"Curbing Handicap Placard Abuse"

To non-religious persons it must seem ironic to read [in issue #338] that persons, while attending a religious service (Nessah), were at the same time breaking the law outside by illegally using a handicap placard to park. Adding to the hypocrisy and scope of the problem are the friends and family of the violators who do not themselves object.

While police enforcement works to curb this abuse, the synagogue itself might make this an issue at its meetings, for this is a moral as well as legal issue. Perhaps there is a lesson in the sacred writings that could be made by this present day example of how not to act. Religion, after all, is supposed to guide the behavior of its adherents.

Richard Baker Beverly Hills

"The Final Days of Robinsons-May" In the absence of any traffic studies, impact studies, or school studies, it's hard to understand why Rudy Cole is already beating the drum for the new project at 9900 Wilshire, directly across the street from El Rodeo School.

His column in last week's Weekly [issue #338] was, as is normally the case in a Rudy Cole article, most interesting. It does require a response, however, since it contains more speculation than reality.

The article begins: "What if Robinsons-May closed and was replaced by a mammoth discount store?" As readily, that could have said, "What if Robinsons-May closed and was replaced by a park, or by ten single-family dwellings." If one is going to indulge in speculative "what-ifs," the possibilities are unlimited. The developers have not been selling their product by presenting a list of horribles to the community as alternatives. What if the State decided to place a maximum security prison on the property?

Implying that the only alternative to the proposed project is a huge discount store does a disservice to the project and to the writer. There is any number of possibilities. What if the developers decided to only build 100 condominiums on the property? How about 50? 500?

The column suggests we are in competition with "our neighbors to the west" with respect to condominiums. I never knew that Beverly Hills was competing with the Wilshire Corridor. I think the Wilshire Corridor is competing with us, because Beverly Hills has so much more to offer a resident.

At the present time, I have come to no conclusions about the new project at the Robinsons-May site. Whatever the end result, I'm sure it will be beautiful and a nice segue from LA Country Club into Beverly Hills at the Western border. Will it add traffic densities to our streets? Of course. Is the excess traffic acceptable? Who knows?

It would be nice if the City Council would develop a complete plan for the commercial area, taking into account all existing and contemplated development, and make a determination as to how much traffic is acceptable for our streets. We then could look at each proposed project in context of the whole of our city, rather than as a stand-alone venue. This is particularly true when immediately adjacent to the 9900 project, the Beverly Hilton is contemplating a massive project of its own. What will be the impact of two such projects at that location?

What effect will all this development have on traffic in front of El Rodeo School on Whittier Drive? To what extent are we increasing traffic hazards faced by the elementary school students? Every weekday, there is heavy morning traffic southbound on Whittier. What will it be like with hundreds of additional condominiums right at the corner of the school property? This is not something to be looked at with rose-colored developer-oriented glasses. This involves the safety of eight hundred schoolchildren at the El Rodeo

Hawthorne Scores Increase By 16 Points

By Michelle Zenarosa

The 2005 California Academic Performance Index (API) report was released last week, with the Beverly Hills Unified School District surpassing the statewide target score of 800 by scoring an overall of 847 points, up six points from last year's score of 841.

The API scores were based on the California Standardized Testing and Reporting (STAR) results in which students were tested statewide in English-language arts, mathematics, science and history-social science.

Hawthorne school had the highest test score growth in the district at 877 points, up 16 points from last year.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: Thursday, April 6, 2006

TIME: At 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard

LOCATION: Commission Meeting Room A Beverly Hills City Hall 455 North Rexford Drive Beverly Hills, California 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its meeting on Thursday, April 6, 2006, will hold a public hearing beginning at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, to consider a development agreement pursuant to Government Code Section 65864 et seq. in connection with a proposed mixed-use project at 9200 Wilshire Boulevard. The public is invited to attend the public hearing at the above date to comment on the development agreement.

Project Description

The applicant, Legacy Partners, has proposed development of a six-story, approxi-mately 70-foot high (including rooftop uses), mixed-use project on the vacant lot at 9200 Wilshire Boulevard between South Maple Drive and South Palm Drive. The project would include:

- 54 residential condominium units;14,000 square feet of ground-floor commercial space; and,
- Up to 288 parking spaces located in a multi-level subterranean garage.

Access to Project parking would be split between Maple Drive (resident parking) and Palm Drive (visitor and commercial parking). The Project's loading facilities would be located at Maple Drive, across the street from the Lexus dealership. The Project site is located in a commercial (C-3) zone. The current zoning does not allow residential use and the Project would exceed the existing three-story/45-foot height limit and 2:1 FAR (Floor Area Ratio) allowed in the C-3 Zone. Accordingly, the Applicant has requested a zone amendment (mixed-use overlay zone), and a corollary General Plan amendment to allow the residential use in a commercial zone, as well as additional height and density. The Project will be subject to the Planning Commission's Planned Development Review and review of a Vesting Tentative Tract Map for the proposed condominium subdivision.

A Draft Environmental Impact Report (DEIR) was prepared for the project and the DEIR was released on Friday, January 6, 2006 for public review and comment pursuant to a notice published on January 6, 2006. A public hearing on the DEIR was held January 21, 2006 and the 45-day comment period ended February 21, 2006.

Other Information

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission. If you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

"We're increasing and that's what we always strive to do— to do what we do better and have our students achieve at higher levels," said Hawthorne principal Nancy Lynch. "The parents are happy and are always thrilled to see that their kids are achieving higher levels."

