As a member of the Persian-American community I am not shocked by the letter sent by this anonymous neighbor [discussed in issue #347]. The issue is not whether or not we build so called Roman style palaces, the issue is that we are and have never been accepted by our neighbors.

I am sure SOME of our racist neighbors appreciate the fact that their house property values have skyrocketed since our arrival in 1979, but they do not appreciate living next to what they believe as "bourgeois" Middle Easterners. Homes used to sell for 500,000 to 700,000 in the North Side of Beverly Hills. Now they sell for at minimum 3 million dollars. This price jump has occurred all over the city.

We are not bourgeois Middle Easterners that build mansions to show off to our neighbors or anger our neighbors. We build these homes because some of the so called "Spanish style" homes our neighbors wish to preserve, and we rightfully purchase, are decrepit and run down. If our neighbors desire to live in such disheveled 80-year old homes, that is their personal preference— but why do they insist that we should not be bound by their rules?

It is bad enough that you can live in this city for 50 years and never know your neighbors. But now these neighbors, who don't wish to accept our existence, have the audacity to tell us how to build our homes.

In the style of cowardice so artfully demonstrated by the anonymous letter writer that led to this discussion and coined the phrase "Persian palace" I say,

"Dear Cowardly Anonymous Writer,

Please get a life, and please mind your own business. If you don't like Persians living next to you, I sarcastically and humbly apologize for your inconvenience. But whether you like it or not we are here to stay. So you have two options (1) welcome us to the neighborhood, and treat us with courtesy like fellow human beings, (2) leave the neighborhood and move somewhere where all the neighbors look like you and live by your rules. We do not engage in criminal activities nor have wild parties every night. We never destroy or vandalize our neighbors' homes, nor do we ever disrespect our neighbors' property. Our Persian community is made up of physicians, lawyers, architects, businessmen and other high-ranking members of this community. So please don't worry about our homes, but worry about becoming more culturally competent. Anonymous But Not Racist."

"Silverstein Files For Rehearing In Montage Case"

Jay Newman of the Montage Hotel continues to claim that the Montage opposition "wastes the city's resources" by appealing to the courts. However, these statements are as false as the claims made last year by the City Council and Mr. Newman as to the benefits that would result from the Montage.

City officials apparently anticipated challenges to their inadequate Montage environmental impact report, which was drafted in house by city officials. Therefore, the Montage development agreement requires that the Montage pay for all legal costs to defend all appeals. As a result, the appeals by the Montage opposition have not cost the city one cent despite Mr. Newman's false claims.

The City Council and Montage's many falsehoods about the Hotel/condo project are now becoming apparent. The City Council and developer said there would be no significant impacts to traffic, yet the construction impacts to traffic and lane closures on Canon and Beverly are already a nightmare. If the project is actually built (because the case is still on appeal) and when another 100,000 vehicles a month are pumped into the Beverly/Wilshire intersection, not to mention the additional 50,000 vehicles a month from the adjoining Cirrus Medical Center project that the City Council hid during the Montage proceedings, anyone who believed the City Council and Montage's false statements last year will know never to trust them again.

That should be kept in mind as a slew of mammoth and code-violating projects, including the Robinson/May and Hilton projects, continue to emerge in the after birth of the Montage debacle. This was predicted by the Alliance and by the Weekly's Gerald Lunn. It letters cont. on page 9

Fitzpatrick Discusses District Goals for Interim

The interim superintendent says he wants open communication with parents and teachers, but former colleagues say differently. By Kari Hamanaka

Interim superintendent John Fitzpatrick's goal of visibility among parents and teachers once he comes to Beverly Hills, contrast with some of his former colleagues observations of his leadership style.

"One of the things I'm going to do once I get on board, is try to meet with as many people as I can," Fitzpatrick said. "I want to meet with the parent groups and try to really get to know all of the administrators in the school district and all the staff in the school district office."

Fitzpatrick assumes the role of superintendent in the interim once Jeff Hubbard leaves the district June 30. He will come to Beverly Hills with more than 30 years of experience in education and was superintendent of Rim of the World Unified in Lake Arrowhead and Las Virgenes Unified in Calabasas.

Fitzpatrick's experience in the education field is what some say justifies his appointment for the Beverly Hills district in the interim.

"I always found Dr. Fitzpatrick to be very supportive, experienced and skilled in his work with the school board," Las Virgenes Assistant Superintendent of Personnel, Stephen Hanke, said.

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its regular meeting on Thursday, June 8, 2006, will hold a public hearing beginning at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, to consider:

A one-year time extension request for a Tentative Parcel Map (No. 27089), which was approved in July 23, 2003, to subdivide an existing 10-story office building into three parcels for the property located at 8484 Wilshire Boulevard (Flynt Building). The subdivision was for the purposes of a change of ownership and there are no other changes to the property. The request has been filed in a timely manner for an extension of the exercise of rights granted for the subdivision, to July 23, 2007, which is allowed pursuant to local and State law requirements.

This project was previously assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City, and a Mitigated Negative Declaration was adopted. There have been no substantial changes to the project or to the environment that would cause the project to significantly impact the environment. Therefore, there is no substantial evidence that the approval of the requested extension may have any significant environmental impact. The original Mitigated Negative Declaration and the mitigation measures imposed continue to represent the independent judgment of the City, and no additional environmental review is required under CEQA.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission. Comments on the time extension request may be submitted in writing to the Planning Department and written or oral comments will be accepted at the Planning Commission meeting at the date and time noted above.

