City Council Approves 2010-2011 Budget

The Beverly Hills City Council adopted the 2010-2011 annual budget of about $402 million during last Thursday's meeting in a 4-1 vote. Councilmember John Mirisch dissented.

As reported in the Weekly's cover story "Beverly Hills Faces Budget Cuts" [Issue 555], the original proposed budget recommended reducing library hours by closing Saturdays, the Sunday Thanksgiving weekend and closing early each day during the last week of December.

Under the approved budget, library hours will be reduced by only closing on holiday weekends.

The budget fills an estimated $9 million gap in the general fund caused by a decrease in city revenues, over 75 percent of which stem from retail, hotel and other business taxes.

"The city council has approved a conservative budget that reflects the ongoing impacts of the global recession, while maintaining critical programs and services which the community values," said Chief Financial Officer Scott Miller. "The city has made significant reductions to its operating expenses, on top of the over $18 million reduced last year and $4 million the year before."

The budget permanently eliminates 25 staff positions, 14 of which are vacant; implementing five furlough days for nonsafety and nonemergency staff, with a potential of 10 furlough days if necessary; extending the useful life of certain city equipment, including radio, vehicles and IT equipment; potentially outsourcing park maintenance; reducing the Holiday Lighting and Decoration Program; reducing several recreation programs; deferring certain parks and public works maintenance; and reducing school resource officers positions.

"With the long-term outlook for the economy uncertain and a protracted recovery that may further reduce revenue, the city council faced some very difficult choices to make up for the projected budget gap," Miller said. "Thanks to their leadership and guidance, along with the public's vital participation, the city has adopted a balanced budget that reconciles the realities of the current fiscal situation, yet remains true to the city council's priorities and the community's core values."

The budget also includes revenue increases, such as full implementation of a car impound lot and increasing utility late fees, planning, building and construction permit fees.

More information about the Beverly Hills city budget can be found on the city's Web site at www.beverlyhills.org.

Gross Addresses Criticism of Selection Process in Principal Search

During Monday's Board of Education Meeting, Superintendent Dr. Jerry Gross addressed recent criticism from former Board member Mel Spitz and a June 4 Courier article that the selection process for Beverly High's principal was flawed and corrupted.

Gross said the selection process for the high school principal has been the same process used to fill "the dozen or so leaderships positions" since Gross became the superintendent in November 2008.

"We have strictly followed board policy," Gross said. "This policy is very clear: it does not call for the participation of board members in the screening of interviewing of candidates.

Gross said records indicate this process has been in place since at least April 2002.

"If this board wants to be involved in the screening and interviewing and checking references, then all they have to say is for us to make that happen, and it will happen," Gross said. "We don't need to beat up on each other to make changes in our procedures. All we have to do is 30 Years After held its third annual "Mix and Mingle" event Thursday, June 8 at the home of Dr. Parviz and Nahid Okhovat in Bel Air.

say, 'Let's try another way,' and it will be done."

Gross added that "contrary to what has been said in the papers," board members were not prevented from reviewing credentials and letters of applications for the high school principal position.

"They were invited to do so after I was able to determine that it was OK for this to happen, even though it is not part of our board's policy for selecting new leadership staff members," Gross said. "It is my hope that in the future when there is disagreement about a process or a policy we are following that we will not have to make it a public controversy and have members of our public share information on the topic that simply flies in the face of the facts."

Board President Steven Fenton echoed Gross' sentiments.

"My colleagues had every opportunity to change the board policy when we first started the process of hiring three different principals," Fenton said. "After we had hired the first two and were in the process of hiring the third was when colleagues started to complain about the process."

Fenton said though they "all agree that the board policy needs to be changed," it makes no sense to change the policy midstream.

"I feel very strongly that the board needs to be involved from day one," Fenton said. "The board needs to drive this process, and I believe that two board members should be delegated to spearhead a committee that would take this process from conception all the way to inception. That way the process is more inclusive instead of exclusive, and the community will know that the board is involved in every step of the way."

Student Board Member Eligibility Ouestioned

The Board of Education discussed eligibility regulations surrounding the selection of student representation on the board, which is currently limited to the elected members of the Associated Student Body class.

The issue was raised during the May 11 school board meeting by Beverly High senior Matthew Forman, who said board bylaws should be changed to open eligibility for the student board member position to all students, since this position is designed to represent the entire student body.

"I think Matthew brought up some valid points," said Board President Steven Fenton. "The problem is that it's going to take time to dissect the policy and get the necessary buy-in from the students. That's a process unto itself."

Fenton said nothing could have been done to change the policy this year because ASB elections took place Tuesday, the day after the board meeting.

"At the end of the day, I agree with [Beverly High ASB Advisor] Loren Newman," Fenton said. "The students should dictate what type of process should be conducted when choosing one of their own. But I was very impressed that Matthew came in front of the board. He was very passionate about this issue, and I can certainly understand why."

'Tis the Season to be Wasteful

By Councilmember John Mirisch

Old habits sometimes die hard. For at least the second year in a row, we have gotten our priorities all wrong when it comes to an important part of the City budget.

