"Voter fraud in Beverly Hills" [Issue 505]

I was amused by Rudy Cole's editorial last week regarding our voter fraud news conference. However, I would like to correct Mr. Cole on some of his statements.

First, I did not have an unopened "large box" of evidence at the press conference at City Hall. Rather, I had a 5-inch binder, which contains detailed information of 569 suspect voters, including their names, voter identification numbers, registration address, the address where they voted and the nature of their alleged fraud.

Secondly, Mr. Cole said that I did not take questions at the end from news media. Again, Mr. Cole is wrong. At the conclusion of the press conference, I asked for questions and there were none. Mr. Cole can verify this point by viewing the video shot by his Beverly Hilton friends who were posing as media at the press conference.

Thirdly, Mr. Cole made reference to the tactics of Senator McCarthy in the 50s, which was a little before my time. Nonetheless, Senator McCarthy refused to reveal his list of suspected communists. On the other hand, I will deliver our lists and data of suspect voters to the appropriate law enforcement officials for further investigation. Our resident based, volunteer organization, Citizens Right to Decide Committee, did not invest five months going door-to-door investigating Beverly Hills voter fraud in order to hide the ball on the collected evidence. Rather, our evidence will hopefully be used to put fraudulent voters and those who orchestrated the massive voter fraud in Beverly Hills in jail and purge the voter rolls of phony voters.

Lastly, Mr. Cole was asked last Monday at the press conference to sign the two petitions to Steve Cooley, our local District Attorney, and to Jerry Brown, California's Attorney General, demanding that they investigate further and prosecute, but Mr. Cole refused to sign. Why? Clearly, every Beverly Hills resident should be in favor of further investigation and prosecution of everyone who voted fraudulently in Beverly Hills and those behind the scene. If Beny Alagem, the Beverly Hilton owner, still lived in Beverly Hills, I would even invite him to sign our petitions. However, I suspect that Mr. Alagem, like Rudy Cole, who campaigned for the Hilton expansion, would refuse.

Larry Larson Treasurer Citizens Right to Decide Committee

COLE RESPONDS

Anytime these efforts are found "amusing" by a reader I consider it a winning week. But bringing a smile to the mostly mirthless Larry Larson should garner some award.

However, his letter is filled with some

However, his letter is filled with so many innuendos and half truths as to defy a response, but I'll try.

First, this not an editorial, it is an opinion column. The "editorial" position of this newspaper is expressed by the publisher, Josh Gross, not me. Sometimes we actually agree, but not always.

Did Larson take questions? Not in front of the microphone. He quickly ended the "press conference" and then met some reporters away from the dais.

Did he actually disclose anything? His press release said he would announce the results of his investigation into voter fraud, but instead he displayed a binder, he was right, not a box, that contained his "evidence."

Yes, I was asked to sign a petition that called for an "investigation," but why would anyone sign a sheet that took as fact something yet to be proved?

More important, Larson cherry picked my column and neglected to mention my call for reforms in voter identification and registration.

Larson also said that the Hilton had a crew recording the press conference who was "posing" as media. I have no idea if they were sent by the Hilton, but I did ask them if they were with a television station, and they said "No."

Richard Farmer to retire

Richard Farmer started his job as Beverly High band director 31 years ago.

The once fledgling band and orchestra he started with has grown tremendously since, Farmer said.

The 20 person band and nine-person orchestra are now three bands with a total of 140 students and two orchestras with a total of 50 students. This is something Farmer said he had little to do with.

"The program has really blossomed and a lot of that is due to the middle school staff that the district has hired," Farmer said.

As far as the students go, much hasn't changed.

"They're the same kids that were here 30 years ago except with different faces," he said.

Many of his former students kept pursuing music after high school. The most recognizable name, Farmer said, is recording artist Lenny Kravitz, '82.

"Lenny played drums and guitar in our band here and after he graduated he became famous," Farmer said. "I don't think I had anything to do with it to tell you the truth."

