"Brown Act in Action"

Predictably, Rudy Cole questions the necessity of an ethics code for the city and joins past councils that have balked at restricting former council members from lobbying for a set period. But it is just because such potential conflicts of interest are not perceived as an issue that such rules are needed.

Another recently questionable action was that of a planning commissioner openly lobbying for the Montage project by appearing in its literature during the referendum campaign. Hopefully, a council passing rules that govern its own behavior will consult outside ethicists and civic associations before their pas-

After being administered the oath of office by California State Senator Debra Bowen (D-Marina Del Ray), Webb gave a speech focused largely on development issues highlighting some of the priority projects facing council in the coming year.

The city's General Plan was at the top of Webb's list. He called the current revision process a "historic and critical" opportunity for the community to develop its goals and said the updated plan would hinge on high environmental standards with an eye toward developing recreational facilities, maintaining open space and increasing mobility in the city.

Webb assured residents that there would be "numerous" public meetings in the next two months for citizens to give input on the plan and predicted it will be complete within the year.

Throughout his speech Webb promised to involve Beverly Hills residents as much as possible in all pending projects and maintained his dedication to work with state and other city officials in finding regional solutions to local problems.

Neighbors Complain Over Kabbalah Center Expansion

Kabballah Center on Robertson offers solutions to current problems. By Michelle Zenarosa

Approximately a dozen angered residents gathered Monday morning at Los Angeles City Hall to protest the expansion of the Kabbalah Center. If approved, the proposed project— a four-story elementary school—would lay on 1062 Robertson Boulevard in Los Angeles, across the street from Beverly Hills city limits.

Protestors consisted of residents living in the area between the Robertson and La Cienega and Olympic and Pico Boulevards. According to residents, the expansion of the center would contribute largely to the ongoing parking problem in their neighborhood.

No decision was made at the hearing. The hearing was only the first step in the process, according to officials. However, a hearing examiner will be making a recommendation to the City Planning Commission based on the presentation scheduled in May of this year

"At this point we are waiting to see what the hearing examiner recommends, but [L.A.] Councilman [Jack] Weiss will be working with the community and the applicant to address issues," said Lisa Hansen, deputy chief of staff of policy and communications for Weiss.

The proposed project on Robertson Boulevard would include a school to accommodate approximately 320 students ranging from pre-kinder to the eighth grade and a two-story underground parking garage with a minimum of 80 available spots, a few of which are tandem. According to neighboring residents, 80 spots are not enough.

"Eighty spots won't even take care of the employees that they have now, let alone the Tuesday and Thursday night recruitment sessions where they have over 100 people that attend, not including their staff members and cooks," said Michelle Linder, Wooster Street resident. "Also, there are a lot of people that don't want to be stuck there, so they won't park in the tandem spots, which means they're going to be going back to parking on the street. [The parking garage] should have four or five stories— not just two— if they really want to help us."

The center holds two Kabbalah classes in the evening, one at 7 p.m. and another at 8:45 p.m., where an estimated 100 people participate per session, according to Kabbalah Center representatives. With those 100 participants, the center also estimates that, with carpooling, about 70 cars will park in the garage each session, not including employees.

"We're spending a lot of money just for this parking [garage]," said Raffi Feig, 21year Kabbalah Center congregant and volunteer. "Underground parking is very costly because of the water, but we're willing to do it so we can help solve the problem. We benefit from the parking [garage] and so do the neighbors. We're trying to be as neighborly as possible."

Last year, the center also built a five-unit townhouse complex to house employees and volunteers. When the complex was built, the center was required to build an accompanying parking garage to house the cars of its tenants, employees and visitors. Currently, the Center is using the entire townhouse parking garage, which holds up to 12 cars, for storage, leaving the surrounding area congested with parking.

the complex] don't drive. They work at the center and don't have a car," said Feig.

Several residents expressed concern about the townhouse parking garage and its current utilization.

"There's no guarantee that they're not going to do the same thing with this garage as well and use it for storage too," said Linder, who is in favor of permit parking in the area after 6 p.m. "I'm pissed and so are a lot of the neighbors."

Added traffic would also affect parking for residents during student drop-off and pick-up times and during special events and activities, said the residents at the hearing.

To relieve some of the traffic concerns of the residents, the center proposed a loading dock inside the building. However, the proposed loading dock could only hold a certain amount of weight and could not sustain a large truck, said Feig.

