"Day in the Life of Peet's Coffee" [Issue 543]

Peet's on South Beverly Drive, from slow local business to a thriving public company, with celebrity customers, movie deal discussions, workers landing their first national acting gigs, entertainment writers filling the tables, online dating meetings, families growing up, couples breaking up - all within the confines of a local Beverly Hills business.

A thousand stories to tell, yet all we read in the article is cleaning spills, locker rooms, a visiting Asian worker, a Persian man ordering a drink, and giving a reporter some tea.

It's the extended living room of the neighborhood residents, a bustling conference room for area businesses. You can tell the current economic bubble by overhearing the conversations from neighboring tables, from tech stocks to flipping real estate.

"Starbucks and Coffee Bean declined the invitation for a profile story." Good for them. Anyhow, that declaration is more appropriate for political investigations.

"Around the Village" [Issue 542] Dear Rudy.

You've obviously missed the point of my letter to the Weekly, but first let me address three items you raised in your response:

1. With all due respect, you may be too old to realize this, but the word "teabagger" DOES have a sexual connotation. (See http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Teabagger for background on the term.) Furthermore, I have never heard it used in the context of an act between a man and a woman, so I completely stand by my original characterization of the word

2. Your allusion to former Idaho Senator Larry Craig's arrest is not even germane to the argument of my letter, but again, YOU raised the issue, so I will simply say that for every Republican like Mark Foley or Larry Craig, there is a Democrat like Gerry Studds or Barney Frank (who were involved in scandals with other men)

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Barney_Frank http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gerry Studds

Regardless, I COULD NOT CARE LESS if all 535 Senators and Congressman were gay or not!

3. You say that "this guy worries me". Please don't worry Rudy; I promise I'm okay. My mind is still lithe and not yet fossilized.

Anyway, the point of my letter to the editor was that, instead of resorting to reason or logical argument, you just use the "scarlet letter". I analogize it to a hit-and-run driver. Instead, perhaps you could at least stop and explain why you think what you think. (In the Tea Party case, what was your evidence for the extremist label?)

Goldman Case Dismissed; Appellate Court Rules Oasis West Must Pay Attorney Fees

The lawsuit filed by Oasis West Realty LLC, owner of The Beverly Hilton, against Southwest Homeowners President and attorney Ken Goldman was dismissed by the Los Angeles Court of Appeals yesterday.

The court further ruled Oasis West, chaired by Beverly Hilton owner Beny Alagem, must pay Goldman's attorney fees.

Goldman and his firm, Reid Smith LLP, had appealed the ruling after a judge denied his motion to dismiss the lawsuit because it infringed on his constitutional right of free speech under the "Strategic Lawsuits Against Public Participation" statue. Oasis West sued Goldman and his firm for malpractice for a minimum of $4 million in damages, alleging legal malpractice based on breach of the duties of loyalty and confidentiality.

Oasis West had hired Goldman and his firm from 2004 through 2006 to obtain approvals from Beverly Hills for the hotel's revitalization plan "Measure H." After terminating his work for Oasis West, Goldman appeared at public hearings in the city and solicited signatures to overturn the city council's approval of the project.

The trial court ruled at that time that Goldman acted unethically by first representing his client on a matter he later attempted to defeat.

"It's very good to have the court validate completely what I did," Goldman said. "It's one thing to be named in a lawsuit. It's another thing to have your ethics challenged when you've lived your whole life 100 percent ethically. I must say it's caused some sleepless nights. So it's all very good to read this decision."

Dirk Vincent, Goldman's attorney, said he was confident in Goldman's case from the beginning.

"We were always confident that Ken Goldman's activities related to the Hilton project amounted to protected free speech and petitioning activity and that he did not breach any fiduciary duty owed to Oasis West," said Goldman's attorney, Dirk Vincent. "The court of appeals' opinion vindicates Ken Goldman's conduct, as well as the wide support he received in the Beverly Hills community."

Beverly Hills Chileans React to Earthquake

As the death toll nears 1,000 following the 8.8-magnitude earthquake that hit Chile on Feb. 27, Beverly Hills Chileans have found it difficult to reach family and friends living in the country.

Monte Leon resident Henry Mannheim, who knows about 20 people from Chile living in Beverly Hills, said problems with electricity have thinned out communication lines, though his inbox has been flooded with e-mail messages from high school friends.

"Most of these people [in Beverly Hills] have been calling, contacting friends who live there," he said.

Mannheim said most of his Beverly Hills comrades were not surprised when news of the quake, one of the strongest ever recorded in the notoriously seismically-active country, broke. He was, however, troubled by the location of the quake's epicenter.

"I am so used to it," Mannheim said. "We know this kind of thing happened before, and it will happen again. But when I heard the epicenter was in Santiago, I was a little concerned."

Mannheim said Chile and its people are remarkably "well-prepared" for earthquakes, with the country's infrastructure being "seismically constructed."

"I haven't heard of anyone who's been injured," said Mannheim, who has been living in Beverly Hills for about 40 years. "The people know what to do, to go outside or get under a table."

More than 90 aftershocks have been recorded since Saturday's quake. In Concepción, the country's second largest city, the army has issued a "silence" order on some urban blocks so rescue workers can hear the possible tapping of survivors under the rubble.

The majority of Chile's more than 700 deaths resulted from the temblor-generated tsunami waves that crashed into coastal towns like Constitución, where 350 people were killed.

Chile's earthquake was 700 to 800 times stronger than Haiti's 7.0-magnitude earthquake, which claimed more than 200,000 lives on Jan. 12.

Superintendent Search Firms Give Presentations at Board Meeting

BHUSD took one step toward finding the district's next superintendent at the Board of Education study session meeting Tuesday, March 2.

