"CPR Program"

I am a long-time resident of the City of Beverly Hills and have received a fundraiser appeal annually from Beverly Hills CPR. I must admit that I was surprised at receiving such an appeal a week or so ago in light of everything I knew from watching numerous city council meetings last year about the CPR program and its transformation.

This transformation included the elimination of the coordinator's position, which had been a city-funded position under the fire department budget. This was done during the budget process of last year. I was aware that there was a nonprofit board which had been responsible for raising funds to run all other aspects of the programs. I was aware that participants paid to take classes. And I knew from reading the prior appeals that the money raised annually from that appeal was used to purchase and donate automated external defibrillators to both public and private schools, as well as other worthy organizations. The purpose seemed very worthwhile.

I was surprised to receive the appeal now because I recall watching a council meeting where Fire Chief Timothy Scranton specifically appeared before the council and stated that "the baton had been passed" from the fire department to the CPR Board. I question the veracity of that statement when on the appeal, he and Battalion Chief Greg Barton are listed as fire department liaisons. Webster's dictionary defines a liaison as "a bond or connecting link." With this statement, I have to believe that the Beverly Hills CPR program is still connected to the fire department or that Chief Scranton and/or the board were less than candid with the council and especially so with the community.

In addition, I recall hearing at a council meeting that the city, under one of its programs, had given $50,000 as a grant to the Beverly Hills CPR program in order to assist them in hiring a coordinator and keep the program afloat after its separation from the city. After reviewing what their solicitation permit lists as their gross income from their last fundraiser with the infusion of this money, I fail to understand why they need to once again solicit money from the residents.

And finally, now they need the money to buy "instructional materials, manikin maintenance and to support the program for groups that do not have the means to take needed CPR and first aid courses." I would like to know how many people they have trained for free from the last fundraiser, which I believe was in February 2009, to the present time.

To summarize, as a resident, I feel entitled to an honest answer to my questions of the present connection between the Beverly Hills CPR program and the fire department and how many people my money is potentially subsidizing.

The city, the fire department and the CPR Board all need to be accountable to the resi-

NOTICE OF PREPARATION OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT (EIR) AND NOTICE OF PUBLIC SCOPING MEETING

DATE: Wednesday, April 14, 2010

LOCATION: City Council Chambers
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, California

TIME: 7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

PROJECT: Residences at Saks
Fifth Avenue - 44 Unit
Condominium Project
125 South Camden Drive

The project would include landscaping features in compliance with the City's Green Building requirements, and would include the use of drought tolerant plants for at least 15% of the total landscaping. The project's "clover leaf" design would include four grade-level courtyards of varying size: the northern courtyard would be approximately 1,645 square feet, the southern courtyard would be approximately 1,640 square feet, the western courtyard adjacent to South Peck Drive would be approximately 705 square feet, and the eastern courtyard adjacent to South Camden Drive would be approximately 875 square feet.

Initial Study: An Initial Study has been prepared, which identifies potential environmental impacts that could be generated by the project. Environmental factors identified in the Initial Study as being potentially significant are as follows, and will be fully studied and analyzed in the EIR:

- Aesthetics
- Greenhouse Gas Emissions
- Land Use/Planning
- Transportation/Traffic
- Air Quality
- Noise

The City of Beverly Hills is preparing an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the proposed Residences at Saks Fifth Avenue Condominium Project as more fully described below. The public is invited to attend a preliminary "scoping" meeting on April 14, 2010 at 7:00 p.m. to comment on environmental issues that should be addressed in the EIR.

Project Location: The property consists of six lots located south of Wilshire Boulevard, between Peck and South Camden Drive in the City of Beverly Hills. The six lots that comprise the project site are identified as follows:

- Tract #6649, Lot 58
- Tract #6649, Lot 59
- Tract #6649, Lot 60
- Tract #6649, Lot 65
- Tract #6649, Lot 66
- Tract #6649, Lot 67

Project Description: The proposed project would involve the construction of a six-story, 44-unit residential building located at 125 South Camden Drive. The net floor area of the proposed building would be 118,840 square feet and the gross floor area of the building would be 134,841 square feet. The structure would have a floor to area ratio (FAR) of 2.77 to 1. The project would include two levels of subterranean parking to provide 127 parking spaces. Approximately 16,220 square feet of communal and private open space would be provided in the form of courtyards and terraces. The maximum height of the project would be 66 feet. Vehicular access to the site would be taken from South Camden Drive.

The 44 residential units comprise 11 individualized floor plans as detailed below.

Unit Details

The project would include a zoning ordinance amendment to create a Multiple Residential Planned Development Overlay Zone (MR-PD), which would allow the building to be constructed to 66 feet in height, as current zoning restricts building heights to 45 feet on the four southern parcels and 55 feet on the other two parcels. The proposed new zoning designations would also allow the building length to exceed the 175-foot maximum requirement under the current zoning (proposed building length is approximately 242 feet).

Additionally, it should be noted that the project site is not on the "Corteze List" of hazardous waste sites.

Purpose of the Scoping Meeting: The purpose of the scoping meeting is to present the Project in a public setting and provide an opportunity for a full airing of the environmental issues that are important to the community. The meeting will include a presentation of the proposal and the environmental issues and alternatives to be analyzed in the EIR will be described. Following the presentation, interested agencies, organizations, and members of the public will be encouraged to present views concerning what environmental issues should be included in the EIR. The oral and written comments made during the scoping meeting will provide an inventory of potential environmental effects of the project to be addressed by the EIR, such as traffic, geology and soils, and hazardous materials.

