Robinson's and Hilton Development

The new owner of the property at 10,000 Little Santa Monica Blvd. (which is next to Beverly Hills High School) but is in Los Angeles, will probably build a building of approximately 650,000 square foot, 33 story building, and WHEN the 9900 Wilshire (Robinson's) property plus the expansion of the Beverly Hills Hilton Hotel development are all finished Beverly Hills "as we now know it" will also be finished....

The landslide has started down the mountain.

The Beverly Hills City Council who thought they were "partners" of the Montage Hotel development can't see the forest for the trees so don't expect any heroics from them. Based on the above, as things now stand the 25 condominiums on top of the future Montage hotel, which are exclusively owned by the hotel, could produce $100,000,000 for the Montage developers! The city officials who described the deal as a partnership got tandem parking for the new city garage! Wow!

Beverly Hills. However, at over 9,000 students in its district, LVUSD is almost double the size of BHUSD, which services a little over 5.300 students.

Los Virgenes serves the two cities of Agoura Hills and Calabasas, each of which has a high school. LVUSD also has three middle and eight elementary schools.

The two districts scored similarly in terms of API test scores with LVUSD scoring an overall score of 860 compared to BHUSD's score of 847.

At Los Virgenes, Stepenosky will be working under Supt. Sandra Smyser, who has been at the LVUSD since last year after nine-year former LVUSD superintendent John Fitzpatrick retired. Before coming to LVUSD, Smyser was superintendent for five years at Carpenteria school district in Ventura County.

Ironically, Fitzpatrick also served as superintendent at Rim of The World Unified School District in Lake Arrowhead, where he was mentored Jeff Hubbard, recruiting the then drama teacher to become an elementary school principal.

Stepenosky declined to comment due to finalization issues with LVUSD. Las Virgenes will finalize its hiring of Stepenosky May 23.

Report Details City's Robust Economy

A 74-page, economic analysis found the Beverly Hills economy healthy, but noted traffic and parking as areas in need of improvement.

By Kari Hamanaka

In a presentation held May 4 at Greystone Mansion, an economic analysis of Beverly Hills, confirmed what some already knew: data supporting the fact that Beverly Hills has one of the wealthiest economies in the nation. Despite the positive findings, analysts reported that areas, such as parking and the city's night-life, still had room to grow.

"The purpose of the report was to really get our arms around the economic engine which is Beverly Hills," said Alison Director Development. "We really wanted to understand what was our tax base, who are our employers, what our retail sales were and the many aspects that go up to make an econo-

Entitled "Sharpening the Competitive Edge," the extensive study, which is available online, was the first of its kind to be done for Beverly Hills. Analysts surveyed more than 200 businesses in a study that included businesses, businesses' employees, the tourism industry and several other factors related to the economy.

"The things that I found very interesting were a lot of confirmation for the very first time that the intuition about many of the aspects about business in Beverly Hills, is now being confirmed in quantitative form," said Dan Walsh, Chamber of Commerce CEO. "The one [aspect] that was very much intuitive by nature was the talent agencies, but it was clearly confirmed that that service segment was, and is, an attractive service to have in town."

Despite the mostly positive outlook, the report also mentioned areas the city must address such as traffic and zoning, if the economy of Beverly Hills is to stay competitive with other cities' economies in the future.

"The city needs to ensure that it doesn't rest on its laurels," Maxwell said. "We need to maintain the luster of the Beverly Hills brand, retain our position as a center for luxury and guarantee that people have a great experience when they come to the city."

A long-time supplier of luxury brands, many Beverly Hills businesses face competition from other shopping venues such as the Beverly Center, The Grove and South Coast Plaza when it comes to selling luxury goods. Although, this discussion of outside retail competition is not new to the city as the issue was brought up by some local businesses in

"While we talk about competition from The Grove, Century City or from other shopping centers, we as a city are not a shopping center," Mayor Steve Webb said. "Unlike shopping centers, who have the ability to dictate and control what their merchants do,

Despite the increased competition, the luxury brands associated with Beverly Hills will continue to be a part of the city's revenues in addition to changes the city hopes will attract other visitors.

"The city needs to not only focus on shopping, but to focus on an array of aspects that create an experience for visitors," Walsh said. "That is partially shopping, but it's also entertainment."

