"The silly season and making us look foolish" [Issue #627]

I wanted to congratulate [Rudy Cole] on [his] brave and honest words in [his column], "The Silly Season." Thank you for standing tall and strong in supporting the safety and health of our students and staff of Beverly High. We are proud to have an honest and unbiased journalist in the City of Beverly Hills!

Nellie Emrani Beverly Hills

ESL at Beverly Hills Adult School

I'm Donkyoo Park, a journalist from Korea. I moved here [to] Beverly Hills with my family last August. My daughter Harin had to register for an elementary school. When we went to Beverly Hills Unified School District, we got to know they're offering ESL classes. My wife and I decided to register for the ESL learning courses at the Adult School.

I think this is a good English class.

It has been very helpful to correct my mistakes. I have had lots of interviews to write articles for the past 12 years. But I needed an interpreter to express and understand what we were [discussing]. Someday I wish I could do it without any help. Beverly Hills Adult School is making me dream that kind of dream.

Last month I was concerned about my daughter because she didn't even know [the] alphabet. One day, I got to know that many elementary school students report being bullied. My mind became busy so I couldn't concentrate on the class. When I was about to go out, my teacher Esther Caporale called me and said, "I can recommend an English tutor for your daughter if necessary." One of my classmates gave me the same offer as well. What a great adult school it is!

A new rule was made in my home now. Everyone should speak only English in the morning. Harin is also trying to make a simple sentence. My wife and I were so happy when she spoke English to her teacher. This is tiny happiness we found here in Beverly Hills. And I'm sure I speak for all non-native English speaking parents who want to help their children succeed. I hope these opportunities and happiness will last.

New indictment changes Hubbard case

Former BHUSD Superintendent Jeffrey Hubbard was arraigned Tuesday morning on an indictment for an additional felony charge of misappropriation of public funds for allegedly increasing the pay of former BHUSD Credential Analyst Nora Roque without board approval in May 2005. Appearing before a grand jury in the Los Angeles County Superior Court, Hubbard pleaded not guilty.

According to the indictment, Hubbard directed a subordinate to increase Roque's salary without board approval and therefore the action did not appear on board agendas, minutes or otherwise publicly.

Hubbard already faces two felony charges of misappropriation of public funds related to his work in Beverly Hills, for allegedly allocating $20,000 to former BHUSD Facilities Director Karen Anne Christiansen without board approval and illegally increasing her car allowance. Christiansen faces four felony charges related to conflicts of interest.

According to the indictment, Assistant Superintendent of Business Services Alex Cherniss discovered Hubbard's alleged misconduct related to the two original charges in 2009. During the investigation that followed, law enforcement interviewed then-Director of Human Resources Judy Allen-Mendez, who said she had confronted Hubbard about not obtaining authorization for increasing Roque's salary, the indictment stated.

Cherniss, Allen-Mendez, then-Assistant Superintendent of Business Services Gary Mortimer, Anthony Talbert and Kenneth Kladifko were called Tuesday as witnesses. Kladifko is mentioned in Los Angeles County District Attorney Steve Cooley's 2009-2010 Report to the People as a senior investigator in the D.A.'s Bureau of Investigation.

Roque, who was not on the witness list, is now director of classified personnel in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District where Hubbard is superintendent. Hubbard returned to work this past July after spending more than five months on paid leave while he prepared for the trial.

Hubbard's attorney Sal Ciulla said he did not yet know what evidence was presented to the grand jury, because the transcripts will not be available for 10 days.

"It's my belief that there was a lack of understanding on the prosecutor's part as to whether or not the actions he [has] alleged constitute a violation of the law," Ciulla love for us in a situation like that to try to said. "Until I actually see the transcripts and see exactly what was presented I'm in a vacuum right now."

Hubbard was released of his own recognizance and is scheduled to appear in court on Nov. 10.

Company claims City's CNG bid process was "slanted" toward one particular vendor

Days after the City Council voted unanimously on Sept. 27 to approve an approximately $1 million contract with Mansfield Gas Equipment Systems Corporation, the sole bidder on a project to design and install a compressed natural gas (CNG) fueling station in the City's Public Works Yard, Councilmember John Mirisch received a letter from General Manager Chad Lindholm of Clean Energy, one of the five companies that chose not to bid on the project.