The City invites all interested members of the public to attend the public scoping meeting. The City also invites written comments on issues related to potential environmental impacts during a 30-day comment period, which starts on April 14, 2010 and will conclude on May 14, 2010. Written comments should be addressed to:

City of Beverly Hills
Department of Community Development
455 North Rexford Drive, Room 100
Beverly Hills, CA 90210
Attention: Ryan Gohlich, Associate Planner

Electronic mail messages will also be accepted at: rgohlich@beverlyhills.org.

To ensure that the EIR addresses any specific concerns that the public may have comments should be submitted as early as possible and no later than May 14, 2010.

After the Draft EIR has been prepared, it will be released for public review and comment. The Planning Commission will then hold a public hearing on the Draft EIR and on the project. Separate notices of the availability of the Draft EIR and of the hearings on the project will be released at later dates.

The case file on this project, which includes the plans and applications, is available for public review at the Planning Division, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Room 100, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. Copies of the checklist of initial environmental issues (Initial Study) to be addressed by the EIR are also available in the Planning Division at City Hall. If there are any questions regarding this notice, or you would like to review the file or receive copies of available documents, please contact Ryan Gohlich, Associate Planner at 310.285.1194.

Council Unanimously Axes Conversion to 8601 Wilshire Apts

On Tuesday night, the city council unanimously rejected a proposed amendment to a covenant that prohibits Carlyle/Galaxy Wilshire, LP. from submitting applications to convert an apartment building on 8601 Wilshire Blvd. to condos.

Following approval from the city council in 2003, the building in southeast Beverly Hills was converted from commercial to residential use. In an attempt to diffuse concerns by city residents, a covenant was then recorded strictly prohibiting the future conversion of the 37-unit apartment building into condos.

"If they entered into a covenant that they will not convert to condos, then how can their intent be to allow the condos?" said Councilmember John Mirisch. "[A covenant] is more than an agreement. It's biblical sounding. It's called the Ark of the Covenant, not the ark of the convenient."

As reported in the Weekly's "Apartments In, Offices Out" [Issue 172], neighboring residents decried even the initial conversion of the building into apartments, and created the community group SONI (Save Our Neighborhood's Integrity) to fight the project. Those residents ultimately received a settlement from developers for the building's conversion.

Headed by attorney Al Omansky, SONI later mobilized to defeat then-incumbent Mayor MeraLee Goldman, who voted for the conversion. Goldman's defeat led to the election of now-Mayor Jimmy Delshad. The conversion marked the first time a residential housing project had been approved on Wilshire in Beverly Hills in a commercial zone.

Former Mayor Mark Egerman, who represents the applicants seeking the covenant amendment, sat on the city council in 2003 when the commercial to residential conversion was approved.

During Tuesday's meeting, Egerman argued that it was never the intent of the then-city council to prohibit the submission of applications for condo conversions.

"In my 44 years in practice in law, I have never seen a covenant involving real property prohibiting an application to a legislative body," Egerman said. "I have letters from all five council persons saying it was never their intent, and they did not authorize the prohibition of a citizen to petition his government. The only issue tonight is having a citizen petition the legislative body in a democratic society."

Omansky said Egerman's motives stem from "greed and money."

"For Mark Egerman, a former councilman, to make a motion to have this resolution passed, and now with his private practice represent the developer and do a 180 about face, that's not only a conflict of interest, but a definite appearance of impropriety," Omansky said. "He's supporting his position with letters from other councilmen at the time. I believe the letters are worthless because none of those letters are in the form of a declaration under penalty of perjury."

Omansky said condos in the city are "failing," and the reason behind the 2003 city council's approval of the initial conversion was the need for more rental units. He added that making the 8601 Wilshire building the only residential unit on the boulevard was a "compromise" and not spot zoning.

"Egerman said himself on the record that the city needs rental units," Omansky said. "[It was] purely financial. That's why Egerman was there. If you can't do the conversion, to go ahead and do the application is moot."

Omansky said he commends the current city council's decision to strike down the amendment and "for having the fortitude and integrity to stand up for what's right and [not] go back on its word."

Attorney Robert P. Silverstein, who represented SONI, said he was also "very pleased that this city council has shown great integrity and respect for the rights of the citizens in sharp contrast to the previous city council."

"It's a dirty conflict of interest that the same councilmember who approved this covenant would now say that it's the opposite of what he said seven years ago when he was on the council," Silverstein said. "I can only speculate that he's a paid lobbyist. I doubt he was there [Tuesday] night out of the goodness of his heart."

Silverstein said the community is "better off" with the current city council.

"This helps to restore the public's confidence," Silverstein said. "That confidence was so shaken by the prior regime."

Board Directs Staff to Retain New Law Firm for District

The Board of Education approved law firm Best, Best & Kreiger in a 3-2 vote as one of BHUSD's new legal counsels during Tuesday's meeting. Board President Steven Fenton and Board member Myra Lurie dissented.

The approval followed a 4-1 vote at the beginning of the meeting to pay bills incurred from Fagen, Friedman & Fulfroost since the board voted to terminate its relationship with the law firm last December.

At the time, the board cited conflict of interest issues between attorney Howard Fulfroost and then-construction management firm Strategic Concepts. Fulfroost's domestic partner worked as the chief financial officer for Strategic Concepts under Karen Christiansen, a conflict of interest that was known to the then-Board majority Lurie, Nooshin Meshkaty and Myra Demeter when they voted in October to renew the firm.