In addition to the increased competition from other luxury retailers, analysts suggested the city address traffic and parking concerns to maintain a healthy economy. Projects in consideration include offsite parking for employees in the Triangle and Beverly Drive business areas.

Evelyn Banner

First grade teacher at Horace Mann and Beverly Vista, 1950-1986 Billings, Montana

How did you first get to Beverly Hills?

I was resource teacher at all schools first. When I was placed back into the classroom I was put into BV by choice. I taught at Horace Mann before that. I first came in to the district way back in 1950. Before Beverly Hills I was teaching in Burbank.

What principal did you first work for?

That was Dave Haserot at Horace Mann. He did a fantastic job with presentations and assisting and understanding his team. He used to come up to my classroom and we had a good rapport.

Why first grade?

Why not? That's where it all begins. I started as a junior high teacher and my older sister, who was a principal told me, "You're crazy. You would just love working with the little ones." And I did. It before they get sophisticated and they cover up everything. They are so free. You can toss out ideas to them and they're so open to try. We had art classes that were just great. You just have so much more opportunity to explore with them I think.

Who do you remember teaching with?

There were so many. The levels of achievement was phased in when I became resource teacher. Beverly Hills has outstanding teachers. There was Frances Checkerini at Horace Mann, Lillian Downey from Hawthorne, Anne Christenberry from Hawthorne and Angie Templer [Moore] from El Rodeo. Angie is an outstanding teacher. Katherine Porter used to do a lot of things. Carol Miller [Hill], the music teacher, and I were very close. She's like a daughter to me. She and I used to have lunch time doing music together.

Tell us about working with your colleague the late Geri Blonde.

Geri was at Beverly Vista and an outstanding person because she was more than willing to carry more than her share of the load. She was honest. The parents and teachers loved her. She was a special woman.

In 2003, we interviewed former Beverly Vista teacher and later Assistant Superintendent Carol Katzman [issue #185] who said, "Evelyn Banner taught me a very important lesson: to make haste slowly."

My mother was the one who used to do that for me. We [teachers] were all gunho at that period and enthusiastic about trying out new things. The Beverly people supported us to try new things in our classrooms so it was a wonderful period to be there.

Tell us about BV in the 1950s.

I haven't been there in a long time but to me our school was outstanding because we all worked so hard and pulled together. We had a lot of good leadership and a lot support from the headquarters with [former superintendent] Ken Peters and his staff. Each school had an opportunity to do the best they could.

It was with Isabelle Dibel and Marcella Hyderch and we were trying a lot of new things. Lillian Downey and I experimented with teaching with tapes and then we were excused for one year to create tapes with a publishing company. We introduced those tapes to the district and students all across the country used them too. We had a lot of wonderful opportunities to try new things.

Since your retirement, the campus has since been rebuilt. Your old classroom in the D building has been demolished.

I think it was too bad in a way because I'd like to keep some of the old traditions. That was a beautiful school and my classroom was one of the nicest. I have not seen the new building.

When did you retire and why?

I've been retired since 1986 because my husband had cancer. My husband has since died and I moved to Billings, Montana. My current husband and I were

We are very happy but we had a tragic thing happen. Two years ago he fell down the stairs and broke his neck and was totally paralyzed. We had a miracle since then. He wasn't supposed to live or walk but now he walks with a walker and every day we are seeing improvements. I've been his sole caretaker most of the time, so we've had quite a marriage.

Do you remember any parents or students?

We also have a young doctor in the valley that I taught in first grade at Horace Mann by the name of Steve and the youngest boy that played the part in LA Law—his mother is Jeannie Cooper.

Also there was Susan Goldsmith who is an artist in California. She wrote me a beautiful paper and said she decided she would be a mother and towards the end when she was describing things that a mother did, she said the work was too hard so she decided she didn't want to be a mother. Two years ago, I sent it to her before her mother died so she could give it to her mother. She's a lovely girl and I think her father is still in Beverly.

In fact, I would love to hug every one of the students. They were wonderful. I've had so much on my mind, all of this has been shelved but I've had lots of wonderful experiences with the children

Who do you keep in touch with?

