the high school, Lee Morris who is still teaching at the high school and at Horace Mann. Tina Dagodag, she's still teaching at Horace Mann; Larry Bigler at the high school. Those are the ones that come to mind because they were there for so many years. They were the strength of the organization. I tended to delegate a lot of things, and as long as it's working, go for it. Maybe that's why I could survive so long.

In the late 1970s, during your tenure as BHEA president, there were serious budget cuts made to California schools. Arts and music programs were usually the first to be cut.

It was very difficult because Beverly [Hills] had always been the gilded ghetto. In the reign of [former Superintendent] Kenneth L. Peters, all he had to do was smile. He could sell bonds and they would pass with no problem. In Sacramento, when he walked into a room, all the other superintendents stood up. I saw that happen. I was impressed. We were up there trying to lobby the legislature. That was when they put all the monies in Sacramento and they would dole it out. It was not individual school districts. Beverly has a very high assessed valuation; of course, we were always able to get the bonds passed very easily, while in Compton or lesser affluent areas it was like pulling teeth. So, we went up to Sacramento, the unions and some of the administrators. That's one of the rare times when we were on the same side of the table. We wanted to get them to level up, rather than level down, to bring everyone up to what Beverly had rather than going down to the common denominator.

In the mid-1980s, while you were still president of the BHEA, there were more budget cuts and spoke out against the Board of Education.

We really went out and beat the bushes for everybody. The tenor of the Board [of Education] changed. The boards became less and less friendly as monies became less and less available. They asked [for] more and more without any kind of reward either in monetary means or in other areas. There was one board member who thought technology was the beall and end-all and that teachers were just ancillary to technology. So we did have a real clash. I was president when we took a strike vote and luckily the board came off some of their positions and we were able to reach agreement.

Teachers went on strike in 1989, and after that it seems a lot of parents were inspired to run for the school board. How do you think the strike changed teaching in Beverly Hills?

The real hard-nosers were the ones who led us up to the strike, and for a while [after] there was kind of a relative calm. I came in at the end of the golden age, when money was around. There was the age of open hostilities, but the last one was the period of benign neglect. That was directed at one of the superintendents, who was educationally a fine man, but as far as being a great leader, not really. I've seen a lot of different things and I have seen a lot of changes in the district and sometimes individual board members and presidents of the board would be fine, and there were others that would not be. They seemed more concerned with a personal agenda. They could see the trees, but not necessarily the forest. And that was, I don't think, to the betterment of the district.

Why do you think that in Beverly Hills, unlike some other school districts, the teacher's union does not have a big role in electing school board members?

One of my parent friends at Horace Mann said, "Teachers, you're higher than the maids, but not as far up as a housekeeper or a chauffeur." Believe me, that did not sit well with us, but it's been sort of true. The populace at large in Beverly Hills will very often be very complimentary about the academic preparation of the staff and the good teaching that goes on in classes, but socially we are not very important. They would accept us as their academic peers but in anything social it was pretty obvious where we could sit-- next to the kitchen entrance where the waiters came in and out.

You started teaching second graders fulltime at Hawthorne in 1990.

When they closed up the instrumental music in the elementary schools-- and they've since reinstated it-- in 1990, that's when I took a second grade classroom at Hawthorne. I couldn't have been happier. It was a great place in my full-time teaching career.

Why did you retire from teaching full-time in 1996?

It was a confluence of situations. It got to a point of no return, when you no longer accrue any more [seniority] towards your pension. At that point anything I got would be going to the IRS, and I had passed 60, so I thought, "This is it." I saw that they were changing some of the textbooks I was using and I realized that if I were to stay around and learn the new texts, that would take three, four, five years. I certainly didn't want to go that long.

What are you doing now?

From that time [1996] until today I've been on the sub list and I sometimes work as much as half time. It's not unusual for me to work 10 days a month. I've been staying at Hawthorne because that's where I ended up doing my classroom work and I know the teachers and I know the school pretty well. I feel comfortable here, though I've subbed in all of the district's schools.

Do you keep in touch with anyone from Beverly Hills?

Tina Dagodag. We get together with the Warlings up in Valencia for birthdays and holidays and that sort of thing. I keep in contact with the faculty by subbing.

Today, the teacher's union is headed by Beverly Hills science teacher Chris Bushee. What advice would you give him?

It's difficult to say, because the situations have changed quite a bit. But I'd say keep your ear to the ground and don't be surprised if things change when you least expect it. Keep lines of communication clear. Keep a stiff upper lip because sometimes teachers can be very demanding. Don't let the job eat you.

Response to Letters

Columnist reacts to Stern, Tanenbaum reader reactions. By Rudy Cole

Before you read this, take a challenging moment and glance at the letters to the editor the Weekly is publishing this week. If you have you will probably understand my obligation to respond and agree that what this city needs is a Columnist Protection Program.

The controversy surrounding the departure of Beverly Vista Principal Irene Stern brought several angry responses to my column.

It would really be helpful if those reacting to my words had reading skills or, at least, some memory. Possibly a certificate of graduation from an accredited kindergarten, not one obtainable from a mail order house on the internet, would be required before publication.