Lynch attributed the increase in scores to an improved emphasis on writing and math subjects within the classroom. Last year, a team of eight teachers were sent to a math conference at the Center for Performance growth, and Horace Mann, with a two-point growth, also met its growth targets.

Only 68 percent of the schools statewide met their target growths compared to BHUSD, of which 100 percent of its schools met its targets.

"We have raised our scores every single year at every single school," said Hubbard. "That's been a consistent pattern now for a number of years. That's about as good as it gets."

Although the district scored significantly higher than the state's average score of 709,

Assessment "We have raised our scores every single year at every single school," said Hubbard. "That's been a consistent pattern now for a number of years. That's about as good as it gets." the scores were significantly lower than other comparable districts. For example, teaching strategies. What also played a role in the increase, according to Lynch, was an after-school math program for middle-school students in which students from Beverly High tutor younger students in math.

"Hawthorne has an amazing principal there, who is really our standards-based instruction guru in the school district," said BHUSD Superintendent Jeff Hubbard. "[Lynch's] work with her staff is very collaborative. They have made a strong effort to identify areas where they wanted to improve their performance and the test scores have followed the line accordingly."

Also, with six-point API growths, Beverly Vista and Beverly High came in second with Beverly Vista scoring 887 and Beverly High, 814. El Rodeo, with a three-point San Marino Unified School District had an overall district score of 932, Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified scored 890, La Canada Unified scored 918 and Las Virgenes Unified which encompasses Calabasas scored 860.

"I know the superintendents in [some of] those districts very well," said Hubbard. "They do have similar kinds of highly motivated students and interested parents. They have different demographics and I think we consider ourselves somewhat comparable even though our score may be somewhat different. The difference between an 870 and a 900 is statistically almost insignificant. I don't want the message to be our test scores aren't good because they're excellent."

"Steve Webb Installed as Mayor" I read with interest your article regarding the installation of Steve Webb as mayor of Beverly Hills and his speech after being sworn in as mayor. The speech, you stated, was "focused largely on development issues highlighting some of the projects facing the council the coming year." If there was any reference in the speech to the increase in traffic on the streets, there was no direct reference to such issue in your article.

It seems to me, as I believe it does to all citizens of Beverly Hills, that the increased traffic on our main streets and in our residential streets is the most important issue. In recent years I have observed our streets get more crowded than before especially our residential streets. Recently I was traveling east on Charleville to Beverly Drive when I was in a line of cars from Beverly Drive to just short of Rodeo Drive. Such a situation is intolerable and should be remedied. No project residential or commercial should be allowed to be built unless such project reduces traffic. If such ordinance results in less revenue for the city, the city could impose a tax to make up for any shortage.

Right now many community leaders recite the fact that business results in sales tax which the residents do not have to pay, i.e., we are being relieved of having to pay for our municipal services because of commercial activity. This is true and the argument silences those of us who do not want to pay for those services but want these services i.e., a "free lunch." While [we] realize there really is no free lunch. One way or another we have to pay for our community services. For my part, I do want to pay for what I am receiving. If this means that I will be taxed, I accept it and gladly pay for it.

I know that citywide, countrywide, statewide and on the national scene, no politician proposes that we raise taxes. These politicians do not possess the courage to propose that we pay for our services by new or additional taxes. But they will promise everything we want without increasing taxes or adding new taxes. In other words, we will get our needs taken care of without our paying for them, i.e., a free lunch. In the long run this will not work in an ordered society. (On the national scene, it works because we just borrow money in such a manner that our national debt is almost 9 trillion dollars.)

Let us inform our elected representatives that we do not want a "free lunch," but want to pay for our community services on a consent basis and reduce our traffic problem by reducing development.

aroundtown Kim Dove Loses 60 pounds to Win Big

Beverly Hills native Kim Dove competes in NBC's "The Biggest Loser" and wins her dream wedding.

By Anna Scott

Kim Dove walked through her partly remodeled house in North Hollywood, pointing out freshly painted walls and other features that were still unfinished. Then she grabbed a handful of skin from her hip and said, "Now it's time to work on this."

It was December 2004 and Kim was filming an audition tape for the second season of NBC's hit reality show "The Biggest Loser," in which overweight contestants compete to see who can lose the most weight over a period of several months.

Kim, a former athlete who was on the Beverly High swim team and the cheerleading squad as a teenager, had put on 80 pounds since she started working as a project coordinator at Warner Brothers a few years before.

"I used to watch the first season [of "The Biggest Loser"]," Kim said. "In one of the episodes it went across the bottom of the screen that they were doing an open call [for the second season] here in LA. That's when I got the idea." The five minute audition video was the third step in a five-month screening process that would eventually lead to Kim and her then fiancé (now husband), Bruce Lebowsky, being cast on "The Biggest Loser Special Edition #6: Engaged Couples." But at the time, Kim thought she was only submitting herself as a possible contestant.

After "waiting in line for hours and hours" at the open call, Kim had only a few minutes to sell herself to the show's casting director. "I talked about wanting to lose weight for the wedding," Kim said, "and they really liked that angle."

Kim and Bruce, who met at Warner Brothers, where Bruce also worked in the IT department, had their wedding planned for the following January. Kim laughs while recalling Bruce's proposal, which took place during a weekend getaway to San Diego.

