Corrections, Issue #499:

• In the cover story, (page 11) Stuart Raffel's affiliation with the American Jewish University was incorrectly stated. It should have read: "Stuart currently serves on the Board of Governors at the Maple Counseling Center and was a past chairman of the Brandeis Bardin Institute, which is now part of the American Jewish University."

• Former superintendent Sol Levine's years of service were listed incorrectly. He was superintendent from 1990-98.

In the brief, "Architectural Commission brings international architects and designers to Beverly Hills," the commission is incorrectly stated. It should have read: "Design Review Commission." Hamid Gabbay is the newly appointed chairman of the Design Review Commission.

Driver of fatal car crash in Setian case released from prison yesterday Lane Garrison, driver of the car crash that killed 17year-old Beverly student Vahagn Setian was released from the California Correctional Institute in Tehachapi, California Wednesday morning according to the Associated Press.

The Prison Break television show actor, whose three-year, four-month sentence began November 2007, is allowed an early release after serving less than half of his sentence by earning good behavior credits, where he is working as a peer mentor for other inmates.

"As far as getting out early or getting out at all doesn't change anyone's perspective," said Jonathan Pony, a classmate of Setian. "Nothing is fair and nothing is going to bring him back."

Calls to Harlan Braun, attorney for Garrison, were not returned by press time.

The lawsuit brought by the parents of Setian, sought damages from Garrison for wrongful death and gross negligence. Garrison pleaded guilty in the case.

Two female passengers were also in the vehicle. Michelle Ohana, who was 15 at the time of the crash, sought payment for medical bills, lost wages and home nursing care.

Garrison agreed to a financial settlement with the victims and their family members involved. Settlement amounts were not released.

Alexander Fast, a junior at Beverly, led students, parents, and fellow scouts, in a tree maintenance project at Roxbury Park on March 28.

Fast is part of Troop 33, which has been serving the youth of Beverly Hills for over 80 years.

A group of 30 volunteers completed the mulching of 40 trees by clearing ground growth, and adding 2 inches of mulch to protect the roots and promote healthy growth.

Six years ago as a cub scout, Alex planted trees in Roxbury Park during an Arbor Day event and chose to come back and maintain the trees for his Eagle Scout project.

California's corrections department does not disclose inmate release dates or the location of the residential facilities they are assigned.

The Vahagn Setian Charitable Foundation, (VSCF) a non-profit organization dedicated to enriching the quality of education in performing arts and music in honor of Setian, will be hosting a fundraiser May 3 at Beverly High at 5 PM.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Council of the City of Beverly Hills, at its adjourned regular meeting to be held on Wednesday, May 13, 2009, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the City Hall, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, will hold a public hearing to consider adoption of:

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS AMENDING THE COMPRE-HENSIVE SCHEDULE OF TAXES, FEES & SER-VICE CHARGES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 2009/2010.

The proposed resolution will increase the taxes, fees, and service charges that are charged to the public for the various activities and services as set forth in the schedule for fiscal year 2009/2010. The majority of the fees and charges would be increased by 1.1% based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for November 2008. In some cases, the fees were adjusted to reflect a change in service level, more equitable distribution of costs, or to obtain full-cost recovery, rather than by the CPI. The new fees would become effective on July 1, 2009. Fees for development applications, per State law, become effective 60 days after adoption of the adjusted fee schedule, which is July 13, 2009.

Copies of the proposed Resolution and the Fee Study Report are available for review or purchase in the Office of the City Clerk, Room 290, 455 N. Rexford Drive, and in the Finance Department, 9357 West Third Street, Beverly Hills, California. Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard. Written comments may also be submitted and should be addressed to the City Council, c/o City Clerk, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, 90210. The comments should be received prior to the hearing date. If you need more information, please contact Lucy Gonzalez at (310) 285-2413.

Please note that if you challenge the Council's action in regard to this matter in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

BYRON POPE, CMC City Clerk Measure H, two years after being hired as a lawyer to gain entitlements on behalf of the project.

Earlier this year, Goldman filed a strike against the Beverly Hilton's lawsuit as a SLAPP case, which protects a person's right of petition or free speech.

In Goldman's motion filed on March 9, "the collection of signatures and leaving notes at neighbor's homes is precisely the type of activity protected [under the anti-SLAPP statute]."

