"Committee For Truth" Never Found Not having seen anything in the way of an investigation of the cowards who published and distributed the anti-Krasne info the day before the recent election,

I feel it important to pursue the identities of the "Committee for Truth." The culprits' identities should not be swept under the rug lightly.

A more hateful pre-election document, I have never seen.

No, I have not discussed an investigation with Nancy, but feel strongly that the Beverly Hills community deserves some answers.

Events, Places and People [Issue 390] This June I complete my 22nd year as a teacher in Beverly Hills. One amazing fact is that for 13 of these 22 years, the Beverly Hills Unified School District has been involved with school bond and construction issues. When construction at both Beverly Vista and Beverly High finish this fall, our Boards of Education will have spent over $200,000,000.00, thus I was surprised by Mr. Cole's description in his article of this sum as a "band aid, [not] a major fix"

Mr. Cole is correct when he writes that, "Much more ... needs fixing" in our schools. The question that remains is will this community support another bond issue after watching many Boards of Education mismanage two previous school bonds and waste many millions of dollars.

And yes, again, unless the Board convinces philanthropists in our city to hand over another $3,500,000.00 our sparkling new Science and Technology building will be empty. Mr. Cole, the blame falls not upon "wise consultants" but upon failed leadership at 255 S. Lasky Drive.

In "Behind the scenes at the Maple Counseling Center," the building that the Maple Center is working with the city to construct is 15,000 sq feet, not 50,000. The school in Culver City which experienced a tragedy is called Turning Point.

9900 Wilshire project sold to international developer

CPC Group purchases the eight-acre site from New Pacific Realty By Amanda Parsons

The former Robinsons May property at 9900 Wilshire has been sold to an international developer by 9900 Wilshire LLC whose managing member is New Pacific Realty Corporation, based in Beverly Hills.

CPC Group, a privately owned property trading and development company based in Guernsey, has acquired the eight-acre property slated to be an environmentally friendly 252 condominium residence project.

Project spokesperson Harvey Englander confirmed that the property was acquired for $500 million and closed escrow on April 10.

"The land will house the same proposed project the city has come to know and has embraced over the past two years," Englander said.

As of yet, no proposal changes have been submitted to the city.

"As far as I know the design plans have not changed," Vince Bertoni of the Beverly Hills Planning Department said. "Everything is on track with the previously proposed plans."

Pritzker Prize winning New Pacific Reality architect Richard Meier will continue to lead the award winning design process for construction of the condominiums on the site. Meier won the 36th Annual Los Angeles Architectural Award for outstanding architecture in the unbuilt category for the planned 9900 Wilshire project last year.

The proposed project, which is subject to approval by the Beverly Hills City Council, will consist of 12-story buildings, townhouses, two four-story contemporary loft buildings and retail and restaurant spaces. The design calls for 830,000 square feet of residential space and 20,000 square feet of residential servicing retail.

"The number one concern of residents throughout Beverly Hills is traffic and congestion," said former North Homeowners Association President Victor Bardack. "The Beverly Wilshire intersection is probably one of the most impacted intersection in Los Angeles. Anyone traveling that intersection after 10:00 a.m. knows what huge congestion there is without these projects. If you add these projects the cumulative effect would be deviating."

Meier designed 9900 Wilshire to allegedly be traffic neutral. The site is set to generate less traffic than the Robinsons May it is replacing.

Other concerns labeled by residents by the proposed project are the building height and density restrictions.

"Beverly Hills has a general plan that limits the height and density of projects," Bardack said. "Unfortunately, this general plan has not been adhered to [with the proposed construction of 12-story condominiForum's Urban Solutions Award.

"We are extremely proud of the project and what it's achieved and we have greatly enjoyed the collaboration with Richard Meier and Partners," David Margulies, New Pacific Realty's CEO said.

The Environmental Media Association has recognized 9900 Wilshire's proposed design for combining outstanding architecture with environmental sustainability. The project will be a green building consuming 25 percent less energy, 50 percent less water and emitting less greenhouse gasses than comparable residential buildings.