On the third day of the trip, the couple went to Sea World. During a "dolphin interaction" game that involved swimming with the dolphins and tossing out objects for them to retrieve, Bruce suddenly pulled out what looked like a giant message in a bottle. He threw it to the center of the pool, and when the dolphin brought it back the trainer instructed Kim to open it.

"I thought it was going to be a trick and the dolphin was going to splash me or something," Kim said, "but I finally got the message out and it said, 'Will you marry me?' She turned around to see Bruce on one knee in the water. "Of course I said yes, and everybody started applauding," Kim recalled.

But even though Kim's love life had hit a high note, she was less than thrilled with her climbing weight, which continued to go up in the months after the engagement.

The aspiring actress, who graduated from Beverly Vista and also Beverly High in 1992, had even stopped going on auditions because she was so uncomfortable with her size. "I felt so self-conscious," Kim said.

While shooting her "Biggest Loser" audition video, Kim walked through the living room and said hello to Bruce—also overweight—who was standing on a ladder fixing a lighting fixture. Little did she know that brief introduction would be the deciding factor in her being selected for the show.

When Kim got a phone call from the producers of "The Biggest Loser" in January 2005 telling her that her audition video had moved her to the final audition round, "I was so excited, I literally screamed into the phone," Kim said.

Kim was told that she would be sequestered in a hotel with the other finalists, where they would be put through three days of interviews. But three days before Kim was supposed to leave she got another call. The show's producers had noticed Bruce in Kim's audition tape and wanted to know if Kim and Bruce would be interested in participating in a special edition, stand-alone episode of "The Biggest Loser" where they would compete against another engaged couple for a $50,000 dream wedding.

"Basically," Bruce said, "They saw me in the background and said, 'Who's the fat guy?' Kim came running home and told me about it, and I said, 'no way. It's not me, it's not something I want to do.' [But] she talked me into it. She kind of laid it all out and said, 'Do this for your health, do this so you don't follow in your father's footsteps'—[he] died at a young age of

Hawthorne Vocal Music Teacher, 1969-1979

Beverly Vista and El Rodeo Instrumental Music Teacher, 1980-1990

North Hills, CA

Tell me about your career before joining the BHUSD

I taught in the Los Angeles school district for 11 years, right out of having graduated from college. I studied education [at UCLA] and since I was a musician I took a lot of music classes. I started teaching fifth grade in Westchester in 1959. I was teaching a regular fifth grade class but picking up some of the instrumental classes along the line. I taught in Westchester for two years, then we moved to the valley and I shifted to teaching music. I taught in San Fernando for a couple of years, then I taught in Lakeview Terrace for the rest of the 11 years. I was the last single-school music teacher in the San Fernando Valley because they kept closing down music programs.

How did you get to Beverly Hills?

My mom called me one day and she said she'd just been playing bridge with friends. A friend's son was the principal at El Rodeo and she'd heard that Beverly Hills was looking for a music teacher. I was not planning to look for a job and did not have a resume. I called, went in, interviewed and I got the job. They had a person they were flying out from some place like New Hampshire to interview for the job and they took me, without a resume.

Who was the music supervisor when you were hired?

Barbara Stevens. She really made a huge difference in my life. She took the time to empathize and evaluate without ever making me feel that I was less than wonderful. Really easy to work with. I loved her, still do. She just moved to Sierra Madre. We exchange Christmas cards.

Who was your first principal in Beverly Hills?

Milt Rowen [interviewed in issue # 309]. Working with him was different. He was an 9020 W.Olympic Blvd.Beverly Hills(at Doheny) (310)274-3445 www.goldencolor.com unusual, funny man.

Tell us about other principals you worked with.

Walt Puffer [interviewed in issue #293]. He was assistant principal at Hawthorne and then he became principal at Beverly Vista. He was approachable and would take time to listen and encourage. Most of the principals were fine, but they didn't have a huge effect on my teaching.

You eventually switched from teaching vocal music to instrumental music. Why?

At Hawthorne, I was teaching primarily music appreciation. Vocal music was two periods a week and every lunch and I taught the glee club, which was vocal music. [When] the instrumental music teacher— that was Marcia Norman— moved to Orange County I told Eloise Haldeman, the supervisor, I'd be interested in that job because I really am an instrumentalist. I'm a flute soloist. By August they hadn't been successful in finding anybody to take the instrumental music job so I could have it. That was in 1980.

Are there any students who you remember especially well?

My all-time favorite was [director] Jon Turtletaub. One of the semesters he was in boys glee there were actually more boys in boys glee than there were girls in girls glee because he was so much fun. He sang the role of Will in 'Oklahoma' when he was an eighthgrader with me and then he sang the same role when he was a senior at the high school.

Jamie Lee Curtis was [also] a student. She was just a real average, neat little girl. You could tell that she was going to be pretty when she got a little older. We did Music Man the year I had her. She was a sweetheart.

One of your former students, Ben Stokes, is now the instrumental music teacher at Hawthorne and El Rodeo.

How neat! I didn't know that. I taught him at Beverly Vista. He was a good kid. I think he went to CSUN and I talked to him once or twice there because it's close to where I live. I think he was studying music education. We would talk about instrumental music. He played clarinet.

Do you remember any of the parents from Beverly Hills?

I had several parents that were phenomenal.

I had all three of Florence Henderson's kids, two of them in glee club and one of them in stage crew and she was a neat mom to work with-- very supportive, very down to earth. I had Greg Morris' kids. He was [an actor] on 'Mission Impossible.' The kids were great because the parents were very supportive. He took them out when he was on hiatus and asked for the assignments and they always came back done.