The board reviewed presentations by four search firms, including Hazard, Young, Attea & Associates, Ltd., Gary Kaplan & Associates, Dave Long & Associates and Morris & Berger.

Both Hazard, Young, Attea & Associates, a national search firm, and Dave Long & Associates, a California-based search firm, have historically performed superintendent searches. Gary Kaplan & Associates and Morris & Berger have experience in higher education and nonprofit organizations, the latter of which has also worked with private schools.

"I'm still digesting all of the information I was presented last night," said Board President Steven Fenton. "And I'm hopeful that we will have a decision made by our March 11 meeting. That would give us three months to complete this process and bring somebody in before the end of the school year."

Board member Brian Goldberg said the board did not make a decision on or discuss the potential hiring of the four firms.

"I thought the presentations were good," Goldberg said. "I appreciate the variety of perspectives that were presented, but I feel we need to look at additional firms as well."

Fenton said he is looking for someone who understands BHUSD and the Beverly Hills community.

"I'm looking for a very aggressive and forward-thinking search firm that has the ability to cast a very wide net in terms of bringing credible applicants to the table,"

Alanna Drasin Face of American Apparel Robertson Billboard

Alanna Drasin has made it big. Billboard-sized big.

In one year, she has accomplished what many full-time models have yet to see - their faces on billboards and buses worldwide.

As a model for American Apparel, Drasin's image can be seen on the side of buses in Los Angeles and Tokyo, on billboards in Las Vegas and taxicabs in New York, as well as in the company's stores.

The Beverly High Class of 2009 graduate started her modeling "hobby" after an open call for American Apparel in November 2008 piqued her interest.

"I was selected from a group of around 500 people that showed up," Drasin said. "I wanted to try it out, but since then, I've done other things besides American Apparel. Mostly for smaller clothing brands and working for photographers for their portfolios. I'm not with an agency."

Drasin has also walked the runway for Los Angeles Fashion Week. Her next goal will be to participate in New York Fashion Week.

"I really want to continue [modeling], especially being in Boston," Drasin said. "You're very close to New York. I hope to make it down to New York and possibly go there this summer to intern at Teen Vogue and do print modeling."

Drasin is studying political science at Brandeis University. She said she hopes to go on to law school and work toward a career in international law or as a political advisor.

"The AP-level history classes [at Beverly] really prepared me for Brandeis," Drasin said. "The nice environment that Beverly provides encourages people to do a bunch of different things. You don't have to stick to one extracurricular activity."

Drasin - who was a part of the Beverly High Minnesingers and worked on a political commentary show on KBEV - is determined to fit the well-rounded mold.

New Modeling Agency Seeks to Employ, Celebrate Senior Citizens

Margaret Lauderdale-Barnes, who is "proudly" in her 60s, wants to empower those over 50, and is looking for mature, sophisticated seniors to join her modeling and talent agency, JustAskkme.

"This company is driven to provide seniors the opportunity to display their photos in an arena that is competitive," Lauderdale-Barnes said. "These seniors delineate sophistication, elegance and assured beauty that the years have accentuated."

Lauderdale-Barnes started the company three years ago after attending her son's concert. Her son, who goes by the stage name Mowie Hypnosis, is the lead dancer for Madonna. Lauderdale-Barnes noticed at the concert many older women in the audience, as well as an older woman in a video.

Her son and daughter, Ja-Sada, who is studying to become an attorney, encouraged her to launch the agency, which now manages a diverse group of clients by finding jobs for them in commercials, movies and videos.

"I see myself as bold and beautiful, and there are many senior citizens with pride and dignity who deserve their chance," said Lauderdale-Barnes, adding that she believes there is a demand. "Agencies may have one mature model and 3,000 young ones.

One of her current clients is a former backup dancer for Sammy Davis, Jr.

A former model herself who will soon receive her master's degree in sociology from Cal State Dominguez Hills, Lauderdale-Barnes said she is fulfilling a dream.

"A lot of us in our age group have unrested dreams," she said. "In our younger years, we put our dreams on hold to take care of our families. But because you postpone, you don't forget. My clients and I are fulfilling a dream "

Lauderdale-Barnes said physical appearance doesn't matter; she is seeking all types of models. Interested people can apply at the Web site, www.justaskkme.com or by fax or mail.

Those accepted will receive a contract, Lauderdale-Barnes' representation and a photo shoot at the company's Los Angeles office with hair, makeup and wardrobe stylists.

Lauderdale-Barnes, who said she would like to see a senior version of Project Runway, is also seeking names of those interested in creating fashion lines for seniors.

The agency is receiving an overwhelming number of calls. An orientation conference will be held at the Marriott Hotel in Marina del Rey. Please call to make your reservations at (310) 538-8903.

Time Capsule Discovered in Historic Beverly Hills Post Office

Beverly Hills Mayor Nancy Krasne and board members of the Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts unveiled a 1933 time capsule yesterday, discovered in the cornerstone of the historic Beverly Hills Post Office building.

The building is part of the Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts major preservation and new construction project. A groundbreaking ceremony will be held March 11. The historic site will be transformed into a performing arts venue serving Beverly Hills and greater Los Angeles. A new time capsule will be installed sometime during the next two years of construction.

In attendance at the unveiling were Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts Board President Richard Rozenzweig, Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Dan Walsh, Chamber Chairman Jim Jahant and Historian Marc Wanamaker.

The capsule, a copper box measuring about the size of a shoe box, contained a collection of documents indicative of the economic, sociopolitical and cultural climate of the nation in 1933, including notable stories and headlines in several historic Beverly Hills publications, movie reviews and photographs of actors during that time, a three-cent postage stamp, business cards from local businesses and a typed program from the cornerstone and time capsule dedication ceremony.