"I think it's very critical that when the board makes a decision, we have follow-through from staff," said Board member Brian Goldberg. "I understand why my colleagues voted, but I believe this is about accountability, and if we continue to let staff ignore direction, then we do that at our own peril."

Goldberg was the only board member to vote against paying Fagen, Friedman & Fulfroost's legal bills.

"The board was very clear that we do not want to work with a firm that has a conflict of interest with the district's $16 million lawsuit [with Strategic Concepts]," Goldberg said. "It's a clear conflict, and the board gave what I felt was clear direction in early December. And for some reason, the superintendent ignored us."

Fenton said during the meeting that though he agrees with Goldberg, he believes they are responsible for the bill.

"We owe the bill; we have to pay it," Fenton said at the meeting.

The board's majority decision to retain Best, Best & Kreiger arose out of accusations made by Lurie that Goldberg and Vice President Lisa Korbatov have a personal relationship with one of the firm's partners, Brant H. Dveirin. Both Goldberg and Dveirin are members of Temple Beth Am.

"There is no conflict of interest," Goldberg said. "I wouldn't call ourselves friends. I've never been invited to his home, and I've never invited him to my home. I've never had any business dealings with Best, Best & Kreiger. I have been very clear and upfront with my involvement with Brant. We have no personal relationship."

Korbatov said the decision should be based on the qualifications of Best, Best & Kreiger, not on unsubstantiated allegations of conflict of interest.

"Why are we not talking about the more important things?" Korbatov said. "They represent over 115 school districts. Six or eight of them are basic aid, something we're going to need help with. They have done a tremendous amount of work with bond measures and land use and real estate issues. They have 38 full-time attorneys in many different sub-specialties of school law."

Goldberg said he was "very pleased that the board majority was able to look past some petty personal accusations made by [his] colleague and vote for the best firm that was presented to [them]."

Fenton did not return messages left by the Weekly as of press time.

Morris & Berger to Meet with Stakeholders in Superintendent Search

Executive search firm Morris & Berger will be meeting with teachers, Beverly High's ASB students, BHUSD administrators and parents from April 12-15 to discuss the search for the district's superintendent.

"We're trying to hit all of the various stakeholders and talk with them about what the process is going to look like and hear from them the kind of experience and attributes they'd like to see in the next superintendent," said company partner Jay Berger.

Conflicts Of Interest?

Other notes on city life

By Rudy Cole

A historically troubled building on Wilshire, built beyond current height limits, and esthetically about as pleasing as an abandoned stock yard, has once more become a political flash point.

No longer an ugly monstrosity, but still not something Richard Neutra would submit for a design award, 8601 Wilshire Blvd returned to the city council Tuesday for preliminary discussions on a condo conversion appeal that demonstrated how much the political power in the city has shifted.

A very brief history. Some 35 years ago the original developers managed to obtain approval to construct an 11-story office building that dwarfed every other edifice in the immediate area. Even when there was a high demand for office space, the structure was never an economic success.

Eventually the successive changing owners sold the property to a local real estate investor who, in 2003, petitioned the city for permission to convert the property from commercial to residential.

That unleashed a massive political battle. Residents quickly formed a neighborhood association (SONI) to fight residential use and wound up in a court settlement agreement that permitted the building of apartments, but not condominiums.

Shortly thereafter, there was the city council election, and incumbent MeraLee Goldman was defeated for a third term in part because she voted for the conversion. The immediate neighbors turned out in record numbers to vote against her.

The building was totally renovated inside and the exterior became somewhat more esthetically appealing. But recently the owners, who may or may not have sold controlling interest, depending on which story you believe, unleashed one more round of controversy.

They now wanted to convert the entire building to condos challenging a signed covenant prohibiting condos, and appealing to the city council to lift the restrictions or even rule that none was legally binding.

Tuesday, the council simply said no.

Where to begin the back story? First, it would have been hard to sort out the changing views of both sides of the controversy. Originally, the neighbors, their lawyers and supporters in the community, fiercely opposed any residential uses. Tuesday this whole coalition came to the council to insist that apartments were the only acceptable use.

The owner's supporters also had some new allies: All five members of the city council who had approved the change from office to apartments and who, at the time, argued the necessity of creating more rental units in the city. Not Tuesday. They (the 2003 city council) in individually signed letters said it was never their intent to prevent condos and in fact had not agreed to the covenants!

Hard to imagine such a reversal of fortunes. Neighbors who waged a fierce battle against any housing, now just as vigorously trying to save rentals and a city council that justified the conversion by pointing to the lack of apartments insisting it was not their intent to prevent condos.

Neither side even blushed.

Despite the appeal of the former councilmembers, MeraLee Goldman, Les Bronte, Linda Briskman, Thomas Levyn and Mark Egerman, the facts were hard to dispute: There was a covenant; the council did vote for rentals only, and there was a court-ordered settlement.

This council is obviously very, very independent. The real balance of power in the city has indeed shifted. Many of these former councilmembers are their friends and even allies in past elections. But despite the power inherent in their letters to the council, they could not deliver even one vote.

There is another problem that arose, and one that is very troubling. I have the highest respect for former mayor/councilmember Mark Egerman, and I consider him a friend, but it does disturb me that he now represents a client in a matter on which he voted as a member of the council. This gives more credence to the need for greater control on the revolving door issue.