Angie [Templer Moore] and Anne Christenberry. Most of my gang is gone. Ethel Molten and [Milt] Rowen [interviewed in issue #306] are gone. Frances Checkerini is still living and Sylvia Contreras [Nelson] [interviewed in issue #344] and Dave Marguetts. I communicate through any communication that is pertinent-telephone, letters and Christmas cards.

What advice would you give to a young teacher today?

They cooperate with each other as much as we did in our lives. We had our meetings and shared ideas and helped one another. When somebody needed help, we were there. Of course you have to give it your all. It takes a lot of hard work and caring. I hope their administrative staff is as strong today as it was when I was there. We just had a wonderful rapport.

City Makes News, Campaign Turns Ugly

Radar detection and nasty political mailers. By Rudy Cole

The quirky makes news, at least if the story dateline is Beverly Hills. Now, a proposal to employ technological advances to reduce speeding through residential areas—radar detection of speeders, has put Beverly Hills Mayor Steve Webb on the front page of Tuesday's California section of the Los Angeles Times.

The camera-radar plan, first tried in northern California, met with some opposition in the state legislature even though it had the support of our representatives—Sen. Sheila Kuehl and Assemblymember Paul Koretz. Somehow, having cameras was dubbed more big brotherism than gendarmes in patrol cars. The association representing California Highway Patrol officers also weighed in calling for more police officers instead of machines.

Interestingly, the concept was not opposed by our own police officer's association or by Chief David Snowden. Also, camera detection of motorists running red lights on many key city intersections is working, especially at La Cienega and Wilshire Boulevards where it has reduced accidents dramatically. Drivers are well aware their faces and vehicle licenses are possible recording subjects.

The Times story tagged the radar idea to proposed developments and the plans to "build high rise" condos in Beverly Hills. In fact, none of the housing or mixed use proposals now in the planning process come anywhere near the criteria for "high rise." Most if not all are at least half the height of similar existing developments just feet west of our borders and are not the cause of any projected increases in traffic. On the contrary, the most significant will replace uses such as a major department store that generated more daily car trips.

A reality check of our traffic woes always comes up with the same issue: Traffic going through our city, not destination trips. If radar cameras can help deter those going through the city from using residential streets, often at speeds that make them unsafe, it is worth a try. As for "big brotherism," it is hard to understand how cameras could be more invasive than a patrol car at every corner.

Of course, if you want an historical perception of our traffic problems, blame the city planners who created broad streets in large home residential areas and narrow thoroughfares for streets with apartments. Some of the streets bordering on retail, such as Reeves Drive, are almost immovable, especially on the one block north of Olympic where parking is permitted on both sides of the streets. Also, what planning geniuses permitted building of apartments with little or even no parking? The real innovations in traffic calming came with diversion programs begun about 15 years ago in the southwest. It may not be neighborly, but traffic programs that deter through traffic are in our interests and need to be tried, and that includes uses of any technology we can afford and implement.

Thanks to Fred Hayman for alerting us to an event honoring four very special women, the 11th annual "Women in Action" luncheon sponsored by the Israel Cancer Research Fund to be held at the Beverly Hills Hotel on June 7,

The four are Rosalie Zelis, Linzi Glass, Barbara Hayden, M.D. and Norma Fink. Their accomplishments range from education, government, business, philanthropy and medicine to community involvement. For information: (310) 651-1200.

Speaking of women, Janet Salter was our city's honoree in the county's "older" citizen awards program held every year to pay tribute to seniors who made a difference in their community. But to tag the ever fountain of youth Janet as "older" is to challenge the meaning of the word "youth." Few people have her enthusiasm and her energy, at any age. From cultural to education to family, Janet's work for our city is legendary. She was recognized at an event this week along with nominees from 88 other communities by the Los Angeles County Commission on Aging.

Interesting program last week at the Economic Development Committee luncheon when Mayor Steve Webb faced questions from moderator and former Mayor Allan Alexander ranging from future development to current civic improvement plans.