The time capsule and its full contents will be displayed briefly during the official groundbreaking ceremony Thursday, March 11, and will be returned shortly for display at the city's public library.

"We were ecstatic to discover this piece of rich history, left for us by an earlier generation," said Rozenzweig. "So many of the stories, especially those regarding recovery efforts — the Community Chests, the Homeowners Loan Corporation — reminds us that our nation's current struggles are ones that we have overcome in the past, and gives up hope as we enter the future."

Fenton said. "I think too often we put ourselves in a box, and I think we need to be open-minded to traditional and nontraditional candidates alike."

Goldberg said of the four, he was more impressed by Morris & Berger.

"They have a lot of experience placing people in some very prestigious private schools and top universities, including most of the UC's [and] USC," Goldberg said. "I was very impressed with the list of private schools they had worked with. And they kind of break the mold. I'm not looking to repeat the same patterns that have yielded us nine superintendents in 11 years. I'm really looking to go outside the box and bring fresh perspectives into the district."

Goldberg said though he hopes the board will decide on a firm by the end of the month, and bring in a superintendent by July 1, he doesn't want to "restrict [himself] with an artificial timeline," focusing instead on bringing in highly qualified candidates.

"I know it's difficult with all our busy schedules, but we need to set aside additional study sessions with additional firms, and have that conversation about what we're looking for in a superintendent," Goldberg said. "It's very difficult to make a good decision in a vacuum. Right now, I have no idea what my colleagues are looking for. That's a recipe for disaster. We cannot afford to screw this up."

Update from the Beverly Hills Lexus Dealership on Wilshire

A project review for the Lexus Expansion Project on 9230 Wilshire Blvd. was presented to the Planning Commission at its recent meeting.

The original proposal for the project included tearing down the current building on Wilshire Blvd. and constructing a 150,000 square foot, five-story facility, which would house a showroom, two levels of service, 201 parking spaces and room for office and lounge areas.

If approved, the revised plans would eliminate the fifth story of the facility, add one level of subterranean parking and include 220 parking spaces. The final revised plan has yet to be submitted by the applicant, Mitchell Dawson, a property law attorney representing Jim Falk Lexus.

David Reyes, the city's principal planner, said he is expecting the final revised plan

People and Courage

And once around the village By Rudy Cole

Governor Nancy? Our sometimes offthe-wall, even quirky mayor has had something happen during her watch that the mayors of few cities, including Los Angeles, and even Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger and President Barack Obama could not achieve: a balanced budget.

At the end of this fiscal year, city budget experts have projected a small surplus! Only about $14,000, so let's not rush out to fund a second city hall, but a small fiscal miracle.

True, much of the credit for this fiscal frugality goes to the financial staff, led by Dr. Scott Miller, former city manager Rod Wood, every single department head who made deep cuts in their agencies, and her colleagues on the council, however Mayor Nancy Krasne ran the city through the "belt tightening" months and led the reality checks on city services and programs..

Another factor is the upturn in local retail sales, which were much higher than first projected. Neither we nor the nation are yet out of the recession, but during Mayor Krasne's watch, basic city services, including critical police and fire protection, have remained among the best in the nation.

Mayor Krasne had a full plate of major contentious issues during her term. She deserves commendations for coming prepared, speaking her mind without regard to political consequences, and always keeping council meetings interesting if, sometimes, too drama-laced.

Incoming Mayor Jimmy Delshad will have a hard act to follow. Unlike the school board, the council mayoral rotations are without personality clashes or political agendas. When it is your term, you become mayor even if you are clearly in the minority on many civic matters.

Councilmember Barry Brucker will be the next vice mayor and then, in order of seniority or place in the election, will be Dr. Willie Brien and John Mirisch.

Big kudos to the Human Relations Commission for gaining city council approval of their proposed "civility code" for candidates in city elections.

The problem is usually not found in mailers or newspaper ads or even at forums, but the ubiquitous e-mailings to "friends" and supporters. This is a whole area of campaigning that needs study. Legal requirements for disclosure of campaign expenses and contributions have not yet touched the new tools on the internet, but should, in the interests of more transparency and accountability, be included and regulated with the same safeguards of free speech protection of other election materials. Equally important should be more disclosure of who pays for the automatic phone calls to voters that too often muddy our campaigns.

Noah Furie, a likely candidate for council, immediately embraced the civility rules of conduct, calling them an important step in helping make our campaigns more focused on qualifications and issues and not so-called dirty, smear campaigns that have little to do with the merits of the contenders.

Is having a Beverly Hills float in the Rose Parade a good idea and a wise use of city resources?

It sounded, at first, like a good plan, but not for the obvious reasons: more attention for the brand — Beverly Hills.

Participation may be good if it really becomes a communitywide project. If we can find the way to involve both residents and businesses leaders and volunteers in a civic-pride project, it has great merit.

However, if only a very few people are involved and there is no outreach, it raises doubts on broad civic support and, more important, who really benefits.

First, any project whose primary objective is to promote the name Beverly Hills becomes totally suspect. Do we really think anyone attending or watching the parade hasn't heard of our city? What we need are promotions that tell our story and provide reasons for people to visit us and shop, dine and stay in our hotels.

I can understand why Duarte, Cerritos and Dick Van Patten's "Natural Balance Pet Foods" enter floats: back in Fostoria, Ohio those "brands' are unknown. But trust me; even in Toledo, they have a vision of Beverly Hills.