If you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its regular meeting on Thursday, June 8, 2006, will hold a public hearing beginning at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, to consider:

An application to renew a Conditional Use Permit and a Development Plan Review Permit has been requested for the Avalon Hotel located at 9400 Olympic Boulevard. The request for renewal would allow the hotel's dining facility to remain open to the public. The Development Plan Review Permit (DPR) would also allow a public restaurant within a nonconforming hotel and allow open air dining at the property. The project was originally approved by the Planning Commission on January 24, 2001, for a period of one year, with the possibility of future renewals. Subsequently, the project approvals have been renewed on an annual basis, with the most recent renewal was issued on June 22, 2006 and expiring on June 22, 2006 if not otherwise extended. In addition, the applicant requests approval of an Extended Hours Permit to allow the restaurant (including the bar and dining area) and the open air dining area (including the pol-side lounge area) to be open to restaurant patrons and hotel guests until midnight, Monday through Saturday. The restaurant and open air dining area are closed at 11:00 p.m. on Sunday night.

This project was previously assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City in 2001, and a Negative Declaration was approved for this project. There have been no substantial changes to this project or the environment that would cause the project to significantly impact the environment. Therefore, there is no substantial evidence that the approval to renew a Conditional Use Permit and a Development Plan Review Permit may have any significant environmental impact beyond that identified in the original Negative Declaration, which continues to represent the independent judgment of the City. Therefore, CEQA does not require additional environmental review for the proposed actions.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission both in advance of the meeting and at the Planning Commission meeting at the date and time noted above.

If you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

In fact, most who have worked with him in the past, praised Fitzpatrick for the length of time he spent in education.

"John is very experienced," Las Virgenes School Board President Cindy Iser said. "He has over 30 years of experience and has solid knowledge of the education code. He's not afraid to make tough decisions when it comes to kids."

Although the majority of his career was spent as an administrator, Fitzpatrick began as a high school teacher in Bellflower Unified. He taught for eight years before moving on to be an assistant principal within the same school district.

Under Fitzpatrick's leadership at both Rim of the World and Las Virgenes as a superintendent, the districts pursued bonds. A $60 million bond measure passed at Rim of the World and a $100 million bond passed as Las Virgenes.

"I think educationally, we did very well," Fitzpatrick said of his time at Las Virgenes. "I'm very focused on the classroom and working with administration and principals to improve classroom instruction."

The $100 million bond called Measure R and passed in 1997 at Las Virgenes, helped pay for the construction of Alice C. Stelle Middle School in Calabasas and a new Yerba Buena Elementary School in Agoura Hills.

The new middle school, named after one of the district's founders, was built to alleviate overcrowding at another middle school. Eminent domain was declared on the property, before the district purchased the middle school's land for $3.25 million in 2002. The school opened in November 2003.

The new Yerba Buena Elementary School will replace the existing site, also in Agoura Hills. The school is not expected to open until 2007. The final cost of the school is expected to be $33 million.

"He tends to be hands off," school board President of Las Virgenes, Cindy Iser, said. "He relies on his staff especially in regard to construction issues."

After nearly 10 yeas as superintendent in Calabasas, Fitzpatrick decided to retire and the school board chose to renew his contract for only a two-year agreement in 2004.

"It was not the right management style for our district anymore," Iser said.

Iser, who only worked with Fitzpatrick for two years, referenced the vote of no-confidence in his communication and decisionmaking skills issued by the teachers' union.

"We ran into some difficulty probably around 2000 with union issues and the finances in terms of giving people raises," Fitzpatrick said. "So we had some conflict there. I took that as a challenge and tried to turn it into a positive for the district and instituted some ongoing structured communications with the teacher's union."

The ongoing communication Fitzpatrick referenced, were the roundtable discussions, that opened dialogue between teachers and the Las Virgenes Board of Education.

Former Las Virgenes teachers' union president, Sandra Pope said despite the vote of no-confidence, Fitzpatrick worked to correct the situation and issues with teachers were resolved.

The current use of the subject site is a restaurant called "ACQUA". The proposed modifications are to: 1) remove the requirement to provide 103 parking spaces for patrons of the subject site by utilizing parking spaces in the Bank of America building located at 440 North Beverly Drive, and replace it with a new requirement to provide 103 parking spaces at the parking facility located at 375 North Crescent Drive, and 2) revise the restriction for business operating hours from 8:30 p.m. to 2:00 a.m., to 6:30 p.m. to 2:00 a.m., The proposed modifications to the CUP would be in accordance with a mutual agreement between the property owner and the City of Beverly Hills. aroundtown Beverly Hills Meets Suriname

A culture shock awaited Beverly High alumnus Saman Kashani after he boarded a plane headed for South America to be a Peace Corps volunteer.

By Kari Hamanaka

In a recent photo, a smiling Saman Kashani held a faded red T-shirt screened with the Beverly High insignia on the front. He stood against a backdrop of lush vegetation with the Upper Suriname River behind him.

The shirt represents the stark contrast between the 24-year-old's former life in Beverly Hills and his current life as a Peace Corps volunteer in Suriname, a South American country that shares borders with Brazil and French Guiana.

Over the course of two years volunteering in Suriname, the 1999 Beverly High graduate learned Dutch, the country's first language; has been exposed to several gastrointestinal diseases; had locals tease him for being a foreigner - done only in fun - and traveled rough roads to commute to his job at a clinic outside of Suriname's capitol.