Mirisch had expressed concern during the meeting that the City had received only one bid.

"It strikes me as very strange in this economy why none of the other companies felt a $1 million dollar contract was worth their while bidding on," Mirisch said. "I'd find out why. Competitive bidding for us or for anybody is of extreme importance in trying to establish the best prices."

Councilmembers Lili Bosse and Julian Gold also said they were interested in finding out why the other five companies did not submit bids.

"We were one of the five companies who after attending the pre-bid meeting and reviewing the specifications elected not to submit a proposal," Lindholm wrote. "It was clear that the specifications were slanted towards one company."

Director of Public Works Dave Gustavson said he had spoken with Lindholm, as well as the four other vendors who did not submit bids, to try to find out why they did not submit bids.

"We were convinced we put together a professional technical specification that was not slanted toward any one bidder, that did include 'or equal' provisions," Gustavson said.

Gustavson said consultant Ron Smith of Adrianus Resources, Inc. prepared the specification. Gustavson said Smith is not currently connected to Mansfield, but he said Smith "may have written grants for them in the past."

"We followed the process as we are required to follow by the municipal code and state law, but we only received one bid," Gustavson said. "We would have liked to have received more. We think we got a fair and reasonable price for the work briefs cont. on page 4 and we think we got a good contractor."

Lindholm did not return phone calls from the Weekly.

The letter, which copied City Manager Jeff Kolin and Director of Project Administration Alan Schneider, was sent in response to a Patch.com article about the City Council's consideration of the Mansfield contract on Sept. 20. The agenda item was continued to the Sept. 27 meeting.

Lindholm's letter also presented an offer for the City to fill at the company's existing station at South La Cienega and Olympic boulevards at a discounted rate.

"Existing City CNG vehicles are already fueling here and paying $2.48 per gallon (excluding taxes)," Lindholm wrote. "Clean Energy is prepared to offer the City a discount of $0.25 per gallon going forward as an incentive to consider forgoing a $1 million project and delivering bottom line savings to the general fund."

Schneider had told the Council that CNG at the City's facility would cost approximately $2.75 per gallon, compared with $3.50 per gallon for diesel and $3.47 per gallon for gasoline the City is currently paying. He said the City was paying a higher rate than $2.75 per gallon to fill the City's CNG vehicles at privately owned facilities because of taxes.

Gustavson said the City is interested in following up on Lindholm's offer in the short term, but not to the exclusion of constructing the 22-nozzle CNG facility in the Public Works Yard, with 20 slow-fill pumps and two fast-fill pumps.

"We believe it's more cost effective for us to have it here locally," Gustavson said. "Our installation includes slow fill, which allows us to put more gas into the tanks of our vehicles."

Slow-fill pumps, which would be used overnight, allow fuel tanks to fill to approximately 95 percent of capacity while the fast-fill pumps fill to about 80 percent of capacity, Schneider told the City Council.

Lindholm's letter caused Mirisch to question whether the City needed its own CNG facility, but before Clean Energy made its offer, Mirisch said he voted to approve the contract because there was not much choice and he wanted to see the facility built. He said he was not happy with the process.

"I'd like it to be built in a more cost effective manner," Mirisch said. "If we go back in time when staff recommended a no-bid contract for trash hauling services from Crown [Disposal], we questioned that and we were able to get a 15 percent discount on what staff had recommended, which amounts to a savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars over the life of the contract. I think that proves there's room for making better deals."

The City negotiated the Crown Disposal contract, instead of requesting bids.

Mirisch has requested to review the request for qualifications and proposals process at a future council study session. He said he would like the City to consider assigning a staff member to oversee negotiations to make sure the City is getting the best possible price for services. Mirisch suggested this function "should be incorporated into the existing staff framework, and should be occupied by someone who is a savvy negotiator who could cut good deals for the City."

Mirisch said he was concerned that some City consultants might not be completely independent from certain bidders on City projects.

"I'd like to see the commissions involved as well, because in the case of Crown it was the Public Works Commission, Joe Shooshani and Peter Foldvary, who brought this to our attention and were in on the negotiations and helped us save all that money," Mirisch said.

