SNAPSHOT

Corrections, Issue 549

In Rudy Cole's column "Conflicts of Interest?," former Orange County Supervisor Edison Miller's name was incorrectly identified. He was appointed in 1979, not "during the last month of [Jerry] Brown's term," as indicated in the column, and was defeated in 1980. Ron Cordova was a former assemblyman at the time.

A Proposition 65 Public Notice

The California Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act requires California businesses to advise employees and neighbors of any potential exposure to chemicals considered by the state to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm.

Trigen-LA Energy Corporation wants you to know that detectable amounts of some of these substances may be found in and around its facility located at 2052 Century Park East, Los Angeles, CA. Potential sources of these substances can include common products such as gasoline, oil, natural gas, paint.

"All Student Appeals Will Be Heard, LACOE Says" [Issue 549]

LA Times article Wed April 7, "LA Unified relents on student permits"

In the seemingly endless 'discussion(s)' of student permits, Superintendent [Ramon] Cortines said, "I'm not knowingly going to harm the education of boys and girls and young people or distress the adults in their lives."

Wouldn't it have been nice for our own Board of Education to express the same sentiment and act on it!

More interesting, perhaps, are the permit enrollment numbers for our neighboring school districts included in the LA Times article: Culver City (1,400), Torrance (1,700) and Las Virgenes (1,400).

Dr. Brian Goldberg has been publishing an electronic newsletter for a few years now, which is sent to subscribers routinely. In order to support his and other's anti-permit stance, he authored the "Complete Basic Aid Study" chart, a link that can be found at: <http://www.goldberg4bhUSD.com/complete-basicaidstudy.html>.

DATE: April 22, 2010

TIME: 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard

LOCATION: Council Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its REGULAR meeting on Thursday, April 22, 2010, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard to consider:

A request for a Zone Text Amendment to Sections 10-3-2605 and 10-3-2650 of the Beverly Hills Municipal Code regarding the height of structures in Trousdale Estates. If approved, the Zone Text Amendment would allow properties that are larger than 5 acres in size to apply for a Trousdale R-1 Permit that could permit an existing structure that is over 14 feet in height to be rebuilt up to the maximum height of the previously existing structure without otherwise conforming to the existing building's envelope (e.g. building footprint and siting). Current code requirements allow a structure that exceeds 14 feet in height to be rebuilt, but only if the new structure conforms to the same building envelope of the previously existing structure; and

A request for a Trousdale R-1 Permit to allow an existing residence that exceeds 14 feet in height (the existing residence is 20'5" in height) to be rebuilt up to the height of the existing residence, but without conforming to the existing building's envelope, as the new residence would have a different footprint and be sited differently on the property. This request is being made pursuant to the proposed Zone Text Amendment described above, and would be contingent on the approval of the Zone Text Amendment. The subject property is located in the Trousdale Estates area of the City at 1025 Loma Vista Drive, and is approximately 6.94 acres in size.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The project qualifies for a Class 5 Categorical Exemption for minor alterations in land use limitations and a Class 2 Categorical Exemption for replacement or reconstruction of existing structures, and the project has been determined not to have a significant environmental impact and is exempt from the provisions of CEQA.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Ryan Gohlich, Associate Planner in the Planning Division at 310.285.1194, or by email at rgohlich@beverlyhills.org. Board Scraps Ethics Course from Graduation Requirements

The Board of Education voted 4-1 during its meeting April 6 to remove Beverly High's ethics course, also known as the Beverly Seminar, from its list of graduation requirements.

The much-debated course, which will now be offered as an elective, was integrated in the high school's curriculum last spring amid criticism that ethics can't be taught in a classroom setting.

Board member Brian Goldberg said too many students took the course over summer to get the course "out of the way," which "defeated the purpose of providing an ethics seminar" and allowing time for critical thinking.

"It was certainly something that we tried to implement for the benefit of our students, but we realized that it had a negative impact on choices that students could make in selecting their various schedules at the high school," Goldberg said. "I will say that the ethics requirement is only one piece of a much larger puzzle when it comes to providing optimal flexibility for our students, and I'm hoping at our next meeting we'll address an even bigger piece of the puzzle, which is the actual bell schedule."

Goldberg said the board will be using what they learned from implementing the course at the high school level to pilot an ethics program at the middle schools, where such a program is currently being tested.

"The point of this program wasn't to teach ethics," Goldberg said. "It was to teach kids about making choices and how to think about the choices they're making, and I think that's a value added for any student to take."

Board member Myra Lurie dissented, arguing that the board should look at alternatives before scrapping the course as a requirement. Lurie said she was concerned that if the course was only offered as an elective, students wouldn't be inclined to enroll.

"As I stated in two prior meetings, I suggested we hold a study session with teachers, parents and students to discuss alternative and more flexible methods of delivering the ethics course, and I was under the impression that we were scheduling one," Lurie said. "Perhaps it could be offered at the middle school level. Until we had that dialogue, I was not prepared to vote to delete it from our required curriculum."

