“Update from Culver City” [Issue 515]

I want to thank you for the nice article about my return to the Westside. I am, indeed, happy to be back. I was worried when she asked me to name names, and somehow two very special people got left off the list when it got printed. I have been in regular contact with Linda Briskman and Fred Cunningham, and both were among the first to greet me upon my return. Beverly Hills has a big place in my heart, so I look forward to seeing all my friends.

Opportunity permit program

As a 30 year resident of Beverly Hills and a strong supporter of our school system, I am GREATLY offended that the Board of Education chooses to schedule a meeting on Opportunity Permits on Aug. 25, a time when families most affected by upcoming decisions are on vacation and unable to attend. It is an underhanded and despicable use of power to deliberately plan a meeting when not enough residents or permitted families are in town. Members of the Board of Education show no respect for the office to which they’ve been elected, no concern for democratic principals in our community and a complete disregard for the children who look to them to insure not only their education but their well-being.

I resent the unconscionable decision to “stir the pot” regarding Opportunity Permits at the Aug. 25 meeting and, with a resounding voice and with significant support from our community, I press that the Board of Education tables the discussion.

New Beverly High bell schedule to start in Sept.

Beverly High's newest bell schedule has been released and features changes including: 10 minute passing periods, 24 minute interventions and 7 a.m. start times for period one.

"It meets the state requirement," assistant superintendent of educational services, Ilene Straus said. "This is what we're going to start with, but things may evolve over time."

The intervention period, Straus said, was for all students, whether they are struggling or succeeding in classes.

The additional 24 minutes will be added on to the ends of classes and will be treated as class time. Straus said students will be required to stay for the intervention period.

"We wanted to make sure we knew where everybody was and that there was accountability for all students," Straus said.

Jennifer Tedford, assistant principal at BHHS, is facilitating a three day task force next week composed of a group of representatives from each department at the high school to decide how the intervention periods will be taught, Straus said.

"[The task force will] put together a plan for strategies, organization and best practices other high schools are using [for intervention periods]," Straus said.

The following week, the department representatives will train the teachers in each department in the intervention procedures.

Tedford did not return phone calls by press time. Principal J. Guidetti was on vacation.

Straus said the 7 a.m. start for period one is not a major change, because the year before last it was the same.

"It depends on student needs, on what schedule students take and whether they went to summer school or plan to go to summer school," Straus said. "But it's definitely an option for students who need a longer day."

Despite school starting Sept. 2., Straus said a clearer plan for the bell schedule will be presented to the Board of Education in early Sept.

Mortimer replaces Plotkin as interim chief business official

Superintendent Jerry Gross said the Board of Education hired Gary Mortimer to replace Cheryl Plotkin, who took a position in the Montebello School District, until the district decides when and how to fill her position.

Mortimer was previously BHUSD superintendent of business from roughly 2003 to 2005, Gross said.

"I know him from Conejo Valley and he was there with me for quite a few years, I hired him up there as a CBO and he was hired by my wife [supt.] Gwen [Gross] when he was CBO here for a period of time," Gross said.

Feral cat ordinance adopted

After extensive public input at Tuesday's City Council meeting, the City Council continued the ordinance for the feeding, and trapping, neutering and releasing of feral cats in Beverly Hills until Sept. 1, when the first reading will take place.

"We've seen two very diverse sides [of the feral cat issue] and they've managed to achieve something that is almost a workable solution," Councilmember John Mirisch said.

The ordinance covers everything from the requirements to be allowed to feed, and trap, neuter and release feral cats, as well as the time a day each can be performed.

According to a staff report, organizations or individuals who want to do either must obtain a permit from the city. Once obtained, permit holders must report the number of cats trapped, adopted or any changes in feral cat colonies.

In addition to TNR permits, notices will be mailed to residents within a 150-foot radius of feeding and trapping locations.

While feeding and trapping times were not set in stone, feeding will be performed primarily during day times hours, and trapping during the evening.

Ethics Ordinance's "revolving door" provision not extended

Councilmember John Mirisch's request for consideration of extending the Ethic Ordinance's "revolving door" provision from 30 months to 48 was turned down 4-1 by the City Council at its study session Tuesday.

"My reasoning [for proposing the extension] is 48 months is the term for one council member," Mirisch said. "I felt that that was a more appropriate length of time."