Last week the City Council passed the City's 2010-2011 operating budget. It was a 4-1 vote. While most of the budget cuts, however unfortunate, made sense, we still voted to approve an earmark of millions of dollars to "market the City." Don't get me wrong: we want our businesses to succeed and we want to give people a reason to come to Beverly Hills, but the "business as usual" approach just doesn't cut it anymore

Past marketing efforts have lacked direction and their goals seemed nebulous, at best. And yet the earmark the Council approved includes what is likely to be hundreds of thousands of dollars for the so-called "holiday lighting ceremony" and holiday decorations, both of which have seemed stale and tired in the past years.

Guess this explains why the City's past holiday efforts have studiously avoided acknowledging Chanukah, because this is pure pork at its worst. And this at a time when we're being forced, yet again, to cut the library hours, furlough employees, reduce service levels, and increase fees, without providing sufficient funding for community assistance programs that help the most vulnerable among us. Shame on

The money in question is the so-called "2% TOT (Transient Occupancy Tax, also known as 'bed tax')," or is about 14% of the City's hotel tax revenue which is paid for by hotel guests. For years, this "2% TOT" has operated as a slush fund for unspecified "marketing activities." Over the years, tens of millions of dollars have disappeared into a black hole of questionable activities without any benchmarks or metrics for success. For the most part, it would be almost impossible to show that the taxpayers are getting value-for-money.

The main rationale for this earmark is a handshake deal made some 15 years ago between the then-Council and the then-Chamber of Commerce. Never mind the fact that the bed tax was voted on by all the residents as an enhancement to our General Fund, out of which, among other services, the Police and Fire Department budgets are paid.

In other words, it's up to us to prioritize how these funds would best be spent. In other words, we could use some or all of this money to mitigate the effects of our budget imbalance: to reduce rate hikes, to lessen the impact of reduced services and to help those in our Community who need it the most.

I proposed taking some of the holiday decoration funds to restore funding for the Maple Center's Psychiatric Program, Youth Tutoring Program and Senior Peer Counseling programs, all of which may now be eliminated. I also proposed restoring funding to the Saban Free Clinic beyond the largely symbolic amount of $5000 which the Council agreed upon. The Saban Free Clinic serves many of our residents and received over $40,000 from the City to help fund these services two years ago, an amount which was reduced to $5000 last year.

We have heard that if we don't spend this money to market the City, we'll become Pacoima. Again, please understand that I have nothing against spending money to market the City if we see a clear return on our investment and get valuefor-money. But over the years we have spent literally tens of millions of dollars on questionable and often wasteful marketing campaigns, not to mention funding Insider Club infrastructures that seem to have self-perpetuation as their main goal. That has to end, especially in this economy with all the painful cuts we have been forced to make, and I do not see any more accountability through the new structure of the Conference and Visitors' Bureau (CVB) which leads me to believe that anything has changed or will change in the near future.

But while marketing can indeed be used to our City's benefit, the main point is that we have the goods. Our "product," as they say in the industry, is a good one. The point is that people don't come to our City because of bland marketing campaigns like "Breakfast in Beverly Hills." They come to our City because of the residential quality of life and all that flows from it: our charm, our glamour, our flair, our cachet. Our quality of life, which includes our unique shopping areas — not some lackluster marketing effort — is the goose that laid the golden egg, and it is the key to keeping our brand fresh and relevant.

By all means, let's build upon our brand, but let's be clever about how we use our resources. When it comes to the holiday programs, let's engage the business community to create festive events in order to attract tourists and residents alike. Why not have holiday decoration contests like a "Battle of the Streets" or of individual stores, where the public can vote on the street and/or store with the best or most innovative holiday decorations? The unveiling of the Saks Fifth Avenue display windows in New York is an event unto itself. Why not work with the merchants to create similar activities, which we could help market and promote? How about starting with the Saks in Beverly Hills? Rather than blow hundreds of thousands on half-baked fireworks, let's set up an ice skating rink in front of the "Beverly Hills" sign in Beverly Gardens, as has been suggested. What a great idea to create a destination with holiday atmosphere and to give us a place to go with our families. Rather than spending a fortune on tired and bland decorations, let's be creative. Let's do more for less.

And for heaven's sake, let's not ever forget our seniors, who are perhaps the most invisible and undervalued segment of our Community. We can probably never do enough for them, but we can certainly do more than we do now. How about saving the Maple Center's Senior Peer Counseling program for starters?

We hear the slogan about how Beverly Hills is supposed to be "the Smart City." There is nothing smart about discarding our seniors. There is nothing smart about putting holiday decorations before people. There is nothing smart about wasteful pork earmarks, which are spent without strategic vision and without accountability

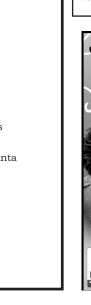

To my way of thinking, showing more compassion, helping those in our Community who need it the most, demanding accountability, being clever in our marketing spends and focusing on our quality of life is the smartest thing we can possibly do. Let's do the right thing. Let's get smart.

BHHS Runner Sets School Record At State Meet

Former Norman boys' basketball coach explains reason for departure.

By Steven Herbert

Raquel Hefflin concluded her Beverly High career by setting a school record in the girls' 800 meters in the CIF State Track and Field Championships Saturday in Clovis.