The City pursued building a CNG facility as one method of complying with South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD) regulations. In March, SCAQMD approved a 74-month agreement with the City that grants Beverly Hills $300,000 to cover the cost of installing the fueling facility, as well as $250,000 to purchase 10 CNG vehicles at no more than $25,000 each. The agreement required the City to complete the station by February 2012, but under the Mansfield contract, the station would not be completed until April 2012. Gustavson said the City had secured an interim extension and would be making a formal request that SCAQMD extend the schedule. On Wednesday, Gustavson said the City was still waiting to hear back from SCAQMD.

Traffic & Parking Commission recommends Sunset Boulevard intersection modifications

Jeff Levine

After months of study, Traffic the Parking Commission voted Oct. 4 to recommend to the City Council the modification of medians to prevent through traffic crossing three uncontrolled Sunset Boulevard intersections at North Camden, Bedford and Roxbury drives. Four commissioners voted in favor of making changes to the intersections, which have been the site of numerous broadside collisions, while three commissioners—Howard Fisher, Ira Friedman and Andy Licht—recommended no change to the intersections.

The Commission held a series of study sessions to consider options for the intersections, and at its last study session on Aug. 25, the Commission narrowed the options down to three, which were:

- A. Modify medians on Sunset Boulevard to islands that prevent through traffic on Camden, Bedford and Roxbury drives from crossing Sunset. This option would still allow left turns off of Sunset onto each drive
- B. Install a traffic light on Bedford Drive at Sunset Boulevard, but make no changes to Roxbury and Camden drives; restrict evening peak-hour left turns at Bedford and Benedict Canyon to mitigate potential increased traffic on Bedford

• C. Install a traffic light on Bedford Drive at Sunset Boulevard, and modify the medians to prevent through traffic on Roxbury and Camden drives from crossing Sunset Boulevard

Commissioners were asked to choose a preference, even if they believed no changes should be made to the intersections. The majority of commissioners-Chair Jeff Levine, Vice Chair Julie Steinberg, Fisher and Lester Friedmanselected Option A. Alan Grushcow favored Option B, which was staff's recommendation. Licht and Ira Friedman abstained on the vote, and then Licht made a motion to add Option D, no change, which Licht and Friedman supported on a second vote.

Deputy Director of Transportation Aaron Kunz said staff recommended Option B, which would involve installing a traffic signal on Bedford Drive, because a signal is the most "traditional method" of addressing broadside accidents.

"Also, it maintains all existing movements at that intersection, so you still would be able to go through or make left turns off of the side streets," Kunz said.

About 20 residents spoke at the meeting, with the majority expressing preference for no change to the intersections, out of concern for potential traffic impacts that might result from the changes. A handful of residents expressed preference for Option A.

Levine said he selected Option A because he felt the accident data the commission studied was a compelling reason that the intersections needed modifications. He said in a five-year period, there were 57 injury accidents at the three intersections, compared with only three injury accidents at the Sunset Boulevard intersections between Mountain and Alta Drive.

"While I thought that Alternative B was the most efficient solution, it did not seem to be the best solution based on the community desires, as well as from a practical standpoint," Levine said.

Although Fisher recommended making no changes, he, too, preferred Option A.

"Looking at what the problem was and the possible solutions, it would address the problem and be the least disruptive to the community," Fisher said.

Ira Friedman and Licht said their votes were based on what they heard from residents at the meeting. Licht said safety was his main concern, but he wanted to see if the City could explore ways to better enforce the speed limit, since he has noticed many drivers seem to exceed 35

The Maple Counseling Center welcomes two new Board members

The Maple Counseling Center recently welcomed two new Board members, Jennifer Castellanos and Jeffrey C. Lapin. Castellanos was vice president of the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce before co-founding Avanti Interactive, a digital marketing consulting agency. Lapin is the former CEO of Atari, S.A., the global creator, producer and publisher of interactive entertainment for interactive game platforms, and RazorGator Interactive Group, which offers premium tickets and VIP experiences at live events worldwide.

The Maple Counseling Center is a low-fee, nonprofit counseling organization for people of all ages. Fees are assessed on a sliding scale and no one is turned away for lack of funds. For information, call (310) 271-9999, or visit www. tmcc.org.

miles per hour when traveling along Sunset Boulevard. Licht was concerned about the impact modifying the intersections would have on the neighboring areas.

Levine and Licht said the task was one of the most complicated issues they have considered since joining the Commission. Kunz agreed it was a complex issue.