I did not "trash" Mrs. Stern. On the contrary, I wrote: "Stern is a tough administrator and a good one." I gave her credit for the awards the school has received. In attempting to discern the reasons for her departure, I learned from sources I consider reliable that she had not responded to some direction from the superintendent of schools. It is to the school board and the superintendent's credit that they did not exacerbate the issue by offering a defense of their actions. They stoically took the heat permitting Mrs. Stern to leave under the best possible circumstances. The loyal reaction of her supporters is to be commended, but not if it escalates into irrational and unreasonable attacks on the board or the administration.

For the record, at no point did I discuss this with Superintendent Jeff Hubbard. My information came from parents and teachers at the school, most of it, but not all, supportive of their principal.

But there was one letter that requires some special treatment. The writer apparently left out one tiny, possibly insignificant fact: He, Mark Stern, is the husband of the principal. Probably an unintended oversight. Defending their spouses is what husbands should do. It goes to our primal instincts. Of course, Mark and I have a history. For years, he was one of my severest critics and one of the city's leading City Council bashers-- it hardly mattered who served on that body. His letter writing aside, Mark is a genial and friendly type, not typist. We used to have congenial discussions when he lived here and jogged near Beverly Vista School. (My days of walking in that area are probably over.) In the interests of full disclosure, Mark could have found a means of identifying his vested interest in the matter of Stern v. Cole. And such nasty words! You might think I was T.J. Simers.

In any case, and in the interests of fairness, I offer this letter in my defense:

"Readers such as Mark Stern seem to forget Rudy Cole's contribution to our schools. His columns have been credited for helping convince the City Council to increase funding through the Joint Powers Agreement. He even had nice things to say about Mrs. Stern, and what many current parents probably don't know, Cole was the manager of the most successful school bond election in our history, winning by a whopping 93 percent 'yes' vote. That bond vote led to the first major improvements in school facil-

Sincerely,
Josette Cole

(Editor's Note: Josette is related by marriage to the besieged columnist. Unfortunately, his brother and cousins were unwilling to come to his defense and his cats preferred to remain neutral, or was that neutered?)

Back to reality: Beverly Vista will have a new principal, Mrs. Stern can leave knowing she was appreciated by many in her community and school, and the parents of Beverly Vista and the whole district will remember how much this board and this superintendent do to serve the educational needs of the whole district, not just one school.

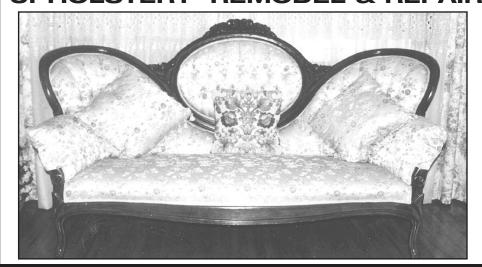

As to some of the other attacks on the school board, chalk them up to strong feelings for Mrs. Stern. I watched the tape of the board meeting several times and I did not, as one writer suggested, see any "smug" behavior. What I did see was a great deal of discomfort and selfinflicted restraint. Not responding to gratuitous attacks was difficult, but the correct and fair process. Remember, this was not a public hearing on whether Mrs. Stern should be retained as principal. That decision is, under law, made behind closed doors and almost always at the suggestion of the administration. The board listened politely and with considerable courtesy to often highly charged, threatening personal attacks.

Final thought: We did receive considerable communication on both sides of this issue from people who would not give their names. I would protect a name, but not publish their views without identification.

Before tackling a letter published last week that was critical of my column on former Mayor Robert K. Tanenbaum, some thoughts on column writing. I'm very far from perfect and I make more than my share of mistakes, but I try very hard to put aside personal feelings, which is not always possible, when I write these words. We are a very emotional community, and that is good. We have strong feelings on a wide range of community issues and any written words are fair game for counter attack. I do try to be fair, to give a balanced, not totally biased expression of views, even when I have my own strong feelings on an issue. When I come up short, send those letters.

The letter, as with some others, cherry picked my words. It was about Tanenbaum, of course, but the writer failed to mention that I gave the volatile former council member credit for some positive contributions even though I strongly objected to his representing people suing the city shortly after he was defeated for re-election. I did not dwell on the failure of the Beverly Hills Family "Y", when under his leadership, and other issues raised during his re-election try. What last week's letter writer should know is that many readers thought I was much too soft on Tanenbaum. Frankly, I thought the column was fair and balanced.

There was one allegation in this letter to the editor that does require a very clear response. Joy C. Shefter wrote, among other comments, that "speaking of the truth, it is time for Mr. Cole to inform readers that he was a paid lobbyist for the Cirrus project on Canon Drive."

Reminds me of the campaign against Claude Pepper for Senate by George Smathers in the 1950s, who, in the backwoods of Florida, proclaimed that his opponent "has not denied that he is a well known heterosexual."

The facts: My representation was NOT a secret. I made that very public at every hearing before the Planning Commission and in discussions with city staff. All a mater of record. However, reader Shefter should know that this matter never went to the City Council and I never mentioned Cirrus in these columns-- a self imposed rule. In the last five years, I have represented only three clients who had matters before the council, including the Snyder project. At no time did I discuss the merits of these or other clients in this column. My rule is simple: I will not appear at a council hearing for any client and write about it while I represent them. After, yes, when I am no longer professionally involved. Also, as a matter of record, because I oppose conversions of apartments to condos in almost every instance, I do not represent any developer who asks for a conversion approval. Again, my own rules and my own conscience. If I am not to appear before the City Council, I feel I do not have any conflict.