Lurie said the problem lies in flexibility, and pointed out that students have the opportunity to take two courses online.

"As valuable of a course as it is, many people would not take it because they wouldn't be able to find room in their schedule for it," Lurie said.

EL Rodeo PTA President Cindy Dubin, mentioned at the meeting as a major proponent of the course when it was first established, did not return messages from the Weekly as of press time.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: April 22, 2010

TIME: 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard

LOCATION: Council Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its REGULAR meeting on Thursday, April 22, 2010, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, to consider:

A request for an extension of an existing Condition Use Permit to allow the continuation of a bank/lending use within the Pedestrian Orientated Area of the City on the property located at 9454 Wilshire Boulevard. The existing Conditional Use Permit was approved by the Planning Commission on March 24, 2004 and is set to expire on October 4, 2014. The applicant requests the Conditional Use Permit be extended twenty (20) years from the existing expiration date (October 4, 2034). The request is being made pursuant to Beverly Hills Municipal Code §10-3-1650, which regulates non-retail uses in the Pedestrian Orientated Area of the City.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. It has been determined that the proposed project qualifies for a Categorical Exemption (Sec. 15303) Class 1, for the leasing of an existing public structure involving negligible or no expansion of the use beyond that of the previously existing use. Therefore, under the authority provided by the CEQA Guidelines, no significant environmental impacts are anticipated.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Assistant Planner, Shena Rojemann in the Community Development Department at 310.285.1192 or via email at srojemann@beverlyhills.org. Dick O'Neill Bequests $50K to Beverly High

The Richard J. O'Neill Trust has donated $50,000 to Beverly High, the Board of Education announced during its meeting last week.

Dick O'Neill

The posthumous donation was made on behalf of Class of 1941 graduate Dick O'Neill by his nephew, Tony Moiso.

"My uncle was a proud Norman," said Moiso, the CEO and president of Rancho Mission Viejo. "He loved life and, in many ways, was one of those persons characterized as 'bigger than life.' He loved sports, and Beverly's teams of his era held a special place in his heart. While he earned a varsity baseball letter, early on, he regaled me with stories about football and basketball games against 'Samohi' and other old Bay League schools, coach Sax Elliott, Sax's brother, Ian, one of southern California's all-time great school boy athletes, who, I believe, died in World War II, and about the 'greatest Bee basketball player ever,' Justin McCarthy."

Moiso wrote in a letter to BHUSD, which was read during the meeting, that "while this gift is 'undesignated'," he hopes the funds can be used to support Beverly High's athletic department.

"[My uncle's] gift to Beverly was, and is, from his heart," Moiso said. "He cherished those days now long, long ago. His Beverly Hills High School orange and white pennant still hangs in his office here at Rancho Mission Viejo and always will."

"Curtains" Opens This Week at Beverly High

Beverly High's spring musical "Curtains" opens tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the school's K.L. Peters Auditorium, and will continue this weekend.

Tickets are $10 for students and $15 for adults. For more information, call (310) 229-3685.

City Addresses "Star Tour" Shuttle Noise

After receiving several complaints about open-air tour shuttles using loudspeakers within residential streets throughout Beverly Hills, the city's Traffic and Parking Commission worked with Starline Tours, the primary "star tour" operator, to address noise issues. Starline Tours has since installed headsets in their shuttles to prevent noise disturbing local residents.

City staff is also working with the city attorney's office to encourage other tour operators to install headsets to avoid violations for amplified noise.

"The commission is very please that Starline Tours has joined the Beverly Hills business community and was so willing to work with the commission to address these complaints," said Traffic and Parking Commission Chair Ira Friedman. "They voluntarily agreed to use headsets in their shuttles, which will make a dramatic impact on the noise issues that residents were facing."

Friedman said the commission hopes that other tour operators will follow suit so visitors can enjoy Beverly Hills without impacting the quality of life in the city.

"The tour vans are a problem that has escalated in recent years and the noise from the tour vans loud speakers is not something that our residents should reasonably have to live with," said Traffic and Parking Commissioner Brian Rosenstein. "I am so glad that through persistence, hard work and creativity we have found a solution to this problem and can help preserve the quality of life in our neighborhoods."

SYP to Hold Sixth Annual Gala in Beverly Hills

The Society of Young Philanthropists will be holding its sixth annual gala at a private Beverly Hills estate Sunday, May 1 to benefit the Los Angeles Child Guidance Clinic and Comfort the Children International.

The event will feature open bar, hor d'oeuvres and entertainment. Confirmed sponsors include Robert Mondavi Wine, Pink Dot, D'Amores Pizza, Salad Farm, Bahador Catering and Red Bull. Kettle One Vodka will host a specialty bar with signature cocktails. Décor for the old Hollywood glamour-themed event will be handled by Pam Morrisson of Pacific Events.