This case revolves around Goldman failing to provide written documents to his former client to disclose his potential personal interest. Goldman's violation was the "acceptance of the adverse engagement (of Oasis) without providing the necessary written disclosure of his personal relationship with the City of Beverly Hills as a res-

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS DECLARING AND IMPLEMENTING WATER CONSERVATION "STAGE B"

Pursuant to the City's Emergency Water Conservation Plan Ordinance set forth in Section 9-4-301et. seq. of the City's Municipal Code, the City Council may declare and implement water conversation stages upon recommendation by City staff. This resolution will declare and implement Stage B water conservation requirements as set forth in Section 9-4-304 of the Beverly Hills Municipal Code.

All interested persons are invited to attend and speak on this matter. Written comments are also invited and should be addressed to the City Council, c/o City Clerk, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Room 290, Beverly Hills, CA 90210; and should be received prior to the City Council Meeting ident and active citizen which he reasonably should have known would affect his representation," court documents said.

However, the complaint also said "Oasis alleges that it selected Goldman in part because he was reputed to be an expert in civic matters, and was a well-respected leader who was extremely active in Beverly Hills politics."

This means Oasis West understood Goldman's position and connection to the city when he was hired, and chose him specifically for it. This would go against the court's decision last week that Goldman didn't disclose information about his personal interest.

The difference however, might be the technicality of failure of proof in the form of a written document.

"The decision is curious. It might be form over substance, because Oasis admits they knew who he was," said Doug Mirell, an attorney at Loeb & Loeb not affiliated with this case.

Goldman's alleged ethical breach involved loyalty and confidentiality to Oasis, not the act of collecting signatures, support of the citizen's group, and speaking at City Council meetings, according to court documents.

According to the California Rules of Professional Conduct, "a member of the State Bar shall not represent conflicting interests, except with the written consent of all parties concerned."

The obligation to represent Oasis with fidelity does not end with the matter in which the lawyer may have been employed, court documents said.

Since the "anti-SLAPP" motion has been denied, the case will likely move on as "breach of ethical duty or a malpractice lawsuit," said Mirell.

There are various scenarios that could occur. Mirell said it is hard to tell at this point.

"Goldman may argue that he did disclose the information of his personal interest, and/or that his actions did not cause damage," said Mirell. "The case could settle, it could go to trial, and after parties have conducted discovery, there could be a summary judgment motion that could dispose of the case," said Mirell.

What is still unclear is why Goldman and Oasis West terminated their relationship. Because of the prior attorney-client relationship, the "anti-SLAPP" statute does not apply. Because of sufficient information, the case will move forward.

"We feel it is inappropriate to comment on ongoing litigation," said Marie Garvey, spokesperson for Oasis West Realty.

Goldman said he was very surprised and disappointed that the strike was denied.

"We will appeal the ruling," said Goldman. "We are confident that we will prevail on the appeal, and certainly will prevail if the case goes to trial."

Spadaro's legal trouble continues

Former Beverly Hills councilmember and Mayor Charlotte Spadaro (1984-88), who faces multiple civil and criminal cases in both San Bernardino and Riverside Counties, will begin trials in the next few months.

Spadaro's criminal case began May 12, 2005 when Rialto officials served a search warrant where Spadaro was running an animal-rescue operation. The City of Rialto seized over 184 dogs and cats from Spadaro four years ago.

"The house was filthy with animal feces, diarrhea and vomit as well as rodent droppings," court documents said.

The case included two counts, one for alleged cruelty to animals, the second for allegedly destroying evidence. According to the San Bernardino County case report, Spadaro's son, Jonathan Paul Spadaro was also a defendant in this particular case. Johnathan was later dismissed from the case in 2006 due to insufficient evidence according to District Attorney Jim McGee.

Dr. Cheryl Saban

Dr. Cheryl Saban will release her new book, "What is Your Self Worth? A Woman's Guide to Validation" on May 1. The psychologist, philanthropist, and family advocate, is on a mission to help women all over the world celebrate their own self-worth.

Saban attended San Diego State before earning her PhD in 2005. She has written numerous articles about women, children, marriage, parenting, and socio-political issues. 100 percent of proceeds from the book will benefit multiple philanthropic funds in the US and all over the world, many of them under the Women's Funding Network. A celebration for the launch of Saban's new book was held at the Pacific Design Center last week.

Tell us about your family.