I have no financial interest in this publication, receive no fees and often I am unable to accept clients because of a possible conflict.

I do make a living from representing clients with government relations issues, mostly outside the city. I've been doing that for more than 30 years. The word lobbyist is a misnomer. It implies working the corridors of government to obtain a favorable action or vote.

Governmental relations and consulting goes much further and is not simply an attempt to influence elected officials.

As for the Cirrus project on North Canon, although I no longer represent them, it was to be a medical facility-- not doctor's offices, but with ground floor retail. It was approved entirely within code. It faced no opposition from community groups or civic leaders, however, it will probably not be built and the property is likely to be sold prior to construction.

One sidebar about the Stern departure. If the board or the administration had actual enmity toward her, she would not have been offered the job as principal of the Adult School-- some might even consider that a promotion and a good assignment prior to retirement.

Adelphia interrupted many Academy Award parties this week when an outage affected some customers north of Santa Monica, just prior to the award show. One house party was not able to see one of their guests in an award-related interview. Too bad. It was one of the best in years. The opening skits were clever, the show had good momentum and Jon Stewart did a very craftsman like job as host and for the first time in decades, a movie I preferred ("Crash") actually won.

Gloria Jennings, Commissioner Lou Milkowski's perpetual bride, is recovering nicely at home following a series of surgeries and hospital visits. We wish her a speedy return to her duties in our cultural affairs.

Theatre 40 has scored a big win: To help celebrate its 40th anniversary, it will present the incomparable Eli Wallach and Anne Jackson in their production of "Bits and Pieces" one night only on Sunday, March 19 at 7 p.m. Tickets will be very limited, and for information, call (310) 364-0535.

Bob v. Rudy

Former mayor responds to Rudy Cole's column.

By Robert K. Tanenbaum

This column is in response to Rudy Cole's article which appeared in issue #334.

In the first week of January the Beverly Hills North Homeowners' Association circulated an "Open Letter To The Community." Its purpose was to express the North Homeowners' Association concerns that the City Council was promoting over-development causing additional destination gridlock. Also, the "Open Letter" expressed additional concerns that City Hall was engaging in spot-zoning, fiscal mismanagement and outright deceit. On Jan. 26, City Hall responded to the issues that were raised in our "Open Letter." On that Thursday night at 7 p.m., approximately 200 of out fellow residents "enthusiastically" shared similar concerns with us at our annual Town Hall meeting.

pointedly highlighted the misinformation and unmitigated fabrications laced throughout the City Hall response. For example, we chided City Hall for raising our water rate 26 percent for no expressed legitimate reason. City Hall's response was mysteriously, "there is no tax!" We also reported City Hall's duplicity when they failed to notify the residents about the Cirrus Medical Office project abutting the Montage on Canon Drive. City Hall was obligated, pursuant to law, to inform the public about this project which was expected to generate, based on its own numbers, 50,000 cars per month. Interesting to note that Rudy Cole was a consultant to the Cirrus project.

On Feb. 16, we submitted our reply to the City Hall Evacuated Due To Bomb Scare

Beverly Hills City Hall was evacuated last Thursday morning after a suspicious item was found outside the Fire Department.

At about 5:45 a.m. a fire department employee noticed a suspicious item outside the headquarters on Rexford Drive. According to Lt. Mitch McCann, to be safe, the city closed off the area on Rexford between Burton Way and Santa Monica for nearly three hours while the BHPD called on the bomb squad. It was later determined that the item posed no threat. The streets re-opened at about 9:30 a.m.

Because of the early hour, City Hall was not yet open. Those employees and visitors present were evacuated to Rexford. Police department employees remained in the building.

McCann described the suspicious item as a "common, everyday business or household item," but did not provide any details about its description because of the ongoing investiga-

"We're still working on it trying to find out whether the item was left intentionally or unintentionally and whether criminal charges will be filed," McCann said.

The evacuation caught the attention of the national media, including CNN and Fox News.

Mayor Briskman Named "Woman of the Year"

Assemblymember Paul Koretz (D-West Hollywood) has selected Beverly Hills Mayor Linda Briskman as "Woman of the Year" in the 42nd Assembly District. This year marks the twentieth annual Woman of the Year celebration which will be held at the State Capitol March 20 during Women's History Month.

Each assemblymember is asked to select one woman who resides in his or her district who has significantly contributed to their community. Koretz said, "Choosing a 'Woman of the Year' is a decision I often struggle with. Our community provides so many exceptional women; picking one to single out is always difficult. My decision this year was much simpler. Mayor Briskman's great work on behalf of Beverly Hills made her an obvious choice. I look forward to celebrating her accomplishments in Sacramento."

The event is sponsored by the California Legislative Women's Caucus. Each of the eighty honorees, representing the 79 Assembly Districts and the Office of the Lieutenant Governor, will be introduced during a special ceremony on the Assembly Floor. One of the legislature's largest events. the celebration gives the legislature the opportunity to show appreciation for the women's contributions to government, business and the community.