"You give up a lot of stuff to experience new things," Kashani said, "I recognize that."

Nearly two years ago, Kashani left Beverly Hills to attend a three-month training session with the Peace Corps. From there, he boarded a plane and arrived at a small airport at 4 a.m. in what he described as the middle of nowhere. After a series of winding, unpaved roads in what seemed like a jungle, Kashani arrived in the capitol, which would be his home for the next 24 months.

He currently works at a 3,500-patient clinic on the outskirts of the capitol and drives nearly two hours to get to his job site where he does data collection and analysis.

"I've seen things [at the clinic], I could never see in an American healthcare setting: diseases that I almost thought were extinct," Kashani said. "Unfortunately, I've also caught some of those diseases."

Despite catching the occasional stomach problems and skin rashes, Kashani has adjusted to his surroundings. However, his story in Suriname did not start out that way. Although the Peace Corps provides training in things like language and culture, it obviously did not compare to the culture shock awaiting Kashani when he arrived.

"The very first day was very crazy," Kashani said. "There's very little literature on Suriname. So, I didn't know what to expect. [Suriname] is in South America so you have this concept that you'll come down here and everybody will be speaking Spanish, but in reality no one speaks Spanish."

The official language of Suriname is actually Dutch, which is a remnant from the country's time as a colony owned by the Netherlands until 1975. The country only recently gained political stability in 1991 when a democratically elected government took over.

While in Suriname Kashani has also noticed distinct socioeconomic differences between the country and Beverly Hills. More than half of the population in Suriname lives below the poverty line and few people drive their own cars in the country.

"Suriname is a lot different from Beverly Hills," Kashani said, "We have to take public transportation, which is something so ineffective in Beverly Hills. We're not allowed to drive cars, and the amount of allowance we get is very little. It forces us to live with the people we're working with which is good."

Not only has Kashani adjusted to daily differences, but the absence of his favorite foods and places to go to, made him realize the simple things he may have taken for granted back at home.

"I miss 'In N Out,' Cal Mex," Kashani said. "I miss my parents and my friends in Beverly Hills and Los Angeles. I miss air-conditioning. I miss not being able to sleep without a mosquito net and mosquito repellent."

Despite all of that, Kashani said the experience in Suriname has been well-worth the lack of occasional hamburgers or tacos he was able to eat all the time at home. Being in the country has only enforced his interest to pursue studying healthcare and science.

Originally, what led him to join the Peace Corps and volunteer in Suriname, was that love of science. The self-confessed high school "science club geek" partially attributed teachers, such as Dan Stepenosky and Scott Harvey at Beverly High and Eran Elitzur at El Rodeo to why he is in Suriname today.

Kathy Layton

High School Math Teacher, 1960-1999 McKinleyville, CA

How did you first get on the Westside. to Beverly Hills?

I had just gotten my teaching credential at UCLA, and they had a day that you could get your name out there for employment. The first school, Beverly, at that time was recruiting very heavily. They were the first school to interview me, and I had an interview set up with them and several other school districts. By the time the other school districts [called] I had already gotten a job at Beverly. They were one of the first school districts in the area to hire new teachers. There were 15 or 16 of us hired at the high school that year.

My husband at the time was teaching at University High School [Uni]. That was the time when a husband and wife couldn't teach at the same school. So, I was interviewing with a lot of the school districts in the area. Beverly Hills seemed like an idea place because it was on the Westside and we lived

What were the differences between Uni and Beverly?

Not so much then because the population was very different at the time at both Beverly and a lot of the Westside schools. Uni was the only high school that served the Palisades and all of West Los Angeles. The whole demographics changed dramatically since 1960. Beverly, when I started, was about 90 percent Jewish, and Uni had a good size Jewish population also. Beverly was fairly homogenous at the time and Uni was too.

Over the years, we began to get many students from other countries. That started in the late 1970s with a large Iranian population. When I retired I think there was something like 53 different birth countries represented at the high school.

What was the relationship between teachers and students when you taught at

Beverly?

When I started teaching, you pretty much got respect because you were the teacher. That all changed in the late 60s and early 70s. You could get respect and all from the kids but no longer because you were the teacher. It was more because you just figured out ways to develop [respect] with them. Everything changed dramatically from 1960 to 1999. It was just a whole different ball game.

I think a lot of that had to do with the general culture's acceptance of authority. In the 60s and 70s, starting with the assassination of Kennedy and Vietnam stuff, things changed. Society has changed so dramatically too and schools reflect a society. I think parents of the earlier generation had a different attitude towards teachers than parents of later generations. There was more support for the teachers and the teachers as teachers in the early days. Beverly Hills has very good parent support as far as the schools are concerned, but [in later days] you saw more parents defending their students rather than recognizing that maybe their student had done something wrong. That's typical of society.

Why math?

I started out at UCLA and had done a lot of work in my teens with young kids. I was going to be an elementary school teacher. After about three days with no mathematics in my schedule, I decided I did not like what I was studying because I just had general courses and no math.

I dropped a couple of courses and picked up lots of math and from that time, I decided I was going to major in mathematics and teach it. At that time, in the early 60s, women didn't have as many opportunities, and it was very unusual for a woman to major in mathematics. It was not socially acceptable at UCLA. I think there were two or three other math women majors. I was in a physics class of about 50, and I was the only female. It was a different world.

My father was a math professor at UCLA and he's always taken an interest in math with me and was willing to teach me when I needed it.

