"Our Board Endorsements" [Issue 526]

Corrections

Last week's article "Council Approves Ordinance for Lobbyist Badge Program" [Issue 526] stated that the ordinance does not apply to individuals who spend less than 20 percent of their time engaging in legislative advocacy. This, however, only applies to those working for a single employer. Furthermore, the ordinance does not require the city to install signage. City staff has only chosen to install signage and conduct outreach so potential lobbyists may be aware of the regulations.

Due to an editing error, councilmember John Mirisch was quoted saying the ordinance "will pave the way for local governments." Mirisch had said the ordinance "will pave the way for good local government."

quarter page each for endorsements of Lisa Korbatov and Jake Manaster. Your lack of enthusiasm for the two endorsees was clear, but your personal bias and animosity toward Ms. Meshkaty was overwhelming. You suggested insanity, hysterical (a word you would never use against a man), and linked her to "fellow Republican" Sarah Palin, an invidious comparison in Beverly Hills. You tied her to Myra Demeter and Myra Lurie with their "asinine legislation". You tied her to Barry Brucker who, to you, lacks "integrity", to say the least. You make it clear that you object to her attitude toward permitted children in the schools with the exception of permits of which you approve - children of faculty, staff, city employees, diversity persons (racial), and unknown others.

Against her, you use the term "biggest construction scandals in BHUSD history" on a matter in which the pleadings have only just been filed a couple of months ago. Without the benefit of a hearing, you have already tried, convicted and executed the alleged wrongdoers. It's a nightmarish twist to Gilbert & Sullivan.

You attack her for not submitting to your questions. When your personal prejudice and dislike of a particular individual is so patently clear, why on earth would that individual submit to your questions?

Korbatov, Manaster Elected; Meshkaty Defeated

Lisa Korbatov and Jake Manaster were elected to the two seats on the five-member Board of Education during Tuesday's election.

Korbatov came in first with 1,907 votes, followed closely by Manaster with 1,892 votes. Nooshin Meshkaty trailed behind with 1,567 votes, and Craig Davis received 458 votes. A total of 3,672 ballots were cast, or a 17.2 percent turnout of registered voters.

These totals are unofficial and do not include provisional ballots. However, the overall results are not expected to change.

The total number of absentee ballots will not be available until later today, said Eileen Shea, spokesperson for the Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk.

"We are ecstatic," said Chris Bushee, president of the Beverly Hills Education Association, which endorsed the two winning candidates. "We thank the community for having confidence in Lisa Korbatov and Jake Manaster. We believe that this now completes a cycle of change that started two years ago with the election of Steven Fenton and Brian Goldberg. We are very much looking forward to a new direction for our school district."

Manaster said he feels honored that the community has instilled their confidence in him, and looks forward to serving BHUSD.

When asked the first thing he will do once he takes a seat on the board early next month, Manaster said, "I'm going to whip out a giant bottle of glue. We need to fill some cracks."

The holes Korbatov wants to fill once she steps onto the board include tackling Measure E head-on.

"We've got a lot of money, and we have to figure out how to move forward with fiscal responsibility and transparency," Korbatov. "That's the first thing we need to focus on. [But] I'm overjoyed, and I'm humbled by the trust placed in me by our good residents in Beverly Hills. My hopes and aspirations are to serve with integrity and transparency and I hope, always, civility."

BEVERLY HILLS GENERAL PLAN Environmental Review/ Negative Declaration

Public Review Period: ITEM:

Friday, October 30, 2009 – Friday December 4, 2009 Amendments to the General Plan and Policy Update

Project Description: Amendment of the City of Beverly Hills General Plan Land Use, Open Space, Circulation, Conservation, Noise, Safety, and Seismic-Safety Elements (combined with the Safety Element); deletion of the Scenic Highway Element; and adoption of Public Services and Economic Sustainability Element policies and programs.

While the policy and program amendments apply to the City as a whole, they do not contemplate changes in development pattern, or changes in the pattern of land uses established in the existing general plan - including land use designations, development envelopes, street infrastructure, or increased traffic. Further, no development projects are contemplated at this time. Full copies of the amendments are available at the City's website: <www.beverlyhills.org/generalplan>, at the City's library, the permit center located on the first floor of City Hall and in the City Clerk's office located on the second floor of City Hall @ 455 North Rexford Drive.