Webb was very direct in tackling some key issues facing our city. It made me think of the wide gulf between having responsibility and being an activist critic. A mayor, and councilmember, have a continuing challenge: Finding real solutions to problems that meet city needs even when that means taking politically unpopular positions. Best example is to balance the need for revenue producing projects with concerns about congestion. It may be very politically correct to simply say no to any change, but when that could mean economic debacles, the city needs some backbone in our leadership. The "no-sayers" aren't going to be around when and if the city can't find the money to pay for public safety, as only one example of where we demand excellence. On the other hand, local leadership can make mistakes, as we think they did when they cut two hour free parking to one.

The EDC is part of the Chamber of Commerce and is a very successful operation, meeting monthly and bringing together top leaders in finance, business and commerce. EDC director Anita Zusman Eddy and city marketing staff member Alison Maxwell just completed a successful trip to New York, meeting with major retailers who have stores here or who the city wants to bring to our business areas.

The long-awaited opening of a second Wolfgang Puck eatery in Beverly Hills is planned for this month. Puck, who brought us Spago at the former Bistro Garden space on North Canon, will now offer "Cut" an upscale steak house at the Regent Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The hotel will also open the cocktail lounge area opposite the restaurant, long a popular watering spot. The restaurant will, for now, only be open for dinner. Interesting decision by the hotel. They closed their formal dining room to renovate the space for Puck and successfully upgraded their Wilshire Boulevard frontage dining space with the new "BLVD."

That room far outpaced the former use and the dining room in the rear.

Wolf and Barbara obviously didn't accept my suggestion that the new room be called "Steak Out." Speaking of meat eating, and we seem to have overcome the vegan movement in our village with Ruth's, Mastro's, Morton's and Porterhouse catering to our more fundamental urges. One more soon to be opened for meat lovers is a kosher steak house at the Rodeo Collection, to be operated by a highly successful group from New York.

Our column last week on possible candidates for city council may have led to some earlier than usual campaign outreach with likely contenders scurrying for early endorsements. We said that Planning Commissioner Nancy Krasne was not likely to run, but she has corrected that with her announcement of candidacy. How many will actually file challenging two incumbents? Stay tuned and watch your mail box. The numbers of pieces could be enter the March 2007 contest. But seldom has

And speaking of politics, it's getting very nasty out there. The race for assembly between West Hollywood councilmember and recent mayor Abbe Land and former Los Angeles City Councilman Mike Feuer has turned quite ugly. While there may be few issues on which they differ— both being liberal Democrats, Feuer has unleashed a number of heavy "attack" pieces at Land that could well decide the election.

Somehow, the slams at Land don't fit the image we had of Feuer. But having made very serious accusations, the campaign could be determined on how Land responds to the Feuer hit mailings. Land has to respond to the Feuer allegations and not just resort to similar tactics. If Land is able to answer the Feuer allegations of conflict, Feuer could lose an election he might have easily won, if early polling was accurate. He has rolled the dice in a very surprising move.

There is a difference in this primary. Usually, when candidates from the same party do serious damage to opponents, it helps the other party in the final election. But that is not true here. The Democratic registration in the district is so heavy that Land or Feuer will win no matter how rough the primary.

Feuer must have thought he needed to go negative, although that was not what the more astute observers felt. We are very surprised that Feuer took this road. Again, Land can and probably should win if her responses to Feuer's charges are effective.

Politics in West Hollywood are always rougher than Beverly Hills. We don't usually take kindly to negativism. But West Hollywood and Beverly Hills voters share the assembly district with Los Angeles, and the district goes from much of west Los Angeles to the valley.

More on this election next week.

Upcoming: The great news about the progress of the cultural center theatre plans – the performing arts complex at the historic post office and now named for major donor Wallis Annenberg will be given some in depth reporting next week. Also, we will return with "Local Hero" and a piece on some departures from our schools. There is more to the leaving of the high school principal than being reported, at least some history. As for "Local Hero," your nominations of people who have made a difference is always welcome.

Currently, the city is spending money on infrastructure with projects such as the renovation of parking structures in addition to better signage for Beverly Hills visitors and shoppers.

The city is also looking into a subway stop in Beverly Hills on a rail line that travels from Los Angeles to Santa Monica. A committee of 20 community members has been assembled to provide recommendations to the city council on the route and stops of this line. However, implementation of this rail project is a long way from being realized, but it is definitely being discussed.

"If I'm a betting man," Webb said, "the city of Beverly Hills will have a subway station in its long-term future."