VIP table buyers will enjoy complimentary bottle service and gift bags. Presale tickets for the event are now available for a minimum donation of $130.

"We chose to support CTC because the organization reminds us so much of our own — all young professionals working for a better tomorrow," SYP President Leyla Kashani said. We chose LACGC as our local beneficiary, as most of us have grown up in L.A. and see the struggles many of these youth go through."

Last year's gala raised $20,000 for Generation Rescue, Jenny McCarthy's nonprofit focusing on research, treatment and support for families affected by autism, as well as Save a Child's Heart, an portionate number of permit students attending Beverly Hills schools, the chart includes a few dozen other districts are listed whose permit enrollments are relatively low to nonexistent.

One must wonder why Goldberg did not include (at least) the three districts mentioned in the April 7, 2010 LA Times article (Culver City (1400), Torrance (1700) and Las Virgenes (1400)). Those districts have significantly more permit students than BHUSD!

And whatever has happened to the Basic Aid windfall, money that was supposed to save programs and staff! Seems like the Basic Aid discussion has disappeared!

To Run Or Not To Run

And hidden culture study

By Rudy Cole

It may be too early to fill out a political racing form, but we have some advance tips on the possible or likely candidates in next year's city council election. (Horse race terminology stolen from my early mentor, Peggy Harris, Beverly Hills Post owner.)

WILL RUN: Councilmember Nancy Krasne told us this week that she is "absolutely" a candidate for reelection.

PROBABLY RUNNING: Planning Commissioner Noah Furie, who has been considering for months, recently told fellow commissioners and other community leaders that he is the race. But no formal announcement yet.

MAYBE RUNNING; Mayor Jimmy Delshad has said he is being urged to run for a third term by "many community leaders," but will not run if his family is not "totally" in favor.

POSSIBLE LATE ENTRY: Steven Fenton may not run this year because of critical issues facing the school district. (He is now school board president.) But he has said he "will decide before the end of June."

Waiting for Fenton: Parking and Traffic Commissioner Brian Rosenstein would probably not run if Fenton enters race. Told us "I am in no rush," but he has been preparing for a possible candidacy for months by attending council, school board and other commission meetings.

Other names being mentioned, although none have made any public comment:

Larry Larson: Very articulate activist and lawyer. Has led almost every campaign against development projects for past 15 years. Never served or applied for any city commission and split with North Homeowner's Association during Hilton referendum campaign, which he helped organize. (Reported reason for disagreements were mostly procedural.)

John Millan: Served one term on school board, last as president, and then decided not to seek re-election, explaining that business and family obligations made a second term too difficult. Has been very outspoken on recent school issues, including the permit program; highly critical of present board majority, frequent letter to editor contributor.

Joe Shooshani: Now, city commissioner, made previous, losing try for council. Would be well funded. Not likely to consider if Delshad runs. Has strong ties to Persian community.

This week, mostly positive notes on the most often mentioned or announced candidates; next week some more critical analysis of weaknesses as well as strengths.

Krasne: What made her decide to seek a second term? She told us that husband Jim had asked her the critical question: "Do you feel you can still make a difference?" She is sure she can. Was mayor during one of the most trying times in our city's history with tax revenue declines forcing major cuts in all city services. However, city continued to function well, protective services remained at highest levels and belt tightening, with the help of a highly competent professional staff, proceeded very smoothly. Beverly Hills had little of the crunch trauma other communities faced.

During her term, and with the advice of the search liaison team of Councilmembers Dr. Willie Brien and Barry Brucker, hired new city manager, Jeff Kolin, to make a very orderly change in professional leadership following the resignation of the well-regarded and effective Rod Wood.

A former classroom teacher, Krasne served on two city commissions: Planning and Architectural, has strong planning skills and longtime relationships with many community activists. Lives north.

Furie: Seems to be everyone's consensus candidate, cuts across many different community interests. He is more of a pragmatist than ideologue, in the Dr. Willie Brien mode, but his voting record as a planning commissioner has been mostly anti-development. Even those who disagreed with his planning commission positions respect his thoughtful professionalism. One colleague who has served with him on two commissions called him "a healer, not a divider." Lives southwest.

Delshad: First Iranian elected to city council, tough minded business approach, techno skilled and involved; he is more invested in monetary and budget challenges than political process issues. Strong supporter of Hilton project; he is one of the most able campaigners in city's history. Does heavy and effective walking, very strong campaign structure and well-regarded in business and Persian communities. Told us that his decision on running will depend on how his wife Lonnie and family feel about the time and energy it takes, not only to campaign, but another four years of council service. "My family does come first," he told us. Third term issue seems not to concern him. Lives north.

