“Montage Lot”

It was recently explained to me by a city official that the Montage hotel developers made a deal with Beverly Hills officials that (a) the hotel wanted convenient parking so the hotel agreed to build a city garage next door to the hotel ON CITY OWNED PROPERTY, (b) the city would contribute $33,000,000 of taxpayer money to pay the cost to construct the city adjacent parking garage and a two-level retail building. THE HOTEL WOULD CONTROL THE FIRST AND MOST CONVENIENT LEVEL OF PARKING, P2 (cars could enter from Beverly Drive and Canon Drive). The hotel would pay “rent” based on a percent of the hotel income! ... It was further explained that, “As the hotel income increases the parking garage rent to the city increases!” My comment to that proposal would have been “elevators also go up ... and down ... but I prefer it be ‘up’ ... and stay there.”

With respect to the hotel rent proposal I suppose some people could have said the second problem facing the Wright brothers was, “if your plane ever does go up in the air how do you propose to get it back down?”

One Sunday night recently I parked in what I mistakenly thought is the CITY owned AND OPERATED garage. The sign at the entrance said “TWO HOURS FREE PARKING” ... when I got to the first, most convenient level, P2, it was taped off and the sign said “valet parking only.”

I was told the next day that the hotel CONTROLS the P2 parking level!

When that garage deal was made the inmates were running the asylum.

Have you ever heard of a CITY owned parking garage designed with the extremely expensive to operate tandem parking layout? Now you have!

“And the Academy presents” [Issue #599]

Once again Rudy Cole hits it right on the mark with his historically-minded recap of the City Council installation. I work with other local cyclists in our Better Bike Beverly Hills group (a local affiliate of the Los Angeles County Bicycle Coalition), and our advocacy work frequently brings me to City Hall commission meetings. If these decision-making bodies that feed our City Council candidate roster are any indication, we can look forward to a strong council that will lead our city into a very promising future.

And what a future it can be ... if we embrace new modes of transit that reflect our policy concerns regarding reduced greenhouse gas emissions. We at Better Bike focus on expanding our civic imagination beyond the automobile. We believe we’re at the beginning of a people-powered transit revolution and that’s a message that’s beginning to resonate around City Hall.

At last Thursday’s Planning Commission meeting, for example, there was unanimous Commission sentiment not to rezone the old railroad right of way on Santa Monica Boulevard for commercial use. A year ago I would have seen it as a shoe-in; today, however, the very nature of transportation is changing, and the Commission acknowledged that we need to think imaginatively and not fore-close options for that land under so many car parks.

I salute the prodigious capacity exhibited by the city commissions that send their best members to City Council. I’m confident that our city recognizes that the key is to move people not necessarily cars. With solid leadership our residents will follow.

Planning Commission will consider overlay zone for Gateway Project

Three landowners applying to change the zoning of their parcels from T-1 (transportation) to C-3 (commercial use) were dealt a setback last Thursday, when the Beverly Hills Planning Commission decided not to authorize a change in zoning of three parcels of land located along Santa Monica Boulevard near Wilshire Boulevard.

“We’re leaving our options open,” Planning Commission Chair Daniel Yukelson said. “We want to figure out what will work best with those parcels. We want to do it right because it’s an important gateway to our city.”

If approved, the project, known as the Gateway Project, would have changed the zoning of three parcels of land located along Santa Monica Boulevard near Wilshire Boulevard at Beverly Hills’ western border. The parcels, totaling approximately 3 acres, were formerly part of a railroad right-of-way and the current zoning allows the land to be used only for transportation.

Two of the three landowners requested rezoning only, and a third requested rezoning and a development proposal for a three-story, 90,000-square-foot office building with four levels of subterranean parking providing 274 parking spaces.

Assuming maximum potential development on all three parcels, the final environmental impact report identified temporary air pollutant emissions and noise generated by construction activities, as well as traffic generated from development when added to existing traffic, as significant and unavoidable impacts. Aesthetics, cultural resources, hazardous materials, land use and planning, noise, and public services and utilities were cited as impacts less than significant.

According to the March 24 Planning Commission Report, “there has been discussion for development of the T-1 parcels for a variety of uses including parking, bus-only lane, bike path separated from traffic lanes, a green belt or other transportation use, [but] the City Council has not acquired the land or stated any policies that would exercise any of these considerations. Any development of the subject parcels with structures would severely limit future City acquisition and use of the parcels.” However, the report cites a lack of a plan or policy direction that would indicate the city’s interest in acquiring the land.