Hefflin finished sixth in two minutes, 11.12 seconds, breaking the previous record of 2:11.64 set by Barbara Gottlieb in 1981, according to records complied by Simon Langer. Amy Weissenbach of Harvard Westlake won in 2:07.52.

Hefflin advanced to the final by finishing second in her heat Friday in 2:12.17.

The Norman boys' 400 relay team of Kenny Bassett, Julian Sarokin, Trevor Walters and Cameron Countryman in 41.76 in a race won by Long Beach Poly in 41.13. The team finished second behind Long Beach Poly in its heat Friday.

Hefflin, a co-winner of the school's girls' athlete of the year award with Mallory Smith, will run for UC Riverside on what Highlanders assistant coach and its recruiting coordinator Nate Browne called "close to a full" athletic scholarship.

Hefflin was helped in getting the scholarship by Beverly Hills track coach Jeff Fisher, who knew UC Riverside middle distance runner Brenda Martinez from both competing in Europe last summer.

Martinez told Fisher about the Highlanders' program and Fisher became impressed when Martinez told him she had gone from having a personal best of 2:16 in the 800 in high school to 2:02.34 as a junior at Riverside last year.

"I looked at that [and thought] 'They must run a pretty decent program,'" Fisher said.

Fisher sent e-mails to UC Riverside's coaching staff about Hefflin, and recommended that she consider the school.

"Riverside seems like a program where they're interested in developing athletes," said Fisher, who ran for LSU. "Some of the programs want to see an amazing time. Riverside was more interested in what type of athlete she was, what type of person she was.

"When I talked to them about her dedication, her work ethic, her attitude and the intangibles that she would bring to the program, they were sold."

Browne said the main things he was impressed by Hefflin were her "ability and what she has accomplished already in such a short time that Jeff has had to work with her."

Fisher began coaching Hefflin last summer, Browne said.

Another factor in Hefflin's favor is that "she carries a quiet confidence," Browne said.

"You can tell she has the goods to be a strong Division I athlete," Browne said. "She sees herself at the top and you know she'll do that work. She comes from an awesome family, a family that instilled the values of hard work and getting the job done.

"Every college coach wants to coach someone like her. She's got everything we're looking for in a student athlete."

Boys' Basketball

Former Beverly Hills coach Derek Boldon is advising his successor to "be patient and be ready to deal with a lot of external factors," the biggest of which is "parental involvement... parents involved with their kids playing or their kids making the team."

Boldon called being the Norman boys' basketball coach "pretty tough, just from the standpoint everybody wants to play."

"It's not tough that they want to win, or they put together a winning program," Boldon said. "These kids come up in the [Beverly Hills Basketball League], they're used to playing ball, they're used to playing equal minutes. A lot of the mentality throughout the program is that everybody plays equal minutes because that's how they came up.

"That's not a competitive environment and that's something that I'm not used to. That's not my world. That's not how basketball functions."

Boldon, 48, said he resigned as Beverly Hills coach to become an assistant men's coach at El Camino College to further his goal of coaching on the NCAA Division I level "as quickly as possible."

"Being at a high school at Beverly Hills is not going to allow me to do that," Boldon said. "You don't have the recruiting responsibility, you don't have a lot of say in who comes in the door. I need to be in a position where I can have more impact and put together a team that I want to put together, not a team that happens to live in the area."

Boldon said his two seasons as the Normans' coach were "enjoyable."

"We showed some serious improvement... with the same bunch of guys basically," Boldon said. Beverly Hills was 4-22 his first season and 13-15 his second. "That was my goal."

John Braddell, who coached the Norman girls' basketball team to the Southern Section Division 2-A final in 2009 and the semifinals this year, said he is not interested in becoming the boys' coach.

"I've built this program and I like the kids, I like the atmosphere," Braddell said. "I want to stay where I am. I've got some very talented young ladies coming back so it would be smart for me to stay where I am."

Beverly Hills sophomore coach Len Mitchell said he is "absolutely not" interested in becoming the varsity coach, a position he believes probably should go to "a young, single guy," because "time-wise, it takes up most of the year, more so than football," because of spring, summer and fall play in addition to the season.

Interviews to fill the vacancy are scheduled to begin Friday, boys' athletic director Jason Newman said. Newman said he hopes to make a recommendation to the principal about a new coach late next week.

Boys' Tennis Individual Regionals

The Beverly Hills team of Ben Haber and Donovan Suh fell one victory short of advancing to the round of 16, losing to Jackson Isaacs and Danny Sharon of Brentwood, 6-0, 6-0, in a third-round match May 21 at the Whittier Narrows Tennis Center.

Haber and Suh defeated Alvin Li and Johnathan Tang of West Covina South Hills, 6-1, 6-0, in the first round, and George Chiu and Hardy Lou of Arcadia, 6-4, 6-2, in the second.

Andre Herd, the Normans' singles entrant, defeated James Beardslee of San Dimas, 6-2, 6-0, in the first round and lost to Ganesh Alagappan of Cerritos, 6-3, 6-1, in the second.

Boys' Golf

Beverly Hills coach Jason Newman said he "was pleased" with his team's season, which saw Richard Kim, win the Ocean League championship, Hyuk Yu finish second and two other golfers qualify for the Southern Section individual regionals.