Amendments included in this project reflect eight years of community participation, which began in 2002 with 200 community members participating in seven topic committees through a two year process of studying and analyzing issues affecting the City. The revised goals, policies, and programs included in the amendments were formed from the resulting general plan topic committee final reports. The topic committees focused on a broad range of factors and, at times, identified specific issues and remedies. To the greatest extent possible, Topic Committee recommendations were used to form the revised goals, policies and programs included in these amendments, however, it was not necessary to address all topic committee recommendations through the general plan and therefore recommendations that were better addressed through departmental procedures, capital improvements and other City documents have not been included.

Summary. Select elements of the general plan are being amended.

Land Use: Preserve neighborhoods, provide for existing and future residents and businesses and make efficient use of land and infrastructure. No change in land use or intensity of land or density is proposed.

Circulation: Provide safe and efficient roadway system. No changes to existing street and traffic pattern or standards are proposed (or contemplated).

Open Space: Protect open space, natural areas and significant wildlife and vegetation. Preserve historic and cultural resources.

Conservation: Conserve natural areas and resources; meet State requirements for resource conservation.

 $\underline{\mbox{Noise:}}$ Protect sensitive receptors from harmful levels of noise.

Safety: Residents and visitors protected from harmful exposure to hazardous materials; respond effectively to disasters. The existing Seismic Safety Element is integrated with the Safety Element.

Scenic Highway Element (To Be Deleted): No scenic highways designated in the City and no longer a State required Element. Element deleted.

Public Services (New Element): Adequate public services for all members of the community. Element is new.

Economic Sustainability (New Element): Resilient Business Community. Element is new. Implementation Programs: Revised and new programs are included that implement plan goals and policies.

United Way of Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake Counties, and served as the campaign chair in 2009. He has been an active member of Rotary Club for several years.

Kolin graduated from California State University, Long Beach with both a bachelor's and master's degree in sociology.

"Jeff is a seasoned veteran with an outstanding reputation who would bring to our city organization a tremendous record of executive leadership, professional accomplishment and integrity achieved throughout his career," said Beverly Hills Mayor Nancy Krasne. "He is an innovative and creative manager whose skills and principles would help guide our city organization and the Beverly Hills community as we move forward."

As city manager, Kolin would oversee a staff of more than 1,100 employees. His primary duties would include carrying out the priorities of the city council, hiring and supervising a staff through eight department heads, preparing a draft city budget every year and researching and making recommendations about important community issues.

Kolin's departure from Santa Rosa comes at a time when the city faces an $8 million shortfall in addition to its ongoing budget crisis.

Santa Rosa Mayor Susan Gorin said she was counting on Kolin's "wise stewardship" to alleviate poor budget conditions. Gorin, who also learned about Kolin's new Beverly Hills post on Tuesday, said she was not surprised he is planning on leaving the position.

Kolin has been married to his wife Patty for 27 years. They have two daughters, one of whom attends the University of California, Santa Barbara.

BHUSD Sees Hike in Resident Enrollment Despite Overall Drop

Despite a drop in total enrollment districtwide, the number of Beverly Hills residents enrolling in BHUSD has continued to increase.

This year, BHUSD enrolled 599 new residents, up 57 residents from last year. In 2007, there were 474 new residents enrolled.

BHUSD's out-of-district permit plan will determine the speed of dwindling enrollment, and how that may affect the number of teachers employed by the district.

BHUSD Director of Human Resources Dr. Alex Cherniss said the district's goal is to align enrollment with teachers. He added that the possibility of balancing the teacher-student ratio through natural retirements instead of layoffs to offset declining enrollment will depend on enrollment numbers and the district budget.

"We are still finalizing our budget," Cherniss said. "[So] we'll just have to see."

Board Fills Vacant District Office Administrative Position

In a 3-2 vote last week, Board of Education members approved filling the vacant district office administrator position once occupied by current Beverly Vista Assistant Principal Diane Mead's former position, the director of special projects and professional development, could have been absorbed, setting aside the extra funds for classrooms instead, said Beverly Hills Education Association President Chris Bushee.

A similar move was made when the district closed the coordinator of child welfare and attendance position formerly held by current Hawthorne Principal Toni Staser.