Consultants from MBIA MuniServices, were hired by the city, for the economic analysis that took nine months to complete. Anyone from business owners to those involved with the economic study attended the invitation-only event at Greystone Mansion where the 74-page report was presented.

"This is an outstanding time for the city," Walsh said. "With this report in hand, as we face some very interesting questions going forward, [we can] develop a new general plan and look forward to the future with a fact-based understanding of what would make the city of Beverly Hills a more vibrant community even more so than [it is] today."

Irvine Outbids Trump For Property Adjacent To BHHS

According to an article in the L.A. Times Friday, SunCal, an Orange County land developer, bid $110.2 million— outbidding real estate mogul Donald Trump by $200,000— for the former Fox Sports building adjacent to Beverly High.

The bid has more than doubled the starting bid of $45 million. SunCal reportedly plans to build a high-rise condominium on the parcel.

Trump planned to build a hotel.

The projects raised questions amongst some Beverly Hills community members as how the projects could affect Beverly High in terms of traffic impact. As reported in the Weekly in issue #343, City Manager Rod Wood said it was not in the city's budget to purchase the property.

Koretz's Impeachment Resolution Up for Consideration

Forty-second District Assemblymember, Paul Koretz (D- West Hollywood) proposed a resolution to impeach President George W. Bush. On May 11, the Assembly Rules Committee voted 4-3 to consider the resolution. In addition to Bush, the bill also called for the impeachment of Vice President Richard Cheney.

The vote is largely part of protocol and in effect, only alters the language of the resolution to be called Assembly Joint Resolution 39.

Reasons for the call to impeach are based on a number of premises and include allegations of misleading Congress and Americans about Iraq, conspiracy to torture prisoners and spying on Americans.

Koretz co-wrote the resolution with Mark Leno, an Assemblymember from San Francisco.

Beverly Hills Resident Robbed Oustide L.A. Store

A Beverly Hills woman was robbed by two men at gunpoint after parking her car outside a store in Los Angeles at around 10:30 a.m. on May 6. No arrests have been made and no one is in custody.

On the day of the incident, the victim left a Beverly Hills store and drove to another store in Los Angeles. Police would not disclose the names of these stores or the name of the victim.

The woman was approached by two men outside the L.A. location who said they hit her car back at the Beverly Hills store. When the women began to explain they might be mistaken, one of the men pulled a gun out. The two took her money and jewelry and then left the scene.

As a result of the incident, the Beverly Hills Police Department, reminds the city's residents to always be aware of their surroundings when out in public. Simple advice such as using caution while at ATMs and keeping purses close to the body, are tips the police department suggests community members exercise while in public.

Facelifts Continue for Beverly Hills Parking Structures

New message boards, a vehicle counting system and new entrances are some of the changes the city's parking structures will see in the coming year. Money for these improvements, are the result of parking rate fee changes that began in January.

The city found parking structures that changed from free 2-hour parking, to 1-hour parking, freed more space for short-term parking. Such findings are what motivated the city to continue with plans for structural and other improvements.

The city council divided the desired improvements for these changes as short-term, mid-term and long-term changes to be addressed during the 2006-2007 fiscal year. Among the short-term changes already being implemented, are cleaning and painting.

The city's mid-term renovation goals for these structures include landscaping, updating elevator technology and security services. Other changes that will take several years to complete include construction work such as the new entrance and exit lanes.

Residents To Receive New Trash Bins

As part of a city plan that replaces the three-bin system, with two, trash bins will be distributed to all residents by July.

In addition, residents north of Santa

Monica Boulevard will receive new address labels. Unlike the old waste disposal system, which kept recyclables, yard waste and other trash separate, the new system combines recyclables with other trash in a black bin. Yard and other organic waste, such as food, will still remain separate in a green trash bin.

The decision to combine recyclables with other trash will allow the city's disposal site, Crown Disposal Material Recovery Facility, to turn the green bin contents into compost for sale. The goal of this new plan is to ensure the correct waste is going into landfills and other waste is being reused in an effective manner.

BHHS Students to Hear Former Slave's Story

Students at Beverly High will attend a speaking event with former southern Sudan slave Francis Bok today. Organized by the high school's U.S.