Maria Muntean. I had her daughter Virginia when she was in second grade. [Virginia] auditioned and played piano in the orchestra that was for sixth and seventh graders. By the time she was in third grade she was in honor orchestra and her mother was so helpful. She'd come in and polish the piano before a concert.

Also Cindy Norian. She was very, very helpful. I had her two sons, Tim and John, at Beverly Vista.

Why did you decide to retire in 1990?

I was always planning to retire at that time because I wanted to have time to do some writing. I'm so involved in what I'm doing now, I can't imagine doing anything else.

Tell us about your new career as an author.

I have five published historical novels. They range from a trilogy on Charlemagne's ancestors to the most recent ones, a colonial Virginia book and a children's book that was a spinoff of that. I take people that lived in interesting times and did interesting things and turn them into novels, and they're all about people that were in my family tree. I'm a direct descendant from Charlemagne. You can order them through every book store. When I catch my breath I will start a book on my great-great grandfather who came to California during the Gold Rush. My website is mysite.verizon.net/billndi.

Are you in touch with anyone from Beverly Hills?

[Former Beverly Vista music teacher] Carol Miller Hill. We teamed a lot. I teamed with her on some of her productions and she would help me with the instrumental program. We had lunch together almost every day; we were really good friends. The last book that I wrote I dedicated to her two kids. She has two adorable boys. She's been a stayat-home mom, home-schooling her kids. They just built a place in between Gorman and Lancaster.

What do you consider your biggest teaching accomplishment from your years in Beverly Hills?

All of the Broadway musicals that we did at Hawthorne. We ended up putting on a fulllength Broadway musical every other year. [Former Hawthorne English teacher] Sue Suefrere and I worked on them together, we co-produced and directed them, and that was so much fun because when you're a music teacher you're the only one who's doing what you do, so you really don't have time to interface with other teachers. We did that together and that was really fun. One of the ones that was most interesting was 'Tom Sawyer,' which was a Disney movie. The Sherman brothers' kids were students at Hawthorne so we got permission from Disney for us to do the show without paying any royalties. I sort of rearranged it so our kids could do it on stage and opening night I thought, 'Gosh, they have earned Academy Awards for their musicals and here I've taken it apart and put it back together in a different order. What was I thinking?' But they liked it.

Do you ever visit Beverly Hills anymore? I haven't for years. The traffic getting over the hill is a pain!

"Where Are They Now?" will return in three weeks.

Visiting The Webb Response To Recent "Fan" Mail Differing Views On The 9900 Wilshire Project

By Rudy Cole

What's it like to be mayor of your hometown? For Steve Webb it meant taking wife Bonnie to lunch at Caffe Roma the day after his inauguration and the next day having his picture taken with Cindy Crawford. Now for the minor stuff such as fixing trash collection, adopting a new general plan, deciding the fate of three major condo and mixed use proposals, renovation of our parks, creation of a new Recreation Center, adopting a budget and all those other tasks that make the job of mayor such great fun.

Actually, Webb seems to approach his to do list with enthusiasm and considerable optimism. There have been few who have served in that office who came better prepared. I first saw Webb in action when he was cochair of the Livable Streets Committee. That committee studied traffic movement problems throughout the city and made heavy recommendations that vastly improved safety and quiet on many south of Wilshire streets. Later, Webb served as chair and member of the Parking and Traffic Commission and here too he was imaginative and forward looking.

When he was appointed to the Planning Commission, he not only brought with him considerable expertise on the interrelationship of traffic issues and future planning, but an instinctive ability to balance concerns on overdevelopment with responsible change.

Bonnie and Steve have also played important roles in a wide range of civic causes and our schools could not have better friends.

I can't say that I have always agreed with Webb, but no one can dispute his tireless efforts to be prepared. It should be a very interesting year.

The "inauguration" ceremony was definitely one of the best in recent memory. Last year's outdoor and tented event nearly was outdone by the fierce storm that even made the fire marshal nervous. The speeches were held to reasonable limits, the ceremonies were warm and personal and the reception at city hall was laid back and user friendly.

The audience appreciated the fine video chronicling outgoing Mayor Linda Briskman's accomplishments during her term. Linda, as we said previously, became a fine conciliator, kept her focus on goals and met almost all her objectives. Unlike recent mayors, she still has three more years of service. Webb has said he will make more use of his former mayor, Linda, than has been the practice, by keeping her involved in completing programs that were begun during her year of service.

Bonnie Webb will have hard but differentsized shoes to fill as first spouse; Gary Briskman was not only supportive, attending most council meetings this past year, but his good humor was contagious, even when controversies such as the Montage were on the platter. Final note: In this age of technology, it seems appropriate that we have a Webb has mayor.

Last week's bit-on plans the Hilton has for an adjoining condo project did not give sufficient credit to owner Beny Alagen's massive remodeling work. The hotel has made some astounding improvements in their rooms and public areas. The hotel is the largest in the city and has the only ballroom large enough to accommodate events such as the Golden Globes. One argument in favor of their housing plan is that it would remove the parking structure.

For some inexplicable reason, almost every single parking structure in our village, including those built by the city, are both ugly and dysfunctional. The Hilton's is far from the worst, but replacing it with underground parking and new condominiums can only be an improvement.