However, the Normans missed advancing to the team finals by one place and failed by the narrowest of margins of having a golfer qualify for the individual finals.

The Normans finished fourth in the Western Team Divisional May 10 at Mountain Meadows Golf Club in Pomona with a 26-overpar 386, six shots behind Harvard-Westlake, the third and final qualifier. Brian Song shot a team-low three-over-par 75 for Beverly Hills.

"I thought the guys played very well," Jason

Newman said. "We had six solid scores, we just weren't quite good enough."

Josh Newman, a son of Jason Newman, shot a team-low three-over-par 75 in the Northern Individual Regional May 17 at River Ridge Golf Club in Oxnard, coming one shot short of being among the 30 low scores and ties to qualify for the Southern Section Individual Finals.

"It was a difficult course," Jason Newman said. "The greens were fast. Some guys didn't play well. You're always disappointing when you miss advancing by one place in the team or in the individuals by one shot, but that's golf."

Beverly Hills had "a pretty strong JV team" that "improved tremendously over the year," leaving Newman "cautiously optimistic" about next season.

The key to the Normans' success for next season "will be how many tournaments the kids play over the summer, how much work they get in," Newman said.

"Getting the work in is the reason we didn't advance in the team" competition, Newman said.

"We had some people who were playing pretty constantly," Newman said.

"We had other guys who had other things to do — they had other jobs or what have you — and they didn't to participate as much in the summer as much as they needed to in order for our team to be as good as we needed to be."

The People Win One

Other notes on events By Rudy Cole

So, it appears reasonably clear, the political skies are not falling, the democratic process is resilient, and the public interest can prevail on election day.

What prompts all this optimism on the day after the most expensive election, by far, in California history? The defeat of Proposition 16. True, there were far more important contests in Tuesday's primary then this ballot measure, but the voter rejection of an effort to curtail consumer protection on electric power services had and will have enormous ramifications on the electoral process.

Very simply put, the majority of voters in California are sufficiently sophisticated to know when they are being conned. A northern California utility blitzed the television screens throughout the state with slick, attractive and clever spots. The slogan alone was compelling: "Taxpayer's Right to Vote (or decide)."

The tube wars were almost entirely one sided. There was no well-funded opposition campaign. No commercials for a "No" vote were aired, but reason prevailed.

Although newspaper endorsements have diminished in influence, paradoxically, since our media has become more balanced and less strident, this time the opposition of the major publications in the state, including the Los Angeles Times, had an impact.

Resisting the pressure of this special interest, Big Electricity, does send a message: The initiative and referendum process was never intended to become a tool of special interests. The Hiram Johnson voter reform options were meant to give voters a shot at fixing what their representatives could or would not make happen. In fact, Johnson wanted to find the means of balancing the influence of the rail road lobby in the early years of the last century.

Does the process need repair? There could be a remedy to one-sided spending: TV stations could be required to provide equal, free time when only one argument on a ballot measure is aired and reaches a certain level of buys. Another: Ban the payment of ballot measure petitions circulators. Paying people to obtain signatures does defeat the intent of a populist uprising to remedy a legislative action.

There were some very few exceptions to the newspaper opposition. An Orange County daily and our right-leaning competitor found some reason for supporting PG&E. (That newspaper backing of Prop. 16 failed here too. Beverly Hills voted 2,499 No to 1,472 Yes, even better than the state vote.) Our city council voted unanimously to urge a "No" vote. But thank most of the press and an alert electorate for this singular act of standing up to the special interests

Other mild surprises in Tuesday's election: Insurance Commissioner Steve Poizner's efforts to out conservative Meg Whitman bombed. Just possibly, the antillegal immigrant issue, and the Arizona law, may not have the political legs in California it had in other states.

Poizner, who had a fairly good record as a consumer protector, moved so far to the right that it may just have turned off the more moderate base of the Republican Party. Even with the support of one of the state's leading right wingers, Cong. Thomas McClintock, Poizner lost by a larger margin than the polling predicted. However, Whitman, too, moved so far to the right that her campaign will require some major alterations if she has any hope of attracting the dominant, moderate California voter.

There was a very important missing person in the Republican primary. The only remote reference to Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger, who is, after all, the Republican Party governor of our state, came from the testy message from Poizner supporter McClintock: In all his spots he said, "Isn't it time to elect someone from the Republican wing of the Republican party?" Arnold might just read that as a negative. Of course, it was McClintock who ran against Arnold from the right eight years ago, and lost.

Unless Whitman can find some way to keep her own troops happy and, at the same time, win an endorsement from the governor, her chances of defeating Jerry Brown in November are indeed slim. Simply too much garbage from the primary, including her own rhetoric, to appeal to the center.

Some other numbers of interest. Even though neither had any real opposition, Atty. General Brown and United States Senator Barbara Boxer had strong primary numbers. Brown with 1,478752 topped Whitman's 1,101,528. Boxer did even better. She received 1,428,923 compared to Carly Fiorina's 952,072. And who would have ever predicted that it would be the state's GOP to be the first to present two female candidates for top offices?

None of the Westside/Beverly Hills elected officials had any serious primary challengers and are all expected to win this November, including Assemblyman Mike Feuer and Cong. Henry Waxman, both extremely able and responsive to our community needs.