On the face of the arguments, the neighbors not only won, but made the strongest case. It was spurious for a neighbor in the area to become the lone resident voice for conversion arguing that the city would "benefit" from this conversion. Certainly, there are some instances where conversion from apartments to condos is somewhat justified, but those are rare. However, this is a conversion from a conversion and only won then council approval because of the obvious need for more rentals.

Why this effort to convert? The market for condos in Beverly Hills and in the whole Westside has totally collapsed and is not supposed to recover, no matter the improvements in the economy, for many years. Condominiums are simply overbuilt. oHo However, having the ability to convert could possibly increase the value of the property – but is that in the public interest? Hardly.

Congratulations to Mayor Jimmy Delshad, Vice Mayor Barry Brucker and Councilmembers Nancy Krasne, Dr. Willie Brien and John Mirisch for taking the hard road to fairness and protecting the public interest.

Interesting change of attitude: The residents' lawyer Robert Silverstein, a flame-throwing advocate in the first round, returned as a milder, more reasoned advocate as did the leaders of SONI. Even Municipal League chair, Thomas White, seemed mellower as he argued for keeping apartments, not condos on the property.

There is a back story, a Beverly Hills connection, to the fracas that caused Karl Rove to abandon a book signing following a speech at a Beverly Hills theatre last week, and not just because it happened here.

In case you missed all the anguished cries that "radicals" did not allow Rove to exercise his free speech rights, Rove, the author of an insiders look at his years as a Republican Party hit man and sometime presidential advisor, was appearing at the Saban (nee Fox) theatre as part of a tour to promote his book. Suddenly, some hecklers in the audience rushed at Rove, including one who was carrying some supposed hand cuffs hoping to make a "citizen's arrest" for alleged Rove human rights violation crimes.

Rove abandoned the book signing, abruptly left the theatre and received more ink because of the ruckus than he would have for his speech. Of course, the wrenching cries of his supporters that he was being denied his rights at free speech, were somewhat disingenuous.

Where were these same free speakers when anti-Obama health plan rallies were invaded and disrupted all over the country? However, while the right to protest is also a protected freedom, preventing Rove from speaking is not a right, and only one more example of our need for a code of civil discourse that protects everyone's right to assemble, speak and protest in a sprit of civility. In fact, Butler University, that small Indiana school that almost won the NCAA basketball tournament, has a program promoting national civility.

The Courier was right, although the headline may have been an attempt to make political hay out of a guilt-by-association exaggeration. It was a former "aid" to (Jerry Brown who made the arrest-Rove move. Jodie Evans was then Governor Jerry Brown's office gate keeper, then known as Jodie Palevsky. Although probably far more left/liberal than Brown, she was a key advisor and very efficient manager of the governor's office, even when she was breast feeding her new born just outside the governor's working quarters.

The real Beverly Hills connection?

During the last month of Jerry Brown's term, a vacancy occurred on the Orange County Board of Supervisors. Although a local government office, a quirk in the state constitution gives the governor the ability to appoint when there is a vacancy. Clearly, the most popular and leading candidate for the job was a rising young star of the Democratic Party, Ron Cordova, then a Democratic state legislator in a heavily Republican county.

Cordova had the backing of almost every leading Democrat in the county and the state. From Democratic Party officials to almost every Democratic elected office holder, the support for Cordova seemed overwhelming.

But he lacked one key supporter: Jodie Palevsky, and she had the ear of Brown. Jodie was also Brown's link to the then highly radicalized duo of Tom Hayden and Jane Fonda, she of the picture in Hanoi atop a North Vietnam tank, Hayden/Fonda had their own candidate for Orange County Board of Supervisor, a candidate with a very unusual resume, Edwin Miller.

Miller and John McCain had a shared experience. They were both prisoners of war during the Vietnam conflict. But while Mc Cain returned a hero, Miller became a militant anti-war activist and never quite escaped charges that he had "collaborated" with the enemy.

But heeding Jodie's plea that Brown "owed" Hayden and Fonda for their support, including major fund raisers, and because he had far more, he thought at the time, pressing issues on his desk, Brown named Miller to the office.

The move stunned political insiders and a small army of elected officials who were supporting Cordova. As for the neophyte supervisor, the voters in his supervisorial district turned him out of office at the next election, (1981)

Miller quietly disappeared from public life, but Cordova went on to a very successful career in international and academic law.

Don't expect Lya to help form a "Brown for Governor" committee even though our attorney general has mellowed and is light years away from his more far out political wanderings. The older, wiser and more experienced Brown would not have made such a mindless political blunder. It is ironic that the obviously even more politically radicalized Jodie has once again done some minor damage to Brown who is just mounting a campaign to return to the center office in Sacramento, and given our friends at the Courier, a tool to stick it to Jerry.

Vice Mayor Barry Brucker had to contend with some nasty letters to the editor recently from writers who disagree with him on the student permit issue. That is their right, of course, just as it is his to express his opinions anywhere he chooses.

This interplay of opinions between board members on city issues and councilmembers on education matters is hardly new or unique to Brucker. One or more past board members were heavily involved in the recent Hilton referendum.

However, Brucker has some additional credentials on school matters, as does his wife

Sue, that the writers seemed not to remember or acknowledge.

Not only is Brucker a former member and president of the board of education, as have been many other councilmembers, he and Sue have been leading advocates for public education for many years.

Sue Brucker has been a PTA leader from 1992 to 2006, holding every PTA office including president of El Rodeo PTA, and two years as president of the Beverly Hills High School PTSA.