"There's not an easy answer when you have a built-out transportation system and you're making any changes to it," Kunz said.

Kunz said the issue has not yet been scheduled for a city council meeting, but he anticipates the City Council will first consider it in a study session in November or December.

Library media teachers to return to K-8 libraries

On Tuesday night, Board of Education President Lisa Korbatov achieved one of her major goals for the school district—to bring library media teachers back to the K-8 schools. The Board voted 4-0 to begin the hiring process of two K-8 library media teachers to staff the four K-8 libraries. Board member Jake Manaster was on a business trip and did not attend the meeting.

Due to budget cuts, the Board voted to eliminate the four K-8 library media teachers that were employed in 2008. Since then, only the Beverly High library has been staffed with a librarian. Vice President Brian Goldberg called his vote in favor of that decision a mistake.

"I think that it's important if we're going to move the district from good to great to the best that we have qualified library media and technology teachers to engage our students and help enhance technology delivery throughout the curriculum in our schools," Goldberg said. "If done right, the library media and technology teachers can be an important piece of that technology integration puzzle."

Each library media teacher will cost the district approximately $100,000. Since the positions were not included in the current fiscal year budget, Assistant Superintendent of Business Services Alex Cherniss said the positions would be funded by the unrestricted reserves.

How the library media teachers will rotate around the four schools is yet to be determined, but Korbatov expressed enthusiasm about restoring the positions, emphasizing the importance of solid reading skills for all students.

The Board's vote authorized the district to post the two open positions and begin the interview process. The candidates will be brought back for final approval by the Board.

Architectural Commission considers historic multi-family apartment; previews Lexus Project

A proposal remodel the façade of a two-story, six-unit multifamily residence built in 1938 prompted a review by the City's historic consultant, Ostashay & Associates

Consulting, because the property at 153 S. Bedford Drive appeared on the City's 2004 Historical Resources Survey Report as a potential contributor to the locally eligible historic district, the Tract 7710 MFR District. Jan Ostashay's review determined the property is a semi-altered contributor to the district and that alterations to the property would not adversely affect the historic significance and architectural qualities that define the historic district, since it's a moderate representation of the property type and style that identify the district.

The Architectural Commission heard the project proposal at its meeting on Sept. 21, and Chair Fran Cohen called the design of the project a "breath of fresh air."

"It's a combination of art and architecture, which is nice to see," Cohen said of the project proposal.

According to Ostashay's review, the district in which 153 S. Bedford is located "possesses a significant concentration of middle-class, multi-family dwellings that are reflective of period revival style residential development in Beverly Hills in the period between the two World Wars. At the time of the survey, the district contributors, of which there were 114 identified, exhibited a moderate to high level of physical integrity."

This district is located south of Wilshire Boulevard and north of Olympic Boulevard, east of Moreno Drive and west of South Rodeo Drive.

Under the proposed project the existing multi-family residence would be remodeled into a contemporary looking multi-family apartment building, and would "significantly alter" the building, the staff report states. New landscaping would also be incorporated throughout the site. Since the property is considered only a minor element to the overall historic district, its alteration, if done in terms of compatible design, materials, size, scale, and texture, would not adversely affect the historic significance and architectural qualities that define the district, Ostashay determined.

Though the Commission expressed satisfaction with the general direction of the project, the Commission asked to review details such as lighting, windows and railings before providing final approval. Since the applicant team demonstrated an effort to take the property's historic qualities into account in the project proposal, Cohen said the Commission granted the applicant team the freedom to do what they think is best with the project before bringing it back for the Commission's consideration at a future meeting.

"It's different than our usual housing projects, but it looks good; it's Beverly Hills," Cohen said. "It will be a good addition to the other multi-family residential units we have in the City."

The Architectural Commission also heard a preview presentation of the Lexus Project, which the Planning Commission most recently considered on Sept. 26. The hearing has been continued to Oct. 27.

While the Planning Commission considers what effect the dealership will have on the surrounding area in terms of height, traffic, noise and other elements, Cohen said the Architectural Commission "is more concerned with the way it fits with the surrounding buildings and also how the project will look in terms of the criteria and guidelines of the Architectural Commission."

"The recommendation from the commission was that the applicant should look at more modulation and depth within the façade of the building," Cohen said.