The building project is designed to take advantage of its location and will reduce electricity usage by utilizing natural light and the prevailing westerly breeze, making Monument, plans to include waterscapes and sculpture gardens as well as a public garden slotted to face Wilshire Boulevard. All of the gardens will be watered using a recycled water system.

The interior will be managed by Candy & Candy interior designers, developing managers and lifestyle consultants. C & C has received multiple awards for their work including Best UK Property at the International Property Awards for the past four consecutive years, Best Contemporary Interior Designer Awards and Evening Standard Best Lifestyle Awards.

The development would serve as a gateway to the city, located at the western entrance of Beverly Hills, across from El Rodeo School.

On this particular corner Santa Monica and Wilshire where there are 2 proposed projects, 9900 which reaches 12 stories and the Beverly Hilton project across the street which is propose d to have a 170 foot tower and 250 foot towers also exceeds the city's height limit, which is 45 feet in some areas and 55 feetin others

Despite the concerns of residents, the proposed 9900 Wilshire project has garnished an international reputation due to its numerous awards. It is the recipient of the U.S. Green Building Council's Visionary Leadership Award and the Westside the design the first of its kind on the West Coast to qualify for the U.S. Green Building Council's LEED Gold Rating as previously 9900 Wilshire is still going through the entitlement process. An official date for construction is yet to be set.

"The number one concern of residents throughout Beverly Hills is traffic and congestion," – former North Homeowners Association President Victor Bardack mentioned in issue 348 of the Weekly.

The buildings will cover one-third of the site while the other two-thirds will be dedicated to open green space. The landscape architects for the property, Olin Partnership the company responsible for the recent landscape redesign at the Washington is yet to be set. "It is our hope that the EIR will be issued at the end of May," Englander said.

Englander said. "Hopefully the city council will approve the project by the end of the year. The sooner the better."

CPC Group specializes in residential projects in international markets including Monaco, London, Dubai and Qatar. This is their first project in the United States. CPC's other projects include One Hyde Park in Knightsbridge, London; 21 Chesham Place in Belgravia, London and Le Porto Bello, Monaco.

Lisa Harris, popular science teacher, passes

An overflow of mourners turned out Tuesday at Hillside Memorial Park to pay their respects to Lisa Harris, 37, who passed away last Sunday from complications due to cancer. She had been battling the disease for over two years but had continued to teach until very recently.

Lisa was a 1989 graduate of Beverly High where she still holds records in track and field. She was Scholar Athlete of the Year, as well as the Athlete of the Year. She continued her studies at Brown University where she also ran track, then returned to Beverly Hills to teach.

She taught biology, health and physiology. The pioneer of the honors physiology class at Beverly High, she is remembered as vibrant and passionate about teaching.

"I taught physics and Lisa taught biology just across the hall," remembers former principal Dan Stepenosky. "My wife and I have kids but Lisa had kids before us and I was always pestering her for parenting tips. She would give me advice along the way. She was always so helpful - just the salt of the earth."

Lisa is survived by her daughters Justine and Dani Elitzur, who attend Horace Mann; her parents Tanis Harris, longtime coach, counselor and assistant principal at Beverly High, and Artie Harris, LA Dodger scout, college and high school baseball coach; her brother Brad Harris; and her former husband, El Rodeo Science teacher Eran Elitzur.

The Beverly High Alumni Association has announced it will award a scholarship in Lisa's name at senior awards night this year. Scholarship donations may be sent to the BHHS Alumni Association at 241 Moreno Drive, Beverly Hills CA 90212.

Activists to meet with Beverly Hills Unified

Earl Ofari Hutchinson told the Weekly he and a group of activists will meet with Beverly Hills Unified School District Superintendent Kari McVeigh and other district officials today to discuss his request for the district to increase its efforts to attract more black and Latino students to attend Beverly Hills High School under diversity permits.

Of the 422 students attending Beverly High on permits, 159 attend under diversity permits, 19 are black, 16 are Latino and 108 are Asian. Under terms of Proposition 209, which bars race-based preferences in education, the district is forbidden to use race as a criteria when selecting students to receive diversity permits.

Hutchinson is president of the Inglewood-based Los Angeles Urban Policy Roundtable and a writer.