What will happen to the best buffets in Beverly Hills is not clear. The three times per day buffets in what was once Mr. H's, then Griffs has closed for remodeling, food being served on the top floor which once provided the most exciting and romantic venue in the city. If necessary, I will form a Save our Buffet committee – yes, that does become SOB.

Now, some quick notes on recent mail. One reader equates my lack of enthusiasm for an "ethics" ordinance with a disregard for ethics. That's somewhat akin to arguing that if you are against prayers in school, you are against religion. Come to think of it, in my case that may not be a great analogy.

Maybe it's because I am still an unreconstructed Jeffersonian who argued that government is best that governs least, or some such words. Do we need rules on ethics? It's not that I am that opposed. From a purely economic view, if all former mayors and planning commissioners were barred for life from ever representing clients before the council, Murray Fischer and I could retire in two weeks.

But is it fair or realistic to limit former mayors and commissioners from performing professionally once they leave public service?

Montage Project Update

Next Friday, April 7, the Los Angeles Appellate Court is scheduled to hear the oral arguments of all sides of the controversial Montage Hotel case, Beverly Hills Residential-Business Alliance For A Livable Community vs. City of Beverly Hills, Et. Al.

The hearing comes after several extensions were granted to Alliance attorney Robert Silverstein who said he needed more time due to setbacks caused by the moving of the location of his firm. Silverstein did not return the Weekly's phone calls.

Following the hearing, the court will then render a decision within 90 days deciding whether to rule on the Alliance's motion to overturn the decision by the trial court or to > affirm the Environmental Impact Report, invalidating the Montage process. If the Alliance loses, they then have the option of appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appeal pertains to the trial court ruling in April of last year in favor of the city, the Beverly Hills Luxury Hotels and the Athens Group.

"The law is clearly on our side as evidence by the trial court's decision," said Jay Newman, COO at the Athens Group. With the appellate court, you have the automatic right to appeal. "It's a discretionary right on the Supreme Courtthey don't have to take any case. And there's probably no legal significance on this case that [the Supreme Court] would want to rule on."

Beverly Vista Building-B and Science & Technology Center Update

The Board of Education approved cost-reduction recommendations for the Beverly Vista Building B and the Science and Technology Center projects at a meeting Tuesday. Changes for cost reduction include using alternate bids, deleting wrought iron at the BV-B kindergarten fence and substituting with a vinyl coated chain link fence and deleting ceiling construction from BV-B auditorium and utilizing a wood pre-manufactured ceiling.

Staff estimates changes will result in approximately $293,000 in cost reductions for BV-B and $846,000 for STC.

Property Next Door to Montage Hotel Site Sold

The vacant lot located at 257 Canon Drive, next door to the proposed site of the Montage Hotel, has been sold for $13,000,00 to YVL, LLC and BFBH, LLC.

The property was an issue in the 2004 suit filed against the city by the Beverly Hills Residential-Business Alliance for a Livable Community. According to the Alliance, the city wrongly approved an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) that supported the hotel's construction because it didn't take into consideration a planned three-story medical office building at 257 Canon Drive.

The lot's previous owner, Cirrus, is a developer who specializes in medical office buildings. One of the principals in the new ownership entity, Marc Bohbot of Beverly Hills, is CEO and Chairman of the clothing label Bisou-Bisou. Bohbot was out of the country and unavailable for comment.

According to his wife, Michele, President and Designer for Bisou-Bisou, Marc and his business partner reportedly plan to build a medical office building at the property. According to Michele, the new owners are working with an architect on the plans for the building and construction is tentatively set for completion in two years.

"We're going to build a lot of parking, so it's going to be [of] great value [to] the city," Michele added.

Beverly Vista Chandelier May Remain at the School

A 1920s iron chandelier hanging in the Beverly Vista B building may not be leaving the school after all.

As reported in last week's Weekly, the chandelier was originally planned to be dismantled by Jill Collins, president of the Beverly Hills Historical Society and Recreation and Parks Commissioner, who planned to restore the chandelier for display at the Greystone Mansion.

At Tuesday's Board of Education meeting, Vice President John Millan mentioned the Weekly article and asked architect Brian Dougherty whether the chandelier could remain at the school as a decorative item.

Dougherty explained that although the chandelier could not be rewired according to current building codes, it could remain as a decorative item in the hallway.

"Given that it's original to the building, it would probably be very nice to have it," said Karen Christensen, BHUSD Director of Planning and Facilities.

The decorative ceiling the chandelier hangs on will also be restored.

Action Democrats, College Professors Endorse Mike Feurer in 42nd Assembly District Primary

Mike Feuer added two more big endorsements to his list of campaign supporters last week when he won the support of Action Democrats and the University Council-American Federation of Teachers.

Previously, Feuer was endorsed by the California Federation of Teachers, the Beverly Hills Education Association and the majority of the members of the Beverly Hills Board of Education.

"In a district that is overwhelmingly Democratic, the endorsement of Action Democrats coming on the heels of Feuer's endorsement by the Democratic Party of the San Fernando Valley and Grassroots Democrats of the Hollywood Region is an important message to voters," said Larry Levine, Feuer's campaign consultant.

The CARES process is evaluating land use issues at the West LA VA. The current controversy is over the West LA VA being considered for commercial use such as a shopping center. Opponents have expressed concern over the land, of which an original deed proclaimed usage strictly for the benefit of the nation's veterans.

Alternative plans for the land include serving the needs of homeless veterans. Recent reports found that of the 82,291 homeless people in Los Angeles County, 15,420 of them are homeless veterans.