We have a multi-generational family first of all. I have four children. My parents who are in their 80s live with us, my mother in law who is 99, lives in Israel. We are really lucky to have our folks around us still. Our children range from ages 37 to 18. Two daughters, Tifanie [Chaney] is 37, and Heidi [Stills] 35, both have little families of their own. My son Ness [Saban] is 20, and Tanya [Saban] is 18. I have four grandchildren.

My adorable husband Haim [Saban] and I will have been married 22 years on September 13. Were madly in love, and we still chase each other around like kids.

I was twice divorced by the time I was 34, I had some not so great relationships prior to meeting my husband. But part of that journey had to do with my own recovery, or discovery, of my own self worth. By the time I met Haim, I had figured myself out. I didn't need a man to save me, fix me, or complete me.

Your daughters attended Beverly, tell us about that.

Tifanie was involved with musical theatre, and Heidi actually went directly from high school onto an NBC show. She landed a lead role in an ensemble show called California Dreams. My sister Debra Joseph is currently a teacher [technical arts chair] at Beverly.

What inspired you to write your first book?

My first book, Miracle Child, [1993] was inspired by my own life story. I had illness and disease when I was very young and I had a hysterectomy at 27 after my two daughters were born.

They left me with a piece of an ovary, because they figured they could save my hormones. Years later, I looked into all different avenues of having children, surrogacy was one of them, and adoption was one as well. At that time, surrogacy, especially gestational surrogacy was sort of like witchcraft. People didn't trust it, didn't know what it was, and they were fearful. I kept looking into it and we discovered that my piece of an ovary was producing enough hormones to produce a follicle so I would be able to produce eggs. So that's what we did. Despite all odds, because even with IVF, (InVitro Fertilization) there's only about a 20 percent chance of success, I was optimistic.

Our son Ness was the eighth in the world born using this method. When we had Tanya, two years later, she was the 40th. It was pretty significant. I kept a diary of the whole process, about what emotional things we went through, and I wrote a book about it.

Of all your articles and books, which was the most challenging?

This one. This was a combination of elements. I did a lot of research; it took me a couple years to write it. By this time, I had achieved a PhD is psychology and I was interested in human behavior.

I'm particularly interested in women, perhaps because of my own life story. I had

Please call for a free consultation with an R.N. to evaluate your needs OFFICE- (818) 241-9828 • FAX- (818) 247-7272 some difficult experiences that really led to lots of insecurities for me and caused me to doubt my own self worth for quite a long time. Divorce can be very marginalizing for women, and I was raped when I was 18. When a woman is abused, raped, battered, and sexually assaulted, all of those things cut to a different place in a woman's psyche. Not all women can talk about it and recover from it. At the time this occurred in my life, there weren't the kind of support groups and environment of compassion that there is now. So I basically went into hiding for years.

So this book was a compilation of the research I did. I put questionnaires on my website and I got hundreds of responses from women all over the world who shared their views on worth and their stories. They're sprinkled all over the book. It's a combination of research, statistics about where women stand now, how women have progressed, and my personal stories.

What inspired you to write this book?

I met Haim when my two older daughters were 12 and 14. So both girls had to deal with some of the dysfunction and chaos that occurs in a world where divorce exists. And those were struggles for them, and I think it took them awhile just like it took me, to find themselves and be ok with all of that. They are both really strong, they're incredible mothers and they inspire me. They're taking their challenges in life with a sense of strength and grace that I'm really proud of.

Who is this book aimed towards?

Any age. The younger the better. Girls in high school should read this book. Because one of the things we don't teach young girls is the concept of self worth, independence, and the sense of freedom that you get when you recognize who you are. It's about having respect and positive feelings for yourself.

You can see from what's going on in the world today, more than 10 million girls and women suffer from eating disorders. We need to give young girls a positive outlook on life. What is the first step for someone who has issues with self esteem?

There are five steps in my opinion. The first is to find your voice. That may take some personal introspection and assessment. Get to know yourself. Everyone has a unique story to tell, and we should learn and practice telling our stories and have a narrative that we can share.

The second is learning financial responsibility. Young girls need to learn how to manage their money, and their bank accounts. Kids are getting credit cards before they even know how to deposit a check. Credit card debt is horrible. Statistics show that 80-90 percent of women will be responsible for their own finances. It's an important life skill.

The next thing I would suggest is, stop engaging in bad habits and dysfunctional behavior. We know what they are. And that includes feeling helpless for example. There is help out there. It's important for us to reach for support if you feel like you're in a downward spiral. Bad habits and dysfunctional

Police Chief To Stay

In a telephone interview late Tuesday, Police Chief David Snowden emphatically denied reports he was about to resign refuting rumors that had been circulating since City Manager Rod Wood announced his retirement last week.