Briskman made open communication a priority during her tenure as mayor, which ends the same day as the ceremony. Locally, she initiated one-on-one meetings with citizens,

City Hall declined to respond directly in any fashion to our reply. An old courthouse saw has it that when you have a weak case on the facts, try the law; when you have a weak case on the law, try the facts; and when you have a weak case on the facts and the law, try the prosecutor. And who better to perform this futile disservice that Rudy Cole, one familiar with the courts, and himself a developer's consultant for hire.

On Feb. 23, Mr. Cole's article appeared in the Weekly. No one from the Weekly had the decency to contact me regarding the distortions and pathetic content of the piece. In his article, Mr. Cole, instead of refuting the resident-inspired positions contained in our "Open Letters to the Community," simply launched into a personal attack against me. Since Mr. Cole, nowhere in his piece, refutes or, in any way, remotely casts a scintilla of doubt upon the well-reasoned, factually reliable substance or content of the matters raised in our "Open Letters," logically we can conclude that his alleged refutation has the impact of a feather and the essence of the substance of out "Open Letters" remain uncontradicted and unchallenged.

Now to his false and defamatory personal attack on me. Briefly, let's examine Mr. Cole's futile and inane analysis:

Ethics Law

Our city needs an ethics law to root-out influence peddling at City Hall. The ethics law we propose bars ex-council members and planning commissioners for a two-year period from appearing before City Council and/or Planning Commission meetings mayors, shortly after leaving the council, who choose to represent developers, have access and influence to a disproportionate degree. Simply, they are profiteering at the expense of the residents.

Mr. Cole offers no counterpoint to our proposed ethics law. Instead, he erroneously states that immediately upon completion of my city service I used "inside information" and sued the city. What a distortion!

Let's talk some truth: Nineteen months after I left the council, two other lawyers and I, on behalf of eight plaintiffs, filed a civil rights complaint in federal court alleging racial profiling. It was one of the first prominently nationally reported profiling cases. Ultimately, the case was settled. Racial profiling is an extremely serious matter. As a direct result of filing the civil rights case, an avalanche of individuals of minority ethnicity came forward. Some of those who came forward were: 1) A Beverly High teacher/coach, 2) a nationally prominent lawyer, 3) a former Princeton All-American professional basketball player and educator; and 4) a congressman from Ohio. In addition, during this period, the now defunct Beverly Hills Post reported that one of its own executives was also a victim of racial profiling. At that time, Mr. Cole wrote for the Beverly Hills Post. He knew first hand the seriousness and legitimacy of the civil rights issue, yet he noted in his article that it had no

42nd Assembly District," Briskman said. "The award ceremony falls on my last full day as mayor. It's been a wonderful year that is made even more meaningful to me by being recognized in this way as my year as mayor draws to a close."

"I am deeply Lieutenant Commander Jim Stepenosky, brother of Beverly High Principal Dan Stepenosky, is a touched to have Naval flight surgeon with Marine Air Group 16, which left for Iraq last Monday. When Jim's plane landed to refuel at Shannon Airport, President George W. Bush was visiting on the ground while on to his way to Pakistan. Pictured (L-R) are President Bush, Jim Stepenosky (in back) with friend.

New Rec and Parks Commissioner Appointed

South Camden Drive resident Marc O'Krent has been appointed to replace Jeff Brynan on the Recreation and Parks Commission. There were 14 applicants.

O'Krent is the CEO of the Los Angelesbased telecommunications company The Telephone Connection.

Brynan's term ends March 13, but he has agreed to remain on the commission until formal action is taken on the appointment at the council meeting April 4.

Unsuccessful applicants included Beverly Hills realtor Yar Meshkaty and former Board of Education member Virginia Maas.

BHPD Reports Decrease in Crime Since Last Year; Drunk Driving Enforcement Stronger than Ever

The Beverly Hills Police Department announced crime statistics for 2005, reporting a 9 percent decrease crime and a 19 percent increase in arrests.

The new numbers are in keeping with the trend of the last two years, since the arrival of Chief Dave Snowden in 2004. Since Snowden's arrival, crime has steadily ago, therefore, I should support one now. Frankly, assuming that the residents wanted it, a sports facility of modest dimensions and reasonable cost placed in an acceptable locale within code, might make sense. Similarly, a hotel within code consistent with our city's General Plan would also be welcome. However, the issue for us today is the mega scope and accompanying enormous projected costs in terms of dollars and adverse environmental impacts that will result from the proposed sports center. For example, City Hall informs that the sports center as proposed is approximately 80,000 square feet at a $60 million-$80 million cost. Additionally, there is an intention to add commercial and residential development that will require a cut-through from the Industrial Area onto Santa Monica Boulevard to accommodate additional residential traffic.

All of this development is to take place inside the Industrial Area just east of the Civic Center parking area and bordered by Civic Center Drive and Third Street.

The importance of maintaining the integrity of the Industrial Area as decided by the residents in a special election cannot be overstated. It is the last remaining parcel of city-owned real estate that has been set aside for the maintenance and development of city services is ill conceived because of its enormous cost projection, oversized nature, concomitant commercial development, and its misdirected and counter productive location setting.

We need, as a community, to have an open, free and informed debate about these matters. We are committed to keeping the marketplace of ideas democratic, stimulated and honest. All in our community are invited to our next Town Hall meeting to share views regarding these issues. Mr. Cole, please attend and let's discuss in an open forum how we can all make our city a better place.