I've just always enjoyed it. I find it stimulating. Most people think math is just numbers and of course, it isn't. I loved geometry when I was in school and liked the idea that you can figure things out. You can start at a spot and do some problem solving skills and arrive at an answer.

What math classes did you teach at Beverly?

Everything. Arithmetic, pre-algebra and all the way up to advanced calculus. The course I taught the most, was geometry. I taught a computer class, but never an AP computer class. I taught statistics, but never an AP statistics class. One of the things that was nice was that we had the opportunity to [teach a variety of classes], if we wanted it. That was one to not get stale in a particular area. So, you don't get bored.

How did you make math interesting for students?

I think partly, I enjoyed it, and I tried to

MADE-TO-ORDER FRAMES Featured in many magazines including Architectural Digest

come up with various activities that might help them become more engaged in mathematics.

The one thing, my father used to say, is that everyone can do math. You just have to be taught correctly. People think there's a math gene, but there isn't. We have an attitude in this country that you can either do it, or you can't. That's just not the case. I wish people would recognize that. It's a problem that we don't have people trained in mathematics that we should, but that's whole other story.

What students or teachers you do remember at Beverly High?

I periodically run into a lot of them. For years, I lived in Los Angeles until 2003. I started the advanced placement program in mathematics at Beverly the year Kennedy died. I had nine guys in that class. I remember most of them and one of those students from that class is Mark Green. He's a math professor at UCLA and he's kind of kept me up on what a lot of those guys are doing. [Director] Rob Reiner was one of my other students. Robert Cole who graduated in 1970 is a surgeon in Santa Monica now.

I sponsored the class of 1970 from the time the kids were freshmen in that group. There was Alan Newman and a Melinda Lehrer and a Bryan McCauley. Jeff Golden, Larry Schwartz and Bob Buck. A lot of those kids are from earlier years.

I remember many of the earlier math teachers. Most of these people have died. Helen Louise Aldridge was in the math department and was a real mentor to me. [There was]

Newman Borden and Jim Painter. I still know a number of teachers in the math department right now [such as] Lee Morris, Larry Bigler and Ira Moskow. I'm real good friends with Jane Wortman, the chair of the department now. Sheryl Yamada and I used to teach there for years. She retired not too many years ago.

Who in Beverly do you keep in touch with?

I keep in touch with Sheryl Yamada and Jane Wortman and Alison Howell. She's a former math [teacher]. Pat Carter was a head counselor, and I still see her. When I'm in the area and there's a math department function, I go. I've been to some of the retirement parties when some of my friends were retiring. When you're at a place for 39 years and, when I was there, a lot of us stayed for our entire careers. So, you know the people pretty well.

What accomplishments are you most proud of with your time at Beverly?

I was glad that I had the opportunity to start these advanced placement programs in mathematics. There was only nine [students in the first class], and that was unusual to start a class with nine kids. Eventually, we had to go to two classes. It was probably some time in the 70s when we started seeing more women. Eventually we got it to where it was about half boys and half girls.

I was also department chair for a number of years. That was at a time when we were able to start some new programs. We had a program called college prep mathematics that was successful for a while. Then we offered basic geometry and intermediate algebra.

Why did you decide to move to McKinleyville in 2003?

I didn't have any family there [in LA] and I have family up here. I decided it would be good to be near family. My sister has been up here since 1970, so I knew the area. It's a beautiful area and I liked it. I didn't like the traffic in Los Angeles. After I retired, I worked for two years at UCLA with new teachers, and I still do that now. I work for something called Teachers Teaching with Technology, which is sponsored by Texas Instruments.

What do you like doing in free time?

Sudoku puzzles. I volunteer at a local hospital. I'm a pen pal to a student at one of the local elementary schools. I love to hike. I like to cook. I'm taking two classes-one on PhotoShop and one on Excel. I'm doing Pilates. I like to take my dog for a walk.

Do you miss teaching?

I had a wonderful time with my teaching and working at Beverly. It was a very pleasant experience for me and I just loved teaching. I don't miss the lesson planning or the grading papers, but I sure miss the interaction with students.

I got an awesome public education," said the former science club president. "I couldn't have really hoped for more. The teachers that I had really inspired me, and I think built the foundation that got me to join the Peace Corps in the first place. They definitely built the foundation to love science and help people."

It was throughout his time at Beverly High, Kashani excelled in science competitions before he graduated in 1999.

"Saman was a terrific student," said Beverly High Principal Dan Stepenosky in an e-mail. "He had a heart of gold and a passion for learning. He also possessed tremendous leadership skills and lead our science team on to a number of victories."

When Kashani returns to Beverly Hills in August, he will visit briefly with friends and family before leaving in September for graduate school in London. He eventually would like to work abroad with the World Health Organization or Doctors Without Borders.

While his time with the Peace Corps has been priceless, Kashani said he could not see volunteering again in the near future because of the long span of time volunteers must be willing to devote. This, however, does not mean Kashani is necessarily anxious for his time in Suriname to end.

"I will be sad to leave," Kashani said of Suriname. "After two years here, I have made friends with not only my fellow Peace Corps volunteers, but also many host country nationals. I think I've played my part here and accomplished a lot personally and for the community. That makes leaving a bit easier."

Democrats Self Destruct

Notes on events and people. By Rudy Cole

Tuesday Democrats will pick their candidate for governor, and the winner is: Arnold Schwarzenegger.