Immediately following our conversation, Snowden sent an email to division heads, police association leaders and others not only denying the retirement rumors, but confirming that he intends remaining as chief and that his retirement would not come until "mid-2010 or later."

Some members of the city council apparently also believed that Snowden would leave with Wood. The two are very close and Snowden had been quoted in another newspaper that he would leave if and when Wood departed. But Wood's resignation was unexpected and Wood strongly urged Snowden not to resign.

At least one councilmember, Barry Brucker, had assumed Snowden would soon leave and even suggested bringing in a recently retired senior department official as "interim chief." Brucker, who also had praise for Snowden, told this column he was convinced Snowden would time his leaving with Wood.

On a side note, and considering the furor caused by Wood's surprise announcement, Brucker told us that he had met with Wood and assured him there "are not three votes to ask for your resignation."

As for Wood's departure, the response has been overwhelming: Every email we received urged Wood to reconsider. His support came from a very broad cross section of civic leaders including key backers of all five councilmembers.

Wood told us Tuesday that he would not reconsider his resignation although he had nothing but good feelings about Beverly Hills. He said, "I have had the good fortune to meet and make friends among many valued colleagues, with some wonderful councilmembers, and with so many exceptional community leaders."

Wood said the council should move quickly to select a successor. He said the recruitment should be very open, include people now working for the city, but also highly qualified candidates from outside. "The really good city manager candidates are always in high demand and we would lose many if the selection process is too lengthy," he said.

Although refusing to reconsider his resignation, Wood said he would be willing to delay his retirement for a very brief time to make the transition as smooth as possible

Of course, there is a back story. However, giving any credence to the report that Wood was leaving because of a power play by someone outside city government is not even remotely true. Wood is not exactly someone who can be pushed around.

Back to Snowden and the police department. Our chief is a perfect fit for Beverly Hills. Tough on law and order, protective of the men and women in his department, Snowden is also a strong defender of human rights and civil liberties. He and wife Ellyn have become very active in Beverly Hills as have Wood and his wife, Gina.

So, while I accept Wood's reasoning on seeking the best possible replacement for city manager both from within and outside the city and although Snowden is clearly one of the most able chiefs in our history, and he too came from another agency, there are very compelling reasons why the next chief should come from the department. Fortunately there is no lack of leadership talent within the Beverly Hills Police Department.

It has been many decades since we promoted from within, and that does affect morale and continuity.

An outside chief would not have the benefit of really understanding the inter-personal relationships and work history of the men and women in the department except by learning and from personnel files. In a sense, it "wipes the slate clean" and that is not always helpful.

Equally important, there needs to be realistic incentives for staff members to feel they too could one day lead the department. If senior leaders are not advanced, the whole ladder of promotion remains static.

The department has some stars, each with their own talents and abilities. Mitch Mc Cann and Ed Kreins, Jr., are the two most obvious choices and both have excellent credentials. They lead different divisions: Kreins does field services and Mc Cann administration. Both know the city, have strong support among the rank and file and have developed good community relations as well.

Not yet at the top of administrative jobs, but Tony Lee who handles communications and Theresa Taylor, who recently led a successful effort for federal funding, are two rising stars in the department. Both are excellent communicators and know the community. And there are many others who could also step into the top position.

Although we don't allow unions to pick their boss, or teacher's union president Chris Bushee would be superintendent of schools, the police association must be a major player in the selection process for the next chief.

Snowden has an excellent working relationship with the police association and that has to be continued if and when Snowden retires. The association should not pick a chief, but any strong objection they might have to a replacement must be given considerable weight. This is a very responsible union and rank and file confidence in the top brass is imperative. (And Bushee might not be a bad super.)

Historical note: The current fire chief, Tim Scranton, was once president of his union.

Other police issues, and this comes as a surprise. Despite assurances that the police would not be impacted by the real financial crisis the city faces, there will be cuts in department funding. Although it is unlikely we will lose any current jobs, there will probably be a freeze on hiring and normal attrition will mean less cops.

However, the most serious reductions will be in overtime pay. It didn't help when another newspaper reported that there were department salaries in the $200,000 range without explaining the very special circumstances: Critical work on time sensitive investigations.