Brucker, before he won a write-in campaign as a reform candidate for school board, was a BHEF vice president for corporate giving. He was reelected to the school board and twice served as president.

Even more significantly, since Brucker was elected to the city council, the city support for our schools through the Joint Powers Agreement has risen from his first vote for $7.9 million to the present and more stable commitment of $45 million over a four year period, this despite the downturn in the economy. He negotiated that understanding as mayor.

I don't always agree with Brucker on issues, but it would be hard to doubt his commitment to our schools. He has more than earned his right to speak out on school concerns, something the letter writers seemed willing to ignore. Ironically, the "father" of the JPA when he was mayor, Dr. Charles Aronberg, shared the podium with Brucker at the same public forum.

Not only will we soon be losing the able director of community services Steve Miller, who made me look almost acceptable when I was chair of the Recreation and Parks Commission, but now another good friend, Bill Banks is also retiring.

Banks has been at almost every post in the Recreation and Parks Department from Greystone to Roxbury and always with class and a high degree of professionalism. He was recently honored by the city council for his work for our community and he leaves with his title of Recreation Services Manager hard to replace.

Personal note: Bill, thanks for all your help through the years and your keeping steady and cool even when park issues became difficult to resolve.

This community and our parks are better because you served here.

Final note on the induction extravaganza for Mayor Jimmy Delshad, the incredible rendition of our national anthem by City Clerk Byron Pope – sign the guy to a recording contract.

Our national anthem is not an easy song for even the most trained voices who often stumble at the rapid changes in octaves, but the melodious Pope did it flawlessly, moving a usually unflappable city audience. Truly, and I have heard it tried by some of the best voices in our nation, but never as good as Pope's performance.

There is an historic side note to our national anthem and custom that I was taught to follow in Fostoria, Ohio schools: We do not applaud when the work is performed. Why? Because at the very first public performance the audience hated it and refused to applaud. Now, in a tribute to our Francis Scott Key work, we honor his memory, at least so we were instructed, too remain silent. Tradition!

Thanks to all our careful readers who emailed and called to correct my goof last week. It is Marian not Miriam De Witt, but why do so many volunteer editors derive so much pleasure in finding my errors? Next someone will tell me that I can't spell the last name of our governor; of course, it is Davis, right? Sorry, Marian. The great lady of BH who gives class a real meaning and who did not complain.

LES BRONTE RESPONDS:

BHCPR wishes to acknowledge Mr. Kalman's letter expressing concern that the current Beverly Hills CPR program has an ongoing relationship with the Beverly Hills Fire Department.

Due to budgetary restraints, the Beverly Hills Fire Dept. was forced to make cutbacks in several Community Outreach Programs including the CPR training and certification. The CPR Board submitted a proposal to the City Manager making it possible to continue to certify the members of the Police and Fire Departments and all other City employees (over 700 individuals) acting as an independent agency.

The City Council approved a grant to BHCPR to cover the cost of instruction and certification plus funds for maintenance and the educational materials.

As in the past, the CPR Board continues to raise funds for instruction fees as a part of an annual "Save-a-Heart" mailing. The net proceeds are used to maintain, and if necessary, replace mannequins and to purchase instruction materials and public informational publications.

As was pointed out in Mr. Kalman's Letter to the Editor, BHCPR has in the past, donated automated external defibrillators (AED) to both public and private schools and continues to maintain them.

Fire Chief Timothy Scranton and Battalion Chief Greg Barton are listed as liaisons to the CPR Board. They are not members of the Board and can not vote on any issues or assist in the day to day operating of the CPR program. They inform the Board of new procedures and life saving techniques. No funding for CPR programs is received from the Department.

A visit to Beverly Hills CPR web site shows the fee charged for the instruction and certification for each module available in the CPR program.

The position of Coordinator has been filled by a Volunteer who receives $1.00 per year.

A firm is under contract to supply a team of Certified Instructors who are used for BHCPR classes. They also perform some administrative functions.

Under the Certification issued by the American Heart Association in order to be an authorized American Heart Association Training Center, BHCPR is required to have one orientation class per month offered FREE to the public. We have held three classes in 2010.

BHCPR hopes this letter of explanation has cleared up all the concerns Mr. Kalman and members of the community may have had. BHCPR encourages all members of the community to enroll in CPR classes. Under our new program, we are pleased that students can now do a portion of the training in their home or office with our new on-line internet CPR "e-training".

The Center's phone number is (310) 281-2753; or visit us at our Web site at www.bhcpr.org.

To be sung to the tune of "Pennies From Heaven" with apologies to songwriters Arthur Johnston and Johnny Burke:

Every time it rains, you know, the cable goes out.

When my husband returns from work, I prepare for his shout.

You'll lose your fortune daily, paying their

And when you call for help, there is no advice.

Someday soon the shows will return, life back to ease.

Until we see that happy time, stifle your pleas.

So when you hear it thunder, prepare emotionally,

There's no real cable access for you or me.

"Earthquake"

The earthquake in Baja this Easter Sunday is a reminder to us all that we live in an active fault zone. The city's website has a great page (http://www.beverlyhills.org/services/emergency/prepare/emergency\_supply\_kit.asp) listing supplies we should all have in our home, car and office. It would also be lovely if we would consider others when shopping for these supplies and pick up extra ones to donate to local shelters; they will be in just as much need in the event of "the big one".