No accident that the governor's ratings have dramatically improved as the two leading Democratic candidates took turns throwing scurrilous and demeaning charges of conflicts of interest at each other in a frantic effort to self destruct. No previous campaign, not even the recall against [former] Gov. Gray Davis, can match this one for pure nastiness.

You can imagine how GOP strategists will use the attack ads Treasurer Phil Angelides and Controller Steve Westly have unleashed in their tasteless campaigns. "Here's what a Democrat said about..."

The timing couldn't have been better for the governor. Losing a too obvious power play with state referenda that offended the voters, Arnold's ratings were lower than Davis before he was ousted. True, the governor has worked to improve his reelection chances by moving more to the center, by taking more moderate positions on issues such as immigration and education and by reaching out to the legislature, but he was still very vulnerable.

Westly and Angelides turned that all around and probably made the nomination meaningless. What could or should they have done? Not rocket science. What the Democratic voters wanted to hear and needed to know was how they differed, not just from each other, but with Schwarzenegger and which one of them had the best chance of winning the final election. Simple: They should have used the primary to show they were the most likely candidate to beat the Republicans.

Can either recoup? Possibly, but it will be very difficult. Neither Westly or Angelides came into the race with any great visibility or big name recognition and if they immediately turn to another negative campaign against the governor, it will only remind voters how they behaved in the primary. However, their problems are very different. Westly does not have enormous following within the Democratic party. Most party leaders, including our two Senators Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer, backed Angelides. Westly would have a daunting job of trying to unite the party behind him even though he might have been a more attractive alternative.

Their campaigns dominated the primary, but there are some other, very interesting races. No surprise that most Beverly Hills political leaders are backing state senator Debra Bowen, who represents the beach areas of Los Angeles over state senator Deborah Ortiz of Sacramento, for secretary of state. Why? It was Ortiz who gave Erin Brockovich a state government platform to attack our city and our school district during the oil contamination lawsuit. Nothing about that grand stand play helped bring light to the issues or made our kids safer.

The contest for Attorney General should have drawn more attention, but it is hard to beat the name Brown in a Democratic primary and not always so difficult in the final. Jerry Brown, who keeps reinventing himself and who has been on more ballots than Harold Stassen, is being challenged by Los Angeles City Attorney Rocky Delgadillo. Brown has had a good run as mayor of Oakland, although not without controversy. However, Delgadillo could and should be a bright hope for the future of the Democratic party. He has been a most effective city attorney, reaching out to a diverse constituency. Recycling Brown may be quaint, but his candidacy will be an enormous distraction in the general election.

Judicial elections are very difficult for voters and candidates. Judges have to run county-wide and usually win or lose because of slate mailers, bar association ratings and newspaper endorsements. One candidate, Janis Barquist, has an unusual coalition of backers: Law enforcement leaders and Democratic organizations. Based on her legal experience and the diversity of her endorsements, Barquist should receive strong voter support Tuesday.

Thought I might have some more sage thoughts on our local campaign for state assembly, one that could make Beverly Hills the deciding factor. The Westly vs. Angelides fracas has made the contest between Mike Feuer and Abbe Land almost polite by comparison, but not entirely. There is a difference. No matter what they say or do to each other, it is unlikely to do too much damage to their chances of winning in November.

True, their campaigns were negative, but in recent days they have both calmed down considerably and played to their strengths, which are considerable. Feuer should do well in the valley and other Los Angeles areas of the district, Land in West Hollywood and other Westside precincts. We are in a rare position to actually make a difference.

Paul has seen many important laws enacted that he sponsored, he has been a strong friend of our city, but he had not, for a number of reasons, moved into assembly leadership as has State Senator Sheila Kuehl who represents us in the upper body. Our present and former mayor, Steve Webb and Linda Briskman are both backing Land, but a majority of school board and councilmembers are behind Feuer.

QUICK BITS: One local design supplier, very popular with Beverly Hills homeowners, Stone Mart, did a great turn for student understanding of environmental issues by hosting a group of youngsters at his display room for Earth Day. More on Albert Ganjian's unique offerings later... Sunday is Health, Fitness and Beauty Day at the Farmer's Market. You can check out a wide range of usable information on those needs and mix with other hypochondriacs. My friend, Dr. Ron Grusd of Advanced Radiology, will be there to explain MRIs and early detection. He is medically amazed that my lungs are still clear despite my ever present, but lovable pipe. Well, not loved by Josette, Wanda or Fala or other felines... Well known artist Richard Mac Donald will have a grand opening of his works at a 60th birthday celebration, also this Sunday, at Dawson Cole (no relation) Gallery at 313 North Beverly Drive. Free admission, sales proceeds benefit LA Philharmonic "Music Matters" education effort... One more Sunday event: Our outstanding Theatre Guild will present a concert performance of the new musical "Campaign of the Century" at 2 p.m. at the Salter Theatre. Free admission, RSVP to (310) 273-3390. The musical is about the incredible early 30s campaign for governor by Upton Sinclair ... And finally, there have been some unfortunate departures from our schools recently, but I would offer one more: The person responsible for inviting Los Angeles columnist Joel Stein to speak at a Career Day program at the high school recently. His pay back for the invite was a nasty, snarky little bit in the Times.