COVERSTORY FORMER MAYOR'S ANIMAL WOES CONTINUE

Charlotte Spadaro's animal kennel now under investigation for capacity and cleanliness issues

By Amanda Parsons

Former Beverly Hills Mayor Charlotte Spadaro's animal shelter is under investigation by animal control officials in the city of Riverside for issues of exceeding capacity and not maintaining cleanliness.

Spadaro, who has been in and out of court since May of 2005 with animal related issues, including animal cruelty charges, purchased Grisco's Kennels in Riverside after being forced by courts to place approximately 182 adult animals and a number of puppies of kittens (over 200 animals in all) that were confiscated from her home in Rialto, into alternate facilities.

A post seizure hearing followed shortly after. The hearing officer had to determine two things, whether the animals were fit to be returned to her and whether the animals were taken lawfully. Because there were so many problems on the property, the city of Rialto did not oppose Spadaro taking care of the animals if she found appropriate boarding facilities for them.

After much litigation, and $28,000 in animal care and housing fees which Spadaro had to pay, the city of Rialto agreed that if Spadaro could find an appropriate boarding facility for her animals, outside of her home, they could be released back to her. As a result, Spadaro entered into contracts with kennels Bark Avenue of Los Angeles and Grisco's of Riverside.

According to Jeffrey Myer, Bark Avenue's attorney, Bark Avenue gave Spadaro a discounted rate if she agreed to provide volunteers to assist with the care of the animals and if she supplied their food.

While using Bark Avenue to house some of her animals Spadaro allegedly bounced checks for their fees, brought a total of two bags of food (for 100 animals), failed to provide volunteers and intervened when the facility tried to send sick animals to the veterinarian. As a result, Bark Avenue asked Spadaro to remove her animals from the premises.

Spadaro responded with a lawsuit. She sued Bark Avenue for fraud, conversion, breach of contract and intentional infliction of emotional distress. She lost the case in mid-February 2007. Because she had a contract stipulating that the winner of the suit would absorb the attorney fees, $61,000 in fees are now being sought against her in court. Bark Avenue was not informed where the 100+ animals were taken.

If Grisco's is charged and found to be in violation, the kennel could be closed. Meanwhile, according to Rialto city attorney Kathy Gandoza, Spadaro also had filed a petition for writ of mandate to ask the court to overturn the hearing officer's decision that the seizure of the 200+ animals from her home in Rialto was valid and to seek her $28,000 back. She lost the case when the superior court determined the seizure of the animals was valid. Boycotts, Appointments

Notes on a week of news By Rudy Cole

Several area businesses including two major food markets have been the targets of a boycott for their support of KPFK, the listener supported public FM radio station which has supposedly aired inappropriate opinions about Israel.

A letter writing campaign by several highly regarded Beverly Hills residents prompted Gelson's to end its very limited relationship with the station. Several other businesses have also indicated they are reviewing support for KPFK and Whole Foods has informed protestors that charitable donations are usually decided by local store managers.

The most serious charge against KPFK is that one of the programs they air named Radio Intafada "instigates and condones violence and murder of innocents and calls for the destruction of Israel." The same letter charges that the show "calls for suicide bombings, murder and destruction."

Before you decide to turn in your Whole

Foods shopping bags and take out membership in a web site group called "Join the Boycott" which, incidentally, also urges people to cancel subscriptions to the Los Angeles Times, some reality tests might be in order.

Although the name of the show, Radio Intafada, itself is obviously provocative, one of the producers explained the word in Arabic actually means something like "shaking off." Since my Arabic is somewhat limited, I have to assume that may be literally true, but the title is hardly designed to bring comfort to Jewish listeners, no matter the how it is used.

However, I managed to access several of their programs, talked to station news people and examined titles of other Radio Intafada programs and, while I strongly disagree with their views on Israel, there is absolutely nothing that would substantiate any of the charges made against them. There were no references to or support of terrorism "murder of innocents" and certainly no support of "suicide bombers."

What was artless was the KPFK response. Instead of dealing directly with the charges of inciting to terrorism, which they could have done in good faith, there was a defense of their right to freedom of speech. They were not guilty as charged, but could and should have drawn the line between permitted free expression and irresponsible extremism.