Currently middle school students are required to take one semester of foreign language in seventh or eighth grade, unless the student is enrolled in Reading Plus, EL or special education. entered them in a series of intense competitions designed by Dean Kamen and Woodie Flowers.

This was the Beverly Hills Robotic Team's second year participating in the competition. The team departs again this weekend to Las Vegas for another competition.

Beverly Hills School District Summit Yields New Fundraising Effort

The five schools in the Beverly Hills School District have agreed to undertake a joint fundraising effort to enable the district to provide each K-8 school with a theater and dance program and an enhanced science program. Additionally, the effort will support staffing and equipment needs for the high school's Science and Technology Center, currently under construction. The agreement marks the first time that all five schools have collaborated on a fundraising effort.

The project follows a summit meeting held in Lake Arrowhead earlier this month, which was attended by Board of Education members, including President Myra and District Superintendent Jeff Hubbard, PTA Council Co-Presidents Aviva Laufer and Stacey Raskin, who initiated the summit, and Beverly Hills Education Foundation representatives. Dr. Morgan Hakimi (Organizational Development Consultant) was the facilitator. The parent leaders, staff and board representatives present in Lake Arrowhead prioritized their fundraising goals based upon a recent district-wide parent and teacher survey.

"This is a superintendent's dream," said Hubbard. "It is profound and extraordinary to have such a dynamic and visionary group working collaboratively."

According to Laufer, this is the first time the five schools, the BHEF, the school district and the school board have collaborated on a fundraising project.

"It's groundbreaking," Laufer said.

Representatives from the participating organizations will hold further meetings in the coming months to work out the details.

First, in our history, unlike many of our neighboring cities, we have never ever had one councilmember or commissioner called before the bar of justice for any reason, including possible conflicts of interest. That's a remarkable record and speaks to our values and the judgment of the electorate.

However, serving can mean considerable loss of income. Yes, we question the motives of those in public office and have a too low regard for public service, but I know of few professions that are less rewarding both financially and emotionally than elected office.

Let's be specific and cite two examples. Allan Alexander and Mark Egerman: Both are lawyers, both now represent clients with city issues, possibly even on different sides, but can you have any real doubts as to their integrity or knowledge of city needs?

Allan is probably one of the most imaginative people ever to serve in government. Just one idea: Outdoor dining, unheard of before he made it happen by allowing restaurants to use frontage space. Whatever your views on the Wilshire route of the subway. Allan has fathered it into the front burner of consideration. Allan left government, but not service to the city. As for Mark, public education and public safety had few better supporters. His calm, rational approach led to the success of the vote on the Montage.

Now Mayor Webb has asked them to serve as co-chairs of a committee that will consider issues involving the Red Line. Does anyone want to question their service here as inappropriate because it will be for free? I doubt it.

Again, I am not against consideration of a rational ethics ordinance, but the case for one has yet to be made.

Richard Stone's letter responding to my views on a condo development is more difficult because I have a great deal of respect for Stone although he and I have had our differences, especially on the loss of School Superintendent Sol Levine when Stone served on the school board. But it was Stone who placed the first limit on apartment demolition when he was on the council and it was he who initiated the business license tax restructuring that kept us financially sound following the passage of Prop. 13.

However, while responding to my contention that the Robinsons-May property could become something less beneficial than housing, Stone does not provide even one reason why what I wrote was in error. He can not deny that the zoning would permit uses that would and could bring far more traffic than housing, because those are zoning facts. As for "competing" with our neighbors for attractive condos, that is too obvious to even consider. Many long time residents are leaving our city for just that reason. The condos that surround our community are larger, have far better views and more amenities and when they sell their houses, they can not find that in Beverly Hills, with only a few exception. Stone avoids discussion of one my primary arguments: New condos on commercial or vacant property reduces pressure for demolition of apartments.

As for concerns about impacts on El Rodeo, the alternative possible uses have to be considered and they could and are likely to be far more intrusive. But Stone neglects to mention that what is being proposed is a traffic neutral use to what was there: a department store. It is also possible that at least some of the new condos will have school age children attending El Rodeo or our high school, now within walking distance.

The former mayor has not said he was against 9900 Wilshire and I feel in the end he will see the value of the magnificent, green project that will beautify our most important gateway. Peace.

coverstory CONVERSATION WITH THE MANOR Recently installed mayor Steve Webb spoke with the Weekly about some of the important issues facing Beverly Hills this year.

By Anna Scott

Steve Webb being sworn in by State Senator Debra Bowen; Webb is joined by son Jordan, daughter Arielle, wife Bonnie and mother Sue Webb Friedman

What do you think are the most pressing issues facing the City Council right now?

Certainly completing the General Plan update, improving technology to support the police and fire [departments]; enhancement of our park and recreation facilities [and] cleaning up our city streets, are all very, very important issues facing the council this year.

Of all the projects on the council's agenda, which one is closest to your heart?

I think the closest to my heart relates to upgrading our existing park and recreation facilities and hopefully coming up with an acceptable plan to build a new community recreation center.

What's the next in terms of the recreation center?

We will have a series of meetings, currently set for May 7th, 8th and 9th that will be publicized to the community. The public will be invited to call in and get a reservation for one of probably eight to ten meetings during that time frame. The reason for the reservation is we want to keep the size of the meetings manageable so everybody that attends has an opportunity to speak and communicate.