Serious acts of misconduct have occurred and continue to occur at City Hall. Ultimately, all those involved are accountable to the people. Moreover, generally, the residents of our city in Paddy Chayefsky terms are "fed up and are not going to take it anymore." Personal attacks and City Hall deceptions will only serve to sharpen the focus of out resolve to restore dignity and integrity in out city's institutions.

ficult of circumstances, is dismissed without any understanding of the cause.

Mr. Cole makes unsubstantiated assertions that Mrs. Stern is being fired because she disobeyed the superintendent. Does Mr. Cole have some inside information that the rest of us have not been privy to? It is my understanding that all personnel matters are kept strictly confidential. As far as I know, no reason has been given for Mrs. Stern's firing. Quite the contrary, anyone who knows Mrs. Stern would certainly agree that she would never disobey her boss. She might have had the temerity to disagree with him, but she would always have been respectful of his position and of hers.

The most perplexing part of this is that it's highly unusual to remove the CEO when the company is producing record profits. Beverly Vista has thrived under her leadership. Test scores are up. Beverly Vista is a California Distinguished School and a Blue Ribbon School. Mrs. Stern knows every single child on her campus by name. She doesn't lock herself up in her office but practices the art of constant vigilance, supervising, advising and always keeping a watchful eye on the students. She has mentored her teachers and encouraged their growth. Mrs. Stern has worked diligently with PTA. She is the one who has made it possible for the construction of the school to move forward without incident. She has the historical knowledge that will be needed as this last phase is completed. She is the one who has spent countless hours, evenings and weekends to find ways to improve the school. Mrs. Stern is the one who understands the needs of the campus and should have been allowed to see the completion of the vision, a new completely rebuilt school. This is something we've all dreamed about since 1994 when the school was declared to be unsafe.

The old idiom still applies, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

decreased while the number of arrests has risen

Snowden has made traffic safety a focus for the department. A newly created DUI team arrested approximately 294 drunk drivers in Beverly Hills last year and implemented periodic sobriety checkpoints.

At the latest checkpoint on Feb. 24, 11 arrests were made. Five people were arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, five for driving with a suspended license or no license, and one for possession of marijuana.

The Police Department will be conducting two more checkpoints this month. The first, to take place on the 500 block of North Beverly Drive is scheduled for March 22, from 2-4 p.m. The second will be in effect on Santa Monica Boulevard at Sierra Drive on March 24, from 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

Notice for Eviction and Rent Increase Notices Cut in Half

The notice required in Beverly Hills for landlords to give tenants prior to eviction was changed last month from 60 days to 30 days, in compliance with state law.

In 2004, Beverly Hills modified its municipal codes regulating rent control to be consistent with state laws at the recommendation of City Attorney Larry Wiener.

Following the state law adoption, the notice required prior to rent increases in Beverly Hills was changed from 60 to 30 days required by the state.

Although the 30-day notice for rent increases has been effective since June 2004, many residents may only see the effects now. According to Beverly Hills Code Enforcement Manager Bart Swanson, there is a requisite lag period following any change in rent law, during which all landlords must be notified. Tenants whose rents increased in early 2005 may not have been subject to the 30-day rule until this year.

Last month, the 60-day state law for eviction notices was also changed to 30 days.

BHPD Plans Neighborhood Watch Recruitment

The Beverly Hills Police Department plans to recruit individual Neighborhood Watch members as well as Neighborhood Watch Block Captains starting with this year's Neighborhood Watch Zone meetings this month and next.

The meetings will target two topics, "Identity Theft" and how "Disaster Preparedness Relates to Neighborhood Watch." The city is divided into 21 "watch zones" comprised of various Neighborhood Watch Blocks.

The Department of Homeland Security has asked city councils to develop a plan to get their citizens ready to withstand another possible attack on the U.S. using a method called Citizen Corps comprising of four elements already implemented in the city: Community Emergency Response Training (C.E.R.T.), Disaster Communications System (D.C.S.), Volunteers In Policing (V.I.P.), and Neighborhood Watch. The goal is to organize all Neighborhood Watch Blocks in the city along the lines of Citizen Corps.

"If we are able to do this, we believe that each organized block will become a self-sufficient entity that can sustain itself for the first three to five days of a major natural disaster or terrorist incident," Srgt. Joe Chirillo said at Tuesday's informal council meeting. "Each block will have members who are trained in the various aspects of Citizen Corps, First Aid, etc. who cannot only help sustain their block but know how to prioritize and communicate their needs to authorities who can eventually help them."

Currently 194 block captains have organized their block or apartment building, but the list is not reliable because many of these block captains have quit without informing the department. The department estimates that about 40 block captains remain, and those blocks that remain do not include the expanded role of disaster preparedness.

"To be honest, the citizenry is currently not able to sustain themselves for a three- to fiveday period in the event of an attack or natural disaster," Chirillo said.

Chirillo said to initiate the program it will take a multi-faceted approach of recruitment from the BHPD, council and community leaders.