He said other students have gone on to teach music at schools such as John Adams Middle School in Santa Monica as well as within the BHUSD.

In his 31 years Farmer has only fallen on his face once - literally.

"A girl left her saxophone case out and we were getting ready to march on (the field) for a football game," Farmer said. "It was dark in the evening and I was kind of running along and I went right over it on my face and scratched myself up pretty good."

As for students tripping, he said none have. Memorable performances he has had with his band throughout the years has been playing for Prince Andrew of England; in front of the Olympic Committee when it was at BHHS to consider adding synchronized swimming as an Olympic sport; and at Disneyland every year for the past 25.

Farmer said while he will miss some things, he won't miss others.

"I've been telling the kids there is two things I'm not going to do," Farmer said. "I'm not going to get up at five thirty in the morning anymore ... and I'm not going to drive from the San Fernando Valley to Beverly hills every morning in the traffic.'

The support the program has received is something he said he will miss.

"My colleagues here, the teaching staff and the administration have always been very supportive," Farmer said. "The community as well has been very supportive of all the things we've done."

His daughter, Jenny, graduates in June and will be leaving Beverly High with him.

Once retired. Farmer said he looks forward to finishing all the work around his home that he has been putting off for years.

At the end of 31 years the goals he made for himself and the program have been met, he

"My goal was to build a good program and when I did retire leave somebody with a real strong instrumental program that they could continue to develop," Farmer said. "And that's what I've done."

He said he expects the soon-to-be-hired band director to be young and energetic.

His hope is that the new director will "keep the program going and keep developing it and bringing new things to program."

If it weren't for retirement, it is something Farmer said he'd do himself.

City Hall Infighting

Notes on newspapers By Rudy Cole

Hard to confirm, but there seems to be rary arrangement while the replacement some big time squabbling going on behind closed doors at city hall. The only hint of trouble in council paradise is the caustic shot Mayor Nancy Krasne took at councilmember Barry Brucker last week when she advised him, in no mellow terms, to wait to be recognized before he spoke.

Brucker was about to question a speaker when Krasne called him out of order and reminded him that "I am still the mayor." The council discussion was on some procedural issue, not that critical, but the byplay was reflective of some tensions on the council. Even new councilmember John Mirisch felt the sting of a Krasne interrup-

According to our sources, the conflicts reflect the handling, in closed session, of an extension of City Manager Rod Wood's contract, due for a vote next week.

Evidently, Krasne wants Wood gone now and her colleagues are trying to convince Wood to remain under some tempoprocess continues and the budget is adopted. But Krasne does not have the three votes she needs thus her anger at some of her colleagues.

Wood told this column that his decision to retire is final, but that he would consider remaining for a brief period while the council decides on a new city manager. This makes very good sense.

What is not helpful is the mood this creates during the critical selection effort. Why would a really able and experienced city manger step into such a situation?

This city owes Wood an enormous debt of appreciation for his brilliant work in reorganizing city hall departments. Now, with the challenges the economy have created, his talents are even more valuable as we try to maintain quality services with fewer resources.

Yes, cuts in services are impossible not to make, but the council must take care not to dismantle a municipal process that has made this city so successful. It may be hard to put it back together when tax dollars return to normal.

We hired their director of Community Services so it seems only fair that West Hollywood would turn to one of our more able, if prematurely retired, administrators as their interim director of the agency that includes planning and building and safety.

For many years, Maria Rychlicki, served at our city hall in a wide range of responsibilities including planning, where she worked under two directors, and as head of the department of transportation. She also served briefly as city ombudsman, and with commissions including Human Relations. She held many jobs in Beverly Hills and was always the consummate professional. West Hollywood is lucky to have her.

Friends of Greystone is doing it for a second time: The "Family Festival" at Greystone Park on Sunday June 14 from noon to 4 p.m. Activities will include booths, food, a movie, music and even a children's fashion show.