BEING OLIVER BOGNER

It's not easy being a 17-year-old entrepreneur, but sometimes it pays to break the rules

By Kimberly Cheng

So, what's it like to be featured on the cover of the L.A. Times Calendar section last week?

It was an incredible experience. I really believe it was life changing. In the past week or so, it's just opened up a ton of doors for me. It was incredibly exciting to work with [L.A. Times Staff Writer Yvonne] Villarreal, who was such a nice woman. And hopefully they'll follow me along my journey. I think they're doing a few follow up articles on me. I got a few hundred e-mails that day. A lot of people contacted me. The most important thing is that it opened up doors and recognized me for what I'm doing and what I'm about.

Tell us about your reality show.

Last May, my dad said, "Hey, you should do a reality show," and I said, "I don't know. Is it interesting, not interesting?" I had a friend of friend who went to USC and I [asked him to] film me for three hours. [He gave] me raw footage, and I gave him $75. He filmed one of my club parties. The police showed up, the fire marshal. We had 600 kids show up paying $20 a ticket. It was just total chaos, and it was all captured on film.

So, I edited it together — I'm pretty savvy on iMovie — and put together a really good reel, and I watched online and saw how they were done, put together a really good pitch tape and put together a ten-page pitch — because my dad is a film producer, and I saw what he was doing — and then I went into my dad's office over winter break and looked through his contact book and sent it to every agency in town. A few weeks later, Mark Itkin, who sits on the board of William Morris Endeavor [as] the head of worldwide television, called me back and [told me it was] really good. Him and Collin Reno ended up packaging the project after lots of pitch meetings. We ended up selling it to E! Television. Jay James, who is the executive over at E!, bought the show for a pilot.

It's called "Party Prince 90210." It revolved around me and my friends from Beverly High and what we do on the weekends, which is throw parties. Jonathan Assia is one of my DJs. Brandon Adams, Romana Leslie, Danielle Fogel and Nicollette Slotkin. It was super exciting. I was an executive producer, and I really learned a tremendous amount of how a network operates and how the production of a reality TV show really is. We filmed it last May, and then WME signed me as a reality-TV producer

Tell us how about your DJ Company.

I was in sixth-grade student government, and then I moved up to seventh-grade student government at Beverly Vista School. In seventh grade, I thought, we're paying these DJs $1,000, and I can do it myself. I bought the DJ equipment, hired my best friend and with my contacts with the schools and BHUSD, got a lot of jobs, and with the help of my friends in student government in other schools, I got jobs there. That progressed, until by the eighth grade, there was no eighth grade after party for after graduation. So I thought, I should throw an after party. We got 400 kids paying $20 a ticket. By the end of ninth grade I was booking about 100 parties a year, had 15 employees, and we were doing almost three parties every weekend. It was a lot [of money I was making that year] for the age I was. My company is called GO Entertainment. It's very lucrative. It's probably more lucrative than [the L.A. Times] made it out to be, [which was $30,000 annually]. I can buy what I want and hopefully pay my way through college.

Who were your contacts?

The student council advisors. I was able to convince the kids and my friends to book me. Definitely someone who really helped me progress was [ASB Advisor] Loren Newman. She's just encouraged me all along the way. Also, my parents have encouraged me. They haven't supported my company financially because I paid for it, but now I've really turned it into a business that operates. We did Sam Raimi's birthday a few months ago. We do everyone from celebrities to kid clientele. We focus on schools. We send out mailers each year to schools around Los Angeles, and the schools turn into private parties, and then the private parties turn into bar mitzvahs, and that turns into being able to do club parties.

Tell us about your TV show pilots.

Right now, we have two pilots in development with Comcast. My show for E! unfortunately did not get picked up for a series but it's going to air as a special. We're not sure when though. I really use that to kind of grow. From that, I realized I had a knack for creating content. I had a knack for finding characters, and I just fell in love with the world of reality TV. Since then, I've optioned two projects to Gay Rosenthal, who does "Little People, Big World." I partnered with The Greif Company, who does Gene Simmons: Family Jewels, on three shows. I partnered with E! Entertainment, which is the largest reality TV production company in all of Canada, on two projects, and I partnered with A. Smith & Company, who does Hell's Kitchen, on one project, and then partnered with Jenny Daly, who does Beverly Hills Private Chefs on Target Entertainment Group, the fifth largest reality distributor in the world, on five projects. I partnered with E! Television Productions, which is the in house production company for E!, Style and G4 on three projects. So right now I have two pilots that we're filming in the Style Network and E!.

How do you balance school and business?

Independent study. I wouldn't be able to do it without the program that Beverly High offers. I think it was designed for me. My schedule was so hectic last year, and I was trying to keep my grades up last year, and my counselor suggested that independent study was the right place for me. I met with Twila Cook and Sergio Mandiola. Twila is the principal, and Sergio is one of my teachers. I just really fell in love with the program. It really suits me. It works around my schedule.

Are you involved with any extracurricular activities at Beverly?

I'm still involved in student government. I haven't lost an election. I'm junior treasurer this year, and hopefully I'll sit on the school board next year [as a student board member]. I'm still really involved in my community, and it's crazy and chaotic balancing it all. And I'm really fortunate that Ms. Newman really helped push it through, where I could still serve on student government part time. I've been on ASB since freshman year. It's going to be a jam-packed schedule next year.

How does that compare to being an owner of a company?