The City has restricted the activities of former elected officials, planning commissioners and city officials since Oct. 2006.

It is in place to prevent those individuals from using their knowledge gained in office to advance their private interests for compensation.

Originally set for one year, it was later extended to two years, then finally to 30 months.

"I believe we have a tough ordinance at 30 months," Councilmember Willie Brien said. "I think it achieves what its intent is."

Mayor Nancy Krasne said since the last amendments to the ordinance were made recently, she would like to give it time to produce results.

"[The Council can] come back in about six or eight months and look at it and readress it if any one is interested," Krasne said.

Community chips in to keep library running

Recent budget cuts in the City have forced the Beverly Hills Public Library to cut some of its services, such as its homebound service to Beverly Hills shut ins, senior services at the library at Roxbury Park and its historical collections.

To help keep programs running, the library accepted more than $28,000 worth of donations from community organizations at the City Council's Tuesday study session meeting.

"Some of these programs were very difficult to lose so we sort of cast about looking to the community and our friends in the community and god bless people in this community, they came forward and volunteered to help some of these programs continue," Nancy Hunt-Coffey, assistant director of community services for the library, said.

Donations were made by the following organizations to help the following services:

- $22,070 from the Friends of the Library to support homebound and pickup services
- $3,000 from the Rotary Club to support the historical collections
- $2,000 from the Samuel Goldwyn Foundation to support the collection of materials at the senior library at Roxbury Park
- $575 from the friends and family of Barbara Sadoff to refinish the chairs in the children's area of the library
- $924 from miscellaneous donors for furnishings in the children's area at the library and the senior library at Roxbury

Cats And Night Clubs

A tale of two cities

By Rudy Cole

Watching two council meetings on successive days, Monday in West Hollywood and Tuesday in Beverly Hills, provided an interesting lesson, not only in governance and process, but the level of community involvement.

Neither meeting was actually typical, certainly not in Beverly Hills. How often does our city council wrestle, for over four hours, with the feeding and care of feral cats? In West Hollywood, the session was dominated by appeals and protests on approval of a private club, right on our border.

What made the West Hollywood meeting unique was the appearance of three members of our council leading a charge against the private club application.

Let's begin with the care and feeding of homeless felines, called feral cats.

It really began when the City of Beverly Hills brought a criminal action against resident Katherine Varjian for the then illegal feeding of cats.

That action prompted a march on city hall by cat lovers, frankly most of them, with a few notable exceptions, not residents of the city. But even before the council decided to adopt new rules and regulations on cat feeding, the court action against Varjian was stayed.

Why was she cited? Our codes simply prohibit public supply of food to any animals, including cats; the argument being that this encourages and supports non-owner animals from proliferating in our city. The gendarmes didn't simply swoop down on our resident animal lover, there were numerous warnings and efforts to abate prior to the filing of a complaint by our city prosecutor. Incidentally, prosecution of code violations are handled by a consulting law firm, not our city attorney and they are highly competent, professional and sensitive to community standards.

After who knows how many hours of staff study, an ordinance was brought forward that would regulate feeding, provide for neutering through the "capture" of the feral cats in, hopefully, humane traps. Not unexpectedly, Councilmember Dr. Willie Brien did enormous research on the feral cat issue and provided considerable background on how feral cat challenges were being met elsewhere.

At the same time, the council majority also insisted that homeowners have the option not to permit any capturing for neutering anywhere near their property. According to those who supported the neutering process, the cats would be brought back to the same location where they had been found.

There is actually a "Feral Cat Coalition" based in San Diego that provides education and assistance in dealing with homeless cats.

Frankly, I can't honestly say I have seen that many homeless cats in our city, although

I'm sure they are here. However, feeding them did create a "colony" around the food supply places and did not really help in abatement. The proposed council ordinance would address that by regulation and control.

It would be simplistic to now wonder why, with all the serious problems facing our nation and our community, we would spend this much time and energy on this issue. But I understand the passion for animal rights protection; I just hope the same people are as involved in solving the needs of humans who are homeless.

I have become a cat lover. We were devastated when we lost one of our Scottish Fold earlier this year. Cats are independent, very mysterious and a far more challenging pet than your neighborhood poodle and it takes far more effort to relate. Our newest member, Golda Meir, another Scottish Fold, has attitude. She rules.