Lastly, costs: If this is going to fly, it should be totally, not partially, funded by the private sector. Those expenses could be significant. Although the entry fees are modest, the floats themselves can exceed $200,000.

If the Rose Bowl committee makes a real effort at exciting and attracting the people of our village, and the community sees this as a people project, great. If not, there are reasons why past councils have said no to the parade that promotes Pasadena.

Quick Takes: our new state senator, Fran Pavley, is doing good work in reaching out to the people in her district. Sen. Pavley is holding a districtwide forum on the state budget on Friday, March 12 at Fiesta Hall in West Hollywood's Plummer Park from 10 a.m. to noon. For more information: 310.314.5214.

Hard to visit a supermarket without encountering our own Wolfgang Puck's name on everything from soups to, well not nuts, but salads and sandwiches.

Now our best known food guru will put his name on a new dining experience at the new Los Angeles Ritz Carlton, named WP 24. Puck says he is excited about being part of the renewal of downtown Los Angeles and LA Live.

Luckily for us, he still visits every table at Spago each lunch day. Maybe put that information on the Rose Parade float.

And speaking of hotels, the Dalai Lama made a Beverly Hills choice: He checked into our great Montage Beverly Hills Hotel where he also received the inaugural Whole Child Humanitarian Award at an award gala. (He is also a winner of the Nobel Prize for peace in 1989 and has reigned since 1950)

The organization does outstanding work in raising awareness of the plight of institutionalized children throughout the world. The hotel has its own award to show: in precedent setting record time, it has been awarded the top five-star rating from Forbes.

Other hotels: Although I haven't actually been there, according to people who have, the new night club at the Beverly Hilton called "Bar 210" and a lounge named "Plush" have had some quick success.

Located in most of the space once occupied by Trader Vic's, this may help with the renewal of our once viable night life. More details on entertainment and dining later.

within two weeks.

"We've been preparing a draft environmental impact report," Reyes said. "We have not finished that to release it for public view. We're going to hold on our review until we get the revised plan."

According to the city's staff report, the revised plan also proposed an alley vacation and a zone change of the existing R-4, or multiresidential, lot behind the building.

"The concept of the new project would be 'all under one roof," Dawson said. "Meaning we're going to get everything done within one building. We just need a deeper building to accommodate all our functions in one building from the front of Wilshire to the back. We're asking to have the alley vacated and have the building become one building to include the vacated alley and 60 percent of the R-4 lot behind it."

Dawson said there would be a 20-foot landscape buffer between the building and the nearby residential area. The portion of the R-4 lot would be used for parking. A rough draft of the plan was presented to planning commissioners.

"The response was they like the changes we made, but wanted more specifics," Dawson said. "We're going to address those issues with them."

Issues raised by the commission included the use of the southern most portion of the building in terms of how noise levels would affect the residential neighborhood.

Dawson said Lexus believes noise attenuation studies that will be presented to the commission will show no noise issues.

"Lexus is perfecting its application to meet the needs of the neighborhood, community and the Planning Commission and has and will continue to reach out to members of the neighborhood and community," Dawson said.

Once the final revised plan is submitted to the city, it will take anywhere from one to two months to complete the draft of the environmental impact report. A formal 45-day review period will then take place to "allow the public to comment on the adequacy of the EIR and be sure we've studied all environmental impacts appropriately," Reyes Development Committee luncheon yesterday, and I can report that he really, really likes our village.

Sometimes, it does help to have someone new remind us of how much of what we accept routinely is so superior compared to other cities.

However, late last Tuesday, Kolin experienced one of the most bizarre and incredible city council meetings in our history, and trust me, we have had some that defied reason, but never like Tuesday's.

The agenda item was itself strange. It was an appeal from a staff decision relating to a supposed remodeling of a house on Loma Vista. The property owner took a dispute with staff to the council, his right, of course, but hardly ever done before.

Aside from the complicated issues involved, and probably worth examining at another time, the crux of the appeal was the work of the city's staff at arriving at a decision that the project was in violation of city codes.

said. "Then we'll go back to the Planning Commission and have a formal public hearing and notices in newspapers."

Construction for the project will last approximately one year.

Vice Mayor Jimmy Delshad resides within 500 feet of the project site, said Cheryl Friedling, city spokesperson.

"As a result, he has declined meetings to discuss or review the project, and he will be recusing himself from all planning, policy decisions or votes in the future of the project," she said.

BookEnds Believe in Kids 2010 Scrabble Challenge will be held Thursday, March 11 from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at The Mark on 9320 West Pico Blvd. to honor the organization's two millionth book and thousands of young volunteers.

Feuer Announces Legislation Restricting Health Insurance Rate Increases to Once Per Year

Assemblymember Mike Feuer (D-Los Angeles) announced Assembly Bill 2042 Thursday, Feb.25 aimed at prohibiting health insurers from raising rates more than once per year.

"If health insurers begin to raise their rates briefs cont. on page 9 So, what happened? For the first time in our history, witnesses who spoke at the hearing were required to take the oath. Wait, it gets better. When some of those who had worked on the project for the owner were asked to step forward and answer questions, their lawyer refused to permit them to testify even though they were in the council chamber.

How did the city react to this stonewalling? On the advice of assistant city attorney David Snow, the council voted to have subpoenas prepared for three possible owner-related witnesses.

The city has never, ever used the subpoena power and, of course, never before have city employees been asked to take an oath.

One councilmember asked what would happen if the subpoena was ignored. I can offer a play on names: If assistant city attorney David Snow is not successful, the reluctant witnesses could be dealing with Chief of Police David Snowden.