It's two completely different things. I feel like independent study enabled me to not be just a student. Last year, I honestly can't believe I didn't have a nervous breakdown balancing so much work with AP and honors classes with working pretty much full time. But now, independent study has really enabled me to really work full time. I use a lot of the same things. I think ASB taught me how to promote and market. I kind of have that instinctually, but I'm able to use a lot of same things I do in business with ASB and vice versa.

You're also the host of KBEV's "Norman of Love." Tell us about that.

I created a show on KBEV called "Norman of Love" where we basically have contestants each week, and we go through their backpacks. It's one guy or girl and three potential dates. And we have a wall between them, and they ask them questions and figure out which person they want to go on a date with.

Do you follow any of the politics in BHUSD?

Absolutely. I'm very up to date on the politics of BHUSD. Hopefully, when I sit on the school board next year, I'll be able to represent all the students because I feel sometimes this year, the student board member has just been representing high school students, and I would love to hear what the mentality is of the elementary and middle schools in addition to the high school, and to figure out ways to make the student experience in BHUSD better.

What is it like being a teen today?

I don't think I would be able to do this five or ten years ago. First of all, because of the independent study program that exists. I would have to drop out of high school doing what I'm doing. And also, I use technology a lot with everything that I do. I find these talents on blogs and through the internet, and I communicate through the internet. I get probably upwards of 100 e-mails a day. I also use cameras and editing equipment, and I'm pretty hands-on with my projects.

What kind of peer pressures do students face at Beverly?

I'll be applying to college with a 3.6 unweighted GPA. And hopefully I'll do well on my ACTs and SATs, and I do definitely want to go college. But I feel like if you have a passion and you have an opportunity, which I was granted being signed by William Morris Endeavor at 16 as a TV producer and getting all these deals, is I believe a once in a lifetime opportunity. And I believe if I waited six years until I was out of high school and out of college, I wouldn't have this opportunity.

I still hang out with my friends on the weekends and go the parties that everyone goes to. I'm the same age as them, but I feel like, not necessarily my life experience, but I just have different goals. And that enables me to be a little different with how I deal with things [in terms of drugs, alcohol and partying].

Do you think drugs and alcohol is still an issue for some students?

Absolutely, but I don't think it's as big as an issue as it's made out to be. People say that Beverly has a drug problem, and I don't see it. I feel that if it's there, it's at a controlled level.

How has Beverly Vista and Beverly High shaped your decisions?

Beverly Vista for me, I mean, I did well in classes and I got honors and everything else, but I broke the rules a few times. But I learned a lot, and I grew as a person, and it shows me, especially being on student government, how to be my own person, to choose my own track, where I had a passion for politics and a passion for business. I was able to really let that run wild in ASB in winning elections and campaigning. I feel like with all the new requirements in the district, people feel so much pressure to take AP honors. I didn't choose that track, where I was going to overload myself with four or five honors my freshman or sophomore year. I chose to have a passion and run with it.

You said you broke some rules. What do you mean by that?

I wasn't the perfect kid. I wasn't a bad boy, but I learned a lot. I feel like the teachers, the administration at Beverly Vista helped you grow in a way where if you broke a rule, it wasn't the end of the world. You got taught a life lesson.

Which teachers have been most influential?

Loren Newman. [Media teacher] Romeo Carey. Definitely Sergio Mandiola, who is my everyday teacher for my classes in independent study. Miyako Polk, who has been an incredible counselor. Elaine Palazzo, who was my fifth-grade teacher at Beverly Vista. She really inspired me.

Where do you see yourself in 10 years?

If I could map out my life perfectly, I would hopefully be in a position where I would be in a studio deal next. That's the next step in my life, where I would get paid to develop shows and have a studio backing me financially and with their infrastructure. And then that will hopefully seg-way into me launching my own production company. It would be Bogner Entertainment, which is my dad's company but we would just grow upon that brand. And then maybe running a network. I'm excited. We'll see some things in the next few weeks that will be announced in the Hollywood Reporter that will be even more inspiring to people.

Parents and community members have been invited to participate in the development of the new superintendent's profile Monday, April 12 at 6 p.m. in the Science and Technology Center at Beverly High. Hawthorne and El Rodeo staff will also meet at that time. Beverly High staff can participate Tuesday at 4 p.m. in room 300 at the high school. District staff, Superintendent Jerry Gross, ASB officers and BHEA representatives will meet on various times Wednesday. Horace Mann and Beverly Vista staff will meet Thursday, April 15 at 3:30 p.m. in the Horace Mann Library.

Jay Berger

Following the meetings and the Board of Education's approval, Morris & Berger will put in the notice to begin the recruitment process.

"We will be drafting a marketing-oriented position description in the form of a notice that we will be sending to a wide variety of prospective candidates and sources of candidates, people in public school superintendencies, principals of large schools and also nontraditional candidates," Berger said.

Berger said nontraditional candidates will mostly likely include those from the independent school sector with experience running a K-12 program, candidates from charter schools also with K-12 experience and individuals in higher education such as deans.

"We will proactively contact literally hundreds and hundreds of people," Berger said. "So it's very labor intensive, and it takes typically about four to five weeks to develop the kind of candidate pool that we'd like to see, and that'd be a rich and diverse candidate pool."

Following the recruitment process, Morris & Berger will interview all candidates and make recommendations to the Board of Education. The board will then begin their interviews with candidates.

"We facilitate all those meetings and help them with questions that they might want to ask," Berger said. "It's obviously their search and not ours, so they don't have to accept our recommendations, but typically they do."