If and when most overtime is curtailed, some pressing police work will suffer. A hot, pending investigation can not wait for regular business hours and often needs intensive department work with detectives doing double shifts to meet prosecution deadlines and avoid losing investigative opportunities.

Cutting overtime is not in the interest of community safety.

Who selects the chief of police and all other department heads? The city manager. The only personnel choice the council makes legally are city clerk, city attorney - now a contract post, and the city manager. However, since the police chief's job is so community sensitive and Wood is unlikely to be here when Snowden does retire, the council will be consulted. I would also think no replacement should even be considered without Snowden's stamp of approval. Fortunately, this isn't going to happen soon.

Attended a wonderful luncheon recognizing some of the many volunteers involved in the library's Literacy Program.

Mayor Nancy Krasne delivered the welcoming speech, praising the program and volunteers and Librarian Nancy Hunt-Coffey served as master of ceremonies. This great community service is led by Coordinator Delores Almond. Several of the literacy students gave moving talks on how much the program has meant in their lives. Incidentally, one of the many volunteer recognized was Mrs. Rod (Gina) Wood with 126 hours of volunteer time.

Lawry's hosted the event and provided the food which made them so famous: their prime rib. The city gave special recognition to Brian Momfort, now a vice president of the company who had been manager of the Beverly Hills restaurant.

This deserves much more space and recognition of all those involved in a later column.

Very gracious gesture by Linda and Gary

Briskman in thanking friends and supporters with a well attended party at Via Alloro on Canon, the newest addition to the Drago family stable.

Incidentally, a visitor to Beverly Hills, examining our eating choices, must assume that we have an enormous Italian population. This new entry by Celestino Drago is indeed spacious, well designed and very attractive.

Looking at the number attending, Gary must have wondered what might have happened if they had all voted. Linda would be mavor.

"Charlotte's first count [alleged cruelty to animals] has been reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor and the second count has been dropped at the discretion of the office," said McGee.

Spadaro said the City of Rialto handed a false police report to the District Attorney.

"We didn't have the pictures as evidence for a year. But even the D.A. admitted the police report was false," said Spadaro.

McGee did not refer to the evidence as false, but said they were insufficient.

Spadaro said she does not understand why the case has not been dismissed.

"I asked the judge for the specifics of what I did wrong," said Spadaro. "He responded by saying he didn't want to be too specific so I wouldn't change my story."

The next court hearing is scheduled for June 5.

In a civil case in San Bernardino County, Spadaro is suing four City of Rialto employees, saying two dogs were stolen from her property during an inspection in January 2005 according to court documents. Before Rialto officials raided Spadaro's home in May 2005, inspections were conducted in the months leading up to the seizure of the animals. This case will go to trial July 27.

Spadaro, who in 2006 took over Grisco's Kennel in Riverside, also faces a criminal case in Riverside County on more than 400 citations issued by county animal control services.

The citations, largely for not having licenses or proof of vaccinations for 242 dogs at the Riverside kennel, were written after an inspection in February this year. A hearing is set for May 8.

Spadaro declined comment on this case. Spadaro, who is an attorney, is representing herself in all of the cases. According to the California State Bar website, Spadaro's status is active and has no record of discipline since she was admitted in 1970.

Students must complete two years of foreign language to meet the high school graduation requirement and it is recommended that students complete at least three years of the same foreign language to meet entrance requirements for four year colleges and universities.

Students are currently being surveyed for interest. Based upon student interest, staff will determine costs for staffing and resources needed to offer the course.

The Board of Education is committed to offering three years of the course if there is enough student interest.

A part time position for a certified teacher for Mandarin Chinese has been posted.

According to Assistant Superintendent Ilene Straus, once final student interest is obtained, a report will be made to the Board of Education in May indicating student interest, staffing costs, and plans for implementation.

behaviors keep us in an endless cycle of pain. The next thing is to really love and validate yourself first. Women and girls often are the community makers. We like to make everyone around us feel good. If you love yourself and you can validate yourself, you're in a much better position to attract that kind of love from the world around you.

The last thing is to pay it forward. To share what you know. One of the critical elements of being able to express your self worth is giving back to society. Volunteering and community activism. It's one of those things that builds your self esteem.

Tuesday's Board meeting.

PTA co-presidents Nadine Neiman and Franny Rennie teamed up with Denton Fisch, CEO of Prad Communications to create the logo.