LOCAL HERO: Speaking of educators, we will be losing one of our finest this year. For at least 20 years, Horace Mann social studies teacher Terry Brown has set the highest standard of teaching skills in our system. Wife of Phil Brown, their two children are graduates of the BHUSD. What made her so special was her genuine ability to communicate caring and interest in her charges. Also, few ever learned that her brother in law, Mark Egerman, was once president of the board of Education and later a highly regarded mayor of Beverly Hills. For what she did for our kids and our district, Terry Brown is this week's local hero.

was obvious that when the City allows one developer to violate our 3-story height limit, every developer will demand the same or more benefits. I am seeing it on my own block at the southwest corner of Wilshire and Stanley, where a developer is proposing a "mixed use" condo/town home/retail project which is based on rezoning an R-1 single family lot for the first time in the entire history of Beverly Hills! (A major change like that should go on a ballot.)

The cost to the public of NOT fighting the Montage becomes more apparent "application upon application". We should all thank the Alliance and the tireless people who continue to fight for the public's right to truthful information from our elected officials.

Remember that this is a case where it was proven in court during the Alliance's successful Public Records Act trial that the City Council had suppressed hundreds of pages of secret economic and environmental documents about the Montage project. The District Attorney publicly reprimanded then former Mayor Egerman, current Mayor Steve Webb, Councilmember Briskman, and Councilmember Delshad for their violation of the Brown Act. I remember that well because the City Council violated my rights on the evening of August 3, 2004. Thankfully, the District Attorney investigated and ruled in my and the public's favor. Bottom line: This is not a city council that any resident can rely on. Unless we residents act decisively now, the gridlocked streets and canyon-ized boulevards will be eternal monuments to our present City

"More Heat In Assembly Race"

I personally do not live in Beverly Hills (1 mile away on Sunset/San Vicente), but lived there many years, attended Beverly, and my parents still live in Beverly Hills (on Loma Vista), so my ties are extremely close to this community! I enjoy reading Rudy Cole's column - but I think he's way off base in his assessment of councilmember Frank Fenton's comments [issue #347].

Rudy,

I don't want my city council to be "hands off in voice and deed". In this day and age it's irresponsible for the city council to hand over a check for more than 8 million dollars blindly to any organization (we live in a world of accountability), and in this case if our schools continue to lose high-level employees and they continue to come to the council for more money on top of the $8 million they get annually, than the council has the right to set up a liason meeting to talk about the "loss of administrators" (at the very least).

That $8 million is taxpayers' money and the citizens of Beverly Hills should have accountability on all issues that pertain to the $8 million given annually.

Good for Frank Fenton for standing up! Gregg Silver Los Angeles

City Looks Into Speeding Fine Increase

Councilmember Frank Fenton asked the city attorney at last Tuesday's city council meeting to see if the city has the ability to increase fines for speeding if the mobile speed radar system cannot be implemented in Beverly Hills.

Fenton would like to raise the cost of speeding in residential zones to $1,000 and suggested $2,500 for speeding in school zones. He argued the number of drivers using residential side streets to avoid congestion on major thoroughfares has increased causing more speeding by homes and schools.

"I think that the bottom line is that speeding tickets in residential areas need to be increased to the point where people will think twice about speeding," Fenton said. "We're spending $50 or $60 to fill up our cars with gas, and you get a speeding ticket for $125 maybe once a year or every couple of years, it doesn't really phase vou.'

The proposed speed radar system, the city is contemplating, would photograph vehicle license plates going above the speed limit in a residential area.

Environmentally conscious 9900 Wilshire project wins acclaimed Los Angeles architectural award.

By Michelle Zenarosa

Take a Pritzker-prize winning architect and one of the most sought-after addresses in the world and what do you get? The possibilities are endless.

When New Pacific Realty architect Richard Meier won the Los Angeles Architectural Award for outstanding architecture in the unbuilt category for the 9900 Wilshire project two weeks ago on May 17, the project had already been recognized by a number of organizations— and it isn't even built yet.

"Architecture is one way to set the stage for increased awareness of environmental concerns faced by everyone," Meier said. "I am delighted that we have been recognized for this contribution."

The Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and the Environmental Media Association are amongst those to also praise the project.

"9900 Wilshire has set the standard by combining outstanding architecture with environmental sustainability. We encourage all developers to look at their model and emulate it," the Environmental Media Association stated.

Hosted by the Los Angeles Business Council (LABC), the 36th annual awards ceremony brought together a number of world-renowned architects, contractors and developers to acknowledge the most impressive new projects in Los Angeles County.

Awards were selected by a nine-member jury composed of architects, contractors and developers. To receive an award, developments must demonstrate improvement of the quality of architecture and enhancement of the urban fabric of Los Angeles.

Past Los Angeles projects that have won previous recognition in this category include the ever-changing Cal Trans District 7 Headquarters, a building which appears closed rent concrete central plaza with four acres of green space and utilize state-of-the art power and water conservation technologies.

The award will contribute to focusing positive attention to Beverly Hills and its trademark name.

"As a long-time resident of Beverly Hills, I am proud that we could bring home this important award for the city and for our project," said A r n o l d Rosenstein, chairman of New Pacific Realty.

Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce CEO Dan Walsh agreed. "9900 Wilshire will be a great addition to the city and keep us competitive with the surrounding cities," Walsh said. "One has to look no further than the project receiving the 2006 LA Architectural Award." Located at the western entrance of Beverly Hills on the eight-acre site of the former Robinsons-May department store, the development would serve as a gateway into the city. The site, which will also feature waterscapes and sculpture gardens, will be comprised of two 12-story luxury townhome buildings, two four-story loft buildings, retail and restaurant spaces, all situated in an open-landscaped setting. It will also be the first project of its kind on the West Coast to qualify for the U.S. Green Building Council's LEED Gold Rating.