One side note: A cat defender at the council hearing complained that there had been no coverage of this story in the "local newspapers." Of course, there was, but the irony is that the animal rights activist, the formidable Marsha Hobbs, a Courier executive, also spoke at the hearing and her publication had a front page story on the Varjian arrest on July 24.

Doesn't anyone other than me read the Courier?

Another slightly more significant problem the hearings unveiled was the condition of the city's alleys. Several residents, and councilmembers, discussed the presence of rats in our alleys, of coyotes coming closer and closer to non-hillside residential areas and the dangers this posed to pets and human health concerns.

This challenge, of cleaner alleys and more efficient trash collection, needs considerable study and action. I would welcome some comments from readers about conditions in their areas on both coyote sightings, stray animal feeding and better sanitation maintenance of the city alleys.

Which brings us back to West Hollywood. The issue de jour was the approval of a private club, and Monday night their council chambers were packed with almost the same number of interested parties as our cat hearing.

The private club seeking approval to operate at Doheny and Wilshire in the old Luckman Plaza is the highly prestigious SoHo group that runs similar clubs in New York, Florida, Berlin, and, of course, London.

We should be appreciative of the appearance of three members of our council who trekked to West Hollywood to support neighbor opposition. Mayor Nancy Krasne and Councilmembers John Mirisch and Barry Brucker were all forceful in their presentations.

The first problem really was that of the SoHo applicants in totally failing to bring their case to our city and to the club's neighbors who abut the project.

Countless Beverly Hills residents felt understandably threatened by what they perceived as a "night club" next to their homes. Of course, that is not what is being proposed, it is a very exclusive private club, and the controls the West Hollywood City Council placed on the project make it almost impossible for this to parallel other night spots in West Hollywood that, had one been placed so close to Beverly Hills homes, would have seriously impacted residents quality of life.

Why SoHo didn't reach out to Beverly Hills neighbors, why they made no effort to appear at our council meetings is, at best puzzling. They just might have limited opposition to what may well be a boon, not only for West Hollywood, but Beverly Hills too.

Understandably, the West Hollywood City Council, wasn't all that thrilled by the intervention of their colleagues from Beverly Hills, although all three made it clear they were appearing as individuals.

Now, West Hollywood Councilmember John Heilman, one of the most intellectually stimulating and charismatic politicians around, leveled a blast at our city that was really amusing, although that was not his intent.

Heilman said he found it insulting that three members of the Beverly Hills City Council would come to protest a project in West Hollywood when Beverly Hills was approving so many mammoth projects such as "the huge condo and hotel development at Wilshire and Santa Monica" and also was so eager to invite name celebrities to our city, something West Hollywood hopes will expand with SoHo.

The irony here was not lost on our intrepid trio. Had Heilman done his usual careful research, he would have discovered that all three of the delegation from Beverly Hills opposed the Hilton project, that it was approved by a vote of the people and that it is not right up against a prime residential area, as is SoHo.

West Hollywood quite wisely adopted some conditions on the approval: If SoHo abandons the property; a successor user would have to return to the Planning Commission for approval of entitlements. It also limited hours of consumption of alcoholic beverages and approved many conditions that do protect

BOARD OF EDUCATION BOMBHELL

CHRISTIANSEN FIRED

Construction manager fired amidst charges of contractual irregularities

By Amanda Renner

The Beverly Hills Unified School District Board of Education announced Aug. 13 that it was canceling its construction contract with Strategic Concepts, LLC, effective immediately.

The bombshell announcement may have major ramifications for the upcoming Board of Education election.

The terse press release said “due to irregularities in the procedure for formation of the contracts between the District and Strategic Concepts, LLC, the contracts are not valid.”

At its Aug. 9, 2008 Board of Education meeting, at least three members were highly supportive of Karen Christiansen and renewed her contract, including Board President Nooshin Meshkaty, who is running for re-election in Nov., Myra Lurie and Myra Demeter, who announced she is not running for re-election in Nov. Board member Brian Goldberg voted no on the amendments and board member Steven Fenton abstained.

At the time, Demeter said Christiansen and her company, Strategic Concepts, were essential to the district and commended her for her work.

“We need Strategic Concepts,” Demeter said at the 2008 Board meeting. “There have been disappointments in the past with other organizations. She holds the people with whom she works to very high standards just as she holds herself to very high standards.”

