“Saving a Synagogue Part II” [Issue 568]

As the President of the Iranian American Jewish Federation, I wanted to comment on the issues we currently have pending before the West Hollywood City Council.

It has always been our goal to be a good neighbor to all the residents who live around our synagogue. Over the years we have taken a number of steps to reduce the noise from our parking lots and delivery vehicles. Since last year, when the city granted us a loading zone, we have been conducting deliveries in the street in front of our meeting hall. For those neighbors who accepted, we installed double paned windows to reduce all noise in their apartments. We have proposed additional steps to the City Council which will further reduce noise until we can construct our proposed parking structure. The parking structure will eliminate the noise problem and move all deliveries inside the building.

Neman Hall has been used consistently for weddings, memorials, brit milah's, bat mitzvahs and bar mitzvahs since it was built in 1967 and long before any of the neighbors moved into the neighborhood. Today, we average two to three events a week at the facility. Contrary to the neighbors representations, all the events are related to Jewish religious practices or are fundraisers and social events for the Federation. It is not a commercial banquet facility.

The Iranian American Jewish Federation is a collection of 26 different organizations working for the betterment of our community. The limited revenue derived from the rental of Neman Hall for Jewish events is used for charitable programs in this community.

We have hundreds of members who live in the City of West Hollywood and I believe that they should be allowed to conduct their religious celebrations just as every other religious denomination in the City.

I hope that the City Council will consider our proposal and allow Neman Hall to continue as the Center for Iranian American Jewish activities that we all envisioned when we purchased the buildings from Temple Beth El 13 years ago.

*Shahla Z. Javdan, President
West Hollywood*

The cover article titled “Saving a Synagogue:..... so why does the City of West Hollywood want to shut them down?” was misleading. The mostly Jewish neighbors that surround the IAJC made it quite clear that they have no problem whatsoever with Hollywood Temple Beth El and in no way, do they or the City of West Hollywood want to shut it down. The neighbors have been subjected to all night parties that require 18 hours of loading/unloading per day. The elaborate parties were not religious and were consistent of events held at commercial venues.

A major fact that you left out of your article is that only 2 conditions were originally placed on their license, both of which were consistent with a religious center and neither condition had anything to do with limiting the party hall's hours. The conditions were as follows:

1) All loading and unloading to be conducted between 8AM-10PM at the designated curbside loading zone, not in the parking lot.

2) Neman and Sapper Hall shall not be rented or otherwise made available to the public for events or activities. Only the Iranian American Jewish Federation may use the two halls for its events and activities related to their religious practice or exercise. The IAJC refused to comply with the above conditions and appealed.

At the appeal, and after the Business License Commission reviewed ALL of the FACTS and findings is when the additional 2 conditions were placed on their license which are:

3) The halls should close on Sunday-Thursday at 10p.m. and on Friday and Saturday at midnight.

4) To place signs asking their guests to be quiet when leaving The IAJC has appealed these conditions as well.

In my opinion, the 4 conditions placed on their license are well overdue and are con-

Receptionist robbed at knife-point in Weekly's office building

Receptionist Heather Hamilton was robbed at knife-point Tuesday morning by a man described as being tan, white, 5'7" with black hair. Hamilton works at Esseca, a hair-removal facility, located in the suite next to The Weekly's South Beverly Drive offices.

According to the victim, a man came in and asked to see the chiropractor. There is no longer a chiropractor at Esseca, so Hamilton offered to call her to make an appointment. He refused to talk on the phone and suggested he get his legs lasered. The nurse was no longer available.

"He took a knife out and said give me your jewelry or I'll cut you," Hamilton said. "I gave him my rings and my Rolex. He said to get on the floor and not look at him. He took my purse with my keys and phone. As soon as I heard him leave I screamed to call 911."

An alert ad staff member at Beverly Hills Weekly called the police.

Alex Hernandez, worker at Aram Persian Cuisine downstairs in the building, saw the man flee the scene.

"The only thing I saw was him carrying a bag," Hernandez said. "When I turned to see what happened he said wait and like a deer, he was running. Five seconds later I heard her scream and he was far away. I saw her without her shoes. She told me he put a knife on her. She was scared."

Hamilton's purse was found on South Elm, just north of Charleville. By The Weekly's deadline, BHPD Sergeant Shan Davis said they had no additional information on what was stolen and what was recovered.

Guidetti to become principal of Lawndale High

Former Beverly High Principal (2006-2010) J. Guidetti is taking the principal position at Lawndale High School, pending Board approval.

J. Guidetti

With an Academic Performance Index (API) score of 730, Lawndale High ranks five out of a possible 10 in comparison to schools throughout the state. Of the approximately 1,900 students at Lawndale High, 15 percent are black or African American, 73 percent are Hispanic or Latino and 4 percent are white. Comparatively, with an API score of 846 Beverly High ranks 10 out of 10. Of the approximately 2,225 students that attend Beverly High, 6 percent are black or African American, 16 percent are Asian and 68 percent are white.