Side note: It is hardly ever necessary for city inspectors to appear at city council hearings, it is not within the scope of their usual assignments. But City Inspector Steve Tabor handled it quite well, if obviously uncomfortable.

A long-time Building and Safety staffer, Tabor is one of our best. A straight arrow, stick to the rules but always professional and courteous guy, he is very respected in and out of city government. I was also pleased with the support he received from his department bosses: David Yeltsin and George Chavez. They stepped up when they could have run and hid.

Rudy Cole served for eight years as a member and chair of the city's Recreation & Parks Commission. He was also President of the Greystone Foundation and served on three other city committees. Rudy can be reached at: Rudy@bhweekly.com.

Are you originally from Beverly Hills?

I moved to Beverly Hills when I was nine from Queens, New York. When I was nine, I went to Hillel Hebrew Academy until I went to Beverly Vista in eighth grade, and that's when I started in the BHUSD. Then I went to Beverly High. After that I went to USC and majored in psychology. When I finished USC, I worked at the UCLA psychiatric institute and did staff research doing Hamilton depression tests, doing research on eating disorders and obsessive compulsive disorders.

I grew up in Queens in an apartment, and I was an only child. Funnily enough, out of my bedroom window there was a neon sign of a deli that didn't have all of the letters. We moved from that to an apartment in Beverly Hills on Rexford, so I didn't really have the experience of what the stereotypical Beverly Hills is like, until I went to Beverly High and saw that there are different socioeconomic people who live in apartments like myself. So, for me it wasn't that much of a difference [moving from Queens to Beverly Hills] because I moved from the same sort of environment – except the weather was different and the pace of New York City and California is very, very different.

But it was a pretty quick adjustment for me because I made friends easily. As soon as I went to BV, my parents had moved to a small home on Maple, and everybody was great, and I immediately found friends and felt like Beverly Hills was my home.

How did you meet your husband, Jon?

While I was working at UCLA, I met Jon at the Jewish Federation. They used to have these parties for business and professional groups, and we met at one of the parties. We got engaged six months later, then we got married six months after that. It was a whirlwind. When I met Jon, I think we both knew right away that this is what we had always been looking for. So after knowing each other a year, we were married and then very shortly after, nine months after that, came Andrew, our first son. He started at Beverly Vista, so it was kind of full circle. Once he started at BV, that's when I got very involved with PTA and when I went on the board of BHEF.

[Jon is] a chief investment officer of a money management company called NWQ.

Tell us about your family

We have two boys, both of whom have gone through the Beverly Hills school system since they were little. Andrew is 20, and he's a junior at the University of Michigan. Adam is a senior at Beverly. He got in to the University of Michigan, so he's going to go there too this fall. So I'll have both of the boys there, which will be great for them to have each other.

Andrew is studying business and psychol-

School Musical," "17 Again," any of that because it brings me back to high school.

I have to say honestly that BHEF really shaped me into who I am. It helped reinforce my beliefs that anything is possible, [like] when I helped get that million-dollar donation from John and Ann Nickoll. Funny story is I met with him about getting the donation, and I had the worst cold. And the last thing you want to do when you're having a business meeting is meet someone with a red nose. He said, "Yes, I'm going to give a million dollars," and I said, "You know what, you have just found the cure for the common cold."

So from the John Nickoll donation to trying new events like the "walk for the school," there was so much teamwork and camaraderie and the feeling of family and the friendships that developed that, for me, feel like lifetime friendships.

Back when I was president, so much of it was I wanted to have fun in fundraising. I used to make everybody on the board do the wave. As soon as we sat down around the table, that was the first thing we would do, and I would start.

What I found from BHEF is not only do I think it shaped me, but when you look at our community now, so many of the leaders are from BHEF and have gone on to school board, city council and commissions. So it really, for me, was truly a life-changing experience that I love. My heart is always there.

ogy, and Adam, I believe, will be studying business. He's also considering law.

You were very active in BHEF in the 1990s. Tell us about that.

That was the time of my life. It started for me when I chaired their first Apple Ball. The person that was going to chair it kind of backed out at the last minute. Being that I was new to the board, I was one of the silly people that raised my hand and volunteered. So I chaired the first Apple Ball. Being an alum, there's a sense of how much you love the schools and love the high school. My boys tease me because I'm one of those people who loves any high school movie, "High

What made you want to transition into the planning commission?

I started from BHEF and was on the Traffic and Parking Commission and the Fine Art Commission, and I feel like I received so much from our community, and I feel like our community truly is a part of me. That it was a way I could feel like I was giving back. [The Planning Commission] is kind of the pulse of our community. Having grown up here and living in different parts of the city and having different experiences, once as a child living here and then as newly-married and then as a parent, I feel like I really have a good understanding of what it's like to live in our city. And I think the people that are on the Planning Commission, and all the commissions, all live here; we get it; we're the stakeholders. It's one thing when you have experts and people come, and they tell us how our city should be, but we're the ones who live here, and we know it, and anybody who is in [a position of] leadership in our community wants the same thing. We all want our city to be the best. We feel that it is. So it was just a natural progression of everything I've done. And I love it.

Take us through how a project gets approved by the planning commission.

An applicant meets with the planning department, and the staff determines if the issue needs planning commission approval. Often, it comes to us because it requires a review for code variations, for example, like a CR-1 permit, a variance, a conditional-use permit or a development plan review. So we're given a staff report, which provides us with the codes, the ordinances, the traffic impacts, architectural plans and letters of support or opposition based on what we're looking at. We even often do site visits to see what it is that's coming before us, and we take public comments. Upon serious deliberation and really sifting through all the information, we are able to make an informed, transparent and a well-thoughtout decision.

Who do serve with on the planning commission?