According to the meeting’s minutes, Demeter said she “puts her entire confidence and support behind this contract with Strategic Concepts.”

Board member Myra Lurie added to Demeter’s support at the 2008 meeting.

“Strategic Concepts has done a wonderful job,” Lurie said in 2008. “In the past our District fell on its face, but since Strategic Concepts has taken over we have found creative ways to find millions and millions of grant dollars that no one else could ever find for us.”

The Board majority supported renewing Christiansen's contract in 2008.

At the same meeting, Board member Brian Goldberg said he was uneasy with the contract and wasn’t sure if it was right for the district or for Measure E, a $334 million bond that was approved last year.

“We go out to bid on many, many items, but we’re talking about a $334 million bond,” Goldberg said. “There will be a perception problem in our community of rushing to judgment on this.”

Lisa Fisch Korbato, one of four candidates in the Nov. 3 Board of Education election, said her hope is that the bond program will be restructured.

“It is $334 million and we don’t even have a master plan,” Korbato said. “We don’t even know if we need all $334 million, they came up with that price because that is the most we can ask for. I hope it [Measure E] is completely restructured and I hope we bring in professionals and excellent residents to help guide us and advise us.”

Korbato said the breaking of the contract adds one more issue to the campaign.

“I think that one more time we’re seeing an example of a poor leadership on the majority of the current school board,” Korbato said. “This is an example of what happens when you don’t have people who are qualified to make these hiring decisions, people who don’t demand excellence; strive for it and who don’t watch the money. And if you don’t watch the money, it goes up in smoke.”

Korbato said the way Christiansen was compensated for her work was careless.

“Why would you pay someone a percentage of everything they spend?” Korbato said. “That only gives them incentive to spend as much as they can as fast as they can. It’s counter intuitive; it doesn’t make sense from a practical business point of view.”

Strategic Concepts received 4.5 percent commission on the construction value of projects and 2 percent of the overall project budgets, which is considered extremely high in the industry.

Stuart Sam, director of facilities for the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District, said the way contracts are set up depend on individual school districts and whether the contract pertains to district employees or individual consultants.

“Every school district has their own requirements in terms of how they establish their contracts, and whether it’s based on a contract or based upon a work-to-hire for a certain amount of years,” Sam said.

Sam declined to comment on how the SMMUSD set up his contract.

According to the BHUSD Monthly Detail of Revenue and Expenditures, between March 1 and June 30 more than $2 million was spent on construction and architectural related expenses. Yet, with the relatively minor exception of the tearing down of the Annex Building at Horace Mann, no major projects were started during that time (see chart for details).

At time of termination, Christiansen was working on the schematics for the controversial new Beverly High administrative building, Building M.

Building M is part of the bond and was one of the first projects funded under the bond.

While some board members have supported Christiansen, others criticized her work and Building M.

In “Beverly’s proposed new building” [Issue 502] Councilmember John Mirisch, who is also a member of the Faculty Advisor Committee, said there are better ways to spend the district’s bond money.

“Unfortunately, it really seems like they’re just trying to find new ways to spend money,” Mirisch said. “There are much better uses of the bond funds, and my fears about Measure E seem to be validated by this initial proposal.”

In the same article, Goldberg said he wasn't sure if he supported Building M.

“I feel we are being pushed in a path that is an inevitable one,” Goldberg said.

Choral director Joel Pressman, a member of the FAC, questioned the motives of the projects' architects.

“We were given the agenda by the architects, and the drawings do not actively reflect discussions on the high school committee,” Pressman said.”

Mirisch said Monday despite not knowing the specifics he thinks it was an issue with how the bond money was determined to be spent.

Mirisch said this could present an opportunity to re-analyze the way the bond money is being spent.

“I would guess that this would be a signal that they should probably take a deep breath and start where they always should start, which is at the beginning,” Mirisch said.

Kelly Scott, a contract lawyer for Ervin Cohen and Jessup, said although the details of the situation have not been released, a lot of businesses are reviewing similar contracts.

“We're seeing a lot of vendor contracts being severed while people look for cheaper, more cost effective ways at getting the work done,” Scott said.

Scott said there are multiple considerations to look at when deciding if a lawsuit is appropriate from either party, including:

- Do they want to spoil relations with the company?
- Is there a possibility of working together at a later time?
- Was there a legitimate reason to terminate the contract?
- Was the contract valuable to begin with?