Chirillo requested the council recognize a few block captains at a meeting when promoting the program to encourage others to join, citywide mailings; pitching the program to PTAs, homeowners' associations and civic groups; media releases; outreach to the Persian community through radio stations, temples, and by having Farsi translators available for meetings; solicitations of prior C.E.R.T. graduates to become block captains; door-to-door recruitment; and acknowledging of organized blocks with signs.

Beverly Hills Business Community Gives Thumbs Up To Red Line Extension

The Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors voted last Tuesday to support two transportation proposals that will improve the condition of getting to and through the city. Based on recommendations that were presented by the Chamber's Government Affairs Committee, the board voted to support the extension of the Red Line subway to the Westside, with one or more stations being located within the business districts of Beverly Hills and to support the L.A. Metro's proposed trial of an exclusive bus lane along Wilshire Boulevard during peak traffic periods.

"The Chamber Board's vote to support these initiatives signals a commitment from the business community that it will take an active role on the transportation issues that will impact Beverly Hills' residents, businesses and visitors in the future," Chamber CEO Dan Walsh said after the vote. "Beverly Hills will be at the table-- that you can be sure of."

While numerous components of the extension remain to be worked out, from routes to funding, the Chamber board felt that one or more stops in Beverly Hills would enhance the retail and general business attraction of the city, as well as ensure that that Beverly Hills be part of the subway extension discussion as details emerge moving forward.

"The opportunity of establishing Beverly Hills stops along the Red Line subway route is historic," said former Mayor Allan Alexander, who is the Chamber's Vice President of Economic Development and Chair of the Government Affairs Committee. "This city's access to a transportation option that will bring consumers, employees, visitors, and locals from throughout the greater Los Angeles region to the Westside appeals to business today and more importantly, business tomorrow."

The Chamber Board of Directors also voted to support the proposed L.A. Metro peak-period bus lane trial along Wilshire Boulevard between Doheny Drive and Fairfax Avenue. The board recognized that buses pass through Beverly Hills every 85 seconds during peak periods, and the exclusive bus lane could see more people transported through the city with less delay and at relatively low cost. With its vote, the board also recommended that Metro consider extending its trial zone west to Beverly Drive to promote the use of public transportation and help alleviate traffic gridlock along the Wilshire Corridor.

Normans Edged In Lacrosse Varsity Debut BHHS boys' golf team wins three matches.

By Steven Herbert

A penalty-filled second quarter and lack of depth spoiled the debut of boys' lacrosse as a varsity sport at Beverly High.

The Normans allowed five second-quarter goals in an 8-7 loss at West Hills Chaminade in a nonleague game last Thursday.

After trailing 7-2 at halftime, Beverly Hills cut the deficit to 7-6 entering the fourth quarter. Sam Forrest scored the first two Norman goals of the third quarter, with Matt Lockhart scoring the third and Alex Komlos the fourth, off D.J. Jebejian's assist.

The Eagles scored first in the fourth quarter, increasing their lead to 8-6. Forest scored for Beverly Hills with less than three minutes to play. The Normans called time out with 45 seconds left, but the Eagle goaltender stopped their shot and Chaminade ran out the clock.

Beverly Hills "showed a lot of character by coming back in the third quarter," said coach Tim Ray, who also coached the team when lacrosse was played as a team sport at the school, without district assistance.

"Pulling it to within one goal to end the game was a good victory for us," Ray said. "In the past, we haven't been able to come back against teams. We seem to give up, but we didn't this game."

The first quarter ended in a 2-2 tie, with Jon Gallagher scoring both Beverly Hills goals, the second on Forrest's assist, Goaltender John Gornik faced 27 shots and made 19 saves.

COUNCIL DEBATES UPDATING THE COMMISSION ROTATION PROCESS

Proposed changes to the reappointment process for city commissioners sparks discussion. By Anna Scott

The City Council examined four potential changes to the commission process at Tuesday's meeting, and discussed whether the updates would improve or hinder an already inconsistent system. Opinions differed on two of the recommendations, both addressing the appointment procedure for city commissioners.

The suggested revisions, prepared by city staff at the request of the council, follow the Planning Commission's election of Shahram Melamed as vice chair over Nancy Krasne out of the traditional seniority order.

After reviewing standing commission procedures, staff found that while some commissions "have adopted a resolution pertaining to rules of procedure that is more than 10-years-old," others have no procedural guidelines at all outside of Beverly Hills Municipal Code.

Staff recommended that each commission create or update its official rules of procedure, and specifically include a section on the rotation of chair and vice chair.

Traditionally, commissioners have been elected to chair and vice chair positions according to seniority. However, this is not always the case, most recently evidenced by the Planning Commission's election of Melamed over Krasne

Councilmember Barry Brucker agreed with the suggestion, but added that seniority order should be the election method among all commissions.

Mayor Linda Briskman countered that although seniority has been the practice, commissioners are not bound to it, and supported staff's suggestion that each commission standardize its own rotation method as it sees fit.

City Attorney Larry Wiener confirmed that the city's municipal code guidelines for commissions do not specify seniority as the basis for commission elections.

Councilmembers Steve Webb, Jimmy Delshad and Frank Fenton agreed with the staff and Briskman's view that the method of rotation for chairs and vice chairs be defined separately by each commission.

In response, Brucker raised the question of why seniority is so meticulously tracked-sometimes determined by minutes if two commissioners are appointed on the same day-- if not for the purpose of determining when commissioners are up for office.