Residents speak about Westside Subway Extension at Board of Education meeting

The Board of Education decided on Monday to declare their preferred alternative subway route as the route with a station on Santa Monica Boulevard, in line with the Beverly Hills City Council's preferred alternative. The board had originally decided to wait until the Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) was released, however they voted 5-0 to give staff direction on their preference.

Councilmember Nancy Krasne spoke in front of the Board regarding her fears about disaster centers. Beverly High is the only disaster center for the City of Beverly Hills. If a severe natural disaster were to occur that would affect the subway tunnels as well as the rest of the city, Beverly Hills residents would have nowhere to go, all for the sake of money that wouldn't benefit Beverly Hills, Krasne said.

"In the last 60 years, not one new fire station has been added on the entire west side of LA," Krasne said. "Now that's just money talking and that is what has motivated this move for the metro station. With that being said, the Metro station is now being motivated to be moved under our school, our high school which is our disaster relief center for this entire city."

The proposed subway alternatives would cut right through the middle of the high school and disaster relief center, endangering parts of the high school.

"It goes right through the middle of the front lawn, right through the middle of the original school building, right through the building that I graduated from," Southwest Homeowners Association President Ken Goldman said. "It's an 80-year-old building. Why is [the MTA] doing that?"

Having experienced the construction during the building of the convergence of the red and blue lines on Wilshire, Beverly Hills resident Dr Matthew Finerman knows there will be a large disruption to the area surrounding subway construction.

"My original medical office was on 7th and Flower [downtown] and it was literally a disaster as far as construction went," Finerman said. "The most direct route to my office would have been down Wilshire Blvd. I avoided that because it was a sea ticket ride. They ripped things up and people had to drive over railroad lines for four years. It was supposed to be tunneling but not a problem. It was like riding on a small boat on a choppy ocean for several years."

High was not renewed earlier this year.

Due to a district phone system malfunction, representatives at the Centinela Unified School District could not be reached for comment.

Zero-tolerance policy to be enforced

The BHUSD is going to be taking a stricter stand when it comes to their zero-tolerance policy. At the Board of Education Finerman, like all residents, agrees that the Westside Extension needs to run along Santa Monica Boulevard.

"The clear, obvious solution is to go down Santa Monica Boulevard and to provide a dash type system with golf carts," Finerman said. "This is Los Angeles, we don't walk more than a block so wherever they choose to put the station in the city, there are still going to be people who are handicapped or for other reasons choose to not walk that distance. Going down Santa Monica Boulevard is least disruptive and the shuttle system will get everyone where the need to go."

One of the problems with the subway tunnel being under Beverly High is it will get in the way of future development. As a part of Measure E, the Board is looking into building subterranean parking under Beverly High as a way to ease the parking crisis in the area. In the areas directly on top of the subway tunnel, the school would only be able to go two levels deep, although they desire to go three or four levels deep.

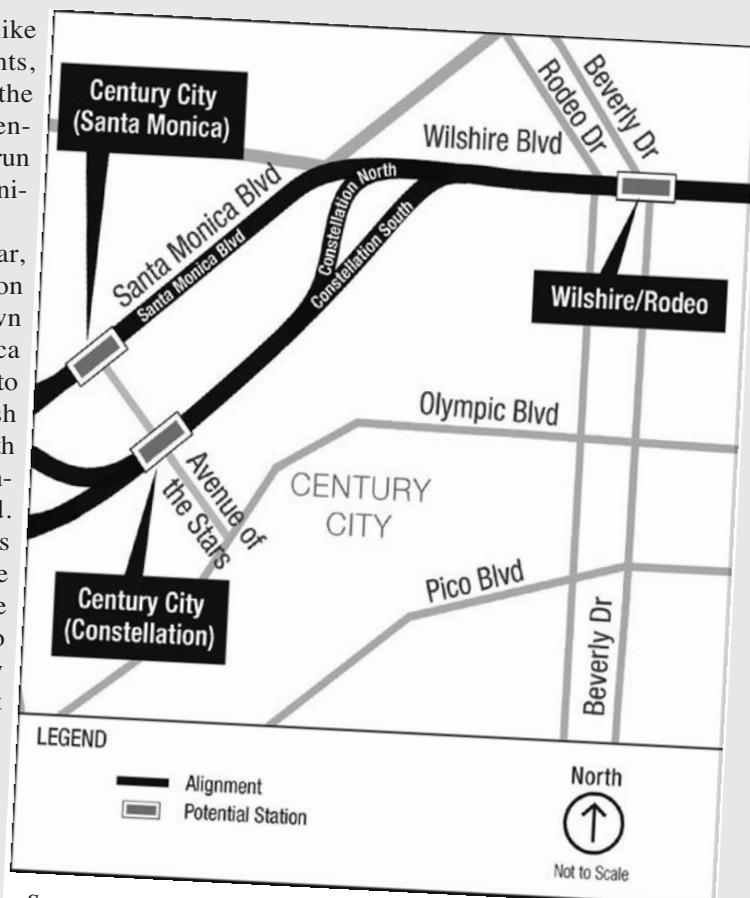

"Parking is a premium in Beverly Hills," Board of Education member Brian Goldberg said. "It's a problem throughout the entire city of Beverly Hills but in particular if you've come down Moreno Drive during school hours, it's a real problem. Parking is at a premium and certainly residents who live around the area will attest to the fact that it is very difficult to park in this area."