Nan Cole and Noah Furie, who funnily enough, served on the executive committee on BHEF. He and I served together on the Traffic and Parking Commission, so we've kind of had a lot of history behind us in terms of working together. Craig Corman and Dan Yukelson.

I feel that I am very lucky because everybody on our commission has tremendous skills. I feel that I am serving with the best and the brightest. Nan is a land-use attorney and is very even and deliberate and really kind of a no-nonsense type of person, who really is one of the smartest people I've ever known. Noah, as I said, we pretty much almost grew up together because he knew me when he served on my executive committee when I was president of BHEF. When I was on the Traffic and Parking Commission, I actually suggested to him that he apply for the Planning Commission. He is in finance and also extremely bright and brings a different perspective to the table. He is also going to be running for city council, [which] is what I've been told.

Craig Corman I actually knew in high school, and he was extremely smart, back then even. He is an attorney also and very fair and even minded and very smart. Dan Yukelson [is the executive vice president/chief financial officer] for Clear Channel, and he also gives a very fresh perspective, and is financially-oriented in terms of how he makes his decisions. And he's going to be the next vice chair on March 11.

Of all the commissions you could have chosen, why planning?

During my term on the planning commission, we completed part of the general plan and important projects in the community, such as the Annenberg Cultural Center, William Morris, the Hilton, 9900 [Wilshire Blvd.]. For me, it feels so gratifying to have a part in the cultural and visual quality of life of our city that I love so much. I drive by some of the homes and businesses that we spent countless hours and hours working on, and I feel so connected to their completion. It feels like you're giving birth to a baby. You feel a sense of pride and community ownership, and having spent all those years on traffic and parking, fine art, BHEF, I feel that I've received so much from the community that this just was the next place. I think also living in a city with the best schools, best fire and police and the friendships, sense of family and small-town feelings, it's a chance to give that back in a small way.

In recent years, the Planning Commission has been overturned by the council on a few key development projects. In your opinion, does that negate the work of the planning commission?

Absolutely not. First of all, we are an advisory board to the council so we are completely aware of that. We work many, many hours on all the projects we do, but we're an advisory board, and I think what ends up happening very often is the council might tweak certain elements of our decision. We're not supposed to factor in the financial implications to a project, and very often the city council needs to look at that item. And since it's not something we look at, we just at look it in terms of a land-use decision, we are very much aware that we are an advisory role.

Give us an idea of what's coming up in the next few months when you take over as chair March 11.

When the city began the process of updating the general plan a few years ago, I chaired Plan Day, and that was our first community outreach for the general plan. So, for me, this is coming full circle because we just completed Phase I of the general plan, goals and policies, and now we are about to embark on Phase II of the general plan, which will deal with land use and the housing element, as well as the Trousdale and Hillside View Preservation Ordinance. So those are coming before us right away.

What advice would you give to someone just getting involved with Beverly Hills?

This is going to be the time of their life, in terms of how they will feel the sense of multiple times per year when their subscribers aren't expecting an increase, cashstrapped families could be forced to give up their coverage," Feuer said. "This bill ensures that insurance companies won't be allowed to spring unexpected rate hikes on their customers."

Feuer announced the bill after the Assembly Health Committee held an oversight hearing examining the proposed rate increases of several health insurers. Earlier this year, Anthem Blue Cross informed its individual plan members not covered by employer-based or group policies that their monthly premiums would increase by as much as 39 percent Monday, March 1.

The company later agreed to hold off on the rate hike, which could affect as many as 800,000 individual policyholders in California, until May 1.

Since the beginning of the year, several other health insurers have raised their subscribers' premium rates in the 30 to 40 percent range.

"We've seen big increases time and time again, and now some health insurers want to hike rates more than once a year," said Anthony Wright, executive director of Health Access California, the statewide health care consumer advocacy coalition. "Enough is enough. Given the economic times, we can't let insurers jack up health premiums whenever they feel like it."

On the heels of Anthem's huge rate hike, Feuer and Assemblymember Dave Jones (D-Sacramento) introduced a far-reaching plan to establish a permanent rate review and approval process. Under AB 2578, health plans and insurers would be required to receive approval from the state for any rate increase charged to subscribers.

camaraderie and friendship and the sense of a small-town feeling that everybody is so open to welcoming people to be part of our community, to get involved in the schools, get involved in the PTAs, get involved in the city, in terms of Team Beverly Hills, going on a commission. There's so many ways [to get involved]. The city is so open to allowing people to feel like they're a part of our community.

What else are you involved in?

BHEF, as you know, and we are very involved with the Jewish Federation. Cedars-Sinai Hospital, Maple Counseling Center, Cystic Fibrosis.

Of all the ways you could give back, why have you chosen these projects?

Quite honestly, anybody who ever asks, I'll say yes. It's very hard for me to say no when anybody asks, but generally, in terms of the charities that we are most involved with, those are it primarily. I can't remember the last time I said no. I think the schools, first and foremost, are in my blood. It's who I am. From my own experience, as well as my kids, that was first and foremost.

What are some challenges to working on the Planning Commission?

To me, well, this isn't necessarily a challenge, but a goal of mine is that I want every person who comes to the commission to feel heard, listened to, and respected, and they walk away feeling that we took the time, that our decisions were fair and transparent. Very often when people come to the Planning Commission, there are times where you have oppositions, people on both sides of the issue. It's about trying to find a balance between our quality of life for our residents, as well as the importance of our businesses in our community.

What are your plans after you leave the commission?

Even when I leave the commission, much like BHEF, I never fully leave anywhere. I will still find a way to be involved in any way that I can for the schools and the city. My personal goal and what I would like to do is I would like to own a local Beverly Hills newspaper.