Board President Nooshin Meshkaty, Vice President Myra Lurie and member Myra Demeter all voted in favor of filling the position, while board members Steven Fenton and Brian Goldberg voted against it. The board selected Beverly High English teacher Christiane Elhabr to take over the administrative position.

Bushee said closing the administrative position would save at least $100,000 per year, which could go toward hiring more teachers in areas where there are large class sizes, purchasing more supplies and upgrading technology for students, or reducing the number of future layoffs that may result from worsening economic conditions.

BHUSD Director of Human Dr. Alex Cherniss said the position is categorically funded, includes many responsibilities that must be carried out, and therefore must be filled.

However, Bushee said categorical funds do not necessarily have to be used to fund the

"They could use [the money] in other ways," Bushee said. "There's no categorical money that says you must hire an administrator with this money. Since the economic crisis has gripped California, the state has loosened the restrictions on much of the categorical money, now allowing that money to be spent in other areas."

Goldberg could not be reached for comment.

Sam Delug, a prominent supporter of The American Friends of the Citizens Empowerment Center in Israel, hosted a cocktail and dessert reception at his Beverly Hills residence Monday, Oct. 26 with Knesset Member Major General, Deputy Minister of Defense Matan Vilnai as the guest speaker.

About 100 people were in attendance, including prominent community philanthropists, activists and members of the press.

Vilnai said during the reception that the main problem facing the Israeli government stems from too much talk and not enough action, adding that instability in the government results from the short-lived tenure of office in the current system.

"Parallel to the security problems that are the most important problems that we must deal with is the stability of the government," Vilnai said. "It's the main issue in Israel, and we have to do our utmost to change the system and to achieve the goals of the CECI."

The forum will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 10 from 7 pm to 9:30 pm in the West Hollywood Park Auditorium.

Beverly Vista organized "Pennies for Technology" Oct. 19-23 to raise money for school technology. The penny drive consisted of a grade vs. grade battle for the most pennies, which helped raise more than $2,300. In order to raise more money, other donations, such as nickels and quarters, were subtracted from each grade's total amount of pennies, the goal being to have the amount of pennies outweigh the amount of other coins. First-graders won the competition.

It took Beverly Hills firefighters nearly one hour to contain a fire at a two-story commercial building at 250 South Beverly Drive Monday, Nov. 2.

Barton said there were no injuries to civilians or firefighters. The cause of the fire is currently under investigation by both the Beverly Hills fire and police departments.

Election Hangovers

Will there be peace at last By Rudy Cole

Box scores of Tuesday's election? Teacher's Union 2, PTA 0 The Weekly 2, Courier 1

This column, one big loser, one small winner.

Attendance: "They (the voters) stayed at home."

It was a costly, bruising, nasty and divisive campaign, and the voters responded by simply not going to the polls

Not the first time, but considering all the effort by the candidates a less than 20 percent voter turnout is very troubling.

This was no cliff hanger. In many recent board elections, winners had to wait for days for a final tabulation. Two years ago, 20 votes made the difference. Tuesday, the incumbent, Nooshin Meshkaty, was crushed by her two opponents.

First place, however, was very close, with Lisa Korbatov edging Jake Manaster by a mere 15 votes. In the last board race, Steven Fenton ran first: 800 votes ahead of the second place winner.

Are there some clear messages in this election and what will it mean to our schools and the community?

First, a nod to my publisher, Josh Gross. Although we sharply disagreed on the candidates and on many education issues, his endorsement of Lisa Korbatov clearly gave her the impetus for not only winning, but placing first. This in no way distracts from her hard work, her winning performance in the debate and her anti-incumbent driven issues. If anything, Korbatov was the only candidate who made it very clear: She was running against Nooshin and the board majority. (No more boys versus girls line-

This is the second election in a row where Gross and a Weekly-backed candidate pulled an upset victory. In the last council race, with three anti-council majority contenders, the Weekly backing of John Mirisch pulled him out of the alsoran pack. Voters who wanted to cast a ballot for someone other than the incumbent might have split their vote more evenly had Gross not identified the most likely challenger.

Mirisch's strong showing at the forums and his impressive hard driving campaign, his family ties to the community and his youthful energy and appearance, of course, were also factors. But Josh anointed Mirisch instead of Richard Stone or Virginia Maas, and it gave John the edge.