The report says that because of the three parcels’ location near Beverly Hills’ western boundary, the “Commission may wish to consider whether development of the site should be representative of a major entrance to the City.” Considerations for the area could include iconic architecture, mass and scale, proposed use, relationship to Little Santa Monica, and relationship to adjacent land uses across North Santa Monica Boulevard.

The next step will be a liaison meeting between the Planning Commission and City Council.

“There are many variables we want to study and look at and get some direction from City Council,” Yukelson said. “Once we get some direction we’re going to have staff study and make a proposal. One of the considerations is overlay zone for those parcels. With overlay we could create zoning just specifically tailored for those parcels.”

A zoning overlay could be established to incorporate specific goals, objectives and development standards, similar to the city’s other overlay zones, the report says. The Planning Commission could specify setback requirements, height limitations, floor to area ratios and other specifications, that the City Council would then consider for approval at a future meeting. The date of the meeting is to be determined.

“This is an important gateway to our city, so it makes sense to try to redevelop it and make it into something beautiful and beneficial to the city,” Yukelson said. “Overlay zone may allow us a compromise. We may be able to shape the project so it’s not as overwhelming for that site.”

Planning Commission approves medical office building on San Vicente

On March 24, the Beverly Hills Planning Commission unanimously voted to allow construction of a three-story, 32,450-square-foot medical/general office building with three levels of subterranean parking at 119-123 San Vicente Boulevard, just north of Wilshire Boulevard.

The Planning Commission approved the project last October, but an appeal was filed on behalf of a neighboring apartment building and the project was sent to City Council for a decision. Before the City Council could consider the resolution, the applicant revised the project, and the matter was remanded to the Planning Commission for consideration.

“I was very pleased,” Planning Commission Chair Dan Yukelson said. “The developer had a great willingness to work through the process, went through the appeal. Really, a good neighbor policy is always best. [The developer] was able to work out whatever issues there were with the owner of the apartment building next door. [The developer] brought back a less impactful project to the neighborhood.”

Revisions to the project included scaling back square footage by 7,600 feet, eliminating one level of the subterranean garage, and incorporating a large setback for upper floors along the southern property line.

Project plans will be reviewed by the Architectural Commission at a future meeting.

Developer announces 39-story condominium project near Beverly High

On March 24, Los Angeles City Councilmember Paul Koretz joined developers and neighbors to announce plan details for luxury condominiums at 10000 Santa Monica Blvd., which is located about a quarter mile from Beverly High.

The developer, 10000 Santa Monica LLC headed by Casey Klein, has proposed a 39-story, 469,575-square-foot residential-only condominium development, containing 283 units. Miami-based Crescent Heights, one of the developer’s investors, acquired the land from SunCal Companies, which had previously proposed a larger project.

“The 10000 Santa Monica condominium project that we are here to discuss represents the best kind of planning process—one that, throughout, has been full of community input and collaborative decision-making,” Koretz said in a statement at a press conference at Los Angeles InterContinental Hotel in Century City. “It is estimated that 10000 Santa Monica will generate more than $300 million in regional economic activity and that it will create close to 2,000 construction and construction-related jobs, and that is mighty good medicine for our city when we’re all facing a still rough and gloomy economy.”

According to developer representatives, the building will be LEED-certified, provide more than one acre of green open space and offer housing that is more affordable than comparable condominiums in Century City.

“How you benefit a community with this type of development is you create a jobs-housing balance,” project spokesperson Steven Afriat said. “People who work [in the area] will be able to afford to live [there]. You’ll have people walking and biking to work in a way you haven’t seen before in Century City.”

According to Afriat, representatives from nine nearby Los Angeles homeowners associations were involved in the proposal plans. Comstock Hills Homeowners Association President Jan Reichmann, who spoke at the press conference, was invited to meet the developer and offer ideas regarding architecture and design.

“What I like about the building is number one, the design is elegant,” Reichmann said. “It’s green and also it’s considerably smaller than [the building that was going to go up]. It’s 100 percent residential, which means no

AN APPEAL OF THE PLANNING COMMISSION’S DECISION APPROVING A CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT TO ALLOW THE ESTABLISHMENT OF AN EQUINOX EXERCISE CLUB AT 9465 WILSHIRE BOULEVARD.

A Conditional Use Permit to allow a new, 37,129 square foot exercise club (Equinox Fitness Club) to be located at 9465 Wilshire Boulevard was approved by the Planning Commission on January 13, 2011. Pursuant to BHMC §1-4-102 an appeal was timely filed within 14 days of the Planning Commission’s action by Todd Elliott on behalf of Ron and Sharon Gart, and Neighbors Organized to Protect the Environment in Beverly Hills. traffic from any kinds of stores or retail.”