But one thing that life has taught me is to take chances and try things out of the box and be open to the possibilities that life brings. For me, I always believe that the best is happening right now, but I also think the best is yet to come.

BHHS Girls' Basketball Team Loses In Southern Section Semifinal

Norman spring sports teams set to begin seasons. By Steven Herbert

For the second consecutive season, the Beverly High girls' basketball team lost to perennial national power Santa Ana Mater Dei in the Southern Section 2-A playoffs, but proved to be far more competitive in 2010 than 2009, losing 80-63, Saturday night.

The Normans trailed the semifinal at Ocean View High School in Huntington Beach, 42-40, at halftime.

"We couldn't have played a better first half," Beverly Hills coach John Braddell said. "We did everything we practiced and everything we wanted to do.

"In the second half, we got tired, we stopped moving the ball on offense and just struggled to score. That was the key to the game — we just ran out of gas."

Braddell said running "out of gas" was a result of his team's lack of depth.

"We've done more conditioning than in the past," Braddell said. "It's tough to play a basketball game against a great team like them with five players. You get criticized for not subbing, but you go with what you have."

Mater Dei (27-1) was seeded first and ranked fourth in the nation by USA Today. The Monarchs defeated the Normans, 81-42, in the 2009 2-A Final.

When asked if he was satisfied with the result, Braddell responded, "I was very, very satisfied with the effort. The effort was fantastic. You're never satisfied with a loss. I wish we had played a little bit better in the third quarter to give us a chance in the fourth quarter."

Beverly Hills was outscored 25-12 in the third quarter. Mater Dei began the quarter with a 10-3 run, with junior guard Kaleena Mosqueda-Lewis scoring five of her 33 points. The Monarchs ended the quarter with Mosqueda-Lewis making back-to-back 3-point baskets and Jordan Adams completing the run with a basket.

The Normans led once, 1-0, then allowed the next six points, four by Mosqueda-Lewis. Mater Dei used a 7-0 run to increase its lead to 16-5, before the Normans scored eight unanswered points, on two 3-point baskets by Lisa Kliman and Chelsea Austin's lay-up, cutting the lead to 16-13 with one minute left in the first quarter.

Beverly Hills trailed 19-15 at the end of the first quarter, and allowed the first nine points of the second. Jaina Abdul-Mansour's 3-point basket began a 9-0 run that pulled Beverly Hills within three, 30-27, with 4:16 left in the second quarter.

The Normans tied the score, 35-35, with 2:45 remaining in the quarter, on two baskets by Austin and Miranda Abdul-Mansour's two free throws. Jaina Abdul-Mansour's third 3-point basket of the quarter with three seconds left in the half, cut the deficit to 42-40.

Austin led Beverly Hills (20-12) with 17 points and 11 rebounds. Kliman, who made two of her four 3-point baskets in the fourth quarter, added 16 points, Jaina Abdul-Mansour 14 points, Miranda Abdul-Mansour 10 while Natalie Moy had eight points and eight assists for the Normans.

Despite the loss, Beverly Hills remains a contender for a berth in the state playoffs, whose field will be announced Sunday. First-round games are scheduled for Monday.

Beverly Hills 52, Laguna Hills 51

Jaina Abdul-Mansour made a 3-point basket from behind the half-court line as time expired to give the Normans an improbable victory in a quarterfinal game Feb. 24 at Laguna Hills.

Beverly Hills had the opportunity for the regulation victory as Hawks guard Kaitlyn Shimazaki missed the back end of a one-andone and Austin grabbed the rebound.

"I didn't think we had much of a chance honestly," Braddell said. "We had diagramed what we wanted to do. It didn't work out exactly the way we diagramed it, but in the end it worked out better than we planned."

Austin was supposed to pass the ball to Miranda Abdul-Mansour, who was open, Braddell said.

Jaina Abdul-Mansour "made a crossover dribble, then two dribbles to half court and let it go," Braddell said.

"I looked at the trajectory and it looked like it had a chance," Braddell said. "It looked good, but I didn't know for sure whether it was going to go in."

Braddell said he "was so excited" he "didn't have any thoughts," immediately after the basket.

"It was disbelief actually that a game could end like that," Braddell said. "Then within 30 seconds just thinking of Laguna Hills, how bad I felt for them for losing a game in that fashion, but that's sports."

The Normans trailed 32-24 at halftime, then outscored the Hawks, 17-6 in the third quarter, as Miranda Abdul-Mansour scored 15 of her 23 points.

Beverly Hills was outscored 13-11 in the fourth quarter, as senior guard-forward Lauren Engeln, who has signed with Connecticut, scored nine of her 26 points, including a 3-point basket.

The Normans got 3-point baskets from Kliman and Miranda Abdul-Mansour in the fourth quarter, in addition to Jaina AbdulMansour's game-winning shot.

"The third quarter I thought we played extremely well, then we struggled a little bit in the fourth," Braddell said.

Beverly Hills was outscored 15-10 in the first quarter and 17-14 in the second.

"There was no continuity in the first half," Braddell said. "There were a lot of fouls called and became a real choppy game in the first half. We struggled."

Austin had 18 points and 15 rebounds. Kliman added six points on second- and fourth-quarter 3-point baskets and Jaina Abdul-Mansour five.

Girls' Soccer

Beverly Hills 1, Pasadena Westridge 0

Sophomore forward Tiffany Moore scored her fifth goal of the season with about four minutes to play in the second 10-minute overtime segment to give the Normans the victory in a Southern Section Division 3 wild card round playoff game Feb. 17 at Nickoll Field.