There were other winners and losers: Board member Steven Fenton, who publicly backed Lisa Korbatov, and his ally on almost all board matters, Dr. Brian David Goldberg, who although not publicly endorsing, worked hard for Korbatov, overcame the usually highly successful Councilmember Barry and Sue Brucker's machine

However, in this election Barry was very distracted by his responsibilities as a councilmember, including his leadership role in the selection of the new city manager.

As for the Courier, although I really admire publisher Clif Smith's willingness to stick by his ultra-conservative, Republican, anti-Democratic editorials in the middle of a liberal, Democratic majority community, eventually his endorsements for local office become too toxic for most voters. His support of Meshkaty did not work for her and his attacks on Korbatov turned out to be a plus. In fairness, I also supported the same candidates, but for far different reasons.

In an interview before the results were announced, Korbatov lashed out at those who criticized her lack of involvement in PTA. She pointed out that there are many other ways to contribute without being active in the Parent-Teacher association, and she does have a long list of community and charitable credits.

But that does beg the question: Where were the PTA moms in this election?

Meshkaty really came out of that organization to leadership in the community and eventually, election to the board. Although no one ran against her and Dr. Myra Demeter who was seeking a second term four years ago, it was still an election, just not a campaign.

PTA and PTSA (the "S" was added to the high school organization because students are eligible to join,) do not make endorsements. But this should not mean a lack of involvement by members and leaders for candidates who support their education ideals. As just one example, in the highly complex issue of whether teachers should be required to give test papers to students, Meshkaty sided with parents and drew the ire of the teachers and their union.

At the very least, parent groups should mount get out the vote drives and registration of voters efforts.

For many years, the Beverly Hills Education Association (teacher's union,) now very ably led by Chris Bushee, was also a toothless tiger. Four years ago they had an electoral endorsement success by backing Steven Fenton and Brian David Goldberg. But they bombed when they entered city politics and opposed Barry Brucker for city council; He ran first. Their record in other board elections was also seldom decisive.

This year they put shoe leather to the candidates they endorsed and walked and worked hard for Korbatov and Manaster.

Although I have many differences with the union and often find their methods too confrontational and divisive, and in this they are far from alone, I do support their absolute right to endorse.

Another newspaper was critical of the union's involvement, but traditionally it has long been an accepted part of our elections and, yes, we know there could be conflicts because those they support will vote on their contracts, but who doesn't have some conflict in any and all of our elections.

One of my colleagues said that the voter turnout "was not that bad." If we are prepared to accept less than 20 percent of eligible voters casting a ballot as a success, this election was no worse and not much better than other recent contests. But that should not be acceptable.

There are some possible explanations for voter reaction to the election:

First, the recent turmoil on the board simply turned many people off. It may be that there was a "plague on all their houses" syndrome and that no incumbent, not just Meshkaty, would not have had problems wining this year.

Was the Persian identification an issue? Yes, there are still lingering ugly racist generalizations out there, but they have diminished through the years.

It does trouble me when citizens of our community forget how intolerant this city once was against their predecessors when they too became strangers in a new village. There was the also complex matter of Nooshin not being Jewish, although she and her family strongly identify with the Jewish community and are loyal supporters of the State of Israel. Of course, none of that should have mattered as a negative.

However, for our district and for the large Persian student population, it was a positive to have an Iranian on the board. Did the Persian community understand this and did they turn out for Nooshin? Their vote percentages were just as low as the non-Persian voters.

Back to the new board: Well, it won't be the 'girls against the boys" the guys now probably have a female on their side. I say probably, because on many issues Korbatov is likely to be very independent.

Jake Manaster brings an entirely different kind of leadership to the board. He was the most conciliatory candidate, carefully avoiding being caught up in the most contentious board issues and trying to form a broadly based election campaign coalition. Like Mirisch, he was very smooth at the forums, is an attractive looking contender and he came prepared.

This board needs to find far better means of communicating with each other; civility and mutual respect would also help. Certainly, with two new members, that is more likely to happen, but it takes five people to make a resolution or start a ruckus. The community will be watching.