Reichmann added, “This is the best design for a new building I’ve seen in years.”

Ken Goldman, President of the Southwest Homeowners Association in Beverly Hills, expressed concern about the size of the development and potential traffic impacts.

“In light of a residential area, a block away in which there are two-, maybe three-story apartments, in light of the high school where there’s maybe three or four stories, in light of the commercial area adjacent to it on Little Santa Monica with two stories, having [39] stories seems absurdly out of scale and out of place,” Goldman said.

The next step for the project is drafting an environmental impact report. Public hearings scheduled by the Los Angeles Planning Department will follow.

“I would hope that the city of Los Angeles would be neighborly and would recognize that the residents and business people to the east of the project, half a block away, need the same consideration that the LA City Council would give to their own residents,” Goldman said. “I would hope there would be some great cooperation, I would hope that Beverly Hills City Council and Board of Education would take a very active role in this.”

Former superintendent steps down as Nantucket superintendent

Former BHUSD superintendent Robert Pellicone stepped down as superintendent of Nantucket Public Schools on July 1, 2010 after five years with the district.

He told The Morning Noon & Night Show in

Robert Pellicone

September 2009 that his contract would not be renewed.

“I don’t want to renew, I want to move on,” Pellicone said. “My spouse is in New York. It was a family decision, we decided about a year ago we want to do something different.”

On the show, Pellicone talked about what he wanted his legacy to be.

“Accountability, fixing things,” Pellicone said. “I came here to fix things, certification was a big issue in 2005. We have a new administrative team in place, great people working here.”

Pellicone had a controversial reign as BHUSD superintendent from 1998-1999. After he was terminated by the Board of Education, he sued, alleging wrongful termination and discrimination based on sexual orientation.

Beverly Hills subway route discussed at Metro meeting

Community members who spoke at Tuesday night’s Metro Westside Subway Extension Community Meeting shared a range of opinions about the alignment of the subway as it travels through Beverly Hills.

Metro is in the planning process of nine miles of subway extension that will add seven stations, after the current Wilshire/Western stop, extending to Westwood near the VA hospital.

The proposed station in Century City is a point of contention for some Beverly Hills residents. There are two options under consideration for a Century City station west of a proposed stop in Beverly Hills at Wilshire Boulevard and Rodeo Drive. One possibility is a station at Constellation Boulevard and Avenue of the Stars. Some Beverly Hills residents oppose this option because it would require tunneling under Beverly High.

The second option is a station at Santa Monica Boulevard and Avenue of the Stars. Geotechnical and fault investigations continue, as this station is located near the Santa Monica Fault. Metro is also looking at locating the station box at Santa Monica Boulevard and Century Park East, which may allow the station to be located outside the fault zone.

Councilmember John Mirisch was first to speak during the public comments portion of the meeting. He voiced support of the Santa Monica Boulevard station, and in light of Metro’s recent announcement of reduced bus service, expressed the need for park and ride at stations.

“Metro is reducing bus service, which means access to actual subway stations is going to be decreased,” Mirisch said. “That makes it more important for residents to be able to take advantage of this multibillion-dollar public works project through having better access. The best way is if there is extensive park and ride at some of the stations.”

Mirisch also mentioned the need for multiple station entrances.

“In general, I think there should be more than one portal at each station,” Mirisch said. “It’s not only a matter of convenience, but also making the whole system as effective as possible. Metro is suggesting they want to learn from experiences of subways throughout the world. As someone who in the past regularly made use of subways in different cities, I think that most efficient systems have multiple entries and exits.”

During her presentation, Jody Litvak of Metro explained that Metro will build and pay for one portal at each station, except for Westwood/UCLA because of high potential boardings at that station.

“Stations are going to be designed with what are called knockout panels, so adjacent property owners if they wanted to, at their expense, could connect in,” Litvak said. “Many property owners find that very beneficial to do. We will build and pay for one portal everywhere, save Westwood/UCLA where we will do two and then we’ll see from there.”

Nick Leathers, a student at USC, voiced support for the station at Constellation Boulevard.

“For my generation, convenience is the most important thing for mass transit,” Leathers said. “People my age don’t like to do anything that’s hard, so if it’s hard they won’t use it. For mass transit, if it’s easy to use, they’ll use it.”

Hollywood resident Alexander Friedman also supports the station at Constellation.

“I’m disappointed with the way the Beverly Hills residents have a strange mentality that the subway will destroy everything,” Friedman said. “It’s the 21st century and technology allows to build safely without damage, without causing any noise or vibration. This is not New York City where the subway tunnels are built directly under the street. This is LA, where tunnels are built more than 100 feet below the residences.”