Are newspapers a disappearing business? There are problems that are both challenging and threatening including the down turn in the economy and the competitive evolution of the internet. But newspapers were supposed to be dead and gone when first radio and then television entered the communication world, but they survived both and will again. But it will

In our own area, although it is hard to sort out, Beverly Hills 213 may be having continuation problems - haven't seen them on the street for weeks and it hard to get them on the phone.

Mostly using a magazine format with slick paper stock, Beverly Hills 213 was hardly a traditional newspaper. It seldom covered any Beverly Hills news although they did do special issues on the city including whoever was mayor. But no hard news, only features and many columns.

The best of these were the syndicated movie reviews of Rex Reed and the reminiscences of veteran reporter Jim Bacon. Their gossip columns were often sophomoric with reports on the sexual liaisons of movie people, but city hall could go up in flames and you would not have found a mention in 213. However, the demise of any paper is sad and we hope Seth Baker can keep it together. Our village has had a fascinating history of newspaper publications. One of the best ever was Script, which had an international following, but which ended publication in the late 1950s.

Will Rogers actually owned our one daily newspaper, The Beverly Hills Citizen before he sold it to pioneer developer David Heyler. Heyler not only published The Citizen, but had a weekly "shopper" that covered most of the west side. Later he sold it all to the Santa Monica Outlook and they wisely kept Bill Reeder as editor.

The Citizen folded and the Outlook left Beverly Hills at about the same time that March Schwartz acquired a paper I started with Jules Covey and Bill Stout called the Beverly Hills Times. March changed the name, eventually selling the Courier to Clif Smith.

The Los Angeles Times entry into suburban editions in the 1960s also hurt locally owned papers. But their Westside supplement, first published on Thursday and Sunday, was well written and provided strong coverage of the western Los Angeles communities.

The problem with doing a regional paper or even a Los Angeles Times insert, is that there is really little cross over reader interest in adjoining communities. The people of Santa Monica have little concern about West Hollywood and Beverly Hills never became to excited about Mar Vista.

Hard to imagine, but in my working class hometown of Fostoria, Ohio with a population of 13,000, once had two daily newspapers - one Republican and the other Democratic.

To my mother's dismay, my ambition was to become sports editor of the Fostoria Times. Unfortunately for Beverly Hills, the paper folded.

However, I think my mother would have had some words of appreciation for one accomplishment in my life in newspapers. Mom revered the late great comedian Eddie Cantor. Not only because of his weekly radio program, but because Cantor may have helped rescue my cousin from Nazi Germany. Mom had written to everyone from President Roosevelt to Winston Churchill pleading for help, but her only response came from Cantor who contacted the International Red Cross. Somehow my cousin made it to England and after that, every Sunday when Cantor was on the air, we remained silent in listened in appreciation

Years later, as a very young editor of the old Beverly Hills Times, Jules Covey arranged for Cantor to write a weekly column for us. Now, I have met and known some famous types, but the day I was to have lunch with Cantor I was as nervous as any fan might be, probably more so.

I'm not a very religious person, but I did have this hope that mom could somehow see me dining with her hero and admit that maybe my professional job choice was acceptable after all.

I had visions of walking into the Bistro with Mr. Cantor, making sure that I was

Mc Carthy like? Names to be disclosed later? Guilt by association? All of it there. But there is one problems Larson did not discuss. During the Mc Carthy era, one of the Senator's targets, Zero Mostel, composed a song in his defense: "Who's going to investigate the man who investigates me" was the opening lyric. What Larson did not discuss was the allegation by former school board member Lillian Raffell who filed a police report claiming that a Larson operative came to her home and falsely identified

Water Allocations

Last week, most residents probably received a letter from the City of Beverly Hills informing us of a water rate increase and penalty surcharge for exceeding our "Stage B allocation."

As stated, the Stage B allocation is based on a 3 year period average of water consumption.

Point 1: Penalties are levied per billing period if an allocation is exceeded. Because we have hot summer and fall temperatures, we are apt to use more water during these periods than the calculated average. This would lead to a penalty charge. Conversely, water usage may fall below our respective average in the winter and spring resulting in less consumption and therefore no penalties.