Individually, it will be a very skilled board, as it has been. The issues and personality conflicts just were too divisive. Although Korbatov is the least known board member, she could, if she chooses, be the catalyst to bring the board together. With Meshkaty gone, only Myra Lurie is a holdover of the time when there was total unity and agreement. The departure of John Millan, Alissa Roston, Dr. Myra Demeter and now Meshkaty changed the board dynamics. Although it is easy to define Lurie as now out of the majority, her very excellent people skills, her board experience and her legal training will continue as a board asset. There is a caveat:

"My Choices for Board" [Issue 526]

I do not endorse candidates for School Board, although anyone reading Rudy Cole's article last week would assume I did. One candidate (after asking permission) used a complimentary quote from a thank you note I sent. It was listed in an ad with a "this is what people say about the candidate" perspective. The ad did not say I endorsed anyone. I had one conversation with Rudy Cole this year, in which I thanked him for saying nice things about all five members of our seemingly dysfunctional school board, rather than joining in the recent name-calling. He took no notes. My own teachers' union reps know that I oppose endorsing or opposing the people we have to work with, yet somehow Mr. Cole has ignored my public statements on that subject.

If Mr. Cole wants to put words into my mouth, he should have the courtesy to check them out first. All the other bold-faced names he lists as supporting this particular candidate are listed in her latest ad as supporters. I am not, whatever my personal opinion is about the various candidates. The reputation and credibility I have worked hard to establish were misused by Mr. Cole in his opinion piece.

Someone at Beverly Hills Weekly owes me an apology. Sadly, it will arrive after people have read Mr. Cole's article and the election has taken place.

Joel D. Pressman, Chairperson Beverly Hills High School Performing Arts Department

Rudy Cole responds:

Only the facts, please: Pressman wrote a letter praising and supporting Nooshin Meskaty which was used, with his permission, in her official campaign literature. Is he so naive as to believe this was not helping her campaign? He makes much of the word support, which I used, and the meaning of endorsed, which I did not. Fortunately, he teaches music and not grammar. As for my "not taking notes" when we spoke at a social event, he was too full of praise for my column, and quoting him would have been embarrassing —

She will heed the election results and in the battle between Steven Fenton and Barry Brucker, Fenton won. (Lurie was a strong Meshkaty backer and is a close associate and friend of Brucker's)

Backing up slightly, consider all the problems any incumbent would have had in this election; Eight superintendents in 10 years, major law suits involving school consultants, the lingering anger at Beverly Vista over the "firing" of principal Irene Stern, the highly divisive out of district permit conflict, the personal attacks on board members and community displeasure with board in-fighting, and I wonder if any incumbent could have won.

Finally, a vote of appreciation to Nooshin Meshkaty for her years of service to our schools. She is not a glib debater, and that hurt her candidacy, but she is very effective as a leader and very dedicated to public education. Whether or not you

"Council Approves Ordinance for Lobbyist Badge Program" [Issue 526]

One of the most active Beverly Hills lobbyists, Harvey Englander, complained in the other Beverly Hills newspaper last week that "it's a sad day for freedom of speech" with respect to the new lobbyist ordinance. This new ordinance requires all lobbyists to wear a lobbyist badge while representing others at City Hall.

However, wearing a lobbyist badge does not limit anyone's right to freedom of speech. The badge merely tells our city officials and the public who is not speaking for free, but rather who is being paid by special interests to try to influence City officials.

If Mr. Englander is so concerned about not being able to speak out, why didn't he at least attend last week's City Council meeting to oppose the new lobbyist badges? Not one lobbyist bothered to come to the council meeting. Is this because no one was willing to pay them to attend?

Lastly, one resident last week had a great idea. Why doesn't our city charge for the new lobbyist badges so that the city can also enjoy some of the monies being paid to influence city officials?

Larry Larson Beverly Hills

Harvey Englander responds:

I have always been a strong proponent of lobbyist registration and disclosure and have made it a point, unlike Mr. Larson, to fully disclose who my clients are in Beverly Hills and elsewhere.

Interestingly, Mr. Larson's associate Thomas White speaks at city council meetings on a routine basis (something I have never done). He represents an organization that collects dues, but he has never filed a financial disclosure documenting reimbursements or compensation. I hope that in the future he both wears his badge and documents who is paying him. This should hold true for all speakers who represent organizations that receive dues and are active in government affairs in the city. They all come with agendas that serve agreed with her position on school issues, she will be missed.

Later, we will also recognize and evaluate the contribution of retiring school board member Dr. Myra Demeter. We have had our differences and she can be very abrasive, but I have never doubted her integrity, ability or her dedication to the kids.