Ken Goldman, Beverly Hills resident and President of the Southwest Homeowners Association, supports the subway project, but opposes the station at Constellation.

“Simply in doing research, I have found four instances over the last few years in four cities around the world in which modern boring equipment has caused property damage and death,” Goldman said. “Accidents and construction defects can happen. Why put a subway under a school of 2,500 students and teachers there five days a week, as well as residents over the weekend and at night, when you can put a subway under a public roadway, where it belongs?”

Beverly Hills resident Victor Moss expressed opposition to the subway extension project in any form.

“Stop the project now,” Moss said. “If you insist on drilling under the high school, we will get a petition.”

Mirisch said he hopes for cooperation between Metro and the community.

“I hope that Metro does take into account our concerns,” Mirisch said. “We need to have the community continue to be involved mov-

Board of Education votes not to reduce consulting services

The BHUSD Board of Education unanimously rejected a resolution to reduce consulting services in the areas of information technology and child, welfare and attendance at the regular Board meeting on March 23.

“[Board President] Lisa [Korbatov] and I have spent a lot of time traveling on the East Coast touring school districts that have fully integrated technology into their curriculum and classrooms,” Board Vice President Brian Goldberg said. “We’re not going to be able to do that in Beverly Hills unless we have the individuals and infrastructure in place to support that.”

Had the resolution been approved, the district would have saved approximately $160,000 by eliminating one child, welfare and attendance consultant and reducing two information technology consulting positions by 50 percent.

The Board also discussed reorganization of adult education and zero based budgeting, and approved the Board of Education election, which will take place on Nov. 8.

The three seats up for election are those of Steven Fenton, Goldberg and Myra Lurie. Goldberg has announced he will seek reelection, whereas Fenton and Lurie have said they will not run.

The Board discussed possible reductions to the adult education program, in order to reallocate funds to K-12 education.

“In these difficult financial times, we need to look at every source of available funds,” said Alex Cherniss, Assistant Superintendent of Business Services. “Unfortunately, this means that some programs may be reduced. We’re going to look at a plan to bring our best recommendation as to what our adult education program should look like next year.”

Assistant Superintendent of Human Resources Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard said that reductions to the program are likely.

“It’s possible [ESL] will be the only component of the adult school program that will remain,” Murakawa-Leopard said. “The current ESL program may be reduced from what it is now.”

The zero-based budget discussion was brief because the board will bring in expert Ron Bennett from Schools For Sound Finance for a study session on the topic. It will be held on April 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the EDC room in the Science & Technology Center at Beverly High.

A resolution regarding layoffs of classified personnel was pulled by the staff to accommodate possible changes to adult education.

“We are going to revise it and bring a comprehensive [resolution] at the next meeting,” Murakawa-Leopard said. “We wanted to make sure we thought through all implications of [the Board’s discussion of adult education] and that we have a good picture of what the district will look like next year.”

The resolution, if approved, would have eliminated one senior secretary of educational services at the K-12 level and one adult or alternative education clerk, and reduced the hours of one purchasing assistant and one adult or alternative education senior clerk.

City furloughs cancelled for April 1

The Beverly Hills Firemen’s Association has offered to contribute funds that will cover $250,000 to $270,000 in savings from furlough days scheduled for April 1, May 6 and June 3.

“[City employees] are at work giving a service to the community,” Beverly Hills Firemen’s Association Treasurer Dave Perusse said. “We thought it was a decision we had to make not only for employees, but for the community as well.”

The furlough day on Friday, April 1 has been cancelled and the City Council will consider the offer at a formal meeting on April 5. The three furlough days were scheduled to help balance the budget.

Although these are the first city furloughs of Perusse’s 16-year career, it’s not the first time the Beverly Hills Firemen’s Association has offered to help the City’s budget.

“About five years ago we opted to go to a less expensive family medical benefits plan so the city would save additional dollars for that,” Perusse said.

Report reveals mismanagement of BHUSD food services

A report presented at the Board of Education meeting on March 23 revealed significant management problems with BHUSD’s food services department. The district invited the Fiscal Crisis & Management Assistance Team, which prepared the report, to visit the district on January 10 and 11. Debi Deal of FCMAT presented the findings.

“We brought in FCMAT because we knew food services was losing money,” Board of Education Vice President Brian Goldberg said. “[Food services has been] a drain and encroachment on the general fund, taking money out of the classroom by subsidizing the food service program.”

The report cites a number of areas that need improvement, including cash handling procedures, record-keeping, menu planning and nutrient analysis compliance with federal or state guidelines, low student participation, and efficiency. The report also provided recommendations for improving food service operations.