Fenton: Strong first place finish in his first race for public office in 2007, school board. Would rate him as one of three most effective campaigners in recent political years, with very excellent walking skills. The other two are Delshad and Vice Mayor Barry Brucker. The school district problems are serious enough to make any future political considerations difficult. Take Fenton at his word when he said "I am not even going to think about this until June."

At least one of his board colleagues has urged him to complete his board term and not run next year.

He is following in the political footsteps of his father, Frank, who also served as school board president before being elected to the council. Mother Judie has strong connections to longtime community leaders. Lives southeast.

Rosenstein is everywhere, at every window opening. Says he has the time and interest to really understand city and school governance. Young and ambitious, his father Arnold has been a very good role model as a community leader, who gives back and stays involved. No question, he would have the financial resources to wage a strong campaign – his father was a partner in the 9900 Wilshire property which they sold to Candy and Candy before the financial institutions debacle doomed that project.

Reportedly being groomed by Judie Fenton's organizations, it is probably certain he would not run if Steven Fenton does. However, waiting presents a problem for both Rosenstein and Fenton. In two years, Dr. Willie Brien and John Mirisch will in all likelihood seek second council terms, Mirisch needing another one to become mayor. It is also very probable that Vice Mayor Brucker, who will then have completed his second term as mayor, would seek a third term. A possible Brucker vs. Steven Fenton campaign would be very interesting.

How significant is the "third term" issue? Probably, no single change in state government has done more damage than term limits, which gives more power to the "third house" permanent lobbyists and their special interests, and the bureaucracy.

Some of our most able councilmembers have run successfully for third terms, one even considered a fourth effort. Dr. Charles Aronberg easily ran first for a third term and Levyn, although more controversial, won a third, and only withdrew at the last minute from a fourth try: and there have been others. Term limits have become a mantra for anti-government feelings, but why would we reject the services of someone with talents simply to uphold a slogan? It doesn't keep us from sending Henry Waxman back to Congress for decades of service, and he wins successive elections every two years.

Even Councilmember Krasne says how much "I miss the expertise and advice of former mayor Linda Briskman" who lost a third-term campaign last year, and they were miles apart on issues.

When every incumbent runs, it does inhibit competition. In one recent school board and one city council race, no challengers filed and the elections were cancelled, much to the dismay of newspapers, printers and the post office.

What of the Persian community impact? First, putting some myths to rest:

The concept that the "Iranians don't vote” is totally wrong. The percentage of those voting is either slightly higher or the same as the rest of the electorate. The fact is that a majority of eligible votes never vote in city council elections and fewer in school board campaigns.

Nor should we assume that Iranian voters will only vote for Iranians. In recent elections, very active Persian candidates did not sweep their own community’s constituents. Qualification and issues are equally important to every group in our community.

But there certainly is considerable pride in the Persian community for Delshad’s successes and high visibility; and when the Farsi ballot problem became an accidental issue in his second campaign, and although there were two other Iranians in the same race, both strong and formidable, Delshad managed to unite his own base.

There is still time for all of this to change, for other “serious” candidates to enter the campaign as well as the frequent contenders who have no chance of winning, never mount campaigns, but enjoy the exposure provided by the forums.

Several issues back, I wrote about community outreach for the Annenberg Cultural Center, urging more resident involvement. Following a meeting with the center’s very able executive director, Lou Moore, I’ve had some second thoughts on the timing of more city involvement, and I learned about a study that seems to have not received too much publicity: the Beverly Hills Cultural Plan, a look at present and future city needs in the arts and culture.

It does seem unusual that such an ambitious study, involving so many very talented people, would not have been more widely circulated in the community.

Moore represented the Annenberg and committee members included key city staff, with Brad Meyerowitz, Recreation Service Manager coordinating.

A sampling of some of the top civic leaders who served: Playboy Enterprise’s Richard Rosenzweig, Brooke Kanter (Fine Arts Commission,) former mayors Vicki Reynolds and MeraLee Goldman, Kathi Rothner (Rec and Parks Commission) and Theatre Forty’s leader, David Hunt Stafford and Peter Garland owner of Porta Via, the new gathering place for the city’s political types. (The very bright Nancy Hunt-Coffey, our city librarian, added her expertise to the committee, which gives me an excuse to again plug the outstanding new look and services to be found in our library.

Basically, the cultural study considered present and possible future cultural resources, and suggestions on marketing. This work deserves far more consideration, and Brad told me this week he will bring the committee together soon to expand on how to both implement the recommendations and expand community awareness of the study.

Another new bit of information I had not known, and which impacts any possible community program uses at the Annenberg, is that, under an agreement reached with the city, the center will provide 20 days each year for civic programs and needs in their theatre.

This clearly opens the possibility for a renewal of a Community Theatre, musical recitals by a Beverly Hills Symphony and even Theatre Forty when it has staging that could fill a 500 seat auditorium.

Those 20 days should not be used when smaller venues such as Roxbury or the Council chambers would suffice, including the sparsely attended city forums.