By modulation, Cohen said the Commission wants to see a façade that looks more three-dimensional, rather than a facade that is on the same plane as the briefs cont. on page 7

Maple in the fall

And Board (bored) election?

By Rudy Cole

There are really four annual events that help pull our community together: the BHEF Apple Ball, the Beverly Hills Police Officers Association's Black and White Ball, the Beverly Hills Firemen's Association's Backdraft Ball, and this month's Maple Counseling Center's "Haunted" Crystal Ball.

Few institutions in any community are as relevant and irreplaceable as TMCC. Their intervention and treatment of thousands of people with family, substance abuse and other emotional crisis problems has made this agency the envy in the social services world. But they also work with and make major contributions to our schools and to law enforcement.

Now it is time to show our appreciation and support, and at the same time have an incredibly enjoyable evening out.

This year's gala will be held on Oct. 26, 6 p.m. at the Beverly Hilton. (Call (310) 271-9999 before it's too late.)

The Crystal Award for community excellence will go to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center and the Crystal Award for Community Service to Alex Bolour and family. Event chairs are Gail Millan, a Cedars exec., Corrine Verdery, an officer at Oasis West Realty and Stephen Upchurch, with Gensler Architects. Among the early sponsors, at the $10,000 and above level are the Kobor Family (one of our most generous charity backers who seldom seek or receive

However, aside from doing your civic duty, this event is really fun, the Hilton banquet services are among the best in the nation and you will see all the really positive folks in our community. Attend, and enjoy.

recognition), Wells Fargo, Mercedes

Benz, Cedars, the Bolour Family, Myra

Zimmerman and Gensler.

Historical note, and you know I find that hard to resist. TMCC was actually the idea of Mrs. Sam (Sooky) Goldman, mother-in-law of Myra Lurie and what group could best make use of counseling than our school board.

There are 21,000 registered voters in Beverly Hills, almost all of them more enlightened, more involved and more supportive of education than almost any other community in America and yet—and I hope I am wrong—less than 20 percent will actually vote next month in the school board election.

It certainly isn't for a lack of issues. The district has had more changes in school superintendents than Republican candidates for president; bond money, meant to make our schools safer, is being wasted on lawyers and consultants without any date certain on when new construction would begin for all our schools; some members of the board seem more intent on fighting the city council than actually winning the subway route battle, and not one of our schools is now listed as one of the tops in the state. And much more.

Yes, test scores have shown a modest increase, but that slight improvement is state-wide. And hopefully, the board may have found a new superintendent who will stay long enough to give direction and real leadership.

If nothing else, just maybe Supt. Gary Woods can set some rules of authority and return to his office responsibilities which the board accepts. That is an important priority: Knowing the limits on both the board and superintendent on decision making.

Which brings us to an election that has, at least so far, failed to excite or interest most voters. Up to now, the most important news about the campaign is not the candidates, but those who dropped out, one after filing closed, and the entry of a write-in contender, only the second in our history.

Damien Bean was the first to leave. He had a very strong start, a good team of supporters, broad support and some special expertise on finance, and, most important, absolutely no relationship to past internal board squabbles.

While Bean pulled out before filing closed, Andy Licht made his decision later, unfortunately precluding any alternatives, and further confusing the election by the ballot.

I thought both Bean and Licht had strong, but different, credentials to offer and I not being able to have his name taken off but different, credentials to offer and I probably would have endorsed both. (Bean has endorsed Lewis Hall, and Licht has so far not made his choices known.)

Which brings us to the four remaining candidates: only three of whom will actually appear on the ballot.

Obviously, the most visible and the best organized among the candidates is Dr. Brian David Goldberg. He has developed a strong support group, is the most visible board member—his frequent newsletters have helped make that happen—and he does his homework.

There are some questions, not all of them relevant, about his candidacy. Dr. Goldberg made a very unusual decision last year. When it was his turn to be board president, he stepped aside for Lisa Korbatov, who had only one year of board experience before being handed the second most important gavel in our city.

Why did he not become board president? Inquiring voters should want to know. It was unfair to the district, and even to Korbatov, to pass her the gavel that early in her board service, and not just because of her lack of board experience, but because she was simply not ready to be a presiding officer. Meetings, for many months, were totally chaotic, agendas seldom followed, and meetings ran well past midnight. Even the most energetic of elected officials have a point of no return on staying awake.