Rare to see a candidate at a community event on election night, but Feuer was one of the many civic, community and government leaders at the annual Backdraft, Fire Association Dinner at the Beverly Hilton Tuesday.

You probably don't expect fire fighters to deliver stirring speeches, but Association President Capt. Dennis Andrews did just that. His recounting of his own recent emergency medical issue, outside Beverly Hills, compared to how a similar need would be handled in our own city was not only moving, but reinforcing of the fact that we are indeed very lucky to have the kind of fire and paramedic service these men and women give to Beverly Hills every day and night.

Jeannie Reynolds presented the annual Don Reynolds scholarship awards with her usual grace and dignity, Mayor Jimmy Delshad did the introductions and opening comments smoothly and City Clerk Byron Pope did "God Bless America" instead of the national anthem with his operatic-quality voice. One small beef: in my hometown of Fostoria, we learned to stand only for the national anthem or our school song, not the Irving Berlin classic.

The Italians are coming: No, they are here with a very special event. Most of the month, until June 20, some of our and nearby Los Angeles Italian restaurants are participating in a dining event "Authentic Italian Food" or "Learn to Speak Italian One Bite at a Time."

Participating eateries include Caffe Roma, Il Grano, Locanda del Lago, Drago, Il Moro and Valentino.

The event was introduced at an incredible luncheon at the Peninsula last week with chefs from each of the restaurants working together in the hotel's kitchen to provide samples of their menus.

Among the many working chefs we saw was our own, great Celesino Drago and Giampiero of Caffe Roma with the Peninsula's Brandon Weaver acting as kitchen guide. Restaurant writer Jay Weston paid tribute to Valentino owner Piero Selvaggio and I offered my own historical note by reminding the largely Italian audience that we have more Italian restaurants in Beverly Hills than Jewish delis. Of course, when you have the great Nate 'n Al's that almost evens the count.

Other guests at the introductory luncheon were the Los Angeles Consul General Nicola Faganello, Carlo Angelo Bocchi, commissioner of the Italian Trade Commission, his deputy Paola De Faveri. Laurel Rosen, Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, Alessia Botturi, AIS Italian Sommelier Association, Lucia Peretti, Italy Chamber of Commerce and Sara Betta, Italian Trade Commission. Most of the introductions were made by Lettzi Miccoli, executive director of the Italy-America Chamber of Commerce. And a nod to the PR people from Bread and Butter, Rachel Ayotte and Monique Ianons for smooth press handling - the room was loaded with working press.

Just to be safe, I brought one of the owners of Crepe Republic to pre-sample my food. This Armenian chef who specializes in French cooking stayed after I left and added her raves to the deserts.

Planning notes: The agendas for the Planning Commission are not quite as busy as when 9900, the Montage and the Beverly Hilton were winding their way through the process, but there are some upcoming decisions worth watching.

On the positive side, the neglected areas off Wilshire on Little Santa Monica called "Gateway" which was stalled while Eli Broad played with our hopes for an art museum on part of this land, will now proceed. Good project, beautify a city entrance point and just maybe provide some more affordable housing and upscale retailing.

South Peck Drive and South Camden's 100 south block may finally have a resolution to years of planning discussions and provide an important improvement to the area. Plans seem very attractive, not too intrusive into residential and low in neighborhood controversy. A refreshing change from past efforts.

Two hotels are asking for modifications on their public assembly uses, and that may need some cautious approach. The limits on the use of the roof top by the hotel at 9360 Wilshire were made because the original approval considered its proximity to residential. There were reasons why those inhibitions were adopted. True, the new operators, a Thompson Hotel, have made vast improvements from the times this hotel was either a Holiday Inn or a Best Western, but this commission should consider past city limits before rushing into approving a roof top dining addition.

Another hotel seeking a modification is the Avalon, and it too has seen major improvements; now it seeks extension of hours of operation. The property is even closer to residential and a nearby church. To change the previous conditions will need some very convincing arguments to the commission.

The most important item on the upcoming commission agenda is Lexus' ambitious plans for a new structure. This is still under environmental review and will probably not be heard until July or even later. Worth watching. We do need the revenue from car dealers, however again the proximity to residential will make this a very carefully watched development plan.

Thoughts on an international overreaction – the flotilla disaster.

First, the loss of any lives is a terrible tragedy. However, the reaction was so one sided and so prejudging of the facts that one has to wonder about the sincerity of those who truly want to bring peace to the Middle Fast

Second, we should all be very appreciative of the careful and correct reaction of President Barack Obama who voiced the most rational argument: Let's build on the incident to work for real peace in the Middle Fast

As for the protest movements, their balanced sincerity, and that of Turkey, is questionable. Where were the strikes of shipping workers when the Gazans were launching missiles into Israel, killing and wounding the truly innocent?

In the middle of this, there was another tragedy, a small one but nevertheless just as human. During the suicide bombing of civilian targets earlier in this decade, and that never had the same international anger reaction as the flotilla disaster, an American citizen riding on an Israeli bus was paralyzed from the neck down. Since 2003 he has lived in agony, and not as a symbol of hatred. On the same day as the flotilla raid, Steve Averbach died. Maybe, just for a moment, the Norwegian anti-Israel demonstrators might have paused to honor his memory.