Originally, the Board of Education wanted to wait for the EIR to make any statements regarding their preferred alternative. From resident presentations it became clear to the Board that even after the EIR was released, it would not give helpful information that could solve every concern.

"What is the EIR going to tell me that as a board member is going to reassure meeting Monday, the board voted to change the zero-tolerance policy from saying that consequences may occur to consequences will occur. Having zero-tolerance means that one the first offense a student commits, they will be punished to the fullest extent the policy allows.

"There's some discretion and we're looking at taking some of the discretion out," Board of Education member Brian Goldberg me that it's not going to impact my ability as a board member to develop that site, which I think going only two stories does impact our ability to develop that site but also in terms of safety," Goldberg said "I'm sure MTA has learned a lot of lessons from previous mishaps but occurred but there was a moratorium on drilling that Congressman [Henry] Waxman was very involved with. We have methane gas, tunnel collapses, there have been a lot of issues that have gone on and as a trustee for the district I can't take any risk whatsoever unless someone can guarantee to me there is going to be no problems."

The Board ended unanimous on their preferred route. Although the draft EIR has not been published, there so far seems to be no benefits for the city with the subway tunnel. Board of Education President Steven Fenton said supporting the alternative routes made no sense for the BHUSD.

"I think it's pretty clear from what all my colleges are saying, nobody wants to put fear before facts at all but I don't think there is anybody here on the Board who sees or has expressed where there's upside for the children of BHUSD or the residents of Beverly Hills," Fenton said. "[I am] open to hearing as the process goes along but this does not make sense to me."

said. "Enough is enough. We need to send the message that cheating is not going to be accepted. The lack of respect of our teachers and administrators, coming from the students, is not acceptable."

Although there has always been a zero-tolerance policy, it has not always been enforced. Beverly High Principal Carter

Paysinger said he credits the change in administration for the change.

"Everyone is different in what they want to focus on and for us we felt like in order for us to be the school we wanted to be, we needed to look at the cleanliness of the school, the safety of the school, the security of the school," Paysinger said. "We needed to make sure the environment was conducive to higher learning. We needed to make sure the discipline is intact."

Now every student will be aware of what the punishments are for cheating, even if they have never gotten in trouble for it before.

"We had a cheating contract but a student wouldn't even see the cheating contract unless they were caught cheating one time. Now every student in the school will sign the cheating contract at the beginning of the school year and first offense is a suspendable offense."

In the BHUSD policies, cheating is defined as among other things "communicating with another student during an exam, copying material during an exam, allowing another student to copy from their paper or using unauthorized notes or devices."

Punishment for cheating can result in up to a five-day suspension for any infraction. The first infraction will result in the student's academic and conduct grade being lowered by one letter grade, referral to the assistant principal's office for a student and parent conference and the student completes the assignment for no credit. The second infraction will result in the student receiving a failing semester grade where the second cheating infraction occurred, a conference will be called with the assistant principal, counselor, parent, student and teacher and the conduct grade will be lowered. The third infraction will result in a failing grade for the student for the semester and disciplinary action by the Student Study Team or the Maple Counseling Center.

The dress code, as defined by the BHUSD Standards for Appropriate Dress, includes no gang affiliation or inappropriate logos, no sheer blouses, no bare midriffs, no sagging pants, no wallet chains and hats or hoods may not be worn in class.

The first infraction of the dress code will result in the student being referred to the Assistant Principal for counseling and a change of clothes and the student may receive a one-day suspension. The second infraction will result in the student being referred to the assistant principal and up to a five-day suspension.

Students who violate the rules to the point of expulsion will be sent to Moreno Alternative School.

"[It's an] alternative educational high school for students who are disciplinary problems," Goldberg said. "We just don't utilize it. But, I think we're going to start enforcing these rules and expectations [and] we will see the population of Moreno increase over time. That's what we need to do, just like other districts do, remove the child from the situation and give them a fresh start."

Overall, Goldberg said he thinks there has been a lack of enforcement of district standards, this Board of Education is determined to make the BHUSD a better place.

"I think that with the new interim superintendent, who was a principal in our schools in Beverly Hills and with the new team in place, there is a renewed energy and commitment to returning Beverly Hills to a place where our students are respectful and mindful of their teachers and the administration," Goldberg said. "If not, there's going to be consequences for that lack of respect and lack of following the rules."

Journalism position saved at Beverly

Beverly High has hired a journalism teacher for two of its three journalism classes. This was first covered in The Weekly in early August, #466 ("Beverly High Journalism position in limbo").