Goldberg is, if only because he is the only incumbent on the ballot, the real question facing voters. How much responsibility does he share for the delays in starting bond financed construction, for the unseemly battles with the council majority, for not keeping Supt. Dick Douglas on the job until a new majority could pick a successor and for not taking his turn as board prexy? (His role in picking Supt. Woods may turn out to be a big plus, though.)

His ability to bring together such a diverse group of loyalists, far more than any other candidate, means that the education activists approve of his board record. On the other hand, no other candidate has as many detractors.

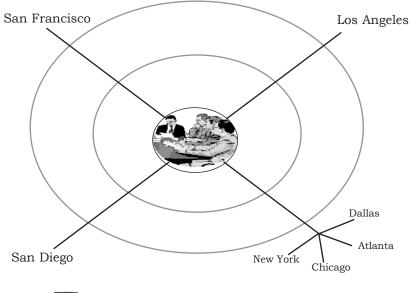

What is not relevant are the court problems he has faced, at least in my mind. His violation of Fair Political Practice Committee rules is a not-so-serious failure to report information in a timely manner.

His legal issues, serious as they may be, were not the result of anything that involved the Board of Education, and most preceded his election. What is relevant is his voting record and the responsibility he shares with other colleagues for the breakdown in relations with the City Council.

For what it may be worth, since there are four candidates, I may decide to support his re-election. Depends totally on how he answers questions about his vision on how civility can be restored to the board, giving the new superintendent sufficient support to do his job and reuniting our whole community in support of improving educational services.

Which brings us to the other contenders: As I have written before, my first choices would have been Bean and Licht. One disturbing comment around town is that among the reasons Licht dropped out is his feeling that he could not have worked well with Korbatov. However, Korbatov's term as board president ends this November.

I do have two recommendations, and for very different reasons. Although write-in campaigns are not easy and usually launched because a candidate has very serious differences on issues with those on the ballot, as happened when Barry Brucker first ran for board, Noah Margo opted to run because he felt, as did some of his supporters, that some of the remaining candidates did not have sufficient experience to serve.

Putting that issue aside, when Margo first discussed running with me and then instead decided to run for co-president of Beverly Vista PTA, an election he easily won, I thought he was really an exciting, highly qualified candidate. That has not changed. He has paid his dues, knows the district and will be an independent, thoughtful and fair member of the board. I just wished he had stayed in the race and not made the mechanics of winning so difficult.

My second choice is for entirely different reasons. Lewis Hall is totally new to the district, and that is both an advantage and a likely problem. On the plus side, he has not been involved in some of the more petty, personal conflicts, but he is incredibly knowledgeable on education policies, curriculum and technology.

Hall could be a fresh breeze for the board. He is apolitical, has been doing his homework and probably could work well with all members of the board, even Korbatov. He has broad support in the community including Mayor Barry Brucker and former Mayor Richard Stone, as well as Bean and many of his former backers.

Pat Mock, a longtime resident, strong supporter of the arts and education who has remained aloof of internal political battles and who heard Hall speak at the Salter's, said "he seems like a really nice guy, bright and only wants what is best for our schools." High praise indeed.

As for Frances Bilak, she seems far too emotionally driven to help restore reason to the board. We should appreciate her candidacy because it assures an election, and she may indeed be well intentioned, but her approach seems far too divisive and not uniting.

For now, my recommendations are Hall and Margo.

Recently I listed some of the positive contributions of Steven Fenton who will leave the board after only one term this November

Now a word of appreciation to Myra Lurie, and those two were seldom on the same page politically but not that far apart on real problems. (For the record, and although she now has kind words about high school principal Carter Paysinger, she had questions about his academic experience, I agreed with Fenton that he was exactly what the schools needed.)

But consider what Myra Lurie did during her two board terms, an incredible record of service: She was board liaison to the Chamber of Commerce and served on their executive committee, district liaison and representative to the Los Angeles County Board of School Trustees. Her qualifications for board membership were unprecedented. She has been president of the PTA Council, president of El Rodeo PTA, and member of the state PTA governing board for the 33rd district.