Another issue brought up at the hearing by residents was the problem of noise during construction and noise made by children during the hours of school operation.

"The design of the project inherently buffers the noise from the neighborhood to the east," said Kevin McDonnell, attorney representing the Kabbalah Center. "There is a natural buffer that the classrooms create. Also, the rooftop parking is surrounded by a minimum 10 foot high screen-wall— any sound coming from the gymnasium is going to be pushed out to Robertson. The design is a conscientious design. The architect took all those things into consideration."

Although a number of residents in the community came to speak out against the project, the project was approved and recommended by the South Robertson Neighborhoods Council, of which there are 21 members including residents, business owners and school officials including President Carlos Collard and Vice President Alicia Tolbert.

Collard did not return the Weekly's phone calls in time for the deadlines.

"We were a little surprised to see [opponents at the hearing] because we worked with the neighborhood council for quite some time. We had at least three meetings and sent letters to everybody in the neighborhood," said Feig. "After the hearing we asked some of the people where they were and why they weren't at the council meetings and they said they didn't have time. But we didn't go behind anybody's back. We wanted to go to the neighbors and show them what we were building and see how it was affecting the neighborhood."

"We're trying to solve the problem," Feig said. "Is it going to solve the entire problem? Probably not— but it will definitely solve the majority of those related to the Kabbalah Center."

with Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and other local governments to expand the Red Line subway system westward, through Beverly Hills. Webb promised to create a community-based committee to work with councilmembers on potential routes and station locations.

Another of Webb's top priorities in the coming year is the continued development of a proposed recreation center at the intersection of Third Street, Foothill Road and Alden Drive. He called the project an "essential component" of the city and announced that on May 7-9, city staff will host meetings for residents to discuss the project with its planners and developers.

The proposed recreation center has garnered criticism from some residents because of its high cost and Webb made it clear that council will assess all costs and impacts of the project before proceeding.

Webb also defended the council's controversial decision to revoke two-hour free parking in most of the city's parking lots. "Two-hour parking has been abused," Webb said, adding that council will revisit its decision in June to determine the effectiveness of the change.

"It is impossible for this council to please everyone," Webb said, "But [the council] promises to approach everything with an open mind."

Final Days of Robinson- May

What will the end of a local pillar mean for Beverly Hills?

By Rudy Cole

It could be a Beverly Hills nightmare. What if Robinsons-May closed and was replaced by a mammoth discount store?

Of course, last weekend our historic retailer did call it quits, pulsing out the remaining merchandise in a frantic "final sale" effort to dispose of everything from perfumes to pajamas. Not since the grand opening of Planet Hollywood has any one establishment attracted so many shoppers.

Not only was it impossible to find a parking space, the mass invasion of bargain hunters brought traffic to a near crawl at the Wilshire and Santa Monica Boulevards portals.

Although the store closing sales had begun weeks before, it had drawn only sparse crowds until the final week when prices were slashed and internal signs declared discounts of up to 80 percent and even lower.

I tried, and that is the operative word, to shop on both of the two final days.

Saturday I found some shirts and slacks selling for about twenty dollars each. As a very frequent shopper, I knew the store and that the quality and values were, at least in the men's department, competitive with any outlet venues. Saturday was packed, Sunday was bedlam. Somehow, every single pair of men's pants had disappeared overnight. I even saw fixtures and show cases being hauled out by bargain hunters. When I asked one woman shopper who had loaded down family members with huge bundles of merchandise about her buying spree, she told me "we are going to have the biggest ever yard sale on our block."

J.W. Robinson, which opened in 1951, was the style setter for department stores west of downtown and mid-Wilshire. Regional retailing first made its appearance in the "Miracle Mile" area of Wilshire in the 1950s. (Named "Miracle Mile" because one real estate mogul exclaimed that it would be a miracle if anyone came there to shop or office.) One of the first to test the regional shopping concept was the May Company at Wilshire and Fairfax. The Beverly Hills Sieroty family owned Eastern Columbia, with the most catchy jingle – "Eastern Columbia, Broadway at Ninth," never went regional, but Broadway, Bullocks and countless others did

The merger of Robinsons with the May Company chain in 1993 was a cultural shock to the loyal credit card holders of Beverly Hills. Imagine Rolls Royce being acquired by Toyota and combining the two names on its front plate. The merger was only the first of numerous ownership transitions which also led to the disappearances of many popular department stores.