Jennifer Meils was hired to teach beginning and advanced journalism for the 2010-2011 year. Meils will be teaching at Beverly for two classes and teaching two English classes of at El Rodeo.

Meils wasn't re-hired at the end of the 2009-2010 school year, Beverly High Principal Carter Paysinger said, because of budget reasons.

"She did a nice job for us last year," Paysinger said. "She's good with content and has an ability to connect with the kids, [which] shows from the last board meeting with the number of kids that spoke on her behalf."

English teacher Phil Chang will be teaching the broadcast journalism course in collaboration with Meils.

Library presents "School Daze" film series

While September is back-to-school month for everyone, the Beverly Hills Library is bringing school back with some fun. The film series will be every Wednesday in September with "Dead Poets Society" and "To Sir with Love" showing at 3 p.m. and "Breakfast Club" and "Election" showing at 2 p.m. The films will be shown at the library auditorium, on the top floor of the library.

"It's low cost to the city and free to the public," Hunt-Coffey said. "And it's something fun to do in the afternoon."

Larry Miller to perform in Beverly Hills

Comedian and actor Larry Miller will be performing his show "An evening with Larry Miller, master clown of comedy on stage, film and television," at the Theatre 40, at the Ruben Cordova Theatre on the Beverly High Campus, on September 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Miller is known from such movies as Best in Show, Waiting for Guffman and 10 things I hate about you and television shows such as Medium, Burn Notice and Seinfeld.

After a 10-year hiatus, Miller has returned to stand-up and is currently on tour throughout the country. Tickets are $35.00 and reservations can be made at (323) 876-8980.

BHHS Names New Boys' Basketball Coach

Jarvis Turner, a former USC forward who was Birmingham High's boys' basketball coach the past three seasons, has been named to a similar position at Beverly High, co-athletic director Jason Newman said Wednesday.

Turner was chosen by a committee of faculty members and Athletic Department staff from among about 15 applicants, Newman

"He's going to be a great addition to the school environment," Newman said. "We like his approach, both athletically and as a leader of kids."

Newman called Turner, "an impressive individual," praising him for "his feelings about athletics in adolescents' lives," the "balance of academics and athletics" and "the role that athletics can play in a positive direction later in life."

"We know this is not a feeding ground for the NBA or even for college [basketball]," Newman said. "What you want is a coach who is going to help kids in a variety of ways to mature, learn the values of hard work and have perspective about athletics and academics both."

Turner said he sought the position because he "felt it was a great opportunity" to coach at "one of the best public schools on the West Coast."

Turner has also been a lower-level coach at Harvard-Westlake and coached in the NBA Summer League. After completing his playing career at USC in 2001, Turner played professionally in South America, Mexico and in the American Basketball Association.

"Basketball has been very good to me," the 32-year-old Turner said. "It has allowed me to get a great education from USC and also allowed me to pretty much see the world."

"I just want to give these kids the closest experience that I've had through basketball that also helped develop skills such as discipline and being able to be self-sufficient and having a competitive spirit about yourself and definitely being team oriented."

Turner succeeds Derek Boldon, who resigned after two seasons to become an assistant men's coach at El Camino College.

BHHS Begins Football Practice

Beverly High began fall football practice Monday with the first of three days of twice daily non-contact drills. Contact drills are expected to begin today.

Under Southern Section rules, teams must conduct three days of non-contact drills before contact is permitted.

Junior guard Eric Shingarev and senior linebacker Terrance Lewis drew praise for their play in the early practices from coach Donald Paysinger.

The Normans have about 44 players on their roster. Although Paysinger said he would like to have 50 players, Beverly Hills has more depth on its roster than last season when it had about 40.

Tailback is among the positions with improved depth, Paysinger said.

"We have four tailbacks who can carry the ball," Paysinger said, referring to starter Frank Brown and backups Lewis, Jordan Alleyne and Matt Spector.

The Normans starting tailback last season, Kenny Bassett, suffered an injury in the opener, forcing him to miss the remainder of the season. Bassett graduated in June.

During the team's summer practices and tournaments, Paysinger said he "realized we have five very good receivers" – Cameron Countryman, Henry Evans, Daniel Jack, Willie Green and A.J. Fortier.

Beverly Hills is set to open the season Sept. 10 by playing host to Santa Barbara at Nickoll Field.

sistent with a "religious" center, especially a religious center located in a residential area. Appealing these conditions just shows that the IAJC is and will continue to market their party halls for commercial purposes and their request for a three story parking lot expansion would be needed if their appeal is granted.

As a Jew, I think the actions of the City of West Hollywood should be commended as they are only protecting the rights of their residents and prohibiting commercial venues in residential areas.