Briskman responded that, "It [seniority] determines where [commissioners] sit at meetings," explaining that seniority order helps commissioners organize meetings and assist new commissioners in learning the commission process. However, Briskman added, deference to seniority is primarily "ceremonial" and not binding.

Staff also suggested that commissioners up for reappointment be interviewed by a council liaison before being confirmed for a second term.

Currently, after an initial two year term, commissioners are reappointed for another four years based on objective criteria such as attendance and voting recusal record. Any further discussion of the reappointment takes place only at the specific request of a city councilmember in a public forum.

Now, staff has suggested that re-appointees be interviewed by the council liaison before the City Clerk proceeds with tallying attendance and voting records.

Council member Barry Brucker expressed concern that the addition of an interview would give the council too much discretion in reappointing commissioners.

Commission applicants who don't support those council members' agendas might be unfairly barred from service, Brucker argued.

"If there is a project [pending] and there is a difference of opinion, I'm concerned that it could have the potential to cloud the recommendation," Brucker said.

Webb did not share Brucker's concern, pointing out that city commissioners "are there in our [the council's] place."

"I have a responsibility to the community, not to the commissioner," Webb said. "The only time I would be concerned about a [commissioner's] vote would be a commissioner who voted against the city attorney's recommendation."

Brucker made it clear that he does not believe any present council member would take advantage of the commission process to push a personal agenda.

Nonetheless, Brucker maintained, the process should be safeguarded. If the reappointment interview is adopted, Brucker argued, it should consist of a standardized list of questions.

Again, Webb disputed Brucker's argument. The questions asked of a re-appointee, Webb said, "should be customized to suit the specific concerns" of the council liaison.

"You can't predict those ahead of time," Webb said. He noted that any council liaison reviewing a commission reappointment will have had at least two years of experience with the re-appointee and therefore should be able to identify any issues related to his or her performance.

The rest of the commission approved of the recommendation for a council liaison to review commission re-appointees, but was split over the interview format.

Delshad agreed with Webb's argument that the council liaison should question reappointees as they see fit.

Fenton suggested that instead of standardized questions, liaison members should be given a "broad outline," i.e., two or three standard questions to be included with their own.

Briskman deferred further discussion of the issue until July, when five members of the Design Review Commission will be up for reappointment.

The council unanimously approved a recommendation that all prospective commissioners be asked if they have ever applied for the "Team Beverly Hills" program," rather than whether they have participated in the program.

The staff's suggestion that all Beverly Hills commissions and committees become subject to the 2005 Commissioners' Interaction Protocol, which provides guidelines for commissioners' conduct, was also unanimously accepted.

BRUCKER MAKES THE CASE FOR A CODE OF ETHICS

City Council is considering adopting a code of ethics, imposing tighter controls on the day-to-day actions of all city officials.

Councilmember Barry Brucker has put forth a proposal for Beverly Hills to adopt a local code of ethics. The code would provide a framework for every day decision-making by council, board, commission and committee members.

Municipal ethics codes, which currently exist in 12 out of 400 cities statewide, are designed to supplement state ethics laws with "values-based" behavioral guidelines that apply directly to daily operations.

According Simi Valley councilmember Karen Bejhan, whose city is one of the 12 with an existing ethics code, the measure has primarily functioned to "create an atmosphere of sensitivity" among city officials.

Ethics codes, Brucker pointed out, can also expand on state laws.

"Unlike ethics 'laws,' ethics 'codes' go beyond minimum ethical requirements established by ethics laws to define how public officials act 'when they are at their best,' Brucker wrote in a Feb. 7 letter to council.

As an example, Brucker points to the state's one year ban on former officeholders from lobbying the same governmental agency, which could be extended by a local code of ethics.

"We should at least equal the standard," Brucker said, adding that a code of ethics would help ensure that council members and commissioners come to their positions "with no ulterior motive."

In advance of yesterday's meeting, Brucker drafted a sample Beverly Hills Code of Ethics & Values, based largely on the codes in place in cities such as Oxnard, Simi Valley, Fresno and Mountain View.

"Beverly Hills is a community of energized, involved, passionate and caring citizens," Brucker said. "Who better to take the lead [on ethics]?"

Tuesday, after hearing a presentation by the City Attorney's office on current state ethics laws, council took an informal vote on whether to the adopt a city ethics code.

Frank Fenton voted for the adoption, suggesting that each council member review the 12 city codes currently in place in California and pick out relevant items, to be compiled into a Beverly Hills code.

Brucker, meanwhile, requested the formation of an ad-hoc committee to review the existing codes and create a draft for Beverly Hills.

Councilmember Jimmy Delshad also voted for adopting the ethics code, and agreed with Brucker's point that it should be more prohibitive than state law with regard to lobbying.

"We are dealing with the trust of the community," Delshad said.

Vice Mayor Steve Webb gave cautious approval of the proposal.

"I agree in terms of ethics," Webb said, but made it clear that he does not think this is purely a council issue.

"Perception in the community is important. We should act responsibly toward each other and toward the community. If the community would feel that it was helpful, then yes," Webb said.

He added that if council does move forward with adopting the code, it should not be done in private study sessions but in an open forum with the input of local residents.