Solution: I would like to suggest that water customers be given an annual Stage B allocation. So, for example, if your allocation is 30 units, your annual allocation would be 180 units (six 2 month billing periods).

Point 2: Since the installation of electronic metering, which broadcasts our daily usage to the City four times per day, for her second term, and Meskaty for her first. This year, it's likely to be highly contested.

Dr. Demeter has yet to decide if she will seek a third term, but would be a formidable contender if she does and Meshkaty has made it clear she wants a second chance. More on this soon, however, there are some very viable board candidates starting to make the voting rounds

Some parents oppose Beverly High Bell Schedule Committee's proposal

More than a dozen parents and students stood in front of the Board of Education Tuesday to voice their concerns about variations to the bell schedule at Beverly High.

"I would hope that the final schedule that is adopted would afford students the most flexibility possible in their schedules," PTSA co-President Ronit Stone said. "So that AP students can still take AP classes and athletes can participate in athletics and the kids won't have to wake up at 5 a.m. every morning to get to school."

The new proposal included increasing passing periods between classes to seven minutes. On Mondays period one would start at 8 a.m. and period six would end at 3:14 p.m., with period five starting after lunch. Tuesdays through Fridays period one would start at 8 a.m. and period six would end at 3:43 p.m., with period five starting before lunch.

This schedule would essentially eliminate the modified block schedule that has been used since the 2002-2003 school year.

Concerns ranged from students losing later school day starts on Wednesdays to time conflictions of parents with children in Beverly High and lower schools in the district.

"The committee is not done," assistant superintendent Ilene Straus said. "There have been a lot of suggestions and they are going to continue to work and address the issues."

Despite many suggestions from cutting out intervention period, to cutting out lunch, there are many constraints and compliances the committee has to take into consideration, such as the minimum 64,800 minutes of instructional time per student per year to the maximum 1,350 minutes teachers are allowed with individual students per week.

Board of Education member Brian Goldberg said Beverly High has been under the minimum requirement of instruction minutes for years.

"We are cheating our students out of educational minutes," Goldberg said. "That's Beverly High is also in the second year of its three year Western Association of Schools and Colleges accreditation. This means changes to the schedule need to be made quickly and in compliance with WASC's requirements, one of which requires an intervention period.

Goldberg said the Committee was also proposing changes that had little fiscal requirements, which limited their schedule decisions.

"They didn't want to have any additional expenditure and I appreciate that in this economic uncertain time," Goldberg said. "We don't want to necessarily spend more money but if that's what it takes to get the best schedule that's what we need to do as a Board."

The Committee will continue meeting during the summer to address the bell schedule issue.

BHUSD has smaller-than-standard class-

Board of Education member Brian Goldberg said the district is in the process of completing an inventory of all the school's classroom sizes in BHUSD.

"It doesn't mean we are going to go back and redo all the classrooms," Goldberg said. "We don't have the funds to."

These measurements are in response to the recent discussions of parity, or equality among schools, in the district.

According to superintendent Jerry Gross, the state of California mandates a classroom be at least 960 square feet. Goldberg said there is a 29:1 ratio of students to teacher in most classrooms

"If you have a classroom that is undersized square footage wise and you're cramming 29 kids in there versus a classroom at another school that is the right size and you're putting 29 kids in there, that's a different educational environment for those kids and you don't have parity," Goldberg said.

Although it was not official, Goldberg said he thought Horace Mann had the most undersized classrooms in the district, followed by Hawthorne.

Three options present themselves in resolving this issue, Goldberg said.

The first is moving children within the district

"(If) those classrooms are undersized maybe we need to drop down to 25 or 26," Goldberg said.

The second option is not renewing children in the district with permits. This is only optional if there are permit children in the grades affected by class size.

The most expensive option is opening up additional classrooms.

"You have to pay for the teacher, figure that would cost you anywhere from $60-90,000 to open up an additional classroom," Goldberg said. "In this economic climate that option might not be the most prudent."