“The FCMAT team said this is the worst situation of the 850 reviews they’ve done in the state of California,” Goldberg said.

The report revealed that BHUSD’s meal preparation efficiency lags far behind the industry average of 30 meals per labor hour. Meals per labor hour is a tool used to calculate appropriate staffing levels compared with the total number of meals served each day. During a three-month period in 2010, Beverly High averaged 3 MPLH, and the K-8 schools averaged between 10 and 14 MPLH.

The report recommends hiring a full-time director of food services to improve “oversight and communication between food service staff and the district office manager.” Another consideration would convert the K-8 schools into satellite kitchens that receive food prepared at Beverly High.

“If we’re going to follow the FCMAT recommendations, we can’t pick and choose which ones we want to follow,” said Alex Cherniss, Assistant Superintendent of Business Services. “They laid out a template for how to improve our program. Having someone as a full-time food services director is part of their recommendation. I think the board should seriously consider it.”

Goldberg said he would not vote for adding a food services director.

“We are looking at finding creative and out of the box solutions to providing free or reduced lunch meals [which is required by state and federal law],” Goldberg said. “Several charter schools around us have to address the same issue without having a full kitchen. They’ve been able to find companies that bring that in for those students, that comply with state and federal requirements.”

Of the six percent of district students that qualify for the National School Lunch Program, only 43 percent are currently participating, the report says.

Cherniss said the district is considering contracting with FCMAT for ongoing consulting services. Last summer, the district reduced hours for 10 food services employees, and is in the process of eliminating nine food services positions that will go into effect on April 4.

“All the internal control issues have been resolved on FCMAT recommendations,” Cherniss said. “Our concern right now is becoming a more productive program. As hard as it is to have an independent body audit a program and reveal shortcomings, I applaud the Board of Education for taking that on and the staff for being willing to accept the recommendations and move forward.”

Christian Fuhrer named Horace Mann interim assistant principal

Horace Mann technology teacher Christian Fuhrer will fill in as interim assistant principal while Dana Findley is on maternity leave. The Board of Education approved Fuhrer’s appointment on March 23 at a regular meeting.

Christian Fuhrer

“[Fuhrer] is very deserving of this,” Principal Steve Kessler said. “He has put in the time and the effort. He has been our interim administrator when one of us had to attend a meeting. He was our go-to person because he has his administrative credential and he will have a seamless transition.”

During his nine years at Horace Mann, Fuhrer has taught technology, media arts, yearbook and served as the school’s Technology Site Co-Coordinator. He has coordinated the middle school’s outdoor education program for the last seven years. Last year, Fuhrer was a member of the inaugural Bosse Leadership Academy, which was created to grow leaders from within BHUSD.

Fuhrer holds a Master’s degree in educational leadership and policy studies from California State University, Northridge. His wife, Christy, is a first grade teacher at Horace Mann and son Lucas is in second grade at Horace Mann.

“It’s a real honor to be interim assistant principal for Horace Mann,” Fuhrer said. “What I’m looking forward to most is continuing to work with the kids at this school. I teach first to eighth grade. I’ve known these kids since they were in first grade. It’s great to continue the work I do with them, just on a different level.”

Some other reader nominations:

Best Food Market Checker: Elaine Webster at the family-owned Beverly Hills Market.

Best Auto Repair Shop: See owner and manager "Bobby" at A.G.T Automotive, 8567 Wilshire, inside the Mobil Station at same address. Totally honest and reliable, they can service any model vehicle at very reasonable prices and deliver on time. Efficient and competent, high reader approval.

Best store for gifts: Many nominations for the historic Geary's.

Mentions for fitness trainers, watch and shoe repair, tailoring and other specialty shops to follow next week and, again, your suggestions for categories not yet mentioned still very welcome. A note of appreciation to all those who responded – your nominations will be recognized in the weeks ahead.

Most unusual launch for a building project press conference: Not only were the developers in attendance last week when plans for a condo project at 10000 Little Santa Monica Blvd, just west of our village in Los Angeles, were unveiled, but all the neighboring Los Angeles Homeowner Associations, those who usually march against developments, were there as cheerleaders as was the Los Angeles Councilmember for the district, Paul Koretz (see our story on page 3).

To create a new phraseology, the Los Angeles Marathon ran into some opposition when it raced through Beverly Hills last Sunday. Not just the major inconvenience of trying to move from south to north of Santa Monica Boulevard, and that became a major challenge for churchgoers, but readers wondered how and why this had any real benefits for Beverly Hills. Opponents must have done a very successful rain dance, a torrent greeted runners as they entered our village. May not win city approval next year.