Mayor Linda Briskman voted against adopting a code. Although she said that she had "no problem" with extending the lobbying law, ethics, she said "are personal. They don't need to be written down."

Briskman added that she does not believe a code of ethics would act as a deterrent to corruption. It's in the hands of voters, she said, to elect trustworthy representatives, and as long as they do, there is no need for an ethical code.

"[The council] can approach this as a group to see if there's anything worthwhile," Briskman said. "But I think that with this council it would be preaching to the choir."

City Manager Rod Wood cautioned that vague wording of a proposed code might lead to problems. He suggested that Brucker's proposed code be changed to describe specific behaviors, "to avoid arguments over adjectives."

Briskman said she is willing to review existing ethics codes and discuss the possibility of a Beverly Hills code at a future session.

What does an Environmentally Responsible development look like?

Answer: It looks like 9900 Wilshire.

9900 Wilshire will be the first LEED (Leadership in Energy & Environmental Design) Gold Certified luxury residential project in the West. Using environmentally responsible architecture and state of the art technology, it will consume 25% less energy, 50% less water and create less greenhouse emissions than comparable residential buildings.

Designed to take full advantage of its one of a kind location, the buildings will be oriented to create substantial savings of energy by using natural light and the prevailing westerly breeze. The gardens will be kept green year round using state-ofthe-art recycling systems.

9900 Wilshire will set the standard for responsible design and luxury for which Beverly Hills is known throughout the world.

Natural Resources Defense Council has endorsed this commitment to building green saying:

"By building to a LEED Gold standard, the 9900 Wilshire Boulevard project establishes a new benchmark for sustainable urban development. In its attention to sound environmental design principles, this project is a model against which other new buildings in Los Angeles and California can be measured. Our hope is that the 9900 Wilshire project will both inspire all developers to build to a LEED Gold standard or better, and persuade cities to require tougher environmental standards for new construction."

The design of 9900 Wilshire reflects our commitment to creating an environmentally responsible project that meets the needs of our community.

BHPD Officer Recognized By Council

Ofr. Ubaldo Mendoza was presented the police medal in recognition of his heroism and quick action by the City Council on Tuesday.

On Nov. 10 at about 8:30 p.m., Mendoza arrived at 355 South McCarty Drive in response to a fire at an apartment complex, and as he awaited the arrival of Fire Department units, he entered the burning building braving heavy smoke to knock on doors to alert residents to evacuate the building. He proceeded to the second floor, but the smoke was too intense to safely proceed into the hallway. Firefighters were subsequently able to evacuate those residents. Mendoza also began to coordinate the response of arriving police units as an additional precaution, and with the help of Ofr. Daniel Tanner evacuated an adjacent apartment building at 9709 Olympic Boulevard.

Beverly Vista Neighborhood Association leeting Next Thursday

Meeting Next Thursday
The Beverly Vista Neighborhood
Association will hold its spring general meeting next Thursday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Lee & Leora Lewis, 241 South Palm Drive. Vice Mayor Steve Webb and Police Chief Dave Snowden will be guests.

Residents on the 100, 200 and 300 blocks South Maple and South Palm drives are invited to the meeting to discuss concerns about crime prevention, traffic, parking, postal service, usage of disabled placards, and graffiti attacks on public and private property.

Residents attending the fall meeting were surveyed to identify areas of concern. According to the survey, almost 80 percent of the residents want stricter police enforcement of traffic regulations, for example, stopping at stop signs. The survey also revealed that most residents don't know how often police patrol the neighborhood. Snowden will be addressing these issues as well as establishing a broader Neighborhood Watch program in the area

Other survey results indicated speeding and traffic cutting through residential streets, parking enforcement and ticketing of illegally parked cars, as concerns. The 100 block of South Maple reports more problems than any other block regarding garbage, noise, commercial vehicle parking in permit only zones and alley repairs, according to the survey. Special event parking is also a concern for the 100 and 200 blocks of South Maple and the 100 block of South Palm. Regarding development of the lot at 9200 Wilshire, the No. 1 choice of residents is a mixed-use development with condominiums and businesses.

Turn your old life policies into profit for your heirs and favorite charities.

If you are over age 70 and own an old life insurance policy, you may be able to make significant gifts to charity, while increasing the legacy you leave for your heirs. Without ever writing another check!

You may believe your old policy is worthless or has very little cash value left. You may think your policy is too old, or that it can't be improved upon because your health has changed too much. You may be wrong!

Estate tax laws have changed significantly in your favor and today's insurance plans offer many new innovations. Now you may be able to considerably improve your dated policies.

One of our clients owned $900,000 of life insurance with an equity (cash value) of over $530,000. We showed him how he could gift his policy to charity and use his tax savings to buy a new one that would provide an even greater legacy for his beirs

An 80-year-old client did not think she could improve upon her ten-year-old preferred issue policy, because she had developed significant health challenges. With our help she sold her policy for triple its cash value! We then showed her how she could use the proceeds from the sale to buy a new policy that provided more guarantees and cost 20% less. She used her savings to make donations to her favorite charities.

Ask for a free report and let us help you decide whether to keep your old insurance policies or sell, surrender, or replace them at a profit, enabling you to leave more for your heirs and favorite charities.

For a free, no obligation consultation and policy appraisal, by phone or in person