He said he the most fiscally responsible were one of the first two options.

"Moving the kids from the class could be more difficult for the child," Goldberg said. "My first choice is to move permit children to other school sites that have small classrooms."

Beverly High inducts 85 into National Honor Society

Eighty five students were inducted in to Beverly High's chapter of the National Honor Society June 2. To be inducted students had to be outstanding in scholarship, character, leadership and service, which are the four pillars and cornerstones of the organization. Once inducted, these students must continue to strengthen their excellence in these areas.

BHHS Boys' Golf Team Narrowly Misses Berth in State Tournament

Los Angeles Marathon could pass through Beverly Hills By Steven Herbert

The Beverly High boys' golf team finished fourth in the CIF/Southern California Golf Association Tournament that concluded last Thursday at the SCGA Members Golf Course in Murrieta, narrowly missing qualifying for the state tournament.

The Norman scoring quintet combined for a 10-over-par 370, two shots behind Temecula Great Oak and Westlake Village Westlake, who tied for second. Carlsbad La Costa Canyon won with a five-under-par 365.

The top three teams advanced to the state tournament.

Mario Clemens shot a team-low one-underpar 71 for Beverly Hills, while teammates William Byun and freshman Brian Song both shot even-par 72s, Colt Knedler a one-over-par 73 and Kristof Sebesteny a 10-over-par 82.

"We had four great scores and we needed a fifth and we didn't get it, and that was the difference," coach Jason Newman said.

Clemens was four-under-par through five holes, leading the field, when play was suspended because of rain June 3. He birdied his first hole when play resumed the next day, then struggled, bogeying the par-five 10th hole and double-bogeying the par-three 11th hole.

Clemens, who has signed with UCLA, then birdied the par-four 12th, had pars on each of the next five holes and ended the round with a bogey on the par-four 18th.

"He made a couple of mistakes," Newman said. "He still had a great round, but we just couldn't afford the mistakes."

The failure to qualify for the state tournament "was just a bit disappointing because I think the kids felt they could move on," Newman said.

"It shouldn't take away the luster [of the season]," Newman said.

Newman said one factor in the team's success – which included a second-place finish in the Southern Section final and an undefeated record in match play – was the "sense of competitiveness" that the players had developed from playing other sports.

"When you compete throughout the year, you stay competitive mentally," Newman said.

"You're not intimated by big games."

To Newman, a high school golfer who also plays or has played other sports "will in the long run do better than a person who gave up all other sports at 9 or 10 years old to specialize in golf."

"The lesson is that parents should recognize that it's not necessarily in their children's best interest when they get pushed into a sport when they're young to the exclusion of other sports," said Newman, whose son Josh played on the golf team after playing on the football and boys' soccer teams earlier in the academic year.

"The mistake a lot of people in our culture make is that kids are encouraged to specialize in one sport. Everything's a 12-month program. I don't think that's in children's best interest."

Running

Mayor Nancy Krasne said she would be "delighted" if a portion of the Los Angeles Marathon would be run through Beverly Hills.

"It's good to showcase our city," said Krasne, who said she has discussed the matter with race organizers.

Los Angeles Dodgers owner Frank McCourt, who controls the group that owns the marathon, told the Los Angeles Times that he envisions a course starting at Dodger Stadium and ending at the Pacific Ocean.

With four major streets that end near the Pacific Ocean passing through Beverly Hills — Olympic, Santa Monica, Sunset and Wilshire boulevards — it is likely that such a course would go through Beverly Hills.

Marathon president Russ Pillar said at an April 22 news conference that he envisions a course that "highlights the best of what Los Angeles has to offer," and take the race outside Los Angeles' city limits for the first time, but declined to provide specifics.

The marathon requires street closures, which have drawn criticism from ministers, who have claimed church attendance typically dropped by about 50 percent on the day of the race

When asked about the possibility of criticism from Beverly Hills residents about street closures for the marathon, Krasne said, "I think everybody can handle a minor disruption for a little while."