"Subway postponed as MTA looks further into environmental affects, alternative routes" [Issue 567]

As a property owner in Beverly Hills for 64 years, 50 of which in my home on South Linden Drive, I plead with you to take a strong stand NOW against moving the subway station one block south and thereby tunneling under our homes, Good Shepherd School and Beverly Hills High. My husband went there in the 1930's and two of my now adult children are Beverly High graduates. Please heed Ken Goldman's advice to the School Board. Time is of the essence. While you fiddle waiting for the EIR report the developers will move ahead as fast as they can and it will be too late for Beverly Hills. It is your responsibility, as elected officials, to protect our city from the type of negative consequences this change in the developers plans can cause.

Janet Russell Hersholt
Beverly Hills

I strongly urge our City Council and School Board members to take a position against the subway route being near or under the high school and in our neighborhood. I can't imagine any of you would be in favor of it. It does nothing for us and can only bring problems. If it was under your homes, you wouldn't want it, of this I am sure.

Please join us in respecting our right to safe homes and the best thing for our students. I know you don't cower in the face of others' pressure and you stand up for what you believe in. I hope it is against this route that is being considered and that you will voice this opinion. Our homes and school are sacred and deserve respect. Let the subway go in a commercial area and not downgrade our property values and ruin our peaceful lives.

Subway, not a sandwich

Other notes on the city

By Rudy Cole

Although MTA officials argue that the possible southwest subway route is not any "change" and has been a possible alternative for over a year, many residents, including the Southwest Beverly Hills Homeowner Association and their president Ken Goldman, are vigorously fighting the route, insisting the MTA approve the Wilshire-Santa Monica Boulevards plan.

Last Tuesday, after hearing from many southwest residents and high school parents, the board of education expressed a very informal unanimous opinion opposing the subway going under the high school.

However, a major Century City developer, probably somewhat prematurely, is promoting a massive condo project by indicating there would be a subway station "at" the property.

What many opposed to the project hoped to hear was a clear message from a mayor's committee on the subway, but the four former mayors, Allan Alexander, Steve Webb, Mark Egerman and Linda Briskman have urged opponents to hold off until an Environmental Impact Report is completed.

Basically, the same position is being taken by Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky who will have considerable influence on a final route choice.

The draft EIR may carefully address the safety issues and it could even support our community's concerns, but should this control what approach our official representatives take on the route?

Frankly, there is simply no way to allay fears even if a small army of technicians argue that no possible hazards exist by tunneling under homes or the high school. Here, perception is almost as important as reality, and too often the scientists err on the side of expediency.

The real charge of the mayor's committee is to support efforts to secure federal funding that would permit a more speedy construction of the project, primarily paid through voter approved bonds.

This gives our four former mayors enormous clout. While their desire to be prudent and deliberative is understandable, I would strongly urge them to oppose the high school route alternative and to do so as soon as possible.

Community support of the whole subway project is in jeopardy.

Yesterday, I called Sen. Barbara Boxer's office to discuss the alternative route question. Boxer, a strong supporter of the subway, is chair of a senate committee dealing with mass transit. Her staff people, and those on her committee, are examining the route question. They were aware of Beverly Hills concerns.

Let's be clear: There is very little our own, local elected officials can do to protect our high school and some southwest homes, the decision will be made by the MTA Board. However, a really united political effort could impact that decision, especially if we use our only trump card: speaking out against federal funding for the subway. Few want that to happen; the subway may well be our only real solution to grid lock. But a subway under our schools and southwest homes will have a generations long impact on our feeling of safety and comfort and should not go forward. The MTA board would be well advised to abort the southwest alternative immediately and not allow our opposition to detract from the larger problems of funding.

Once again, our community is indebted to Ken Goldman for his passion and leadership. Ken has been careful to work with all those involved in a positive manner, including Supervisor Yaroslavsky. Also, a nod to all the residents who attended both the board meeting and the library rally. Your voices are being heard.

Final thought: When I was young and idealistic college student and living in a settlement house on the near northwest side of Chicago, I joined a neighborhood protest movement to save a spur of the Chicago "L" serving Logan Square and Humboldt Park.

When I was invited by the "experts" at the Chicago Transit Authority to their plush offices to hear their reasons and examine the technical data supporting their effort, I thought: These people have really done their homework and just maybe we were wrong in our opposition.

What were their arguments? The future of mass transit was the bus, not fixed rail!

One thing newspeople love to write is, "you read it here first." We are just as ego driven as our colleagues. So, with an appropriate blush, permit me to report that the Los Angeles Times front page lead story this Tuesday that Eli Broad would place his enormous art collection at a museum he will fund on Grand Avenue and not Beverly Hills or Santa Monica was first reported in this column two months ago.

The Los Angeles Times report was based on an official announcement from Broad, our story was from the usual "reliable sources." Absolutely no need to email the times I was in error.

Sometimes you can't win, no matter how hard you try department. At last Monday's school board meeting, Councilmember Nancy Krasne appeared to speak on the subway route issue.

Each speaker, and there were dozens at a meeting with a very long agenda, was limited to two minutes. Most councilmembers cannot give their name in two minutes, and Nancy is no exception.

When her two minutes expired, and she was just warming to her message, Board President Steven Fenton announced that "sorry, but your time has expired."