History and World History teacher Lanie S. King, the event is during the high school's regular sixth period.

Bok escaped from slavery, after 10 years as a captive in the southern region of Sudan. He managed to obtain a fake passport in Cairo and was permitted to live in the United States in 1999 after being granted refugee status by the United Nations.

The Massachusetts-based organization, Facing History and Ourselves put on the event that brings the speaking event with Bok to the high school. It is open to any sixth period class on a first come, first serve basis. Bok will speak again later today at the African American Museum at 7 p.m.

Beverly High alumni Matthew Roston ('02) (pictured to the right), is congratulated at his graduation from Pitzer College by its president, Laura Trombley. Matthew is the son of Beverly Hills Board of Education member Alissa Roston and Dr. Warren Roston. He will be attending law school in the fall.

WILL THE LAST PERSON TO LEAVE THE SCHOOL DISTRICT PLEASE TURN OFF THE LIGHTS? Observations on the unprecedented exodus of BHUSD administrators.

Bv Michelle Zenarosa

Beverly Hills school administrators no longer stay for decades. Beverly Hills Unified School District faculty members cite several factors as to what might be causing this year's unprecedented exodus of BHUSD administrators.

Beverly Vista principal Irene Stern is retiring; Beverly High principal Dan Stepenosky is moving to the Las Virgenes Unified School District (LVUSD); Hawthorne principal Nancy Lynch is moving to the district office; El Rodeo assistant principal Loren Pearlman is leaving the district; and Supt. Jeff Hubbard accepted the superintendent position at the larger Newport-Mesa Unified School District.

Stewart Horowitz

One reason for the mass exit is that administrators are being enticed to move to other districts due to a shrinking pool of apparent qualified administrators in the state, according to BHEA (teachers' union) president Chris Bushee. Because of the discrepancy with supply and demand for qualified administrators, some administrators are literally being lured by districts willing to give better offers.

"It's hard to put your finger on, but talking with enough people, there's a shortage of qualified administrators in California. You've got a lot of districts looking for administrators but a very small pool of good administrators [to choose from]," Bushee said. "Anytime you've got multiple districts after what you have to offer, than you're in a better position to bargain and naturally salaries go up. There's a lot more pressure to only be in a district for a short time because you've been there for a few years and then you look out and there's all these other opportunities."

Beverly High social studies teacher and former BHEA president Stewart Horowitz agrees with Bushee that other districts can offer administrators better salaries than BHUSD.

"There are good opportunities at other places," said Horowitz, who has taught in the district for 21 years. "At one time, Beverly Hills offered substantially higher salaries than other school districts and that's no longer the case. People are frustrated at the direction of our district. This is also a poor reflection on the Board of Education.'

Another reason why school administrators move around more freely than faculty is that administrators can take their experience in other districts and apply it towards their retirement pension. In contrast, certificated teachers many times must take a pay cut or lose seniority when they switch school dis-

Having a high profile city like Beverly Hills on one's resume could also generate better offers from other districts who are in need of eligible administrators, according to

"Once you've worked here for a while, it's a big part of your resume and it makes your resume very attractive," Bushee said. "I'm not at all insinuating that people come to Beverly Hills just to get that on their resume, but the fact that it is on it may make them more appealing."

Another main reason why administrators are moving is the commute and lack of affordable housing near Beverly Hills. Both Stepenosky and Hubbard, as well as a number of other past teachers and administrators, have named this issue as one of their top reasons for leaving.

"Beverly Hills is a tough place in which to work," Horowitz said. "Most people have to commute quite a long ways because few people obviously as a new teacher or as a veteran teacher who might come to work in the district, it's virtually impossible to live close enough where you can buy a home. If you want to buy a home, you have to live farther out."

Stepenosky will be moving to a district office that he says is a one-minute drive from his home in Calabasas. He also has two young children at home. As a comparison, when Ben Bushman became principal in 1989, his children were older.

"Although the sense right now that this is not a great time for him to be leaving, it's understandable," Horowitz said. "He's getting a significant promotion and he's going to save himself an hour commute each way during the course of the day."

The pressure of a small, close-knit community with high standards could also be an additional factor as to why administrators are having a hard time staying at the district, according to Bushee.