What is also obvious is a lack of balance in the station's airing of opinions on Israel. They need not go to the other extreme of "Israel can do no wrong," but should encourage liberal voices of support for the only real democracy in the Middle East.

One KPFK staff person pointed out that Radio Intafada expressed opinions critical of the present Israeli government that could also be heard in Tel Aviv or Jerusalem.

True, but that begs a question both sides, the supporters of a boycott and backers of the station, seem to forget. It is this freedom of speech that differentiates Israel from other nations in the middle east.

Can anyone really imagine a pro-Israel rally in any Arab nation, even the more moderate democracies? Or how about a radio show in Syria called "Israel Today?"

In deciding how to deal with problems of peace in the Middle East, some continuing attention to institutional realities and historical behavior needs to be considered as reasonable people search for means of ending decades of fear and anguish that harm all the people of the region.

Final thought: History is filled with examples of missed opportunities. The Arab nations missed theirs when Abba Eban was foreign minister, when Labor held out all kinds of olive branches of peace and the response was, with the exception of Egypt and Jordan, intransigence. Terror and fear have hardened Israeli public opinion, but yet there are voices of peace, calls for an end to hostilities because Israel is, after all, a free, democracy. As for the road the country now must take, I am not a citizen of Israel, I do not have to bear the consequences of my own views, but I am thankful I live in a country that can still have a KPFK. The protestors and supporters need to remember what makes us strong are our freedoms. If there had been calls for "murder of innocents," I would join the boycott, that simply was not the case. ***

A recent Los Angeles Times story reported on a cooperative training program with Israel by the LAPD. What was not reported is a long standing similar activity involving our own finest. A private group sponsors visits by officers of the Beverly Hills Police Department to Israel for training on dealing with terrorism and security.

Some 16 residents have applied for two and possibly four vacancies on the Planning Commission. Interviews will begin next week.

Two members of the city council, Vice Mayor Barry Brucker and Councilmember Linda Briskman along with two commissioners will make recommendations to the full council which most often approves the findings of the liaison committee.

Briskman is a former planning commissioner as is newly elected councilmember Nancy Krasne.

Those who submitted applications are Roger Behrstock, Lili Bosse, Janette Cole, Craig Corman, Marty Geimer, Lonnie Lerner, Lou Milkowski, Mike Paahai, Allen Rennett, Brad Robinson, Gloria Seiff, Joy Shefter, Ronald Sklar, Susan Strauss, Richard Sussman and Daniel Yukelson. One name not on the list is former School Board President Virginia Maas who had reportedly considered applying.

Many have served or now are members of various city commission, but the number of applicants is probably a record. Also missing from the list are some of the more active leaders of the various homeowner associations, including the North HOA.

There are no rules that require the council to appoint only those who apply, but traditionally those chosen do go through the interview process. Even that is fairly new. The practice for many years was to give each member of the council the right to name one person to each city commission. While that raised questions of favoritism, it did assure broad and minority view representation. Now, appointments are to those who can win three votes – a dissenting or independent councilmember may not have a voice on critical commissions.

In West Hollywood, each councilmember formally names members of commissions and they are identified that way. They serve at the discretion of the whole council, but their terms generally end when the appointing councilmember leaves office.

If you missed the swearing in and didn't see the TV replays of the ceremonies that made Jimmy Delshad mayor, Barry Brucker vice mayor and Nancy Krasne a member of the council you also missed two important historic events. No, not the induction of our first ever Iranian born mayor, but the longest oath taking in this or any city's history: that of Rabbi Laura Geller's for Brucker and the fact that neither Bruckers nor Delshads were legal, only ceremonial and symbolic.

Temple Emanuel's Geller has a tradition of not being brief when she does the oath in Beverly Hills, but even for her the Brucker pre-oath sermon attained new heights for longevity. As for the legal issues, we can assume that both Brucker and Delshad had less public oath takings from the city clerk since only clerks or judges may administer these oaths, not lay people selected by Delshad and Brucker, no matter how meaningful their participation. Krasne did counter this with two federal judges, also a record.