For now, congratulations to the winners and let's get on with the job: Doing it for the kids and keeping it civil and together.

their special constituencies. That is what "lobbyists" do.

During the "No on H" campaign, it was eventually disclosed that Mr. Larson received funds for his work in that campaign. We hope that under the new law, Mr. Larson will now be more forthcoming.

This city's other newspaper misrepresented my experience with the city council. I have never spoken at a public meeting on behalf of a project or issue. I have attended numerous meetings for the purpose of gathering information, but that is the extent of my presence. I have also attended meetings as a Beverly Hills resident to receive information where I had no client interest. My question is, would I have to wear a label to listen? Can I take it off when that agenda item is done? Who is going to be the hall monitor and will there be scheduled bathroom breaks?

The council's appropriate action should have been to force everyone whose organization receives compensation through dues or fees to disclose that compensation, and it should be appropriate that any speaker who decides to make a comment at a public meeting to disclose if they are representing an organization or client. I fully support disclosure. But wearing badges smacks too much of a Nazi state for me - and I am shocked that it didn't for the four members of the council who voted to make Beverly Hills citizens wear them.

Late Loss Imperils BHHS Football Playoff Hopes

Normans to face Morningside Friday night. By Steven Herbert

The Beverly High football team's quest The other came in 2006 when injuries to reach the Southern Section playoffs for the fifth consecutive season suffered a major setback Friday night with their second consecutive late loss.

The Normans' 22-14 loss to Inglewood at Nickoll Field dropped their record in Ocean League play to 1-2, falling a game behind the Sentinels and Santa Monica in the race for one of the league's final two automatic playoff spots behind leagueleading Culver City.

The Sentinels (5-3, 2-1 in league play) broke a 14-14 tie with about a minute to play on Shashaun Alexander's 68-yard touchdown pass to Derrick Woods with about one minute to play.

Inglewood took possession after Beverly Hills turned the ball over on downs following two penalties and a fourth-down incomplete pass.

"We didn't finish the game," Normans coach Donald Paysinger said. "We didn't play 48 minutes."

When asked why, Paysinger responded, "I don't know. We just didn't do it."

Paysinger said Beverly Hills lost because "we didn't execute down the line. We didn't execute the last three or four minutes of the game. We had the ball with a couple of minutes to go in the game and we didn't complete the deal. We didn't execute."The Sentinels tied the score on Jonathon Dewitt's 87-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

Paysinger said the two long touchdowns were the result of breakdowns in the Norman defense.

The defensive breakdowns are "a huge concern," Paysinger said.

"The same thing happened against Santa Monica, same player, same situation," Paysinger said, referring to a 28-27 loss Oct. 23 when the Vikings scored the winning touchdown with 32.8 seconds on a 22-yard touchdown pass on a fourth-down and 21 yards to go play.

Beverly Hills (4-4) opened the scoring in the first quarter on Josh Newman's 21-yard touchdown pass to Daniel Bradbury.

The Sentinels tied the score on Dewitt's eight-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. The Normans took a 14-7 lead later in the quarter on Newman's 61-yard pass to Cameron Countryman.

Bradbury, running back Frank Brown and Countryman drew praise from Paysinger for their play on offense. Defensive end Greg Townsend also drew praise from Paysinger.

The loss was Beverly Hills' second in its 18 games against Inglewood since 1985. forced the Normans to play their thirdstring quarterback during much of a 20-0

The Normans' playoff hopes essentially rest on how they fare in their final two games - Friday night against Morningside and Nov. 13 against Culver City - and Inglewood's results against Santa Monica Friday night and Morningside Nov. 13.

Friday's Santa Monica-Inglewood game will decide who will be in second place entering the final week of the regular sea-

The Normans would finish ahead of the Sentinels with victories in their final two games and two losses by Inglewood. However, that would require a feat Beverly Hills has been unable to accomplish since 2001, a victory over Culver City.

"We need a lot of breaks," Paysinger said. "It makes no difference if we don't Paysinger described the Monarchs as a fast team.

"We're going to have to contain their running game and we have to minimize our penalties and turnovers," Paysinger said.

The two teams have two common opponents, Santa Monica and winless Hawthorne. Morningside lost to Santa Monica, 35-21, Oct. 16, seven days before the Normans lost to the Vikings, 28-27. Beverly Hills defeated Hawthorne, 35-13, Oct. 16, while the Monarchs defeated the Cougars, 30-6, Friday night.