As I took my final tour of the grand old lady of Beverly Hills retailing and wondered where all these people had been when the store was struggling to survive, and in fact saw few if any locals among the patrons, I remembered how difficult it had been in recent years to find even one salesperson on the floor – except in cosmetics and perfumes where brands placed their own people at the counters.

As for its community involvement, including local advertising, that had ceased many years before the last mergers and acquisitions.

There was a time when a Robinsons general manager was president of our chamber of commerce, as had been the GMs of Saks. Now corporate gurus saw little or no value in giving support to our local charities or community involvement, and as for its advertising policies, few if any dollars were spent on our papers, frustrating the efforts of one of the best ad salespeople this city ever had, one March Schwartz.

A final 'up yours' to our city came when the store decided to peddle its closing sale with people carrying signs on the north side of Wilshire and even nailing them on trees — all violations of local ordinances.

By now, you probably know that the property will become condos with some limited ground floor retailing. If the plans match reality, the design by world class architect Richard Meier could dramatically beautify our most important gateway to Beverly Hills. As our venerable trend setter Fred Hayman commented, "This could do for our western entrance and condominiums what Rodeo Drive did for the Golden Triangle." Without the traffic.

As of now, there appears to be little or no real community opposition to the housing alternative for the site. The "9900 Wilshire" project even has the seal of approval from the Natural Resource Defense fund, a rare tag from that environmental protection group.

But back to the alternatives. Despite the perception that our city can do almost anything it wants with land planning, there is little in our codes that could prevent the property from becoming a major discount store. The final days of Robinsons-May could be duplicated every day and especially weekends. I'm sure you have visited a Target, Fry's, Best Buy or their competitors all around us and know what these mammoth retailers do to trip generation. It doesn't require a degree in traffic engineering to know that the housing opportunity will create a fraction of the car trips of a discount store.

If assuring we have a much needed, true quality condo project, and we frankly can't compete with our neighbors to the west with our present inventory of smaller, lesser amenities, view-impaired condominiums, then we should consider additional heights to "9900 Wilshire" to make sure it is economically viable to construct the best condos in the Western region. It's a trade: additional height, even more than is now proposed, for more and larger units with magnificent views and first class amenities.

The majority of our residents are renters and this project has a direct impact on their housing future. Truly first class condos will reduce the pressure for demolition of apartments, conversions to condos and the displacement of many residents, including seniors, single family parents and others on fixed incomes. Paradoxically, these new homes will help maintain our economic

What we haven't considered, because apparently their plans have not been finalized, is the Beverly Hilton owner's hope to also build condominiums on separate towers on the east and west side of the hotel. A major remodeling of the restaurants and public assembly areas and the guest rooms is nearly complete. The hotel clearly needed upgrading.

Condominium elements have become an of the additional revenue the hotel would bring Beverly Hills through direct and indirect tax revenues. Now, the Hilton will probably propose the loss of over 100 rooms as part of the condo concept. The loss of revenues from hotels are far, far more significant than any decrease in sales

Artist's rendering of the luxury condos on 9900 Wilshire Blvd.

economic necessity for hotels and for construction financing. However, when Conrad Hilton won approval for variances from the city's height limits, it was because tax collections. The economic impacts of the Hilton condo plans are very different from those of 9900 Wilshire, their immediate neighbor to the west, and the new Hilton owners may be stuck with the deal Conrad made with the city. If approved, the Hilton condos will probably end the long running Trader Vic's restaurant, long a local favorite.

Speaking of new developments, I had my first look at the Legacy mixed use project on 9200 Wilshire Boulevard last week at a meeting of the Government Affairs Committee of the Chamber. It was one of best presentations I've seen and what was equally impressive was the participation of representatives of the neighborhood homeowner's association at the meeting. The residents bit the bullet of increased heights as an economic reality and gave their support to the project. The developers and the neighbors are to be congratulated for arriving at compromises acceptable to both. Remaining issues of loading dock locations will be addressed during city hearings, but this is another example of good land use and smart growth.

Next week a look at major city issues, the new mayor's agenda and impacts of city staff reorganization.

1920s Beverly Vista B building chandelier.

Beverly Vista Chandelier To Be Rescued A 1920s iron chandelier from the Beverly

A 1920s iron chandelier from the Beverly Vista B building that was closed in 1995 and is currently being demolished, will be rescued. According to facilities manager Mike Garcia, Jill Collins, president of the Beverly Hills Historical Society and Recreation and Parks Commissioner, was the first to claim the chandelier and will be taking it.