There were other rabbis at the ceremony and they were, by comparison, very brief. What should be considered is a more ecumenical involvement thenext time we have this ritual and a shorter program too. Even though all the elected officials are Jewish and have strong religious ties, some part of the program could be used to introduce clergy from our other religious groups. ***

Newly elected councilmember Nancy Krasne has asked Mayor Jimmy Delshad to place the return of two hour free parking on an early council agenda, explaining she could not raise the issue since it was not on Tuesday's council agenda. A council committee of Frank Fenton and Barry Brucker has been working on their own revision of the program.

The sale of 9900 Wilshire to a British firm was known in the community for some weeks, but the deal, according to sources, did not close escrow until yesterday.

The local owners, New Pacific, had made considerable inroads in winning community support for an impressive condo project at the former Robinson's May property. Although the new owners have said they will keep the same design and environmentally friendly construction, they will need to define themselves to our community very quickly.

They do have a record of excellence with a major project in England called "One Hyde Park." One of the major investors in that project is a well known Arab leader, Sheikh Hamad Bin Jassim Bin Jabr Al-Thani of Qatar, from a moderate Arab nation who once made a speech calling for negotiations between Israel and the Arab world. More on this later.

Save the Beverly Hills League of Women Voters, please. Our historic League is considering becoming an adjunct to the Los Angeles League of Women Voters. The merger or joining will be decided at the May 31 League meeting.

Although we have had serious issues with League policies and practices, including the holding of closed board meetings and positions on issues that were decided without full airing of opposing views, the League has a strong history of service, especially in voter participation. Losing its independence is not the way to fix the problem of more involvement and new leadership.

BHHS boys' golf team defeats North Torrance, Culver City By Steven Herbert

A trip to New York last week for two games and a scrimmage "was a great learning experience" for the Beverly High boys' lacrosse team, coach Tim Ray said.

"They learned what it takes to be a successful team," Ray said. "We could go undefeated in the league we're in and be totally content with that. What they realize now is that you can go out here and be undefeated, but there are teams that are a heck of a lot better than you outside your little lacrosse bubble.

"You can never be content with the way you play even if you're the best team out here. If you want to play at a level past high school, especially if you want to go to an East Coast school and play, you still need to get a lot better."

The players also learned "how fortunate they are" to live in the warm Southern California climate, and they "shouldn't take for granted the fact they can suit up in 65degree weather in February and play out in the sun," Ray said.

"The high schools we played at have to practice in the mud and the snow," Ray said. "They realize that these kids are much tougher because they have to go through that five days a week to practice and play. It's not easy."

The Normans lost at Montrose (N.Y.) Hendrick Hudson, 15-2, last Thursday, and at Mamaroneck (N.Y.) 19-9 Saturday in intersectional games.

Beverly Hills was a 16-6 winner at Tarrytown Sleepy Hollow April 4 in a contest considered a scrimmage because the Normans have scheduled the maximum amount of games under Southern Section rules.

Against Hendrick Hudson, Beverly Hills trailed 7-1 at the end of the first quarter and 12-2 at halftime. The Sailors added three goals in the third quarter. Sam Forrest and John Gallagher scored the Norman goals.

Beverly Hills goalie John Gornick made nine saves.

Hendrick Hudson "had a lot of depth," Ray said.

"They're a team that's been good for a long time," Ray said. "I wouldn't really have expected us to do really, really well against them. I was hoping to keep the game close, but we weren't expecting that kind of speed and talent to come out of that team as it did."

Against Mamaroneck (2-2), playing their third game in four days, the Normans (6-6) trailed 6-0 at the end of the first quarter, 14-2 at halftime and 16-5 entering the fourth quar-

Nathan Forrest scored six goals and Sam Forrest three. Gornick made 11 saves.

"We thought we'd at least be able to keep it close," Ray said. "We traveled with 15 players and they were all exhausted. We played as well as we thought we could play for the game with the amount of rest and the conditions we were playing under."

The Normans may play in Northern California or the San Diego area next season, Ray said.

Spadaro, who is lawyer, represents herself. Gandoza and the City of Rialto have begun briefing for their case and have requested a continuance. The trial will probably begin sometime in May 2007.