The Normans' hopes of extending their long streak of at least sharing league championships essentially ended Oct. 22 with their second loss of the season to the Vikings on games after both teams won nine sets.

Beverly Hills got sweeps from its No. 1 singles player, Brianna Morgan, and its No. 1 doubles team of Allison Isaacman and Allison Lee in the Ocean League match at Santa Monica.

However the Normans got just three victories in 12 sets from its other two singles players, Megan Margolin and Amanda Zalameda, and its other two doubles teams, Nicole Levy and Hillary Monroy and Megan McMurray and Sydney Segal.

Beverly Hills led 7-5 on sets and 55-48 entering the final round. Morgan completed her sweep with her third 6-0 victory, while the Isaacman-Lee team won 6-3, but Santa Monica won the other two singles sets, 6-0 and 6-1, other two doubles sets, 6-1 and 6-0 for the victory.

The Normans led 4-2 at the end of the first round, getting victories from Morgan (6-0), Margolin (7-5) in singles play and the Isaacman-Lee (6-3) and McMurray-Segal (6-4) doubles teams.

Both teams won three sets in the second round, with Morgan (6-0), Zalameda (6-4) and the Isaacman-Lee team (6-2) getting the victories for Beverly Hills.

"It was a very successful match," Beverly Hills coach Marla Weiss said. "The nice thing about what's happening right now is that our team is staying at a high level when we're playing weaker teams, which is important because very often we tend to lower our level when we're playing lower-quality teams."

COVERSTORY A WALK THROUGH THE PARK

The Weekly's exclusive interview with new Recreation and Parks Commission Chair Jill Collins

By Kimberly Cheng

What is the Recreation and Parks Commission doing now?

There are so many projects we're working on right now. I'm really in support of creating and implementing a gifting program, which I have been working on for the last four or five years, where people could donate things such as benches or trees or plants or whatever, whether it's small or large. People feel funny gifting to a city, but if they know it's like a 501(c)(3) and that it can actually go toward something, and they can take their friends to go look at in the city and say, "I gifted that bench" or "I gifted that tree." People like to give, and they like to share what they have. We're just waiting on the city to get their 501(c)(3), which I hope is soon.

We had a big controversy recently about the community centers, and all of those projects are on hold right now. And the big new one is going to be the gateway projects into our city because we don't have any real gateways. So we've been working on that, and we just got approval for the first gateway, which will be on Wilshire coming east over by the high school. We're meeting with the designers and city council to get going on designating our gateways, and [the] fine arts [commission] has been interested in that too.

What is your goal as commission chair?

For me, I would like to start connecting the dots a little bit more. You get so much more done as a group than you do as an individual. All of the commissions interact with each other and affect each other. Sometimes I feel like each commission has blinders on, and one thing that would affect the next commission isn't really discussed with the next commission, and it's just acted upon. I think a classic example of this was the parking situation on Park Way recently, where it was given to traffic and parking, the issue about taking the meters away from Park Way after 8 [pm]. It's a park, and yes, it affects the churches, but it also affects the park. It was brought to us and we unanimously said no. The park belongs to the park and the residents.

Another one is the fine arts commission. There's no interaction between the purchase and the placing in the park, so if there's an issue with a piece of art placed in the park, it hasn't really been screened by the appropriate commissions. It's just so many other issues, and it's not all cut and dry within the community. Most of us are advisory committees, and we only advise to the best of our ability, so wouldn't you want the most information you can get when you're advising on an issue?

What other activities are you involved with?

I'm part of the ad hoc committee to meet with Friends of Greystone. I'm on the teen advisory committee, and I, again, connected the dots, and we're going to have an advisor from the teen advisory committee sit on Friends of Greystone because Greystone is a public asset. I'm part of the Beverly Hills Women's Club, and we now have a junior membership because who's going to take over when we're no longer there? It's all about passing it on and helping our kids understand why it's important to take care of our community. It doesn't stop and end with us.

I'm on the board of [Robinson Gardens, the Historical Society, Greystone, Beverly Hills Women's Club and the Maple Counseling Center]. I help to raise funds to maintain the buildings and the programs that we offer there. We have a lot of community outreach, and we do a lot of charity work at the different organizations.