Moore stole the ball, then took a shot from about 25 yards that out hit the crossbar, then went off the back of Tiger goalkeeper Julia Klein into the net.

Beverly Hills freshman goalkeeper Kylie Colvin made four saves for her second shutout of the season.

An apparent goal for the Normans in the second half was disallowed by a rare off-theball foul while the ball was rolling into the net, Beverly Hills coach Ryan Franks said.

"We out out-possessed them and outplayed them, but we didn't finish, so it's kind of frustrating in that sense, but we did what we had to do," Franks said.

Defender Nicole Star "played exceptionally well," making lots of runs joining the attack, Franks said. Midfielder Solange Levy and Moore also drew praise from Franks.

Lakewood Mayfair 3, Beverly Hills 0

The Normans allowed two first-half goals to the Suburban League champion Monsoons in a first-round game Feb. 19 at Mayfair.

"We were physically out-matched," Franks said. "We got into their more rugged style of play, instead of playing our game which is on the ground because we're so small. We kind of got into their air game. We played into their hands."

Franks said he was disappointed by the loss, that ended his team's season with a 12-8-3 record, "but they were clearly the better team."

"We could have given them a closer match, but if we played they 10 times, they'd probably beat us every time, unless we get lucky," Franks said.

Star played "really well," including hitting the crossbar with a shot in the first half when Beverly Hills was down 2-0, while freshman forward Ashley Aviram "played pretty well," Franks said.

"She had a few opportunities," Franks said.

Boys' Basketball Righetti 72, Beverly Hills 61

The Normans led 34-33 at halftime, then their "defense got soft," and "we missed a lot of shots," during a third quarter when they were outscored, 22-10, in a Southern Section Division 2A first-round playoff game Feb. 17 at Righetti, Beverly Hills coach Derek Boldon said.

Boldon ended the use of the full-court after halftime "because they were running through that in the first half, so we played some half-court defense, but we weren't keeping them away from the basket that well."

"They were getting some dribble drive penetration, got a few easy shots and the next thing you know, they were off on a little run," Boldon said. "That was kind of the game."

Both teams scored 17 points in the fourth quarter.

The loss was "very disappointing because they were a team that we could compete with," Boldon said.

Beverly Hills trailed 18-13 at the end of the first quarter as Warriors 6-foot-5 senior center-forward Nick Saver scored 12 of his 33 points. Austin Mills led the Normans with five points, including a 3-point basket.

Beverly Hills outscored Righetti, 21-15, in the second quarter as Greg Townsend scored seven of his 15 points, Bo Abrams six of his 10 and Kian Alam and Farzan Azinkhan both made 3-point baskets.

Saver was the Warriors' top scorer in the third quarter with seven points, while J.D. Salutan made two 3-point baskets and Van Holloway one.

Austin Mills, Alam and Azinkhan each added nine points, Markus Silbiger four, Mike Pedram three, and Arie Watley-Anderson two for the Normans (13-15).

Righetti lost to Irvine University, 83-73, in a second-round game Feb. 19, concluding its season 21-6.

Girls' Water Polo

Beverly Hills 6, Torrance 4

Patty Salgado scored twice and Alli Friedman once in the third quarter to break a 3-3 halftime tie in the Ocean League tiebreaker Feb. 12 at the Victor E. Benstead Plunge in Torrance to determine the league's third and final automatic playoff team.

Friedman scored the tie-breaking goal with 5:05 left in the third quarter. Salgado scored 45 seconds later and again with 1:16 left in the quarter.

Alex Jett scored for the Tartars with 6:24 to play in the fourth quarter in what turned out to be the game's final goal.

The Normans (17-12) took a 2-1 lead on Salgado's goal 22 seconds into the second quarter. Torrance tied the score on Ariel Carrillo's goal with 4:26 left in the second quarter. Ava Rezai scored 22 seconds later, but the Tartars re-tied the score on Kristie Wand's goal with 56 seconds remaining in the quarter.

The first quarter ended in a 1-1 tie. Wand opened the scoring 1:17 into the game. Rezai scored with 2:56 left in the seven-minute quarter.

Lorrain Oill made seven saves and fellow Norman goaltender Agnes Rapala five.

Don't sell your life insurance policy until you know the

Alan L. Kaye, CLU, ChFC President

Most people over the age of 70, who want to sell their old insurance policies for more than their cash surrender value, are not getting the most money from their assets.

AVOID RISKS OF INSURANCE FINANCING STRATEGIES

Others, who expect to create "something from nothing", participate in insurance financing plans without having full knowledge of the chances they are taking. You can avoid these risks by becoming informed of established procedures and you won't make costly mistakes.

The Alan Kaye Insurance Agency is a leader in the field of insurance and estate planning. Now, as a wholly owned subsidiary of National Financial Partners, an NYSE company, they have expanded their resources to better provide the latest planning strategies. This is a particularly important resource when performing due-diligence on life insurance settlement companies.

THREE ESSENTIAL RULES THAT CAN PREVENT YOU FROM MAKING COSTLY DECISIONS

- Provide full and accurate descriptions of all offers relating to the sale of your policy.
- Acquire at least five offers from unrelated insurance purchasing companies.
- Complete background checks on potential purchasers to make sure they are financially and commercially acceptable firms to do business with.

ARE YOU COMPLETING A LIFE INSURANCE SETTLEMENT OR JUST SETTLING?

What kind of insurance professional is helping you sell your old life insurance policy? Are you dealing with a life settlement specialist? Are you represented by a licensed professional with E&O Insurance that covers life settlements? Has your agent explained the risks involved in financing your life insurance?

Call us today to find out what your insurance is really worth and we will help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy.