Good charities: A fund raiser will be held Sunday, April 25 to benefit some very worthy causes including the Paul Mitchell Schools, the Larry King Cardiac Foundation and the Children’s Miracle Network.

Mitchell’s co-host will be Leeza Gibbons with special guests Larry King and Donny and Marie Osmond. For more information: Stephanie@shop-pr.com. Fenton will be there, we are sure.

Rudy Cole served for eight years as a member and chair of the city’s Recreation & Parks Commission. He was also President of the Greystone Foundation and served on three other city committees. Rudy can be reached at: Rudy@bhweekly.com.

Beverly Alumni Attend High School’s Career Day

Beverly High’s Transition and Vocational Education Program held their annual Career Day Tuesday, April 6 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. in the high school’s Educational Development Center. This year’s theme was “A New Beginning:

Choices and Changes.”

Panelists, including former students and graduates of Beverly High’s Vocational Education program, discussed topics such as their high school experiences, employment histories, money management, balancing work and family, planning for the future and advice for students and 2010 graduates. Panelists ranged from current college students (UCLA and Santa Monica) and customer service representatives to those working in the LAPD and in the entertainment industry (fashion stylist, singer/songwriter, actor).

The event — presented by Special

Day/Transition Service Coordinator Lorella Cargile, job placement specialist Danelle Taylor, Reiona Ysaguirre, Beverly students and teaching assistants Hattie Bobo and Joel Vine — was open to 11th and 12th-grade special education students, their teachers, school administrators, school board members and some community members.

Beverly High’s annual schoolwide

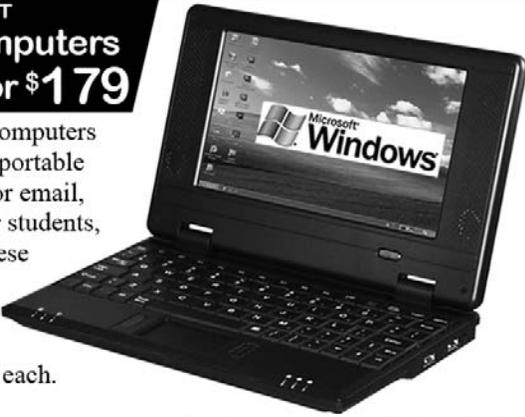

Career Day event will be held Wednesday, April 21. Coordinated by Robert Hayne and Steve Rappaport, the event will include roughly 150 guest speakers representing over 70 different professions. Keith Ferrazzi, CEO of Ferrazzi Greenlight, a sales and marketing consulting firm, will be this year’s keynote speaker.

AN APPLE FOR THE TEACHER

A look at this year's BHEF Apple Award recipients

By Kimberly Cheng

Kerri Benson-Fishman
Beverly High: Special Education Teacher
1999 – Present

Teaching was a new chapter in Kerri Benson-Fishman's life. Born and raised in New York, Benson-Fishman was first hired by then-Beverly High Principal Ben Bushman in 1999 as a long-term substitute home economics teacher for Marilyn Williger.

"Home Economics and Secondary Education was my original degree from NYU," Benson-Fishman said. "I was a parent in the district. My three children graduated from Beverly. I loved the energy of the classroom and particularly related to the many different challenges facing high school students."

Benson-Fishman began taking night classes toward a credential in special education.

"That's how it all started," she said.

And teaching special education became a blessing, Benson-Fishman said. One of the aspects she said she enjoys most is having the opportunity to develop close and meaningful relationships with the students and their families due to the small class sizes.

"Because most of my students are with me through their high school graduation, we develop a trust and bond that works to both of our advantage," Benson-Fishman said. "The students know I want them to be successful and happy, and understand that my requirements for them are based on that goal. It's like watching my own children grow and fly. It makes me very proud. I'm the one that's blessed to have this position because it's full of such rewards."

Benson-Fishman said her biggest challenge is not having enough time in the day to complete all the responsibilities that need to be accomplished.

"I love what I do so much," Benson-Fishman said. "The most important thing to me is that the children know that I believe in them and that each day can be a fresh start. Every day is a new opportunity. The fact that they know that I'm on their side, and that my concern for them is so sincere, makes them want to do their best."

Benson-Fishman said she is able to relate to her students and respects that each student has their own story that makes them unique, adding that teaching is "so fulfilling."

"I've had many chapters in my life," Benson-Fishman said. "Trust, sincerity, and high expectations are the foundation of my classroom. I adore these kids. I feel like the old woman who lived in the shoe. I have so many children; I don't know what to do. I love them all."

Benson-Fishman said she feels lucky and humbled to be honored with the Apple Ball award.

"You know how they say things are meant to be and everything happens for a reason," Benson-Fishman said. "For the most part, that's true."