"In its attention to sound environmental design principles, this project is a model against which other new buildings in Los Angeles and California can be measured," The Natural Resources Defense Council stated.

Meier's firm, Richard Meiers & Partners Architects LLP has also worked on major urban design assignments throughout the United States, Prague, Edinburg, Antwerp and Nice.

Meier's design, however, only covers onethird of the site. The majority of the property will be landscaped gardens designed by landscape architects, the Olin Partnership, who is also responsible for the recent landscape redesign at the Washington Monument. The design will also include a public garden along Wilshire Boulevard, directly across from El Rodeo elementary school.

"The premier Beverly Hills location for 9900 Wilshire, as well as the desire to create an environmentally conscious design appropriate to the lifestyle and climate for a unique residential community in one of the greatest cities in the world is indeed an opportunity for responsible urban development," Meier said.

GENERAL PLAN MEETINGS SPARK DEBATE Community meetings focus on the city's future and attempt to facilitate public input for the General Plan update. By Kari Hamanaka

A series of public meetings, which took on the uncertain task of addressing community concerns, ended yesterday leaving a myriad of concerns and opinions on the city's future. The ten meetings, called "Focus on Beverly Hills Neighborhoods," were open to residents, property owners and community organizations beginning April 29.

Residents reviewed and provide input on a summary of recommendations made by the General Plan Topic Committees, Team Beverly Hills and the Technical Background Report.

"People are participating in the process," said Mayor Steve Webb. "Personally, I've heard a divergence of views from a lot of different people on a lot of different subjects."

The purpose of these meetings, were to generate interest and input from the community as part of the effort to update the General Plan. A total of seven Topic Committees addressed concerns over issues such as residential and commercial property along with environmental sustainability.

"I believe [these meetings are] very impor-Page 12 • Beverly Hills Weekly tant," said City Manager Rod Wood. "It's your ability as a citizen to affect the outcomes. If you wait too long, you add a lot of cost and time delays to the project in the end. Second, as things get closer and closer to a conclusion, you reach stronger and stronger opinions and it becomes more difficult to change them."

As many who attended the meetings found out, a variety of opinions touched on some sore subjects for both the public and the council.

"I think the council is beginning to understand that people are mad and they're not going to take it much longer," said Larry Larson of the North Homeowners Association in reference to the Crescent and Montage projects where strong public opposition surfaced.

More recently, the council discussed at their informal meeting on May 23, the purchase of properties at 347-351 Foothill Road along with part of 9330 Civic Center Drive. The purchase would make room for more storage and parking for the Public Works Yard.

A portion of the Foothill property is owned by veterinarian Anthony Shipp who the city approached in the past about purchasing the property from him. At the time, Shipp was warned in a letter from the city of eminent domain possibly being declared on his land. Shipp did not return the Weekly's phone calls.

Larson said he attended all of the public meetings and remembered one for the industrial section of the city where it was suggested that a sports center be built. According to Larson, everyone in the audience, except for one man, voted against the idea.

"That one stood out to me," Larson said of the meeting, "because of the strong opposition to the redevelopment of the industrial section and also the community [sports] center which the council wants to build and claims there's a tremendous need for."

Larson said reasons among those at the meeting for not wanting the sports center built was because the area was never meant for housing. Some in the audience were also concerned about the center's estimated cost of more than $65 million.

Land use is just one aspect among many being discussed as the part of the General Plan update. Topics at other public meetings included transportation, housing, historic preservation and traffic.

"The southwest [section of the city] pretty much likes their area the way it is and we are very concerned about the traffic," said former Planning Commissioner Rose Norton who attended meetings for the southwest and commercial areas. "When Wilshire and Olympic get really bogged down, people are using Charleville and Gregory.

Norton, who served on the Commercial Standards Topic Committee, offered that the increase in building heights and density are a partial cause of the increase in traffic to residential sections.

"There is no easy solution, but let's not compound the bad things about our city by allowing greater height and greater density."

Once the input from the public meetings is gathered, a Draft Land Use Alternatives report

BHHS Boys' Tennis Team Edges Campbell Hall In Semifinal

Ten Normans win Ocean League varsity track titles.

Bv Steven Herbert

Beverly Hills High School advanced to its second consecutive Southern Section Division IV boys' tennis final by defeating Valley Village Campbell Hall, 82-76, on games after their semifinal was tied in sets, 9-9, May 23, at Beverly Hills.

The second-seeded Normans (18-5) were assured of the victory when Jeff Lin defeated Sam Sadeghi, 6-2, in a third-round singles match, the next to last set to be decided.

However, Beverly Hills coach Mike Margolin attributed the victory to junior Daniel Levy's 6-3 victory over Sadeghi in the second round.

Margolin shuffled the Norman lineup, moving Ethan Bond, who usually plays singles to doubles, and Levy to singles. Levy had not played singles in any other match this season.

Margolin also changed the doubles pairings, splitting up the Igor Fedonenko-Gary Parizher team.

The doubles changes worked, with Beverly Hills winning six of nine sets. Each singles player and each doubles team won at least one set for the Normans.

"If there ever was a consummate team victory, it was that match," Margolin said.

The only downside to the match from the Beverly Hills perspective was its losses in all three sets decided by tiebreakers.