“This is America, so if you're asking me if there is a possibility of a lawsuit, I would have to say yes,” Scott said. “But you'd have to look at the situation.”

Meshkaty, Demeter and Fenton did not return phone calls seeking comment. Lurie was out of the country and unavailable.

Phone messages left at Strategic Concepts were not returned by press time.

“I'm not positive, but I assume they'll [the district] file a complaint against Strategic Concepts,” Goldberg said, but declined to comment further.

Marilyn Cleveland, BHUSD's attorney did not return phone calls by press time.

In relation to the campaign, Korbatov said Meshkaty has a lot of questions to answer.

“[Meshkaty] can't pretend that she didn't have a hand in these very bad choices,” Korbatov said. “She did, she put her hand up and voted. This is one more example of poor judgment on her part.”

Donald Paysinger To Be New Norman Football Coach

Team to begin practice Monday.

By Steven Herbert

Longtime assistant coach Donald Paysinger will be Beverly High's new football coach, pending expected approval from the Board of Education at Tuesday's meeting, according to Alex Cherniss, the Beverly Hills Unified School District's director of human resources.

Paysinger will succeed Carter Paysinger, an older brother, the team's coach since 1990 who was named as an assistant principal in the spring. Carter Paysinger has said he will continue to help call plays during games and develop game plans on weekends.

Donald Paysinger is a 1977 Beverly High graduate. He was Santa Monica High School's football coach from 1998 to 1999, guiding the Vikings to 2-8 records each season.

Donald Paysinger was also a graduate assistant coach at San Jose State and coached with the San Francisco 49ers during training camp in 2004 in connection with the National Football League's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program.

Donald Paysinger could not be reached for comment.

The Normans are scheduled to begin fall practice Monday and open their season Sept. 11 by playing host to Long Beach Jordan at Nickoll Field.

Girls' Basketball

Morgan Mason, Beverly High's first-team All-Southern Section Division II-A forward, is set to undergo surgery Monday to repair a torn anterior cruciate ligament in her right knee, coach John Braddell said.

More will be known about her availability for the 2009-2010 season after she begins her rehabilitation, Braddell said.

Mason sustained the injury in a July 18 game in the San Diego Classic, landing wrong on a breakaway layup in what assistant coach Charles Solomon described as "completely a freak accident."

Volleyball

While many of her fellow June Beverly High graduates are still enjoying their final commitment-free weeks before heading for college, Brianna Smith is in Bismark, N.D., practicing with her University of Mary teammates.

Practices began Aug. 9. Smith said college volleyball "is way different than high school because of the tempo" and "the talent is a lot better, which I really like."

"I love practicing with people that are better than me because it pushes me," said Smith, whose father Bill Smith is a long-time El Rodeo School physical education teacher and a former Norman boys' basketball and volleyball coach.

Smith said she is "playing with a team that loves playing volleyball. We work together. Everyone's committed, unlike club and the high school level."

The Marauders are scheduled to open the season Aug. 28 against the Academy of Art in the University of Alaska Anchorage Tournament.

Smith said she is "really, really excited," about going to Alaska.

"I know I never would have gone to Alaska if I didn't come here," Smith said. "I heard Alaska is really pretty, so hopefully we'll get to look at places and stuff."

Smith, who had been a middle blocker for the Normans and the Culver City Volleyball Club, is competing for playing time as both a right-side hitter and middle blocker, first-year coach Eric Snyder said.

Smith is "growing accustomed" to the new position, Snyder said.

"We're trying to get her to swing a little faster, jump a little higher," Snyder said. "As a freshman, we realize there's a learning curve involved, so we're just trying to make it better day by day. She's doing an excellent job."

"Brianna is the type of player that doesn't really complain about not playing. She's just there to help here teammates out and compete and hopefully earn a spot on the floor eventually."

Smith received a partial scholarship to play for the Marauders, a Division II program, drawing notice from Snyder after participating in a showcase for unsigned players in Las Vegas this winter, he said.

Snyder said he sent Smith an e-mail to determine her interest in the program. Smith then expressed interest and sent a tape of her play to Snyder, he said.

"We were impressed with her athleticism," Snyder said. "We think she has a very high ceiling [and] can improve a great deal because of that athleticism."

Smith's other traits that contributed to her being offered a partial scholarship included her "personality, the willingness to be open to change, the openness to wanting to work hard," Snyder said.