Spadaro is also awaiting trial on criminal charges for animal cruelty in San Bernardino County. James McGee, the District Attorney assigned to the case, was unavailable for comment.

Public record shows the cruelty charges stem from the May 2005 incident where the 200+ animals were confiscated from Spadaro's Rialto home. She and her son, Jonathan Paul Spadaro, were charged with a violation of penal code section 597(b) unlawfully depriving animals of necessary sustenance, drink or shelter; or subjecting the animals to needless suffering.

The pair were also charged with the crime of destroying evidence on or around February 2005 for removing "approximately 100-150 deceased animals, [which were] about to be produced in evidence in a trial, inquiry, and investigation authorized by law, destroy[ed] or conceal[ed] the same with intent thereby to prevent it from being produced."

"The charges [against me] are based on a soft police report placed by an off individual and they were reduced," Spadaro told the Weekly. "It is all based on false statements and lies." She declined to comment further.

According to a previous report in the Weekly (issue 304), Rialto police were called to Spadaro's house in January of 2005 after neighbors reported the appearance of blood running down the driveway and a strong odor emanating from her property on South Acacia Avenue, where she operated an animal rescue facility.

Police responded to the call and discovered a dead dog inside of a broken freezer in the garage of the residence. Police reported that they also discovered numerous other violations involving sick and injured animals at the time.

Rialto police served a search warrant in conjunction with Rialto's Building and Safety, Fire and Animal Control departments, the state Humane Society and County of San Bernardino Animal Control on May 12, 2005 to determine if the previously reported conditions were still in existence. The officials subsequently removed the animals.

In February of 2005, following the reports of blood and stench of death in January, Spadaro entered into a threemonth agreement with the City of Rialto, allowing her residence to be inspected weekly.

According to Riverside police, Spadaro and her son Jonathan then rented a Penske truck under Jonathan's name. The truck was later searched on February 5 in Rubidoux, after complaints of strange smells emanating from inside. Detectives obtained a warrant and searched the vehicle to find over 2,000 pounds of animal carcasses inside.

John Whitting, a former Riverside County Detective, told the Weekly that when the police opened the truck they found several trash cans and trash bags filled with dog and cat carcasses.

"With the smell, we knew it was some type of mammal," Whitting said.

Charlotte was then arrested on July 10, 2005 by Redlands police on an outstanding warrant from the city of Rialto.

Reportedly, the police department received a call on July 9 from Spadaro's neighbor on the 100 block of Buena Vista Street claiming they heard several dogs and cats in the house. Once the police obtained a search warrant, they entered the home and found 21 dogs and cats, all in good health. The police did not remove the animals at that time but left a note to have her contact the department and they would return within 24 hours.

Because it is against Redlands city code to have that many animals on a residential property, police arrested Spadaro at 3:38 a.m. on July 10. She bailed herself out of jail the same day for $20,000.

Charlotte Spadaro served on the Beverly Hills Board of Education for 1979 to 1983 and the City Council from 1984 to 1988.

The Beverly Hilton

Replaces concrete with more open space and public gardens

Corner of Merv Griffin Way and Wilshire Boulevard

With extensive input from the community, The Beverly Hilton has updated the plan to revitalize its overall property. The revised plan includes:

- The removal of outdated hotel rooms, which will be replaced with luxury five-star rooms in a new Waldorf=Astoria building, resulting in about 50 fewer hotel rooms on the property.
- 4.5 acres of new open space and public gardens.
- New luxury residences and an attractive new hotel entrance along Merv Griffin Way.
- Extensive new landscaping and gardens along Wilshire and Santa Monica Boulevards.

Provides major traffic improvements, an environmentally friendly design and more tax revenues for Beverly Hills

- $5 million in major traffic improvements paid for by The Beverly Hilton, including giving up a portion of its existing property for two new lanes on Wilshire to reduce traffic congestion at the corner of Wilshire and Santa Monica.
- An environmentally friendly design, with more greenery, energy efficient lighting and innovative water conservation and recycling.
- A doubling of tax revenues paid by The Beverly Hilton to the City, resulting in over $12 million each year for essential local services like police, fire protection and schools.