Yangchen Dolkar
District Office: Administrative Assistant
2006 – Present

Yangchen Dolkar has an unconventional upbringing. As a Tibetan born and raised in India, Dolkar attended Tibetan Children Village School in Dharamsala, India, where thousands of Tibetan refugee children are educated.

"I've always wanted to work with children or something related to helping others," Dolkar said. "In India, I used to work for USAID, which is a nonprofit organization, and before that, I worked with Save the Children Fund, so my goal has always been to work in that kind of environment where you feel like you are delivering something for others."

Dolkar and her husband, Pema Dhondup, started a media nonprofit organization and produced the first video news magazine of the Tibetan Diasporas (the Dalai Lama appeared in the inaugural show) before Dhondup was awarded the Fulbright Scholarship by USC's film school in 1999, and the couple moved to the U.S with their daughter, Tenzin Moenkyi, now a sophomore at Beverly High.

After working as an office assistant at a small Hollywood talent agency for five years, Dolkar was hired to work for BHUSD by then-Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services Susan Liberati. Dolkar began working under current Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services Dr. Ilene Straus one year later.

"It's been great," Dolkar said. "This is our fourth year together, and we have accomplished many things. I love working with the teachers. I have always been inspired by the teachers in this district, and I have dealt with my daughter's teachers. She started in sixth grade [at Beverly Vista]. In my culture, too, we put teacher's first, so I have high respect for teachers."

Dolkar said she feels great winning the Apple Ball award, especially because she loves working for the district, and is learning every day.

"I will try to do my best," Dolkar said. "I will always continue to do what I've been doing, and will try to make it up to the expectations of the people who honored me."

Mike Federman
Beverly High: Visual Arts Teacher
2000 – Present

Art has always been Mike Federman's passion, but he never planned on becoming a teacher. He was, first and foremost, an illustrator, painter and musician.

"I didn't go to school to be a teacher at first," Federman said. "But I think what I like is the fact that it caters to a different intelligence that is not really addressed in school formally. I think I was aware of that in high school myself, that there was always a heavy push academically, and it didn't allow for the successes that a lot of our kids can have in a nonlinear thinking way, in a way that breaks away from the tradition of regurgitating factual information. I love the creative process and the discovery you see on students' faces as they come to these epiphanies."

Federman, who served as the visual arts department chair for six years before recently stepping down, was hired by former Beverly High Principal Ben Bushman in 2000 following the retirement of art teacher Betty Farr. Federman said recently retired art teacher Gil Young should be credited for Mike's move to BHUSD.

"I really attribute the push for me to be hired to Gil Young," said Federman, who replaced Chris King as department chair three years after he was hired. "Gil was on the panel of people interviewing me, along with Ben Bushman, Gayla Rabin and Betty Farr. I met him at a California Art Education Association Convention in Pasadena before I was hired. He was a great mentor and leader."

Federman said the most challenging aspect as a teacher is the inability to teach creativity.

"You can only model it and nurture it," Federman said. "The best thing about teaching for me is to be with the kids. My wife [Elizabeth Federman] taught at Beverly Vista for a long time [as an art teacher] before we had kids, and that's what's special about this place. I got to really watch these kids grow up and eventually take classes with me after coming from my wife's class."

Federman and his wife have three sons, Jaron, 5, Holden, 3, and Dylan, who is almost 2 years old. He said it's "weird" to be honored with the Apple Ball award because he's "just not good with stuff like this."

"The bigger reason is I don't think anybody really sees what happens on campus here in the classrooms like they should," Federman said. "There are people who have been teaching here and have been dedicated for many years. They seem to go unnoticed for whatever reason. It's so hard to have people coming up to you saying congratulations when you know how much that person has given or done, how much the kids love them, and that they've been here longer than you have."

Debi Ives
Horace Mann: Adapted Physical Education Specialist
1979 – Present

Debi Ives is the only Apple Award recipient who teaches at all five BHUSD schools. In fact, she has taught at all five schools for more than 30 years. As the adapted physical education teacher, Ives, who calls Horace Mann her home school, began the program in 1979 after Beverly Hills contracted with the L.A. County Superintendent of Schools to develop an APE program.

Ives (then Debi Beckwith) was officially hired to continue the program by then Director of Special Education Nancy Wolf in 1981. As a sub-discipline of physical education, APE is an individualized program created for students with disabilities including motor developmental delays.

Ives said she loves working with special needs students because she is able to watch them progress and achieve their goals.

"The children get so excited with every new thing they learn," Ives said. "They don't have an attitude except for wanting to learn new skills. These kids really need the extra help of having these tests broken down, and when they achieve learning something new, the light and excitement in their eyes is overwhelming. It's so gratifying. I get more out of it than the kids do."

"The children get so excited with every new thing they learn," Ives said. "They don't have an attitude except for wanting to learn new skills. These kids really need the extra help of having these tests broken down, and when they achieve learning something new, the light and excitement in their eyes is overwhelming. It's so gratifying. I get more out of it than the kids do."