Councilmember Krasne did not take kindly to the abrupt stopping of her talk and said, quite audibly, "I will show you the same courtesy when you next come to a council meeting."

The dilemma for Fenton was that he has given more time to some former board members, councilmembers and others, and has been criticized for showing "favoritism." Now, he has decided that the time limits will be enforced no matter the speaker.

Probably not a good rule. Past school boards and this and former city councils do give past and present elected officials more time when they appear. But Fenton's action was certainly understandable.

Last Sunday we spotted a petition circulator at Bristol Farms near Doheny and Beverly Boulevards, so naturally my reporter's instincts made me stop and inquire.

The woman seeking signatures was extremely polite and not the least bit aggressive. She asked if we were residents of Beverly Hills or West Hollywood: she had two petitions, not at all related, but efforts to qualify initiative, ballot measures for each community.

Her Beverly Hills petition would allow voters to decide whether two hour free parking in city owned lots should be mandated and not subject to city council control.

Her West Hollywood petition was also an effort to place an initiative on the ballot. However, the real motives for this initiative were more obscure and complicated. Basically, it would require a tax on some forms of outdoor advertising, but according to at least one West Hollywood city councilmember, this was really a clever scheme by special interests to bypass city council control of outdoor advertising.

Obviously, the same professional petition gathering company was promoting both the Beverly Hills and West Hollywood effort. Merits aside, the whole question of whether initiatives or referenda should come to the ballot via paid rather than citizen or volunteer efforts is still being debated nearly a century after the late Hiram Johnson, a one time governor and later United Senator for California, introduced the initiative and referendum as a "reform" movement enabling citizens to act when state government failed to protect the public interest.

Today, few ballot measures ever meet the test of public service or interest. They are most often the work of special interests to subvert state or local government.

Although the circulator was not in the least invasive, she might need some coaching in answering a key question: Who is sponsoring the petitions?

She looked at the forms, the petitions and the arguments and found one name in large, bold faced type: City Attorney Laurence Wiener. Pointing to Wiener's name, she explained "that's the sponsor."

That may come as quite a shock to the city council, many of whom are not at all pleased with the initiative, but it is the only name found on the front of the petitions. However, I am reasonably certain the circulator was not instructed to provide that bit of misinformation. No, this is not an official act of or supported by the city council, any city agency or city employee.

In order to qualify, the professional petition gatherers will need about 2,000 signatures of registered voters. No secret, the ballot effort is being funded by the owners of some major medical buildings in the city. So far, there has been no organized opposition although at least two councilmembers, Barry Brucker and

At some point, the council will probably take an official position, if the measure qualifies. Whatever the merits, and we will try to provide a more detailed analysis as this goes forward, the very polite approach by the circulator we encountered was refreshing, considering past petition efforts in our community. However, the usual argument that "this will only make it possible for you to vote" is somewhat disingenuous. If you give your name, you are supporting the yes vote.

Congratulation to our gendarmes for the incredibly rapid success in apprehending most of the culprits of the armed robbery of a long-time local furrier, Dicker and Dicker. Within a few hours, the bad guys were in custody.

What was also impressive was the very generous praise Chief David Snowden gave to the police team involved. Snowden said, in part, "your hard work and dedication to our mission does not go unnoticed by our community."

True, but too often we forget how fortunate we are to be so well served by our own finest. Thank a cop should be a personal effort when we see one of our best on the street.

And speaking of enforcement, our city coffers could benefit from the citing of scoff law violators who seem to forget that jay walking is a crime, not just a hazard to themselves and others.

For some reason, the intersection of Charleville and South Beverly Drives seems to invite the thoughtless. Pedestrians too often ignore traffic signals with automobiles screeching brakes to avoid running them down.

The most scary incident at that corner was one I saw recently. A kid, no more than six or seven, raced across the intersection on a scooter with his mother or caregiver some distance behind. The youngster could not be seen by most drivers, but fortunately crossed without being hit.

As for penalties, I would double the fine for those who flaunt signals while texting or talking on cells.

Don't forget the 9.02.10 events. If you are having trouble connecting, email and I will make sure someone contacts you. The opening ceremonies and the Taste of Beverly Hills that follows should be fun and well worth supporting.

WHAT'S GOING ON WITH PRE-SCHOOL?

PART II

The City and the BHUSD say they want to collaborate on the pre-school program, so what's taking so long?

By Marla Schevker

At Monday's Board of Education meeting, a presentation was given by Pre-School and Adult School Director Pat Escalante discussing the Recreation and Parks Department and the BHUSD collaboration on enhancing the effort for a Beverly Hills pre-school. The city and the district are trying to define their roles as they work to implement a standards-based curriculum and rebrand the pre-school as a more academic-based institution.

Two years ago, the BHUSD put together a committee to look at the possibility of establishing a district-run pre-school. The Weekly reported in January 2009, Issue #486 ("What's Going on With the Pre-School?"), the indication at the time was the commission would recommend the district become more involved with the City of Beverly Hills run pre-school program as well as recommend the two entities work together to hire an educational director to oversee the program and work to align the pre-school curriculum with the kindergarten curriculum at BHUSD.