Best Elizabeth Taylor story: When George Mitchell, then a federal judge in Maine, was appointed, not elected, to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate, he arrived on a day when the members were being forced to sleep on the senate floor to meet a roll call deadline. With his sleeping bag in hand, Mitchell found a space next to Sen. John Warner, then married to the legend Taylor. "What a great country," Mitchell exclaimed. "One day a senator, and I'm sleeping two feet away from the guy who sleeps with Elizabeth Taylor."

LOCAL HERO: Lt. Tony Lee brings a very special kind of professionalism to his job of press relations for our finest, the Beverly Hills Police Department. Accessible, open and totally responsive, Tony not only protects and defends our public relations image, he has won the respect of the men and women in the media for his careful and honest approach to news dissemination. Equally important, he works well with another great communicator, his boss, Chief David Snowden.

Call me electronically challenged, but I simply don't do social networking. Not against being social or keeping in touch, but that's why I write the column. My apologies to all those who sent me an invitation to join them on Facebook or some other keeping in contact resource – I appreciate the thought.

Dana Young elected El Rodeo PTA President

Last Friday, the El Rodeo PTA elected Dana Young PTA president for the 2011-2012 school year.

"I'm looking forward to it," Young said. "I've been the co-president with Azy [Farahmand] this year. She's been a great role model for me. I'm looking forward to keeping up the good work to keep the school strong."

Dana Young

Young has been involved with El Rodeo since her sons Max and Emilio Yera started attending the school as first and third graders. Max is currently in sixth grade and Emilio is in eighth grade. She was a room parent, volunteered with the PTA and was on its community service committee. She co-chaired the Multicultural Dinner and Contest with Farahmand for two years.

"[Young is] one of the co-presidents this year," Principal David Hoffman said. "Obviously, that's going to make the transition back to one president a smooth one. Dana's already been involved. She's been working side by side with the other current president. She's learned a lot this year. Her confidence level has grown along with her knowledge. She's easy to work with."

Mandy Katz was elected executive vice president.

BHUSD students must enroll by May 16 for guaranteed seat at home school

In a change from prior policy, resident students must enroll by May 16 in order to be guaranteed a seat at their home BHUSD school for the 2011-2012 school year. The decision was made at the Board of Education meeting on March 23.

In previous years, the deadline was June 30. The May 16 deadline will allow the district additional time to plan and ensure that schools are staffed appropriately.

Resident families with school-aged children who are planning to enroll in BHUSD schools for the 2011-2012 school year are encouraged to enroll as soon as possible, as the K-8 schools have a limited capacity at each grade level. Students who enroll in their neighborhood school after May 16 may be assigned to another district school with available space. The district has requested that community members pass this information along to resident families with school-aged children.

Enrollment for the 2011-2012 school year is now open at all five schools in the district. The five schools, their locations and their registration hours are as follows.

- Beverly Vista. 200 South Elm Drive. 9 a.m.-11 a.m. and 1 p.m.-3 p.m.
- El Rodeo. 605 North Whittier Drive. 9 a.m.-11 a.m. and 1 p.m.-3 p.m.
- Hawthorne. 624 North Rexford Drive. 9 a.m.-11 a.m. and 1 p.m.-3 p.m.
- Horace Mann. 8701 Charleville Blvd. 9 a.m.-11 a.m. and 1 p.m.-3 p.m.
- Beverly High, House A. 241 Moreno Drive. 8 a.m.-10 a.m.

For information about the documentation and other requirements for enrollment, parents can visit the district's website at bhUSD.org, click on the tab for parents, and select How to Enroll.

For more information, call James Hanson at (310) 551-5100, ext. 2250 or e-mail jhanson@bhUSD.org.

Rep. Waxman named Congressional awardee
AARP awarded Rep. Henry A. Waxman the 2010 Legislative Excellence Award

Sofia Gomez, third grader in Ms. McDonald's class, fills in her class' 100 percent chart for the Friends of Hawthorne campaign after eating a celebration cupcake.

100 percent of third-grade families contribute to Friends of Hawthorne campaign

On Friday, the Friends of Hawthorne campaign reached its goal of encouraging participation by all 60 families of third graders.

Each third-grade class celebrated on Friday afternoon with classroom parties, and all three classes and their families will come together for a third-grade community celebration at The Nosh on April 5.

Friends of Hawthorne volunteer Grenda David, who was recently elected Hawthorne PTA president for 2011-2012, said that at the beginning of the school year, a message from the campaign requesting a $500 minimum donation per child seemed to turn off some families and isolate others.