Having began his career in executive search in 1986, Berger previously worked for USC for 17 years, first serving as director of admissions and later as assistant vice president for development. He also earned his bachelors, masters and Ph.D. from the university.

Berger's fellow partner, Karin Berger Stellar, who is also aiding in BHUSD's superintendent search, joined the company in 2001. Stellar previously worked in alumni relations at Stanford University's Graduate School of Business, in development at UC Berkeley and as director of development for the libraries at USC.

District Begins Search for Four New Principals

BHUSD is currently conducting interviews to fill the four principal seats at Beverly High, Beverly Vista, El Rodeo and Horace Mann, according to Director of Human Resources Dr. Alex Cherniss.

"Were looking for the best candidates possible," Cherniss said. He declined to elaborate on what qualities are found in the "best candidate."

Cherniss said the district has conducted "comprehensive outreach among community and staff members," and has received responses from candidates statewide and nationwide.

Superintendent Dr. Jerry Gross said Cherniss met with each of the school sites to determine what they were looking for in a principal.

"[Cherniss asked] what the schools are proudest of in terms of their programs and how they shine in those areas," Gross said. "And they have looked at the challenges they face and what areas they need to address and improve. The third thing is the quality of the principal that would be able to support the good qualities of the school and address and deal with the challenges they face."

Gross said candidates will be chosen within the next week. The number of finalists will depend on the "quality of the candidate pool."

The salary for BHUSD's K-8 principal ranges from $103,897 to $123,162, according to Cherniss. The Beverly High principal has a salary ranging from $112,691 to $133,866.

Ronald Rosen Appointed President of L.A. County Arts Commission

Beverly Hills Attorney Ronald D. Rosen has been named president of the Los Angeles County Arts Commission. He will succeed Araceli Ruano.

Ronald D. Rosen

Appointed to the commission by L.A. County Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky, Rosen is chairman of the board of The HeArt Project, an organization that connects teen school dropouts with the arts, and secretary of the board of the Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts.

Rosen previously served on the Beverly Hills Planning Commission (1988-1997) and as a member of the L.A. County Board of Education, where he was involved in promoting and planning arts education for at-risk youth.

The L.A. County Arts Commission is an advisory group to the County Board of Supervisors consisting of 15 members, three appointed by each of the five county supervisors.

The commission provides leadership and staffing to support the regional blueprint for arts education, "Arts for All"; administers a grants program that funds more than 300 nonprofit arts organizations annually, oversees the County's Civic Art Program for capital projects; programs the John Anson Ford Theatres; and supports the L.A. County Cultural Calendar on ExperienceLA.com. The commission also produces free community programs, including the L.A. ### All Student Appeals Will be Heard, LACOE Says

The Los Angeles County Office of Education averted a mass flood of appeals after LAUSD reversed a proposal to deny nearly 10,000 students the opportunity to enroll in neighboring school districts, though the number of appeals from BHUSD students could still reach a record-breaking number. LACOE has said they will direct all the office's staff to handle the appeals.

"We're going to hear them all," said Victor Thompson, director of student support services at LACOE. "We need to hear each individual case based on the merits."

LACOE currently has six staff members to conduct initial hearings before appeals are presented before the L.A. County Board of Education. If thousands of students file an appeal, LACOE will implement an office-wide initiative, which, according to Thompson, includes hundreds of staff members.

"What the office is considering doing, and it's still premature because we haven't seen any appeals [yet], is to expand the number of staff across the office that can help conduct the initial hearing before the board," Thompson said. "We believe with a pool of about a hundred administrators, we should be able to do this."

As reported in the Weekly's cover story "Who is LACOE?" [Issue 539], the criteria for granting an appeal include students who want to participate in classes or programs not offered in their home district; evidence of threats or injury to students in their home district; transportation problems; issues of childcare or other substantial family need; students whose family is in the process of moving; and educational continuity for students who have been enrolled in the district for years.

Students may be denied an appeal if the chosen district is impacted or overcrowded, or if the transfer creates an adverse, significant educational or financial impact on the district.

When asked what he thinks will happen to the thousands of students who may look to LACOE for an appeal, Thompson said it would be "unfair to speculate what the board is going to do."

Thompson said LACOE has had other office-wide initiatives in the past.

"This will become an office priority, so [administrators] will simply have to reprioritize their time and [focus on] hearing the cases," Thompson said.

Kumon Opens After-School Program in Beverly Hills

Kumon, an after-school math and reading program, is opening a new center in Beverly Hills at 8950 W. Olympic Blvd. Monday, April 12.

"Education is the key to building a strong community," said Kumon Director Delaram Nakhi. "That's why it is essential for education programs such as Kumon to work with schools, community organizations and families to help all students succeed."

Founded in Japan in 1958, Kumon's learning method uses an individualized approach that helps children develop a solid command of math and reading skills. Through daily practice and mastery of materials, students increase confidence, improve concentration and develop better study skills.

Prior to opening the Kumon Center of Beverly Hills, Nakhi, a 2001 Beverly High grad, graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor's degree in sociology from UC San Diego. She worked with City Year, an AmeriCorps program, in which she managed two teams of volunteers at an elementary and middle school in Watts, Calif. The teams supported struggling schools by assisting teachers through in-class tutoring focused on math and reading.

Tuition is $150 per month for twice weekly session and daily at-home assignments. The center is open Mondays and Thursdays from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. For more information or to schedule an appointment for a free placement test, call the center at (310) 275-4329.