"After talking to other coaches who had come in contact with her, [they said], she was one of kids who basically if you asked her to run through a wall, she'd ask you how hard," Snyder said.

"She's very much a good person too. We just don't recruit good athletes, we recruit good people."

Smith said she chose to attend the University of Mary, which bills itself as a liberal arts Catholic college, in part because Snyder called her a lot during the recruiting process.

"It felt a lot more personable coming from him than the other coaches," Smith said.

Smith said she also considered attending New York City's Wagner College, which competes on the Division I level, San Francisco State University, where she would not have played volleyball, and a small school in Wisconsin which competes on the non-scholarship Division III level she did not name.

The University of Mary has an enrollment of nearly 2,900, including about 600 graduate students, a university official said.

"When I heard that it was that it was small, at first I was kind of worried," Smith said. "Then I started thinking about it and I think it's better for me so I can focus more. I just wanted to come to a school where I know I could focus on my studies and on my sports."

Smith, who had lived in the Los Angeles area for her entire life before college, said North Dakota is "a lot more quiet." "I think it's really pretty out here," said Smith, who is majoring in sports medicine and is hoping for a career in athletic training. "It's really green and I really like it. It's not as crazy and out of control as Los Angeles, so that part I really like."

neighbors. SoHo is a class act and will hopefully be a good and responsible neighbor, not only for its West Hollywood neighbors, but for Beverly Hills residents too.

Incidentally, a long-time resident of Beverly Hills, Arlen Andelson, who does live close to the site, spoke in support of SoHo, although most of our residents were opposed. There is a lesson here. Our two communities have shared interests and do cooperate effectively in the organization of Westside cities. But when there is a problem that directly impacts both city borders, some better understanding and cooperation, by both cities, would be productive. Worth mentioning: Good gavel wielding by Mayor Abbe Land who efficiently managed an emotion packed evening. You know Abbe for several reasons, including her long tenure. West Hollywood has no formal or informal rules on term limits, fortunately.

Historical note: Long before West Hollywood was incorporated as a city, the Sunset Boulevard area just east of Beverly Hills was zoned residential.

The late George Slaff told me the sad story of a couple from Iowa who had sold the farm and placed all their savings in a home they purchased in Beverly Hills. It was the last lot on the north side of Sunset before entering then Los Angeles County. This quiet, well maintained single family zone was their retirement dream. Imagine their shock when Los Angeles rezoned the land feet away commercial and a giant high rise was constructed next door! That was then and still is a sound argument for regional zoning impact considerations.

City Manager Rod Wood's retirement party Saturday night at the Hilton (see snapshot on page 2) was a feel good event, with one slight exception.

Not only did Beverly Hills city officials, including some with whom he had not served, pay tribute to Wood, but his "bosses" from other communities where he worked, also came to share in the event. There were some fine tributes, and we even survived one more inevitable poem from former Mayor MeraLee Goldman, who shared the reading with former Mayor Les Bronte, but one speaker needed a time clock. In fact, if you missed the dinner, you can probably still hear him, most of us left before he concluded and might still be at the Hilton.

Yes, he was a nice enough guy and Rod later explained that Marlon Marchiafava was his bible study partner, but his testy, attempted humorous insults about our village fell flat and he desperately needed a stop watch.

Best line of the evening: When Marion, at long last, finally finished, former Mayor Linda Briskman came to the podium and said; "You probably never thought you would be so glad to see me."

Also, but more brief appearances, were made by Councilmembers Jimmy Delshad and Barry Brucker, Police Chief David Snowden, Vern Hazen, representing the international city manager's association and some who appeared on a video.

We will miss Rod's effective management of our city, but his friend didn't have a prayer.

***

One of the most popular items in any newspaper is the "For the Record" column which corrects errors. Wednesday the Los Angeles

Times admitted to eight, including one that gave UCLA instead of USC credit for a free dental program,

Good lead-in to a couple in our local press. Last week this column brought Dick Van Dyke to the Roxbury Showcase program, however, it was really Dick Van Patten who served as m.c. But the Courier probably helped solve the county's homeless and unemployment problem with this interesting statistic: According to our big cousin competitor, 660,000 people in our county committed suicide in 2008! In a population of 10 million, they will be missed.

In any case, my apologies to both Dicks.