Final political thoughts: Sarah Palin may not have the best luck in selecting campaign slogans. Her chant of "Drill Baby Drill" in support of off-shore oil exploration has been muted recently.

Next week: A tribute to the students and teachers in the exciting award winning Beverly High School Robotics program and their appearance at last week's board meeting. It could not have come at a better time: Something to make us feel good about our schools, still among the best in the nation.

COVERSTORY THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES

BHUSD retiring faculty and staff bid farewell to Beverly Hills

By Kimberly Cheng

Elaine Palazzo Beverly Vista: Fifth Grade 1974-2010

When Elaine Palazzo retires June 30, she says she will miss the "camaraderie" of the faculty.

"It's been my home for 35 years," she said. "Despite all the changes and transitions, it's been a very stable environment as far as everyone caring for each other."

Palazzo, who was hired by then-Principal Walt Puffer in 1974, said the friendships she's developed over the years include Nancy Kuechle, Flo Cohen, Karen Knowles, Tina Dagodag, Norm Kades and Diane Mead.

She added that it's been "fabulous" seeing former students visit her classroom, though she admits she has a "terrible memory."

"At the open house recently, I had one child pop in and visit me," Palazzo said. "They're so cute and wonderful, and even if I don't remember them, they're so patient with me and remind me."

The most memorable moments in Palazzo's teaching career include those visits from students. "They come back and specifically tell me about pioneers or they remember the simulations," Palazzo said. "It makes it worthwhile that children are remembering, so I know I'm not in vain here teaching. My students' children have come through my classroom now too. That's the joy of teaching this long."

Palazzo has left her impression on Beverly Vista in more ways than one. Her daughter, Natalie Rocchio, followed in her footsteps, and is teaching kindergarten at the same school. Palazzo also has two sons, Joe Rocchio, who played minor league baseball with the Phillies, and Nicolas Rocchio.

"I've been lucky enough to have my children go through the [BHUSD] system," Palazzo said. "It's nice to know where they were, but we always made it a deal that when I was at school, I was not their mother, and that continues now. [Natalie and I] get to talk sometimes at lunch, and it's sort of nice to know where she is, but otherwise, she's on her own. She does her thing; I do my thing. Would I have it any other way? No. It's an honor that she went into teaching, and she enjoys it."

Jill Cunningham

El Rodeo: Teachers Aide; Horace Mann: Special Education; Beverly Vista: Special Education, Fifth Grade, Fourth Grade and Third Grade 1973-2010

Jill Cunningham started as a teachers aide at El Rodeo in 1973 while working toward her master's degree in special education at LISC

She was hired as a special education teacher at Horace Mann in 1976 by then-Principal Art Fields, before her class was transferred to Beverly Vista the following year.

"I've been out of special education for 20 years," said Cunningham, who currently teaches third grade.

Cunningham said she will miss her students the most.

"I love the kids," she said. "Their enthusiasm, their warmth, and it's been a joy. I've made some wonderful friendships with families in the community and relationships with parents. I'm going to miss a lot of my colleagues, but we'll continue seeing each other. Mostly, it's the kids."

Cunningham said "it was fun" being on then negotiating team with the Beverly Hills Education Association for the contracts and salaries of teachers. She said she also enjoyed being a mentor to young teachers

"I was able to teach them things, and I learned a lot as well," Cunningham said. "I enjoyed those relationships and the inspirations that they brought, as well as what I was able to share with them"

One memory that stands out during her teaching career, Cunningham said, occurred when El Niño hit California in 1997.

"We were in the bungalows, and we were all given umbrellas and yellow slickers," Cunningham recalls. "There was a flood out there, and I was with Irene Stern and Nadine Breuer. That was a funny moment, although we didn't think it was funny at the time. We all thought we were going to float away. But we haven't had a rainy season like that since. "Cunningham said it's been a "terrific and wonderful career."

Bill Ryan Beverly High: Track, Cross Country Coach and Social Studies 1996-2010

Bill Ryan had an unconventional career change before teaching history and government at Beverly High — he worked in advertising for 15 years.

"[Advertising and teaching] are absolutely unrelated," Ryan said. "Except in teaching, you're selling the curriculum, and in advertising, you're selling a product. I've always approached it as you can't bore someone into learning, and you can't bore them into buying a product. So i try to make it interesting along the way.

Ryan taught for three years at Dorsey High School in the LAUSD. Then, former Principal Ben Bushman hired him in 1996.

"They really grilled me," Ryan said. "It seems the hiring process was really tougher back then."

Ryan said "more than anything" he will miss the people he works with and the students.

"[I work with] such a talented and great group of people," Ryan said. "Stewart Horowitz was a real mentor to me over the years and Pete Van Rossum. They are two people in my department who really set high standards. They set the bar high for their kids, and I'll miss being with them and working with them. And I'll miss the kids because I think they help keep you young in many ways. They really keep you on your toes, and I'm going to miss that and interacting with them."

Ryan remembers coaching track and cross country for a few years.

"I loved that because it helped me interact with kids in a totally different way," he said. One thing he is proud of is his AP US history results.

"We had a really strong AP US history program for the last nine years," he said. "What I have enjoyed is having been the teacher of older students and then having their siblings. It's really interesting to see the differences. It was fun because it made me relate to my own children, and having my own kids really helped me in a way to relate to my students better."