Understand, this isn't meant to be definitive. This is just one of a series of public meetings that will take place over time to get focused input on what the community feels about a recreation center and what they would want to see included in it. We will have one or two meetings with just children; we'll have meetings with just seniors; we'll have meetings that will be general in the sense that they will [include] a broad spectrum of the community. This community center, if it's going to work, has to meet everyone's needs and it's not for me or you to say what's important to an eight-year-old, or what's important to a fourteen-year-old, or what's important to a seventy-five year old.

The staff and the architects will take the information [from the public meetings] and come up with a schematic to try to include all of those needs. They'll do some rough designs, then we'll go to the community again [and] give people further opportunity to comment.

It's a multi-phase, multi-step process to obtain information on what it will cost, how we will we pay for it, and the possible impacts to the surrounding neighborhoods. [The process] will probably take us into the fall or winter months before we have sufficient information not just for the council to make a decision, but more importantly for the community.

You spoke about public safety as a major issue in your installation speech and prior to that during your first run for council. How do you plan to tackle that issue as mayor?

First and foremost, we're revitalizing and re-engaging the neighborhood watch program. In the past, those programs were basically set up for you to get to know your neighbor and, if you were to see something peculiar, to be encouraged to report it. The role and responsibility of the neighborhood watch program will be expanded, in large part because of what happened in New Orleans with [Hurricane] Katrina and what happened in 9/11. In addition to being watchful, the neighborhoods need to be prepared. There will be a series of programs to assist in training and passing out information so if there were to be a hurricane or other natural disaster each of the residents would be prepared to assist each other. This is a much broader program and we're going to be spending a lot of time and energy focused on getting that set up. [Councilmembers] Barry Brucker and Jimmy Delshad, the liason for the technology and security committee, will be running that.

We're just now starting to reach out and reform these block organizations and committees and put into place a more enhanced program. We have two programs that currently exist that we will be trying to funnel people in the neighborhoods into. One is the CPR program and the other is CERT, which is the emergency relief training program. We've had, I think, three hundred and fifty residents graduate from that program. We're going to try to identify those that have passed the program and which neighborhoods they're in so the neighbors know, 'Okay, here's an individual that lives three doors down that has CERT training, here's somebody that I can call if there's a problem.'

We're [also] going to enhance the technology to support our police and fire personnel.

How do you plan to keep residents involved in the city's decision-making process during your term?

I promise you by the end of the year this community's going to say, 'Enough with the meetings!' We're going to be having a lot of public outreach on all of the issues that are before us.

Probably the most important project before the council is the General Plan update. Like with the recreation and parks [projects] there will be a series of meetings, probably eight or ten, addressing that topic. So in addition to Planning Commission meetings and City Council meetings, we're having a series of special meetings open to the public to give them an opportunity to come in on the important projects and to share their views with us.

We're going to have probably a minimum of twenty to twenty-five meetings this year devoted solely to the General Plan and the upgrading of the parks, recreation and community rec [center]. We will be busy, but many of those meetings neither I nor the council will be attending. This is really for the community to give their input to staff on issues. Now, if there are eight different meetings that take place covering the same topic, I plan on attending at least one of them as an observer just to hear directly what the community is saying, and I'm sure other council members will do the same. [But] we won't be there to speak on any particular issue.

What are you most looking forward to in serving as mayor?

What I'm looking forward to most is the ability to take a leadership role and to move the council agenda forward. I don't believe [the mayor's] role is just ceremonial or to just fill a seat. That's not why I ran for the city council and that's not why I want to be mayor. We have a very, very ambitious agenda this year and it's going to take all of us on the council to roll up our sleeves and make sure the agenda is moving along as it's supposed to so that we can actually accomplish something.

What do you expect the biggest challenges to be this year?

Trying to find time. We have an awful lot on our plate. In addition to the General Plan and the parks and recreation [projects] and the technology [projects] there are private development projects that are going through the process right now that require EIRs [Environmental Impact Reports]. Normally you may have one or two EIRs a year; we've got seven on the books [this year].

How will your job as mayor differ from your role as a council member?

As the mayor, in addition to having one of five votes and deliberating with my colleagues, I have the responsibility of setting the agenda, pushing issues that need to be pushed forward, taking a leadership role. My responsibility is to try to work with my colleagues to build consensus. I thought [former mayor] Linda [Briskman] did a very good job at that last year and I hope I can do equally as good a job this year.

Who are your political role models?

I would say John F. Kennedy certainly. I grew up in the Kennedy era, and I had the pleasure and opportunity in 1968 to meet with Robert Kennedy privately and then to introduce him in front of sixty thousand people. I had a political forum program at my college that I was in charge of and I was able to get both Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy to come to our campus and speak. [Laughing] In reality, I stole them away from UCLA. We were a small, backwater San Fernando Valley institution-they called it Valley State then, [CSUN] today-so I have this wonderful photograph of me standing next to Bobby Kennedy with a sea of hands reaching up. His brother Jack tried to engage the community with his line, 'Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country.' That's always stuck with me, and I suppose one could say the same thing about our citywhat can we do to make the quality of life better in our city?

I think we all have the same goals in mind; the problem is we don't always agree on how to get there and accomplish those goals.

What do you hope the legacy of your term as mayor will be?

That I made life a little better for all of us.

We congratulate Mayor Steve Webb for his visionary commitment to sustainable development.

"Beverly Hills must have standards for environmentally sustainable development. Energy efficient, water conserving design must be the hallmark of our future. And we must be green. Developers who come to our city must be committed to meeting those standards... Gardens, trees, shade and walkways are woven into the fabric of our community. Future development must join in the effort to create these public places."