"Everybody [in Beverly Hills] is very involved in public education, which is a double-edged sword," Bushee said "On one hand, because everybody is so involved, we work towards excellence and we care very deeply and we want to the institution to go forward, but let's face it - that creates a lot of pressure form all sides. So administrators deal with concerns of teachers, students, the community, and their own bosses— so it's a very high pressure environment. That same sort of pressure may not exist in other dis-

What the district should do to remedy what has occurred this past year is unknown at this

"Even in my own department, for the first 15 years, a job opening rarely happened. People that were here stayed here. Now every year, there are two or three people who come in and they leave and come in and leave. And every once in a while a veteran teacher retires and we can't fill positions permanently anymore," Horowitz said. "As I talk to my colleagues who have been here even longer [than me], this kind of turnover has never happened before. It's very upsetting to people overall."

WEST HOLLYWOOD SAYS THEY WANT IN

Since L.A. Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa announced plans to takeover the Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) in March, the city of West Hollywood has been feeling

"It's left everyone uncertain about what the future is," said West Hollywood Councilmember Jeffrey Prang. "It became very complicated because, unlike other cities, there are 27 independent districts other than just one like New York and Chicago. That originally sparked my concern because if the mayor of L.A. were to appoint school board members, my constituents would be disenfranchised."

The issue has lead West Hollywood to explore several options including, annexation into the Beverly Hills Unified School District or creating a West Hollywood school district of its own. However, since West Hollywood only houses approximately 800 students at its public schools, creating a district all its own is unlikely.

"We have sent [West Hollywood] a letter indicating that we are interested in at least finding out what their thoughts are and that we're willing to have a staff meeting about that," said BHUSD Supt. Jeff Hubbard. "My hunch is that the staff is going to be looking at the issue but I don't know if the board at this point is even open to the idea. We're just at the information gathering point."

At Monday's regular meeting, the West Hollywood City Council approved a local study of public school options, including the option to secede from LAUSD and join

"In all likelihood, the voters of Beverly Hills would have to approve it. Therefore, they would have to be persuaded [as to] why this made sense," said AJ Willmer, who serves on the L.A. County Committee on

School District Reorganization. "I do suspect that a financial case might be made as to why this could be better for the city of Beverly Hills."

Because West Hollywood has an increasing property tax base and a large gay and lesbian population with no children, the city argues that annexation might be appealing to the Beverly Hills school district in terms of per pupil spending, according to Prang.

'We need to research and communicate whether or not that's even true," Hubbard said. "Those are the kinds of discussions that we should be having at the staff level, not at the policymakers, because we need to look at the facts and the data surrounding it and possibilities beforehand."

If West Hollywood decided to separate from LAUSD, the process would require both local and state approval, which is a long, complicated process.

"There is a series of criteria that the [L.A.] County Committee looks into [regarding annexation] that involves looking at the financial impact on the school districts, the impact on the educational program, the impact of racial and ethnic balance, the impact on what the motivations are- you can't request this type of annexation primarily for property value increases," said Willmer, who is also a Beverly Hills resi-

In order to approve just the process, not the actual annexation, all these factors and the similarities between the two would be taken into consideration. Councilmembers from both cities have differing opinions on the similarities of the two

"Both are Westside cities; both have deep

The Hur-Coleman Kelly and Fedonenko-Gary Parizher doubles teams both won all three of their sets in a first-round match last Thursday at Beverly Hills.

Bond, Lin and Vayzner all won two of their three singles sets.

The Levy-Yoon team was a 6-3 winner in the first round.

What's Next?

The Normans were to play a quarterfinal match Tuesday at Walnut that was to begin after the Beverly Hills Weekly's deadline. If Beverly Hills won, it would play host to the winner of the Valley Village Campbell Hall-Downey Warren quarterfinal in a semifinal Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Boys' Golf Ocean League Finals

Beverly Hills High School sophomore Brendan Doyle won the tournament with a two-over-par 146, two shots ahead of Alex

Bon of Santa Monica.