Ryan said he has learned many things during his teaching career, one of which is to be flexible.

"There are certain truths in life, but you have to be flexible," he said. "And you don't always know everything."

Ryan said what's always surprised him is "how little teachers are factored in the decision-making process" when educational philosophy is discussed.

"Teachers are the people who are most involved in education," Ryan said. "I think they're often left out of the decision-making process, and I think that should be sorted out a little more." Ryan plans to move back east to the New York or New Jersey area after he retires.

"I've thought about writing and doing some consulting work," he said. "I'm going to give it a few months before I make any decisions. See what happens. But Beverly Hills has been a wonderful and incredible place to teach."

Alli Jason-Fives Beverly High: Social Studies 1980-2010

Alli Jason-Fives remembers having Nicolas Cage as a student when she first started teaching at Beverly High in 1980

"He was great when he was here," Jason-Fives said. "We had mock trials, and he would pick up the lines, but then he left in spring."

Jason-Fives, who came to BHUSD from University High School in West Los Angeles when Sol Levine was principal, said though she can't remember individual names of students she's had without seeing their faces, she is going to miss the interactions she had with her students after she retires at the end of this month.

"I'm going to miss laughing with them and seeing that light bulb go on and hearing their stories," she said. "They really keep you young, and it's great to have personal and academic relationships with them. I'm going to miss creating activities and curriculum for the classroom: mock trial simulations, role playing. I really enjoy US history a lot. The salon party was one thing I came up with."

During these parties, students would represent people from the gilded age, and Jason-Fives' classroom would be set up to resemble an 1800 salon.

"[The students] would go around meeting certain people of the time era," Jason-Fives said. "It was really one of the highlights, along with the mock trials. I loved to organize creative activities for them to do. I was never a lecture person. I was really more Socratic. I wanted to get the kids to talk."

One thing Jason-Fives won't miss, however, is grading papers.

"Lugging essays and papers home every weekend," she said. 'That I won't miss. And I won't miss getting up at 5 [a.m.] either."

Jason-Fives said one of the most memorable moments in her teaching career was when she had a guest speaker who survived the Holocaust visit her students.

"Before we had our roofs fixed and before air conditioning and heating, every time it rained, the water would be flowing through my classroom like a river," Jason-Fives said. "I warned about my ceiling. So I had this guest speaker, a Holocaust survivor, who was 80 years-old and an entrepreneur. He was speaking, and all of a sudden, my whole ceiling falls in with all the dirt and all the water. Thank God it didn't fall on the students. He said, 'Oh my,' and goes on talking. If you've been through the Holocaust, this was nothing. I told my friends, 'This is what happens at Beverly Hills High School. It's not like 90210."

Jason-Fives said she's had many guest speakers come through her classroom, including the FBI, CIA and even inmates who would speak as part of the Scared Straight program.

"[Weekly Publisher] Josh [Gross] has been in many times to speak with my government kids about the first amendment," she said. "He has been one of my best and most enthusiastic speakers. We're always so grateful to him, so I give my personal thanks to him too."

Jason-Fives said she plans to travel after she retires.

"But I won't be traveling until September," she said. "I want to do a lot of volunteer work, especially with literacy programs, and a lot of exercise because I do kickboxing and spinning. My husband and I are also looking forward to kayaking. We love kayaking. And reading. We have a book group on campus here, so I'm going to continue with that. Most of my friends have retired so it will be fun to do things with them. I'm not planning to sub but definitely tutor. Since I taught AP US history and AP government, I will be tutoring in those areas for a few years."

Jason-Fives said she will also miss the "incredible staff" she's worked with through the years who have "inspired [her] to be a better teacher."

"It takes a village to be a better teacher and to maneuver in this district," she said. "I've seen a lot of changes, some good, some not so good, but I have really made such wonderful friends and everlasting friendships, not just certain administrators, but counseling staff and my department. It's been a good run, and now it's time to do something else."

DISTRICT OFFICE STAFF:

Brian Tash BHUSD: Director of Curriculum, Assessment & Instruction 2007-2010

Alhough Brian Tash has only been in the BHUSD for about three years, he has worked in education for more than three decades.

"I came as an outsider," Tash said. "I remember I videotaped me teaching a fifth-grade class to show that I could teach. Everybody was very suspicious of me. This is a community that doesn't really like outsiders a whole lot, so for them to see that I could teach even though I was an administrator, that felt great."

Tash said he will miss the friendships and relationships he's developed since being hired in 2007.

"I've bonded with the community," he said. "I like to parents and teachers. People here are very smart, and many are open to new ideas. I'm going to miss that."

Tash said he previously worked as a full-time consultant, and will continue doing that when he leaves, so he will still be working with teachers and students to help improve the public education system.

"I learned how to be a better collaborator because of Beverly Hills," Tash said. "I'm a better listener. I'm more didactic and more inclusive because of Beverly Hills. I'm more accepting. No one size fits all solutions. And we're all in this together."

Twila Cook may be retiring from her post as director of adult and alternative education, but she won't be leaving BHUSD quite yet. "For July and August, I'm a consultant," Cook said. "I'm going to help the new director of the adult school [Pat Escalante]."