I started something with Shana Epstein, [utilities services manager at the public works department], called Water Wasters Watch that

We have no preservation order in the city. I just feel like we need to protect the past and present it to the future.

I run in the community. And I e-mail her and say, "This person is watering during the day," and if it's constant then they go and check it out. You have to take responsibility for what happens within the community. I do it as a resident. I feel responsible when I'm running and seeing people watering during the off hours, and they have no idea. I talk to gardeners, and

I ring doorbells just because it really annoys

It offers so much to the community and we are advancing so much in the development of Greystone. The catering kitchen probably is being started as we speak. It will be more accessible to the public with the heating and plumbing and catering and to be able to rent it out and to have events inside as well as outside, which we have now for the weddings. To me, it's our Hearst Castle of Beverly hills.

There's nothing else like it. The craftsmanship and workmanship of the house will never be

We now have third graders from our schools going up there having field trips to learn about the history of our city. In our community, we really don't pay much attention to the history of our city. I [taught] a class at Hawthorne for a few years about art and architecture and the community. It was amazing how much [the kids] got into it. You learn about your community, and then you hopefully have pride for your community when you know more about it. Greystone and Robinson

Gardens provide that for the kids. They can go and see something that existed since the 20s.

Tell us about Greystone.

How did you get involved with the Recreation and Parks Commission?

I was really involved with Greystone back in 1995. I just started being involved in the city. There's not much that I'm not a part of. Therefore over the years, between Greystone and the Historical Society and Maple Counseling Center and whatever else I became involved in, recreation and parks just seemed a natural fit because it was about community. It covers so much. It's our buildings, it's our parks, it's sports, it's active adults, it's programs that go on in our city. There's almost nothing that recreation and parks doesn't touch

And I wanted my daughter to grow up and know her neighbors and know her city.

Beverly Hills is really small compared to L.A. or surrounding neighborhoods, and it just makes it so much nicer when you can walk into city hall, the library or a restaurant, and you know somebody. And you have a connection, and I think that's given [my daughter] a sense of pride too, and she's very involved with the Maple Counseling Center as I am. We're both on the board. That's another thing I started. [I wanted to] get some teens active with that because the Maple Counseling Center serves Beverly Hills High. And Jason Bellet, who has been on for two years, [is] graduating this year [and] he's going to pass that on to somebody else when he leaves.

Who do you interact with while serving on the commission?

Susan Rosen, who's president of Friends of Greystone. I work with all the commissioners. We all interact on some advisory committee. We all have our strength and weaknesses. So between Kathi Rothner, Alan Block, Michael Blumenfeld and myself, we all are kind of on at least one other committee together that meets outside of the commission. And we're pretty much all on the same page, to be honest. We defer to each other when we know that someone knows more than us, and we ask questions when we don't.

Tell us about your daughter, Lily.

She's an actress, [and] she's 20 [years-old]. She has a movie coming out Nov. 20 called The Blind Side with Sandra Bullock and Tim McGraw. She plays Sandra bullock and Tim McGraw's daughter, Collins. It's a true story. It is her first movie. She's working on another film too. It's called Priest, due out next year. [It's with] Paul Bettany, Cam Gigandet, Stephen Moyer and Karl Urban.

[Lily] is on the board [of the Maple Counseling Center], and she developed a program along with Jason Bellet called "Talk More, Create Connections," and she was honored last year for her work. She's been around the community for years helping out. Whatever I'm on, she's been there for. She's been writing for magazines for years, and she's the host on nickelodeon for a show called Hollywood Hang. She did a little bit of [the modeling thing] but it's really not what [she wanted to do]. She's kind of past that. It wasn't really her thing, but she needed to try it

Tell us about living in England.

It was a long time ago. [Lily and I] have been back since 1995. I was there for 15 years, but I grew up here in Bel Air, and my father had a business in Beverly Hills. We're in the middle of the countryside in England. It's farmland, so it's very different. We [still] have a house there. We go for the summers, [and] we're starting to go back Christmas time too. It's really cold.

What's your next step?

I'm not in it for any hidden agenda at all. I really like living here, and I guess I want everyone to be like me and really care about their community and appreciate where we live. The big thing about being a caretaker of our community is that we don't have to be idealistic, but we can be realistic in our goals. If we don't create community, it's not going to happen.