"[When we] broke that barrier down, people were willing to participate at any level they could," David said. "Everybody feels like they can participate, that they have gotten to do their part, no matter how large or how small. To me that's a win-win situation for the whole community."

After reaching 100 percent participation in daughter Emma Guilfoil's class, David decided about three weeks ago to encourage donations from all third-grade families.

David, volunteer Hillary Hartman and third-grade room parents Sumiya Nichols, Michele Rose, Rona Forouzan and Michelle Mitchell led the fundraising drive, which resulted in a contribution of more than $42,000 to Friends of Hawthorne, with an average of $706 per family. Principal Toni Staser and third-grade teachers Kim Timmerman, Christina McDonald and Michelle Nourmand provided support.

"I hope what it will do is ignite a flame that will inspire other grade levels and have other grade level representatives want to have the same thing happen," David said. She said she has already offered to help room parents at other grade levels undertake the effort.

"It feels like accomplishing something that people said couldn't be done," David said. "I never believed that."

Volunteers are asked to commit to at least one shift a week, from 9 a.m.-12 p.m. or 12-4 p.m., Monday through Friday at Beverly Hills City Hall, Permit Center, 455 N. Rexford Drive, First Floor, Beverly Hills.

Hawthorne instrumental music teacher Ben Stokes plays the ukulele during a BHUSD professional development day.

VAPA teachers learn to play the ukulele from fellow teacher

Recently, Horace Mann music teacher Ethan Smith was given an unusual assignment. He was asked to teach fellow visual and performing arts (VAPA) teachers how to play the ukulele during BHUSD's professional development day on March 21.

"We brought ukuleles and handed them out to the teachers," Smith said. "I described a way in which I teach the kids the ukulele. I did the same with them. We all sang some songs and played on the ukulele. It was fun, but it was also about, a teacher can teach other teachers something."

Approximately 20 teachers participated in the ukulele workshop that took place as a trial run for a future district-wide workshop that allows VAPA teachers to teach non-arts teachers. The ukuleles were provided by Smith and Hawthorne music specialist Christa Gutheinz.

BHUSD VAPA Coordinator Deb Joseph said even as a visual communication and design teacher, playing the ukulele is a different discipline.

"I'm intrigued by using music to transition from one activity to another and different ways of changing up the environment in the room," Joseph said. "There are many ways that the arts could be integrated into other classes, and generalist classes as well. You could be teaching anything, it really doesn't matter. People who have the passion for something can integrate that into the curriculum and add dimension."

Smith says he uses his ukulele every day with his students, and teaches beginning and advanced ukulele classes to fourth and fifth grade students. When interviewing for his teaching job he was asked if he could bring along a guitar, but he brought a ukulele.

"It's great especially for younger kids because with [their] smaller voices, a big guitar can overwhelm them," Smith said. "I think it's better for them to sing with in a lot of ways. It does so many great things for kids' learning. [They] learn so much about music through it, including chord progressions, time signature, beat and rhythm."

Joseph said learning a new discipline gives teachers a different perspective.

"One of our teachers pointed out that it reminds you of doing something for the first time again, something that's outside your realm," Joseph said. "It reminds you of how that feels, makes you more empathetic. You're back at the beginning of learning a new task [which is] where your students are all the time."

To use the online bill-paying service, utility customers must register and activate their accounts at <http://utility.beverlyhills.org>. Customers can check bills and make credit card payments instantly, 24 hours a day.

"This is a wonderful convenience for Beverly Hills residents," Mayor Barry Brucker said in a statement. "More and more people pay their bills online and it's important that the City offer this service. It also saves money for the City by reducing staff time spent on processing the utility bills."

The online utility bill payment system is the latest Beverly Hills Smart City initiative, which uses technology to improve security, offer online services and move toward environmental sustainability.

BEVERLY HILLS WEEKLY TURNS 600

Our readers discuss why they can't miss the Weekly every Thursday

I don't wait until Thursday morning ... I go online Wednesday night! I love Rudy Cole's column and the in-depth cover stories ... Is it Wednesday yet?
- Lili Bosse, City Councilmember

First, congratulations to [Publisher] Josh [Gross] and the paper on their 600th edition. I really enjoy the newspaper, especially the editorials and Rudy Cole's column, and I appreciate the continued support that the paper gives to sharing with the community the ongoing activities that impact our daily lives.
- Willie Brien, Vice Mayor

Congratulations on #600! I particularly enjoy reading the Weekly because the staff is unspoiled and fresh and any inexperience is way overshadowed by the passion for the stories they investigate and author. I also appreciate that the stories are not edited by the publisher to reflect his point of view. After all don't the residents of our community deserve the truth and the opportunity to then make up their own mind on the issues?
- Linda Briskman, Former Mayor