Krasne said she has suggested to organizers that the Beverly Hills Education Foundation and The Maple Counseling Center be added to the list of charitable organizations that raise money in conjunction with the marathon.

The Lancers, who finished second in the Almont League, took the lead for good in fourth when they scored four runs, with Ivan Galindo getting the key hit, a three-run double with two outs.

Beverly Hills (12-15) responded with a run in its half of the fourth as Munzer's third hit of the game, a single, drove in Brock, who had singled.

Bell Gardens increased its lead to 9-5 by scoring twice in the fifth, off Kay, who had relieved Munzer with one out in the fourth. Joshua Flores led off with a home run. Kay hit the next batter, Johny Padilla, who scored one out later when Luis Saballos reached base on an error by Brock, the Norman shortstop.

Both teams scored in the first inning.

Dennis Orozco, the Lancers' leadoff hitter, walked, stole second and third and scored on Galindo's ground out.

Munzer doubled in Jones, who reached first on an error by Galindo, Bell Gardens' first baseman, and stole second.

Hector Flores, the No. 9 hitter in Bell Gardens' lineup, singled in Padilla, who doubled, and Oscar Ortega, who was hit by a pitch, in the second.

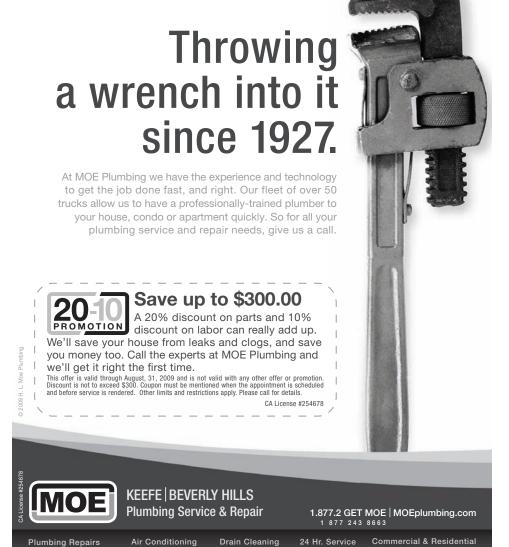

The Normans responded with a run in the second, as Kay's one-out double drove in Kerman, who had led off with a single.

Beverly Hills, the Ocean League champion, took a 4-3 lead in the third. Kerman's sacrifice fly drove in Munzer who singled. Joey Livingston followed with a single, driving in Shapiro, who singled.

The Normans led in hits, 13-7. Brock, Kay, Kerman, Livingston and Shapiro all had two hits.

The Lancers lost to Lancaster in a second-round playoff game.

According to the press release, customers were notified of what their bi-monthly allocation was June 1.

Customers who exceed their baseline will pay two times the regular rate for the amount they use in excess of their allocation.

An error was found in the original allocations sent to customers, according to the press release. New letters were sent out the week of June 8, notifying customers of any changes.

Also, in response to customer concerns, the City will establish a separate baseline for summer and winter.

"We're very sorry about the inconvenience cause by the miscalculation in baseline data that was sent to our customers," director of public works David Gustavson said.

COUNCIL TOLD COMMISSION THE ROXBURY PARK PROPOSAL NEEDS REFINEMENT

Park is already behind on suggested replacement schedule By Amanda Renner

At a June 2 study session, a 3-2 consensus among members of the City Council sent the proposed $14.4 million renovations of Roxbury Park back to the Recreation and Parks Commission for additional refinements.

"They're not making anymore land in Beverly Hills," Councilmember John Mirisch said. "But we have an opportunity now to purchase some and to turn concrete into green space which I think we should be doing.'

Director of the Beverly Hills Department of Community Services Steve Miller said these renovations have been long

City Council appropriated $2 million for renovations in 1988. Miller said when the Council approved the renovations in 1989, staff and consultants at the time said the renovations had, at best, 15 years.

"We are now four years beyond the suggested replacement schedule," Miller said. "And staff, the Recreation and Parks Commission, and design team continue to support the replacement."