In the Blue Ribbon Pre-School Report published on January 27, 2009, it was recommended "the district negotiate an expanded role for the school district in the city-run program offering it's three difficult to match advantages - the district's name, its facilities and its educational expertise."

Since the report was published a year and a half ago, former El Rodeo Principal Pat Escalante was promoted to the Pre-School and Adult School Director for the BHUSD.

The first step Escalante took was to set up meetings between the city pre-school teachers and the district kindergarten teachers. These meetings, which began in June, were the first chance for both sides to discuss the pre-school in relation to kindergarten expectations.

"One of the things that came out of that conversation was a consensus about focusing on handwriting and the need to teach kids at the pre-school level the proper way to print," Escalante said. "So there was a workshop that took place using the program Handwriting Without Tears. There was a training and that was a really positive step that came out of the meeting."

What makes the city-run developmental program different from other traditional pre-schools in the area is the teaching philosophy behind how the teachers interact with their students. A developmental program is likely to teach through a warm, nurturing environment where students work at their own pace. A traditional program will have more of a classroom environment where though students will still be nurtured, there is more of a focus on incorporating academics.

Elements from a developmental philosophy and a traditional philosophy make up the best pre-school said former teacher at The Center for Early Education and BHUSD parent Nathalie Kunin, who currently runs a tutoring company called Team Tutors. Any program must meet a student's three major developmental needs for it to be a success.

"As an educator, there are three components that should be in balance as often as possible and this is what makes for a happy successful student," Kunin said. "That is your social, your emotional and your academic component. And a developmental classroom environment certainly has elements of all three but there is a lot of attention given to the social and emotional growth."

Overall, there are four basic problems with the city-run pre-school program in comparison to other developmental and traditional pre-schools in the area:

• The existing program is run by staff who don't have the same training as certificated elementary teachers.

Although a Bachelor's Degree is the minimum degree necessary for an elementary or secondary school credential, an Associate's Degree is the minimum degree necessary for a pre-school credential. The California pre-school certificate requires at least 12 semester units in childhood education and the California multi-subject (elementary) credential requires an commission approved program, to be completed before the credential is received.

Beverly Hills Recreation and Parks Pre-School Director Lisa Casteneda holds a bachelor's in early childhood development and has her pre-school certificate. However, she does not have an elementary teaching credential nor an administrative credential.

Escalante holds an her elementary school credential, a bachelor of science in education, her masters in school management and an administrative credential and is a former elementary school principal.

The pre-school teachers are not required to have a bachelors degree in order to be credentialed.

• The program is not an academic-based program.

The Beverly Hills pre-school program is a developmental, recreation based program. The pre-school is intended to be a place for children to develop socially and emotionally. Recreation and Parks Department Recreation Services Manager Teri Angel said the Recreation and Parks pre-school is meant to be a nurturing and caring introduction to school.

"Our pre-school is an introduction to an education system, so their job is to learn how to get along with others, to socialize, to share, those types of things is their job of what to learn," Angel said. "We introduce that through play and educational means that are effective for 3 to 5 year olds. It's a lot of group play, it's singing, circle time, reading."

At the Beverly Hills pre-school, academics are thrown in with the social and emotional development. There are six pre-school sites with 20 students each. Three of the sites are at schools, with two sections at Hawthorne school and one section at Beverly Vista, and three of the sites are at parks, with one section at Coldwater Park, La Cienega Park and Roxbury Park. The programs have structured elements from day to day but each day is a little different.

"They do a morning circle where they will do the calendar, the letter of the week, the number of the week and then they'll break up into centers," Casteneda said. "One center may be math and science, one will be a reading center and one will be a group project. They rotate to make sure they get to the different centers. They have outside play, a morning snack and they have lunch with us. They're kept pretty busy."

Although the Beverly Hills program is emotionally and socially centered, a program can be developmental and still focus on academics. The Center for Early Education uses non-traditional teaching methods to actively engage pre-school students in learning. At The Center, a pre-school student may be encouraged by their teacher to count the number of leaves in a flower. It's not called math, but it develops the skills that will later be necessary to do math, The Center Director of the Early Childhood Program Baudelia Taylor said

"It's a play-based philosophy," Taylor said. "So a lot of the focus is creating activities in and outside of the classroom that allow children to negotiate the terms between the play. Through doing that children are asking questions, observing, they are building a foundation for all of those building blocks that later come in your traditional areas."

• The Beverly Hills pre-school is not aligned with the kindergarten curriculum.

Casteneda said the city pre-school's curriculum comes from discussions the city has with kindergarten teachers. Some kindergarten teachers were not invited to participate in this meeting and have said they feel the standards on this list are slightly out of line with what they teach in their classroom. The list Castaneda has includes a pre-schooler being able to say and write their name, count objects from one to 10, walk down stairs using alternative feet and dressing themselves.