I have always believed, as did our Founding Fathers, in the absolute necessity of a free and active press to provide the oversight of government affairs on behalf of the public interest. After 40 years of working in local government, I am convinced beyond doubt in this necessity. Beverly Hills is fortunate to have Beverly Hills Weekly to provide news, information, and viewpoints on the many issues and the activities of interest before the community. While city manager of Beverly Hills, I was fortunate to be able to work with Beverly Hills Weekly and its staff and develop a great respect and appreciation for their efforts to keep the community informed. I wish the Weekly the very best on their 600th publication. Keep up the good work.
- Rod Wood, Former City Manager

People have already predicted the end of print media because of the rise of the Internet and blogs, but in a small town like Beverly Hills we rely on our print media to expose what's really happening in our schools and in our community. Beverly Hills Weekly does a great job of highlighting what our community is participating in and shines a spotlight on all the positive aspects of living in Beverly Hills. I also enjoy reading the in-depth interviews with our City's leadership. I have learned a lot of useful information from the various interviews with staff, commissioners and elected officials in our City. Keep up the great work and here is to the next 600 issues!
- Brian Goldberg, Board of Education Vice President

The Weekly has an ability to focus on relevant and timely articles that speak to the issues facing the community of Beverly Hills. With its clear and straightforward format, the Weekly is both informative and easy to read. I have always appreciated the fact that the Weekly is not afraid to investigate controversial or sensitive subjects with the objective of uncovering the truth behind the story. The Weekly has been a constant supporter of our public schools and, through its coverage, has enlightened the community while helping to bring about positive change within the district. Congratulations on this great occasion. May the Weekly continue to be a vital pair of eyes and ears for the community and schools of Beverly Hills.
- Mark Frenn, President, Beverly Hills Education Association

I read Beverly Hills Weekly because it covers issues that are important to our community. Rudy Cole's column is always interesting and informative on what is happening in our town. Congratulations on your 600th issue and many more to come.
- Noah Furie, Former Planning Commissioner

I love the fact that Beverly Hills Weekly is a true community paper. The focus of the paper is on the institutions, the people, and the events that impact the lives of the people in Beverly Hills. Readers of the Weekly are always informed about the issues and the happenings in Beverly Hills, whether they are big or small. People in Beverly Hills have the opportunity every Thursday to learn about the lives of community leaders, about the issues facing the school district and the city, the events taking place within the city, and the wonderful accomplishments of our residents and our children, our future leaders. I want to congratulate [Publisher] Josh [Gross] on the 600th issue of Beverly Hills Weekly!
- Dick Douglas, BHUSD Superintendent

I enjoy reading the Weekly because it covers Beverly Hills in a way that highlights the diverse and vibrant character of our City, especially that of the Iranian-American community. I appreciate that it features the stories and personalities in the Iranian-American community who are contributing to make Beverly Hills great.
- Sam Yebri, President, 30 Years After

Congratulations to the Weekly for their 600th issue. I genuinely appreciate your tremendous support of the Beverly Hills Fire Department and the City of Beverly Hills. I offer my sincere thanks and admiration to the Weekly and their skilled team. I earnestly value Rudy Cole's fair and responsible view of the issues and am most grateful for the online version available on Thursdays. I commend the Weekly for its tremendous achievements, contributions, and dedication to the community. Congratulations once again.
- Tim Scranton, Fire Chief

600 issues! That's 599 more than anyone predicted. Job well done.
- Steven Fenton, Board of Education Member

I love that after 600 issues, [Publisher] Josh [Gross] still hasn't had any "work" done! Congratulations to a real natural.
- Leeza Gibbons, Beverly Hills resident and host, Hollywood Confidential

An Open Letter To former Councilmember and Mayor Nancy Krasne

Dear Nancy,

As a community we want to thank you publicly for your decades of commitment to every person who lives in, works in or visits our city. You've worked hard and long for all of us. Whether we lived in a mansion on Sunset, senior housing on Crescent or a single apartment on South Reeves, you treated us with the same level of respect. "I work for you" was your Credo. You leave this city a far better place for having volunteered your time, and we appreciate it beyond measure..

You truly represent the best of Beverly Hills. But now as we go forward without you, while facing the hard decisions ahead, we'll ask ourselves "What would Nancy do?"

Hopefully we will know!

We felt pride in calling you Commissioner, Councilmember and Mayor. We will continue to feel pride and great joy in calling you our friend.

With love,

All your friends and neighbors in Beverly Hills