Myra was the board member most involved in leadership for Measure E, upgraded graduation requirements preparing more students for four-year colleges, advocated Mandarin language classes and worked to give the BHEF responsibility for summer school instead of turning it over to a private entity.

Myra is one of our most honored board members. Humanitarian of the Year by the Amie Karen Cancer Fund and Woman of the Year by Friends of Sheba Hospital, citing just two. A Loyola Law School grad, she is also a Rotarian and serves on the board of Temple Emanuel.

This community and our schools are better for her having served. Yes, she was often in the minority following the last two elections, but even her board opponents will admit to her abilities, skills and integrity.

Small community department: As we have for many years, we celebrated the end of Yom Kippur, the Jewish holiday of forgiveness, with the Salter family. Mayor Max's memory still fills the home, and of all the people I have ever met in my life, he Janet does the post-holiday dinner tradition mostly for family and a few friends, and

hers is a large family indeed. But Josette and I are always pleased to be included even if our table companions presented an interesting community challenge.

Although they are close friends, Rabbi Jacob Pressman (with wife Majorie) is a continuing contributing columnist for that other paper and Janet also provides that publication with her clever cartoons.

In the spirit of the holiday, I forgave their alignment with the dark side and even admitted I never missed Rabbi Jack's work or Janet's cartoons with stunning lady subjects.

There was a time when even the Jewish community panicked during the McCarthy era, and held hearings to expel from the then-Federation groups with too strong ties to the Far Left. Although not aligned with any radical associations, Rabbi Pressman stood up as a voice of reason and calm, and helped avoid witch hunts. (Note to that other publication, and shocking though it may be, all three are lifelong Democrats.)

Final thoughts: the community will certainly be surprised to learn that the negotiations for a new contract with our police is stalled at the talking level. Not good for our primary obligation as a city: public safety. Time for the elected officials and the city manager to step forward.

For those who have sympathized with my hip problems, and they cause me more pain than the other paper, the good part is that this may be the first time I have ever been called hip. Thanks for the calls.

"I'm sure this project will change through time with the Planning Commission's direction," Cohen said. "It was just a preliminary preview for our commission. I'd like to see Lexus remodeling their building and expanding their operation within the City. It's a good project for our City."

Recreation and Parks Commission considers improvements to City's gateways

The Recreation and Parks Commission continued studying plans for improving two City gateways at Wilshire Boulevard and Whittier Drive and at Santa Monica Boulevard and Doheny Drive at its Sept. 13 meeting. The goal of the gateway projects, Commission Chair Alan Block said, is to make an impression on people who enter the City.

"Right now we have the Beverly Hills logo at different locations, [but there is] going to be a more substantial notification that you're entering the City," Block said. "Because Doheny and Santa Monica is so close to City Hall, that would be one of the major gateways."

The City is considering plans for the gateway at Doheny and Santa Monica, even though the City does not yet own one of the pieces of land that would be part of the gateway. According to the staff report, "the City is in the final stages of a legal process to acquire ownership interests" of the land.

Block said the commission's ad hoc subcommittee, consisting of Block and Commissioner Howard Rosoff, would continue to study options for the Doheny and Santa Monica gateway with City staff and briefs cont. on page 9

electioneditorial OUR BOARD ENDORSEMENTS

GOLDBERG • MARGO

This is our first ever early endorsement issue. Traditionally we wait until the last week of the campaign, but this year is different. Since more voters are voting by absentee ballot than ever before, we felt an early endorsement is warranted.

I. THANK YOU, STEVEN FENTON

Retiring Board of Education member Steven Fenton is, as we editorialized in Issue #422, a man with a plan. By most accounts, that plan has been extremely successful.

When Fenton was elected to the Board in 2007, the BHUSD was in a far worse place. Out-of-district permits, and their pushy parents, were running wild at many of the school sites (30% of total enrollment at certain grade levels). Unpopular/ineffective administrators, recruited from outside the school district, were in charge at several campuses and in the district office.

As Board President, Fenton challenged the school faculty and staff to "bleed Beverly." He executed a bold plan to replace the district's administrative staff with a "dream team" of current and former principals. The results have been successful, with test scores, community confidence and morale way up from 2007.

Fenton led a plan to phase out opportunity permits and today we are almost all the way back to the age-old concept of neighborhood public schools, where you actually have to live in Beverly Hills in order to go to school here.