The logo is a star, with each corner's color coordinating with a school site. The tagline reads, "Supporting a World Class Education."

The tagline for the Board of Education logo will read, "Creating a World Class Education," and the Beverly Hills Education Foundation's logo will read, "Funding a World Class Education."

Different variations of the logo were presented to the board members, all in favor of the unique look and strong statement.

"I'm very excited and encouraged about what I saw. Denny Fisch, Nadine Neiman, and Franny Rennie made a fantastic presentation," said Board of Education member Steven Fenton. "It creates a unified district with a unified message, and I look forward to implementing it very soon."

What's your favorite thing about living in Beverly Hills?

I love to live in Beverly Hills. I have lots of dear friends here. Beny Alagem from the Hilton, [planning commissioner] Lili Bosse is a dear friend of mine, and Vicky Mense of Xi'an restaurant. We've lived in Beverly Hills for quite some time. It's so beautiful here, the greenery, the trees. It's nice to have a village-community feeling. This city is planned well.

I owned a store in Beverly Hills for a while. It was a called "A Child's Room," on the corner of Charleville and Beverly. I closed it after the Gulf War in 1991, at that moment when we were watching SCUDS fall in Israel, it was frightening. I just couldn't sustain it anymore, but it was a lovely store that I had for several years. I was a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and it's just a really great environment here.

What other projects are you working on?

I'll be involved with women's issues for a while. This is a top priority for me. I started a foundation specifically for this, called Self Worth Foundation, where the book's proceeds will go. Our family foundation [Saban Family Foundation] is dedicated to making a difference in the lives of children, and has spread to families, senior citizens, and global health. We're very connected to Israel, so we have committed resources to Soroka Medical Center, a very special hospital in Beersheba. We also support Children's Hospital Los Angeles, the Saban Free Clinic, and we've given over the years to Cedars Sinai as well.

I think it's important to be able to advocate for things when you have a voice and the ability to put it out there. Community service and giving back doesn't have to be financial. We can share our talent and time, and all of these things are extremely important. If what you can do is advocate by talking or writing, I think that you should do that. I think that we all participate in the way we can, and if we do, our society is enhanced. Because we can't do anything about the quantity, but we can certainly affect the quality.

COVERSTORY DEVERSION HILLS WEEKLY TURNS 500 Our readers discuss why they can't miss the Weekly every Thursday

I read the Weekly because I enjoy its wide selection of stories and its indepth analysis. By selecting and focusing on one main topic each week, the Weekly generates interest in the stories it covers. I especially enjoy reading the Weekly's articles on school-related issues, such as curriculum, Board of Education elections, and BHUSD students and staff. The Weekly also contributes to Beverly Hills pride through its extensive interviews with people engaged in serving our community. -Christopher Bushee, President, Beverly Hills Education Association

In an era when print media giants are falling by the way side it is comforting to know that The Weekly will continue to provide our community with the best a free press has to offer. I look forward to Thursday morning when I get a chance to pick up my Weekly and find out who has been featured for the cover story for that week's Weekly. Thank you for the valuable service you provide Beverly Hills and I look forward to celebrating many more milestones with you!

-Dr. Brian Goldberg. Board of Education member

Congratulations on this accomplishment. I appreciate the fact that Beverly Hills Weekly provides a deeper look into our schools and together with Rudy Cole's column, they give me a better understanding of a major part of our Beverly Hills community. -Jimmy Delshad, Vice Mayor

I read Beverly Hills Weekly the minute it arrives to learn about our community schools which the Weekly does a great job of covering. The paper also has a sense of history and I love reading about where various city staffers or residents are now. And, my week isn't complete until I read Rudy Cole's columns...always insightful and entertaining! I'm looking forward to reading the next 500 issues. -Dev Hankin, CEO Beverly Hills Education Foundation

Oscar Wilde stated that the difference between literature and journalism is that journalism is unreadable and literature is not read. In contrast, the Beverly Hills Weekly is both readable and read by many involved members of our community. Personally, I appreciate the courageous efforts of [Publisher] Josh Gross and his wonderful team of professionals who accurately report important facts concerning our city, our schools, and our community. -Merle Bauer, Beverly Vista English Teacher

Keep up the good work and all of the wonderful things you publish for the community. I read the Weekly because I get the news for the city. I like the editorials, I adore Rudy Cole, and I like [Publisher] Josh Gross. I feel like when I read the paper, I'm part of the community. -Lya Cordova-Latta