Cook came to BHUSD in 2006, but she has worked in education for nearly 40 years, having started her career as a high school journalism teacher in another district.

She says she feels honored to have worked with Assistant Superintendent of Education Services Ilene Straus.

"I've learned a great deal from her and her desire to make certain that our program was rigorous," Cook said. "And I have worked quite a bit with the counselors at the high school and teachers at adult school and independent study. They're just so amazing."

Cook said her retirement plans include traveling with her husband, as well as building or finding another home, possibly in the Santa Monica mountains.

"I've been honored to be a part of this school district," Cook said. "I think so many people are involved in what's good for students, and though sometimes people's ambitions and politics get in the way, I hope that continues to be the focus."

Other BHUSD retirees who were not available for interviews include El Rodeo speech and language teacher Wendy Bergman, Hawthorne art teacher Beverly Mense and Beverly High food services employee Blanca Rivas.

Dick Douglas
Beverly High: Water Polo Coach, Physical Education, Social Studies; Hawthorne:
Principal
1966-1999
Montecito Union School District:
Superintendent
1999-2010

Former BHUSD teacher, coach and principal Dick Douglas may be retiring as superintendent of Montecito Union School District, but he admits he doesn't know how long that retirement will stick.

"I don't have any specific plans right now," Douglas said. "I'm going to relax for a while, but as I get closer to the reality of it all, I'm going to realize that it isn't in my make up to go and sit around. So I'm going to be looking for new challenges, whether it's education or elsewhere."

Douglas said it's been a "great privilege" working for BHUSD and MUSD, both of which are basic aid districts.

"I think that in the future, schools in California will be financed on a model that is much closer to the basic-aid model than to the revenue-sharing model that the majority of districts are financed with," Douglas said. "I've worked very hard at the state level and with some wonderful people and superintendents in schools districts throughout the state to advocate for basic aid. Basic aid allows students to receive an education that I think all students deserve to have."

But basic aid isn't all that BHUSD and MUSD have in common, Douglas said.

"Both schools have, number one, an infrastructure that allows them to provide the very best education to students, which means that they have great students, great parents, great teachers and historically have had great leadership," Douglas said. "Take all that and put it together, and you get one thing that everyone is here for, and that's student achievement."

Douglas said the school districts also have their differences.

"Beverly Hills is larger for sure and much more in a city setting, whereas Montecito works very hard — and it's built in their general plan — to keep a rural atmosphere," he said.

When asked his opinion on recent criticism BHUSD has received by some community members for hiring Carter Paysinger as Beverly High principal because they claim a coach lacks the academic skills, Douglas, a former coach himself, said it was "incredibly short-sighted."

"I think Carter Paysinger is one of the quality people that Beverly Hills has had the pleasure to have teach children there," Douglas said. "He possesses the ability to lead, and leadership is the key. In the end, it comes down to whether you want change to occur, and to get things done, it takes leadership and the ability to create relationships where people want to move forward. Coaches, by and large, do that maybe better than anybody else. They're used to working with large groups of people and motivating them. I don't know that there's another person I've met that has the character that Carter Paysinger has. The high school could not be luckier to have that leadership, especially at this time."

Douglas said one thing he will miss is the people he has worked with over the years.

"I had the opportunity to work with some wonderful educators, whether I was working side by side with them in the classroom or whether I was an administrator," Douglas said. "There are wonderful people, and many of them remain my friends today."

Some of them include Walt Puffer, George Fourgis, Chuck KIoes, Ron Crawford, Herb Dodge, Rochelle Ginsburg, Sol Levine, Steve Fisher, Nadine Breuer, Art Fields and Ben Bushman.

When asked whether he would consider returning to BHUSD, Douglas said, "Beverly Hills is a fabulous school district, and anybody would be very fortunate to work in the setting that is available to teachers, administrators and students."

Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 07/08/10 at 8:30AM in Dept. 5 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code Section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner RICHARD B. What you don't know about your life insurance policy could cost you a fortune!

At age 80, Norman's life insurance policy had a $5 million death benefit with a yearly payment of $66,000. Unfortunately, he didn't know that if he lived another ten years, his payment would increase to $400,000 annually!

Until her consultation with Alan Kaye, Joyce didn't know that unless she continued making payments, her $1 million policy would be cancelled on her 87th birthday.

Do you know:

- Whether your policy will be cancelled if you stop making payments?
- If it's guaranteed to stay in effect for your lifetime at your current payment?
- If your policy can stay in effect beyond age ninety or even one hundred?
- If your cash value is sufficient to buy 50% more coverage than you have now?
- If you can you sell your policy for more than its cash surrender value, even if it's term insurance?

Let's face it! Most people don't have a clue!

Alan Kaye has over thirty years of experience helping individuals and businesses create an insurance plan that will best satisfy their needs. As president of his own company and vice president of Barry Kaye Associates, Alan is an authority on wealth creation and preservation.

He has helped thousands of people determine if their policies and plans really work, meet their goals and help implement creative solutions to their estate planning problems.

Don't wait until you lose your health, your life insurance and your options! If you are over 70 years old and have at least $250,000 of life insurance, ask for your complimentary consultation and policy appraisal, either on the phone or in person.