Development for the proposal has been continuous since June 2006. According to the park master plan presented by Miller at the study session, 12 conceptual designs have been made and considered since. It was narrowed down to three options, one of which the commission chose to endorse and present to the Council.

"A comprehensive community outreach and engagement effort has occurred throughout this process," Miller said. "Where ever possible, design features have been incorporated to meet public interests."

The proposal from assistant director of community services/recreations and parks Steven Zoet, was for Phase One of the renovations. According to it, the plans included a 28,000 square foot community center complete with exterior courtyards and a patios, a 125-car off street parking lot, outside volleyball and basketball courts, a group picnic area, expanded maintenance yard, site grading, drainage enhancements, utility improvements, associated landscaping and irrigation improvements and partial construction of an emergency vehicle access route, which would be fully completed

Recreation and Parks fund made up for $9.9 million of the project, current year CIP savings accounted for $3.1 million and the last $1.4 million of funding would have came from deferring Greystone landscaping project by at least a year.

Architect Steve Albert was present for the presentation of the proposal and addressed questions from the Council.

An additional $900,000 would be needed to finish engineering design work.

"Although it may be needed," Mayor Nancy Krasne said. "In this economy, at this time, I think we're at a stand still."

Recreation and Park Commission Chairperson Marc O'Krent said by renovating the park now the Commission would be saving an estimated $1 million.

"The longer they wait to do it the more expensive the renovations get because right now there's a window of opportunity to do construction because of the economy," O'Krent said. "It is a double edged sword because costs are very low right now and there is tremendous savings."

While the proposal boasted the installation of solar panels would account for an estimated 65 percent of energy used for the community center and club house when finished, the board still raised concerns.

One design flaw Mirisch said was the small expansion of existing green space.

"I don't want to spend another $900,000," Mirisch said. "I feel the money in general could be better spent for parks and new green space.

According to the proposal, construction would have plausibly begun July 2010 and completed July 2011.

"We're just waiting for further direction from the Council and hoping that they'll reconsider it when the conditions are a little bit better," O'Krent said.

ICIL CONSENTS CHAMBER'S FUNDING REQUEST

City says they have 120 days to strike a deal By Amanda Renner

Furthering its split from the Conference and Visitors Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce asked the City Council for funding to aid in the transition to self sustainability. In a consensus in its June 2 study session, the Council recommended the funding not exceed two quarterly payments of $75,000 each.

"I think that this is an equitable agreement for the city and the chamber and hopefully you'll get on your feet and be totally functional," Mayor Nancy Krasne said.

This decision follows the Council's May 13 deferment of decision for the Chamber's funding request. The Chamber since met with the Council Liaison Committee to explore options on how to offset the cost burden to the City.

Aside from the Chamber's reserve funds, it will be using its building as collateral.

Chamber of Commerce President Dan Walsh said some of the Chamber's activities have exceeded its income.

"The cities support will temporarily cover that until we can construct a real estate transaction," Walsh said.

Essentially, the City would be making payments towards acquiring the building with the future goal of constructing parking at its 239 South Beverly Drive location. The chamber would then move to a yet-to-be-determined location.

"We have to construct a satisfactory real estate transaction that's good for everyone," Walsh said.

Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors member Bruce Schulman said the agreement will move the Chamber forward, without putting liability on the city.

What we've decided to do is ask for the interim funding totally secured by the real estate while we're negotiating to come up with an option for the Council for the city to buy the property," Schulman said.

If a business deal for the City to buy the building cannot be made in the next 90 to 120 days, the Chamber is expected to repay the City, in full with interest.

"I believe this is a reasonable business deal," Councilmember Barry Brucker said. "Again it puts no dollars amiss with the city at this time and in the end if the deal is worked out we get a hard asset that we actually need."

Brucker said if a deal is close to being made at the end of 120 days, an extension could be requested to close the

"We're optimistic," Walsh said. "But there is hard work ahead."