"They have a list of things that they've given us that they want us to have our children reach," Casteneda said. "They need to know how to write their name in lower case and recognize the letters, know how to sit in a circle, stand in line, basically know how to get along with each other. It's more of a social interaction."

While pre-schools that used a named curriculum have set lesson objectives and standards, the Beverly Hills pre-school uses a handwritten list (see photo) to map out the weeks lesson plans and activities. With the named curriculum, there is a way to measure how the student is doing in regards to the standards and consistency throughout every classroom.

While pre-school students from the city pre-school come into kindergarten prepared, Beverly Vista Kindergarten Teacher Natalie Rocchio said the students would undoubtedly benefit from a pre-school named curriculum tied into the kindergarten named curriculum.

"I think we have a strong need for a pre-school curriculum district wide that way every kid is getting the instruction they need," Rocchio said. "They'd be better prepared. If our school district were to have a pre-school with a curriculum and kindergarten teachers were able to work closely with pre-school teachers I think it would make an amazing difference."

Board of Education member Brian Goldberg said having a named curriculum taught at the pre-school level will better prepare the students for kindergarten and thus assist them through key developmental times.

"When I've spoken kindergarten teachers, they will tell you that the biggest challenge they have is incorporating students who either didn't attend pre-school or different types of pre-school and getting them on track," Goldberg said. "If we can help by preparing and having students already accustomed to BHUSD and already part of the expectations for BHUSD that's only going to help our kindergarten teachers and as we know the most important developmental years for the child is kindergarten through third grade after that if kids are behind it becomes more and more difficult to get them caught up."

Hawthorne School

Curriculum utilized by the Beverly Hills pre-school. This information is then used in hand-written lesson plans that vary depending on the teacher. It is not aligned with the BHUSD kindergarten curriculum.

• The existing pre-school is not prestigious enough to compete with other pre-schools in the area.

Pre-schools at Beverly Hills Presbyterian and Temple Emanuel, as well as those at Sinai - Akiba, Wilshire Boulevard Temple (Brawerman) and Stephen S. Wise Temple in nearby Los Angeles are a few of the private programs Beverly Hills parents send their kids to for a well-known pre-school education.

These institutions also offer day schools - where several principals are former veteran BHUSD administrators. The day schools are K-6 or K-8.

These students, and all students who leave the BHUSD and go to a private pre-school, are staying for elementary and middle school if the program allows. Board of Education President Steven Fenton said he believes if students come into the district in pre-school, they will stay in public school throughout their elementary and secondary education.

"If we can get in front of a four year old and their parents - we can keep them through high school," Fenton said. "Right now, other schools are capturing the attention of these families at the pre-school stage and holding onto them."

A distinguished pre-school is possible, Escalante said, it just requires collaboration from all parties currently involved. It would take the alignment of standards, organization of planning and development for the teachers, having qualified teachers who are able to assess student achievement and growth and having classrooms that are a learning environment where there's a balance between the teachers and the students centered in structured learning and accountability.

"My professional opinion is that a distinguished or effective pre-school program would be the continuation of support that aligns the pre-school experience to continue on seamlessly through the K-12 continuum," Escalante said.

Amidst the current problems with the city-run pre-school program, the district wants to work with the city to enhance the current program to be up to the Beverly Hills academic standards found in the elementary and secondary schools.

"We hope to partner with the city but if the city isn't interested in a partnership with BHUSD, we should look at developing our own program," Goldberg said. "My first goal and my first hope is that we can partner with Beverly Hills because I think they have a great program. I think we can enhance the program that they have and make it even stronger."

Fenton said the district is prepared to do what it can to assist the city. But ultimately if the city does not want to proceed in collaboration with the district, the district will begin its own pre-school.

"We should partner up with the city," Fenton said. "If the city council decides it's something they don't want to do, it's their prerogative and I respect that. We need to continue to move forward regardless."

Your life insurance policy may be worth much more than you think!

Alan L. Kaye, CLU, ChFC
President

If you are over age 70, we can show you how your life insurance policy might pay off now, while you are alive and still here to enjoy it! What's more, you may be able to sell your policy for considerably more than its cash surrender value.

One of our clients, a 75-year-old man who owned a $500,000 term insurance policy that was about to lapse, was able to cash it in for more than $100,000.

An 80-year-old woman had a $5 million policy with a cash surrender value of $600,000. We sold her policy for $1.3 million. Using the proceeds, we bought her new coverage without any further premium payments, saving her $120,000 a year.

People have come to us believing that their old policies were worthless. Others thought their existing insurance was so old that it could not be improved. We helped them sell their policies and purchase new coverage at much lower premiums. In most cases, we were able to increase the legacy they left for their heirs and favorite charities.

We may be able to do the same for you. Why settle for the cash surrender value or allow your policy to lapse, when it may be worth so much more? Let us help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy.

For a complimentary consultation and policy appraisal, by phone or in person