Ives said some of her students have gone on to successfully join sports teams and accomplish milestones in their educational careers.

"I've had a few students be on the football team and even written up in the newspaper," Ives said. "I've had one become a lawyer. I've had one student get a perfect score on the SATs."

Ives and her husband, Neil, have two children, Emily and Grant — both of whom graduated from Horace Mann and Beverly High. Ives is also one of the assistant swim coaches at the high school.

"It's overwhelming and so flattering to receive this award," Ives said. "It's a very special honor."

Christina McDonald
Hawthorne: Third-grade Teacher
1991 – Present

Christina McDonald began her teaching career in special education. She was hired by then-Hawthorne Principal Dick Douglas in 1991 to teach sixth, seventh and eighth grade special education classes. Douglas is retiring this year as superintendent of the Montecito Union School District.

"It was really hard [when Douglas left BHUSD] because he was a great principal and very encouraging," McDonald said. "He's very supportive of what I was doing in my special ed classroom at that time. That was a sad day."

Douglas' departure from BHUSD sparked a revolving door of principals at Hawthorne.

"It's definitely unusual," McDonald said. "You kind of get used to how a principal reacts and what they're going to ask you to do and what they're going to want to see when they come into your classroom. So when you have so many principals, I mean, there were times when we had a new principal every year, it's almost like you're in limbo."

The constant changes, however, taught McDonald how to be flexible.

"Everyone has gone through a different administration program, and they're looking for different things," McDonald said. "It seems like you're always jumping back and forth depending on who your principal was. It wasn't necessarily the best feeling, but it definitely taught you to be flexible."

Now a third-grade teacher, McDonald said what she loved most about teaching special education was how students learned in different ways.

"To me, that's fascinating," McDonald said. "It's like solving a puzzle. So when you have children who learn in different ways, and you finally figure out the way that's going to be successful for them, that's just an amazing feeling for the child and for the teacher."

McDonald said watching her students improve and become more confident "makes [her] whole year."

"It's pretty amazing [to be honored with the award]," McDonald said. "I work with a lot of amazing teachers, so to be singled out is an overwhelming feeling. But it's wonderful to be honored for a career that I absolutely love."

Karen Sekeres
Beverly Vista: First-grade Teacher
1973 – Present

Karen Sekeres started out as a substitute teacher after she was told by then-Superintendent Kenneth Peters that there were no teaching jobs available. But she apparently struck a chord with El Rodeo Principal Frank Scott. Scott liked what he saw and hired Sekeres two years later in 1975 as a first-grade teacher.

Sekeres, who also taught fourth and fifth grade, said what she loves most about the job are her students and the challenges of teaching. Sekeres also served as a reading specialist for 10 years first at El Rodeo and then at both El Rodeo and Beverly Vista.

"The kids make you laugh every day," Sekeres said. "That's the fun of it. It's always new. Every year you have a different set of children so the job is never boring. [The challenge is] you're always trying to meet the needs of a different group of children. I think the proudest moments are when you see a child progress that you've taught, and you see a light turn on for them. That's really thrilling."

Sekeres said this is the first year in which one of her students is the child of a former student.

"This year, I have a son of a former student [Lori Feinberg] that I had in fifth grade," Sekeres said. "And I had the son of another mom [Jennifer Rose] whose mom [Judy Rose] actually used to work with me. She was in first grade the first year I started teaching. It's kind of bizarre."

Sekeres said teaching in BHUSD is akin to having a second family.

"Families move to Beverly Hills for the schools, and education is important to them," Sekeres said. "When you teach here for a long time, as I have, and see your former students grow up and have their own children, you feel like a part of their family."

Sekeres said she feels honored to have been chosen for the Apple Ball award.

"I feel very fortunate," she said. "It's a wonderful honor."

District Office: Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services
2006 – Present

Dr. Ilene Straus' resume stands out from the rest. For 23 years, Straus served as a principal for all levels of education — elementary, middle and high school. Having previously served as the senior director of secondary education in Santa Monica, Straus was hired as BHUSD's assistant superintendent of educational services in 2006 by then-Superintendent Kari McVeigh.

"I have done a lot of focused work around improving instruction, student achievements and teaching practices for a very long time," Straus said. "I was a long-term site leader at the elementary, middle and high-school levels and was recognized nationally for my work."

Straus, whose sister, Dr. Andrea Kay, works as El Rodeo's instrumental music specialist, said though every community has its uniqueness, Beverly Hills has one special quality: its strong community connection.

"It's a small, committed, connected community," Straus said. "Students come back and raise their children, and there's such a community connection between the people who grow up here and come back and teach here and bring their children here."

Straus said one of the differences between the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District and BHUSD is the student population, the former having more than double the student population of BHUSD. For her, however, one thing remains the same.