The score was tied, 6-6, entering the third round. The Normans got their other third-round points from the Chris Hur-Coleman Kelly doubles team, which defeated Aaron Aszkenazy and Sean Greenbaum, 6-2, and the Fedonenko-Peter Yoon team, a 6-1 winner over Brian Hahn and James Kravetz.

Beverly Hills' other second-round points came from Bond and Parizher, who defeated Hahn and Kravetz, 6-1, and the Fedonenko-Yoon team, a 6-4 winner over Aszkenazy and Greenbaum.

The first round ended in a 3-3 tie. Hur and Kelly defeated Hahn and Kravetz, 6-0; Bond and Parizher defeated Aszkenazy and Greenbaum, 7-5, and David Vayzner defeated Sadeghi, 6-1.

The Vikings ended their season 15-4.

The Normans were to play top-seeded Brentwood in the final Wednesday at 2 p.m. at The Claremont that was to begin after the Beverly Hills Weekly's deadline. The Eagles were 10-8 winners over Beverly Hills in last year's final.

Girls' Track and Field

Ocean League Finals

Ashley Menzies won the 200 and 400 meters and ran a leg on Beverly Hills High School's victorious 1,600 relay team, while Edwina Dai won the long jump and triple jump, helping the Normans to the unofficial team championship May 4 at Culver City High School.

Beverly Hills freshman Ashley Austin won the 100 and also ran a leg on the relay.

Three other Norman athletes also won individual events — Natalie Vachalek (high jump); and sisters Carla Wirtschafter (1,600) and Valerie Wirtschafter (3,200).

Sasha Rudes and Rikka Springfield ran the other legs on the relay.

Beverly Hills athletes qualifying for the Southern Section Division II prelims with second-place finishes were Edwina Dai (100 high hurdles); Sarah Jabari (3,200); Chrystina Kang (triple jump); Jocelyn Karlan (800); Springfield (400) and Ebonee Wall (100).

The Norman 400 relay team of Wall, Springfield, Menzies and Austin was disqualified because of a lane violation, but was granted a spot in the Southern Section prelims by a vote of the league coaches.

Beverly Hills had 201 points. Santa Monica finished second with 145.

"I've heard a number of people that would like to see more nightlife in the city," Webb said. "We've heard different views on the nature and extent of development and height density. I haven't heard, at the meetings I attended, one real consensus one way or the other on those issues."

Norton, a 50-year resident, heard similar ideas about a need for more nightlife at the meeting she attended for the southwest section of the city, but did not agree with the need.

"It just doesn't work in this community," Norton said. "This is not a nightlife community. We've had clubs, and they've failed-financially failed. They feel that having the Montage Hotel and letting the Hilton build all these things is going to create more activity or nightlife. This has not ever been what this community wanted."

Despite the many differences in opinion of where the community would like to see Beverly Hills in the future, most remained optimistic at what the community meetings were able to accomplish.

"What I find encouraging is that there are a lot of faces at these meetings that I don't recognize," Webb said. "What that means is that there are not just the regular people at these meetings who show up, but in fact, people who generally don't get involved in the city are obviously participating."

Once all of the information and suggestions are looked over, the city council and Planning Commission will review the findings in July or August with additional review times scheduled for October and December.

"I just hope that the council will listen to the people and not the developers," Norton said.

L.A. Times Article By Joel Stein

As a participant in the Beverly Hills High School Career Day event for the last five years and former editor of the city's newspaper, I wish to comment on Joel Stein's critical remarks about the children in his May 30 column. Much to the surprise of many, including I am sure Mr. Stein, the entire community does not consist of rich Jewish kids luxuriating in mansions and pampered by overindugent parents. Truth be known almost 50 percent of the community is comprised of renters, many of whom are single mothers struggling to keep their children in a good school. The many children I know at Beverly Hills High School are hard working, caring, involved, bright, politically astute and respectful. I was fortunate enough to have many as interns and enjoyed them so much I am now a professor of Journalism at Cal State University part time. I do not plan parties or manage talent, but I am an awardwinning working journalist who is always pleasantly surprised by the respectful attention I receive each year from the children to whom I speak. It saddens me when a journalist takes a cheap shot to get a laugh at the expense of some great kids who are struggling to be good people in a world filled with temptations and negativity. I am proud to know these kids and they are as great and deserving of praise as are all children everywhere. We should give every child kudos not criticism.

Your life insuran policy m be worth much mo than y

If you are over age 70, we can show you how your life insurance policy might pay off now, while you are alive and still here to enjoy it! What's more, you may be able to sell your policy for considerably more than its cash surrender value.

One of our clients, a 75-year-old man who owned a $500,000 term insurance policy that was about to lapse, was able to cash it in for more than $100,000.

An 80-year old woman had a $5 million policy with a cash surrender value of $600,000. We sold her policy for $1.3 million. Using the proceeds, we bought her new coverage without any further premium payments, saving her $120,000 a year.

People have come to us believing that their old policies were worthless. Others thought their existing insurance was so old that it could not be improved. We helped them sell their policies and purchase new coverage at much lower premiums. In most cases, we were able to increase the legacy they left for their heirs and favorite charities.

And we can do the same for you. Why settle for the cash surrender value or allow your policy to lapse, when it may be worth so much more? Let us help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy at a profit.

For a free, no obligation consultation and policy appraisal, by phone or in person CALL US AT 800.662.LIFE (5433) www.barrykaye.com