The chandelier is located in the hallway in front of the auditorium on the Rexford Drive side, hanging from a decorative

The B building was built in 1927 and exemplifies the Romanesque Revival architecture style, which was common is Southern California in the late 1920s. While most of the building is being demolished, the auditorium and distinctive bell tower on the eastern portion of the building are being preserved.

Collins says she is planning to restore and reuse the chandelier for display at the Greystone Mansion. Like many other historical items at BV-B, according to Collins, the chandelier was originally planned to be dismantled and had no arrangements to be salvaged. Garcia said at last week's Board of Education meeting that non-reused materials from inside the building are available to the public.

"It's a great piece," Collins Photo: Barry Weiss said. "It would be a shame to lose something like that. I think it's important to show little bits of history and keep architectural elements in the city."

Young Philanthropists to Donate Proceeds from Second Annual Gala To Victims of Darfur, Sudan Genocide

The Society of Young Philanthropists (SYP) announced two weeks ago its second annual gala on Saturday, May 13, 2006 to benefit the International Medical Corps (IMC) in Chad, via American Jewish World Service (AJWS). This is the organization's second gala, and the first with AJWS and IMC. IMC's work in Chad is directly responding to the genocide in Darfur, Sudan, by providing health care to an estimated 20,000 refugees and Chadian host nationals.

"We chose to give to AJWS based on the fact that it breathes life into our imperative—to pursue justice and act upon a deeply felt obligation to improve the chances for survival, economic independence and human dignity for all people," said Sharon Neman, VP of Community Relations for SYP. "We are striving to raise awareness among our generation, through education, social activism initiatives, and immediacy. The culmination of our efforts will be the gala event where we all these aspects will come together and shed light on this very important issue."

The gala will feature an open bar, sponsored catering, live entertainment and raffle prizes. Sponsors include the Beverly Hills Hilton, Warner Independent Pictures, Smashbox, Davines Hair Products, Organic To Go, and Spa on Location. VIP table buyers will enjoy complimentary bottle service and gift bags. Tickets to the event will be available April 15 for a minimum donation of $175. Last year's gala raised $30,000 for two separate charities.

Beverly High Seniors Pass Exit Exam

Beverly High seniors will be taking the newly-implemented California High School Exit Examination (CAHSEE) this upcoming May and will have a second chance to pass the exam in November after graduation. This is the first year students at the high school have taken the exam.

Currently, BHHS has a 97.8 percent pass rate on the CAHSEE math and a 97.4 percent pass rate in English.

The school utilizes several methods to help students pass the exam including class size reduction in English and moving CSR to Math for next year to target Algebra classes, which will lower the class size average to 20, free tutorial in math with a teacher utilizing an online preparation program with practice exams and answers keys and free summer school preparation classes. The school has also purchased test preparation books for all students, provided online resources including practice tests and answer keys and is developing an English tutorial program for students.

Students can take the exam once during their sophomore year, then twice junior and senior year and once after graduation.

Former Beverly Hills School District superintendent Gwen Gross

Two Former School Officials Indicted in Manhattan Beach

Retired Manhattan
Beach Superintendent
Gerald Frederick Davis
and former Manhattan
Beach school board member Mary Agnes Rogers were arraigned in South Bay Superior Court on Monday on charges of allegedly misappropriating public funds.

Davis preceded current MBUSD superintendent Gwen Gross, who previously served as superintendent of the Beverly Hills School District from 2000-2003. In a January interview with the Weekly [issue #328], Gross spoke about her efforts to balance the long-troubled Manhattan Beach budget.

"When I came the district was upside down by $5 million. For three years in a row we had borrowed from a reserve to balance the budget and when I came back we stopped that," Gross said

At the time, Gross was optimistic that the budget was on course after significant spending cuts and an increase in fundraising efforts by the Manhattan Beach Education Foundation.

Davis, who pleaded guilty on Monday, was fined the maximum of $10,000 and placed on probation for three years. He was also ordered to repay more than $6,000 to the school district. Because of the conviction, Davis cannot hold further public employment.

Rogers pleaded not guilty and is scheduled to return to court May 2 for preliminary hearing setting.