Doyle shot a three-over par 75 in the opening round May 1 at Harding Golf Course at Griffith Park, putting him in a four-way tie for third, four-shot off the lead. Doyle shot a oneunder-par 71 in the final round May 5, also at Harding Golf Course for the only sub-par

The other two Normans to make the cut for the final round, Jackson Trugman and Justin Choi, finished 11th and 12th. Trugman shot a 17-over-par 161 and Choi an 18-over-par 162.

The Regals scored three runs in the first, two in the second, one in the third, two in the fifth and two in the sixth in a game shortened to six innings because of rain.

Freshman Rebecca Gold singled leading off the sixth, the lone hit for Beverly Hills (5-7). Rebecca Rosen (3-4) pitched a complete game, allowing 10 runs (all earned), 14 hits, walking five and striking out one in six innings.

Emily Housman and Joey Sundy singled for the Normans in the opener, called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Notre Dame Academy scored four runs in the first, and three in both the fourth and fifth.

Starter Brianne Nemiroff (2-2) took the loss, allowing six runs (five earned), nine hits, walking four and striking out one in three innings.

Jordan took a 2-0 lead on runs in the first and fourth. The Normans tied the score in the fifth when David Skura's two-out double drove in Kerman, who singled, and Darrian Richardson, who reached first on an error.

The Panthers scored twice in their half of the fifth for a 4-2 lead.

commitments to public education; we're diverse cities who share a lot in common on the political spectrum; and we have similar issues in terms of housing needs and transportation needs. Our city council has a very close and cooperative relationship with Beverly Hills City Council and administra-

Webb, however, had felt different about the two cities being alike.

"I'm not certain that they are a whole lot of similarities other than children are children," Beverly Hills Mayor Steve Webb said. "West Hollywood is not a poor district, in a general sense. It has a lot of development and certainly it has its fair share of high income people. There is a segment of West Hollywood on the eastside that is heavily Russian immigrant. I'm not saying that in a negative sense, I'm saying that my observation of the city is that the wealth of that city tends to be on the Westside. I'm not sure where most of the children would be coming

Although the move may yield some benefits for both the cities, leaders in Beverly Hills believe that although the process to annex is in its beginning stages, approval for it is unlikely.

"It's very problematic for BHUSD to be significantly larger than the city of Beverly Hills," Willmer said. "That would be a political hurdle that would be very difficult to get

Webb agreed that geographic issues may play a key role in whether or not annexation proposals would ultimately be approved.

"It's a geographic issue," Webb said. "All of the children who go to the Beverly Hills school district live in a very tight geographic area and so it's easier for them to get to and from school as well as to interact. Children who live in West Hollywood, many of whom live in the eastside of West Hollywood, would have a long trip to get to school."

Currently, West Hollywood is beginning to devlop a plan of action regarding the matter. It has not yet made the decision whether it would endorse a more beneficial reform measure by Villaraigosa or take the path of secession and create a district all its own or affiliate with the neighboring Beverly Hills. The study is expected to take several months before a decision is made.

No discussion or analysis has been made on the school board level in Beverly Hills, according to Beverly Hills Board of Education President Myra Lurie.

"One of the reason why we [approved the study] is that West Hollywood is a fairly small city just under 40,000 people and we are caught between titans— the city of Los Angeles, the LAUSD and the state Legislature," Prang said. "What's best for our city and our students may or may not be a priority for all these other giants that are playing in this field. We just don't want to get run over by the giants."

Your life be worth

If you are over age 70, we can show you how your life insurance policy might pay off now, while you are alive and still here to enjoy it! What's more, you may be able to sell your policy for considerably more than its cash surrender value.

One of our clients, a 75-year-old man who owned a $500,000 term insurance policy that was about to lapse, was able to cash it in for more than $100,000.

An 80-year old woman had a $5 million policy with a cash surrender value of $600,000. We sold her policy for $1.3 million. Using the proceeds, we bought her new coverage without any further premium payments, saving her $120,000 a year.

People have come to us believing that their old policies were worthless. Others thought their existing insurance was so old that it could not be improved. We helped them sell their policies and purchase new coverage at much lower premiums. In most cases, we were able to increase the legacy they left for their heirs and favorite charities.

And we can do the same for you. Why settle for the cash surrender value or allow your policy to lapse, when it may be worth so much more? Let us help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy at a profit.

For a free, no obligation consultation and policy appraisal, by phone or in person