"I love working with kids and teachers," Straus said. "I love helping schools get better. I love the connection to a community and to working with staff to help the schools be the best. It's often said that curriculum is the meat and potatoes of the schools. It's what happens in the classrooms; it's the textbooks; it's the instruction; it's the assessment; it's the teacher's craft. For me, [my job] is a really good match because I've spent my life among schools, and it's what I believe makes all the difference in the classrooms and overall in the schools."

Straus said she believes that in any district, including BHUSD, it takes time to understand a new system, how it functions and "how all the pieces fit together." She added that she was honored to be recognized with the Apple Ball award.

"I feel I represent a team that's working very hard, and I'm honored that Dr. [Jerry] Gross selected me," Straus said. "I think the work with the schools is really important, and I feel that our community and our school district really honor a commitment for the best schools it can have. We're doing the best we can to focus on the really important things."

Barbara Zarider
El Rodeo: First-grade Teacher
1985 – Present

Barbara Zarider keeps it all in the family. Not only did she attend BHUSD schools (Beverly High 1972 graduate), her mother, Gloria Boraz, taught second grade at Horace Mann for 25 years. Both her sisters, Nancy Friedman and Leslie Boraz, are also teachers in the district, the latter of which is a speech therapist at Horace Mann.

"We're very family-connected to the district," Zarider said. "I started at Beverly in fourth grader over 46 years ago."

When Zarider learned about the kindergarten teaching opening at Hawthorne in 1985, she had just given birth to her first of two sons, Matt (Class of 2003) and Evan (Class of 2006). She interviewed for the job and was hired by then-Hawthorne Principal Dick Ubick.

"I felt very much like I came home," Zarider said. "It's very familiar and comfortable, and I feel like my roots are here. It was a great opportunity to come back and teach in the district where I went to school."

Zarider said the best part of her career is teaching her students to love learning and love school.

"Teaching first grade is teaching kids how to read," Zarider said. "They come in and don't know how to read, and they go out, and they can read. It's really something special."

Zarider said it has been "really fun" teaching the children of some of her former classmates.

"It's coming full circle," she said. "The thing about Beverly Hills that's so amazing is that everyone, if they can, tries to come back. Second generations, third generations. People go to school here, grow up, get married, and they want to come back and raise their kids here. One of my oldest and dearest friends since fourth grade is a teacher at Hawthorne: Stephanie Lehrer. We went to [Beverly Vista] together. My best friend for 30 years is Debbie Gershenhorn. She's a kindergarten teacher at El Rodeo. We met my freshman year in college at UCSB. There are so many connections for me here. It's just like home."

Zarider said the families and her colleagues are what make El Rodeo unique.

"Sometimes I walk around and feel like this is my house," Zarider said. "There are good, caring people at this school and supportive parents. I'm really happy. I really like my little life here."

This year's Apple Ball Dinner Gala and Auction will be held May 5 at the Beverly Hilton. The Bosse Spirit of Philanthropy Award will be presented to Shawn and Larry King for their contributions to the community and the district. Debbie Allen will receive the BEST Award (Building Educational Success Together) for bringing the Debbie Allen Dance Academy to BHUSD schools. For ticket information, call BHEF at (310) 557-0651.

Li-liquid-i-ty: When you review your investment portfolio and wet your pants!

How much of your stock and real estate portfolio are you willing to sacrifice?

Recover your family's inheritance with the security of life insurance. Life insurance proceeds provide cash when your family needs it most. Diversify your investment portfolio with a guaranteed death benefit that is never affected by the fluctuation of the stock market or real estate values. You will know exactly what your family will inherit.

Life insurance is more affordable than you may realize. Designing a policy to life expectancy can reduce premium payments by as much as 30%, especially for seniors. What's more, term insurance rates are now at historic lows. Young people who have never owned insurance coverage often don't understand how inexpensive it is to provide security and peace of mind for themselves and their family.

Some people own policies that are no longer the best product to accomplish their goals. One of our clients paid $40,000 annually for $5 million of coverage. His goal was to pay the least amount to guarantee his death benefit. We exchanged his policy for a new one that guaranteed the same amount of coverage beyond age 100, with no further premium payments. He accumulates much less cash surrender value in the new policy, but that was never his goal.

New insurance products offer guarantees that were not previously available. Alan Kaye recently designed a policy to pay the death benefit and all of the accumulated annual premium payments, plus 3% annually. The longer you live, the more your family will inherit!

Why let the market determine the future of your estate? Use life insurance death benefits to help offset your investment losses. You may also increase the amount your family receives from your retirement plan assets, provide for your grandchildren's education and create large gifts for your favorite charities. Call Alan Kaye at 800.662.5433. He can help you decide whether to buy insurance, sell, surrender, keep or replace your old policy.

How liquid is your estate? And what will your heirs inherit?

Be sure to ask for a complimentary consultation to review your life insurance needs and products.