Citizen's Law School Free To The Community

Car Stolen From Beverly Hills Parking Lot

Scott Bachmann's sport utility vehicle was stolen from a parking lot on the 9990 block of Santa Monica Boulevard last Thursday. Jerry Huff, the suspected thief, was taken into custody in South Los Angeles after a televised chase and a 45 minute standoff. A bomb squad was called to examine a suspicious device inside the vehicle, which was ultimately determined to be harmless.

According to Lt. Mitch McCann of the Beverly Hills Police Department, 13 cars have been stolen in Beverly Hills since the beginning of this year. The numbers indicate an increase in motor vehicle theft in the area since last year, with twice as many cars stolen in the first two months of 2006 than during the same time period in 2005.

McCann pointed out, however, that "because there is so little crime [in Beverly Hills], the statistics can be misleading."

'You can't always prevent theft," McCann added, "but locking your doors, parking in places with better lighting, and obviously not leaving your keys in your car will help you be

CURBING HANDICAPPED PLACARD ABUSE

Fraudulent use of disabled permits continues to persist in the city, despite efforts to cut back on violations. By Anna Scott

Despite efforts by the Beverly Hills Police Department to crack down on illegal parking in disabled spaces, the misuse of disabled parking placards poses a developing problem in Beverly Hills.

"What we see a lot of is people using their parents' or grandparents' placards to park," said Lt. Mike Heinz of the Beverly Hills Traffic Bureau. According to Heinz, the department also receives frequent calls from disabled residents reporting cars with no placards on display parked in handicapped spaces.

Such violations are nothing new to the police department. Recently, however, a new problem with regard to disabled parking permits has come to the department's attention and this time the alleged abuse is not within their jurisdiction.

"We've got a complaint that some people attending one of the religious locations in the neighborhood are parking with their passes to avoid the restrictions of the permit parking zones," said Heinz. The new complaints, he explained, refer to people who allegedly "put the placards on their cars then walk four blocks, so there's a question as to whether they're really disabled."

One location in question, according to a member of the Beverly Vista Homeowners' Association, is the Nessah Synagogue on Rexford Drive.

The Synagogue's Executive Director, Michael Cantor, confirmed that the use of disabled parking placards is the synagogue's "single most vocal issue." Regarding the legal but unnecessary use of placards, Cantor said, "This is something which I'm particularly sensitive to."

"I had a quadriplegic uncle, personally, and nothing irritates me more than a couple of—let's call them 'disabled jocks'— in a BMW convertible jumping out without using the doors and putting up a disabled placard and walking away," Cantor said.

Nonetheless, he made it clear that the synagogue hosts "a lot of people well over 70-years old, and therefore there are a fair number of people who qualify for one reason or another for disabled placards."

In recent years, the Synagogue has made significant efforts to increase the amount of parking available to all parishioners and collaborated with the police department to reduce outright abuse of disabled placards.

For the past three years, Nessah has leased an additional parking structure from an office building located directly across the street from the synagogue. The synagogue also has a standing arrangement with the BHUSD to use the teachers' parking lot at Beverly Vista for overflow parking.

Alleged Handicapped Parking Placard Abuse at Nessah Synagogue on Rexford Drive.

Furthermore, "I have invited the city, in consultation with [Department of Transportation Deputy Director] Aaron Kuntz and [former Department of Transportation Director] Maria Rychlicki and various other people within the city of Beverly Hills to enforce that permits are not abused," Cantor said.

The police department has responded to urging from Cantor and other community members by periodically targeting "problem areas" throughout the city, checking vehicles parked in disabled spaces for valid placards and asking motorists parking with placards for identification.

Yet, according to Kuntz, while such tactics have led to a decrease in illegal parking in the city's business district, there's nothing officers can do to ensure that disabled spaces are reserved for the truly needy.

"If a doctor has assigned a placard to that person, that's a legitimate placard whether that person needs it or not," said Aaron Kunz, Deputy Director of Transportation.

Heinz, speaking on the same point, added, "We might have suspicions as far as the physician who issued it for them, but they legally were in possession of the placard."

Currently, the applications issued by the California Department of Motor Vehicles for permanent and temporary disabled parking placards require a doctor's certification of disability and the qualifying criteria are left largely to the doctor's discretion. Doctors also decide on the length of time that temporary placards are good for up to six months.

Although the fines and penalties for misuse of disabled placards fall under Beverly Hills Muncipal Code, any changes to the process of obtaining a disabled permit would have to be made at the state level.