New Pacific Realty is proud to be developing 9900 Wilshire, the first project announced in Beverly Hills that will qualify for the U.S. Green Building Council's LEED Gold rating. It will use 25% less energy, 50% less water and emit fewer greenhouse gases than comparable residential buildings. Designed to take full advantage of its unique location, the buildings create substantial savings by using natural light and the prevailing westerly breeze. The gardens will be kept green year round by a state-of-the art recycling system.

"9900 Wilshire has set the standard by combining outstanding architecture with environmental sustainability. We encourage all developers to look at their model and emulate it."

- EMA, Environmental Media Association

"By building to a LEED Gold standard, the 9900 Wilshire Boulevard project establishes a new benchmark for sustainable urban development."

heart disease. She said, 'If you don't do this I'll never forgive you.' She persuaded me."

Once Kim and Bruce said yes the producers asked the couple to shoot another audition tape, this one featuring both of them.

"Bruce loves to water-ski and we showed him trying to put his life jacket on because it was too small," Kim said.

They sent in their tape, but by springtime Kim and Bruce still didn't have a definite answer from the producers. Then in May, the producers sent a film crew to the couple's engagement party, ostensibly to get more footage for the network. "They told us they still needed to film us," Kim said, "that they were trying to sell us to NBC."

"Then, [At the party] a pizza box came, and inside the pizza box there was a message from ["The Biggest Loser" personal trainer] Jillian [Michaels] saying that she was going to be our trainer," Kim said. "I cried."

Three days later, Bruce and Kim were sent to the show's "ranch," a secluded, undisclosed California location that serves as the backdrop for an intense, boot camp-like induction into healthy living. The first day there Bruce and Kim, along with the couple they were competing against, were weighed by the show's trainers. Whichever couple lost the largest combined percentage of body fat by the end of the taping would be the winning team.

Kim describes a typical day at the ranch as "not typical at all."

"It's about five hours of working out [every day]. Between working out and preparing your own food, you sleep whenever you can. There's no TV, no radio, no telephone, no nothing to distract you," Kim said. "By day three I was apologizing to my fiancé for getting him involved," she added. "But by the last couple of days, I was starting to get into it. The soreness was going away and I was getting excited to work out."

Bruce has his own take on ranch life: "They said that most people want to quit by day three," he said. "But that's not true. It was day two."

Nonetheless, the couple powered through ten days at the ranch before they were allowed to return home for the remainder of the fourmonth shoot. At home, they found gym equipment waiting for them in their living room. They were also given gym memberships and instructions to avoid "white" foods such as bread, rice and sugar.

After the ranch, Kim and Bruce still had to follow a strict schedule to keep losing weight.

"We'd be out the door at five thirty Monday through Friday," Kim said. "Then we were usually at the gym on Saturday by nine."

Of the sometimes exhausting routine, Kim said, "People thought it would break us apart, but it made us closer than ever. It's the hardest thing we've ever done but the best thing we've ever done." Still, she was quick to add, "We'd never want to do it again."

During that time, camera crews would come to film and check in with the couple approximately once every six weeks.

Finally, in September 2005, after four months of hard work, the day Kim and Bruce had been waiting for arrived: the final weighin.

"They had a taping of the finale at a studio in Burbank," Kim said. "There was a live studio audience. There was a big scale and we each had to get on the scale and find out how much we all lost."

When Bruce and Kim stepped onto the scale, they learned that they had lost a combined total of 154 pounds, a number that made them the winners of "The Biggest Loser."

"It was incredible," Kim said. "We had a lot of friends and family there, so when we won everybody came rushing onto the stage. Everybody was hugging, everybody was crying; Bruce got lifted up by one of his friends. It was an incredible moment."

"It was an incredible feeling," Bruce agreed. "We worked our butts off— pun intended and even if we didn't win we would've had no regrets. Plus, the whole time through [the taping] I didn't know how I was going to afford [the wedding], so I had to win."

Bruce and Kim had their "dream wedding" at Greystone Mansion in Beverly Hills on January 28, and a clip of the ceremony was included at the end of "The Biggest Loser Special Edition: Engaged Couples," which aired on NBC on Feb 8.

By the time they won, "I had done all the [wedding] planning already," Kim said. "I didn't change much after I found out we won. The only thing I changed is I had more doves released—we had 100 released instead of 25— and we upgraded the DJ."

After the wedding, Kim decided to donate the gown she worked so hard to fit into to the Making Memories Foundation, which organized a charity wedding dress sale at the beginning of March called "Brides Against Breast Cancer."

"It's such a great cause, and such a great charity, and I'm really glad I was able to be a part of it," Kim said.

Now, with the show behind them, Kim and Bruce continue to work out regularly and prepare their own healthy meals at home. The couple's favorite activity is racquetball, which they often play together.

In addition to her new lifestyle, Kim has made another huge change since signing up for "The Biggest Loser." She quit her job as Director of Event Planning for a catering company and started working for the Los Angeles Parks & Recreation Department.

"I was constantly around food," Kim said. "It was too much of a temptation. My best friend Neely Margo [also a Beverly High graduate] has been working with parks and rec forever."

Since the show, Kim has even turned her attention back to acting. "I'm looking for an agent again, getting out there, pounding the pavement, going on auditions," she said. "[The Biggest Loser] absolutely changed my life."