Beverly Hills Weekly has always given such timely news and informative articles to our local residents. They have a very responsive professional staff and it's certainly been a privilege to work with them in covering police related incidents. -Lt. Tony Lee, Beverly Hills Police Department

Our favorite part of the Weekly is "Letters & Email" because we hear from the community in an uncensored manner. We hear everyone's opinions and we enjoy it enormously. Also "Briefs" because it is a quick tour of what is happening around the city, including the schools and touches areas where we all like to know what is going on, but we just don't have any access. My children are grown and out of the schools, so the tour is wonderful, right down to the sports scores. Keep up the good work, it's so appreciated. -Mayor Nancy Krasne and Jim Krasne

I read the Weekly because of the focus on Beverly Hills news and issues. The Weekly encourages discussion on the various issues affecting our Community, allowing viewpoints from several sides of an issue to be aired, and this healthy debate is great for the City. I also am in constant awe of [Publisher] Josh Gross and [Columnist] Rudy Cole's encyclopedic knowledge of our city and its history and particularly enjoy when they share their treasure troves with the readers. Thursdays just wouldn't be the same without the Weekly. Congratulations, and here's to the next 500 issues! -John Mirisch, Beverly Hills City Councilmember

I read the Weekly because it does a wonderful job of showing the human face of the city and its terrific schools. They cover the students and staff of the schools in great depth as well as the City and its residents. One of my favorite pieces is, "Where Are They Now?" It's great to catch up with old friends and hear their reflections on their time as part of team Beverly Hills. -Dan Stepenosky, Beverly High Principal (2003-2006)

I read the Weekly because I find the financial and world news sections superior to the Wall Street Journal and New York Times combined! I think a local weekly paper is essential to a community to find out the news about what is going on in our town and not everyplace else. It has the ability to cover what is not important to others, but is important to us and our community. The Weekly has been a real asset by providing honest news and coverage to Beverly Hills. -Rod Wood, City Manager

Congratulations on your 500th issue! The Weekly has become my vehicle to stay familiar with happenings in the city and school district. I particularly like the prominent location of the Letters to the Editor section and the fact that I recognize so many of the letter writers. The comments allow me to get a real sense of Beverly Hills issues, especially in the school district. -Steve Fisher, El Rodeo Principal (1991-2004)

I enjoy reading the Beverly Hills Weekly. I find that the news information is well balanced. Also, the Weekly, unlike its competitor, is willing to print controversial letters to the editor that are sometimes adverse to some of the Weekly's major advertisers. Congratulations on your 500th issue. -Larry Larson

Rudy Cole has the most interesting news in town. The Weekly always has important information on the community and I really enjoy the profiles about specific people in the community. -Richard Rosenzweig, Playboy Enterprises

Li-quid-i-ty: When you review your investment portfolio and wet your pants!

How much of your stock and real estate portfolio are you willing to sacrifice?

Recover your family's inheritance with the security of life insurance. Life insurance proceeds provide cash when your family needs it most. Diversify your investment portfolio with a guaranteed death benefit that is never affected by the fluctuation of the stock market or real estate values. You will know exactly what your family will inherit.

Life insurance is more affordable than you may realize. Designing a policy to life expectancy can reduce premium payments by as much as 30%, especially for seniors. What's more, term insurance rates are now at historic lows. Young people who have never owned insurance coverage often don't understand how inexpensive it is to provide security and peace of mind for themselves and their family.

Some people own policies that are no longer the best product to accomplish their goals. One of our clients paid $40,000 annually for $5 million of coverage. His goal was to pay the least amount to guarantee his death benefit. We exchanged his policy for a new one that guaranteed the same amount of coverage beyond age 100, with no further premium payments. He accumulates much less cash surrender value in the new policy, but that was never his goal.

New insurance products offer guarantees that were not previously available. Alan Kaye recently designed a policy to pay the death benefit and all of the accumulated annual premium payments, plus 3% annually. The longer you live, the more your family will inherit!

Why let the market determine the future of your estate? Use life insurance death benefits to recover your investment loses. You may also increase the amount your family receives from your retirement plan assets, provide for your granchildren's education and create large gifts for your favorite charities. Call Alan Kaye at 800.662.5433. He can help you decide whether to buy insurance, sell, surrender, keep or replace your old policy.

How liquid is your estate? And what will your heirs inherit?

Be sure to ask for a complimentary consultation to review your life insurance needs and products.