City code already inflicts the maximum penalties allowable under California law for misuse. Anyone caught using a placard that belongs to somebody else is guilty of a misdemeanor, fined the maximum amount of $500 and must appear in court. "[Beverly Hills] wouldn't have anything less than the maximum," said Cpt. Robert Curtis of the police department's Sealed Services Division.

Beverly Hills City Councilmember Barry Brucker intends to raise the possibility of new legislation to tighten controls on placard distribution at an upcoming council meeting. "I'd like to explore all of our options," Brucker said.

If the issue does eventually reach the state level, California might follow the lead of other states that have already made amendments to laws regulating disabled parking permits.

In Delaware, for example, a bill was passed into law in 2002 which tightened the eligibility requirements for obtaining a disabled placard. Whereas the old application listed "a diagnosed disease or disorder which substantially impairs or interferes with mobility" as one qualifying disability, the more recent application specifies not being able to walk "200 feet without stopping to rest."

The current California application contains the former language.

"Generally, we hear good things [about the new law]," said Kyle Hodges, the Administrator for the Delaware State Council for People with Disabilities, which endorsed the bill. "Still, even with this [revised law], a physician can put in a request for a person who may not necessarily need that [placard] and they can still get them."

Dr. Mark Weiss, a Century City podiatrist, disputes the idea that doctors routinely facilitate the misuse of disabled parking placards.

"I would assume the average doctor who's filling these things out fills them out honestly," Weiss said. "[But] there are people who have a little minor procedure and they ask their doctor for their disabled placard. [Other] people have permanent disabled placards and it's only because they're lazy that they use it."

As long as current state laws remain intact, the BHPD will continue to rely on routine patrol stops, reports from residents and targeted patrolling to keep flagrant placard abuse in check.

Outside of enforcing existing laws, "There's nothing we can do," Kuntz said.

■ How will 9900 Wilshire benefit the residents of Beverly Hills?

Answer: By creating a new public garden and generating substantial new revenue for our City

We all agree that Beverly Hills has the finest Police, Fire and Schools. 9900 Wilshire will bring $1.6 million per year in net new revenues to the City to help ensure that the levels of service we all enjoy continue and are expanded. Over 30 years, 9900 Wilshire will generate $65 million in net new revenue. In addition, nearly $16.5 million in upfront developer fees will be paid with about $2 million going directly to our schools and $5 million to Parks and Recreation.

Along with our outstanding City services, Beverly Hills is known for its public gardens and green pathways. In keeping with City's character, 9900 Wilshire will create a new 1/2 acre public garden across the street from El Rodeo School.

9900 Wilshire will transform the western gateways to our city with environmentally responsible landmark architecture designed by Pritzker Prize winning architect, Richard Meier. Using state of the art technologies, 9900 Wilshire will consume 25% less energy, 50% less water and emit fewer greenhouse gases than comparable residential buildings.

9900 Wilshire is traffic neutral – It will not generate more traffic than the existing department store.

9900 Wilshire is designed to embrace the values that make living in Beverly Hills special - superior City services, world-class style and a commitment to open green spaces.

The design of 9900 Wilshire reflects our commitment to creating an environmentally responsible project with lasting benefits for our community and is sensitive to the concerns of our neighbors.

Your life insurance policy may be worth much more than you think!

If you are over age 70, we can show you how your life insurance policy might pay off now, while you are alive and still here to enjoy it! What's more, you may be able to sell your policy for considerably more than its cash surrender value.

One of our clients, a 75-year -old man who owned a $500,000 term insurance policy that was about to lapse, was able to cash it in for more than $100,000.

An 80-year old woman had a $5 million policy with a cash surrender value of $600,000. We sold her policy for $1.3 million. Using the proceeds, we bought her new coverage without any further premium payments, saving her $120,000 a year.

People have come to us believing that their old policies were worthless. Others thought their existing insurance was so old that it could not be improved. We helped them sell their policies and purchase new coverage at much lower premiums. In most cases, we were able to increase the legacy they left for their heirs and favorite charities.

And we can do the same for you. Why settle for the cash surrender value or allow your policy to lapse, when it may be worth so much more? Let us help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy at a profit.

For a free, no obligation consultation and policy appraisal, by phone or in person CALL US AT 800.662.LIFE (5433) www.barrykaye.com