The only major goal in which Fenton fell short was in establishing a BHUSD-run pre-school, an idea which we still feel holds considerable merit. However, the problem there was City staff did everything they could to throw a wrench in the idea, despite the obvious academic deficiencies in the City-run pre-school program, where the curriculum is not aligned to our Kindergartens, and the program is run by a camp counselor who doesn't even hold an administrative credential.

In only four years, Fenton has proven that one person truly can make a difference in local government. Though his future political plans are unclear, we hope to see Steven Fenton running for another city office soon.

II. DEMOLISHING OUR HISTORIC SCHOOL BUILDINGS IS NOT THE ANSWER TO "MODERNIZATION"

We're disturbed by the current Board's apparent zeal to demolish many historic buildings and "start over" with new construction.

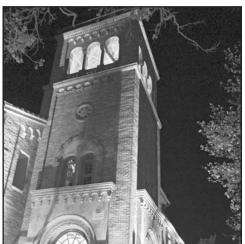

What a foolish decision this would be, especially when we look at the many cost overruns and bloopers that have plagued new construction projects in the BHUSD in the past. Yet Board President Lisa Korbatov and Chief Facilities Official Nelson Cayabyab continue to espouse this naïve position.

The Weekly was the only newspaper to endorse Korbatov when she placed first in the 2009 election. We generally support her record, which is often aligned with Fenton and Brian Goldberg. However, she continues to be dead wrong on the issue of preservation.

There's no doubt this Board has overly grand ambitions in terms of construction projects. We tried to sound the alarm in October 2008 in our Issue #474 editorial opposing the district's gargantuan Measure E construction bond, arguing that it was a $334 million blank check with little to no accountability. Mind you, this was long before the embarrassing indictment of former construction consultant Karen Christiansen, whom the Myras repeatedly and loudly praised (along with all their out-of-district permits).

Even our recent projects show us that new construction, as opposed to rehabilitating old buildings, is not always such a swell idea. Look no further than the asinine design and shoddy construction of Beverly Vista's "open air" D building, complete with a concrete pit in the center. The building is freezing in the winter and leaks like a sieve. Opened in 2002, this "state of the art" building was supposedly preferable to the 1920s era brick buildings which had stood on the campus for many decades.

MORE LIKE THIS: Beverly Vista's beautiful B Building

NOT LIKE THIS: Beverly Vista's "Bridge to Nowhere"

Conversely, preserving and rehabilitating the historic B building at Beverly Vista, though expensive, was absolutely the right decision. Driving by the building today on Charleville, the community can be proud of one of the rare school construction projects that was well done and worth every penny.

Korbatov has argued Measure E is "not a Band-Aid." But what will be accomplished if we demolish buildings with character and replace them with boring cookie cutter structures that aren't necessarily better than the ones that stood before?

Next up on the Korbatov/Cayabyab demolition derby is the Hawthorne auditorium, a clearly historic structure, built in 1921. The city was incorporated in 1914; it doesn't get much more historic than that. So why can't this Board understand that?

Before we demolish our historic buildings, we must look to our own history to see that new construction is often not the best approach.

III. BRIAN GOLDBERG: A RECORD WITH RESULTS

Brian Goldberg has an impressive record after four years on the Board. Working with ally Steven Fenton (see discussion above), Goldberg dramatically turned around the district, in terms of test scores, personnel and enrollment. With Fenton choosing not to run for re-election, Goldberg is expected to become the next Board President and we hope to see continued progress.

Goldberg has been courageous amidst vicious personal attacks on his integrity, finances and his family. Yet he overcame these slights and continues to be an effective Board member. He is committed to fighting MTA's proposed subway tunnel under Beverly High, a position we wholeheartedly support.

We didn't agree with Goldberg's decision not to retain popular Superintendent Dick Douglas. However his accomplishments are clear and he deserves to be reelected. Goldberg is tough, persistent and smart. For these and other reasons, he has earned your vote for re-election.

IV. NOAH MARGO: THE RIGHT WRITE-IN

We first met Noah Margo 33 years ago when he had just moved to South Palm Drive from New York.

Margo, a graduate of Beverly Vista and Beverly High, is one of many 2nd generation families who married a classmate (Laura Hornwood Margo) from another well-known family, and together they made the decision to return to Beverly Hills to raise their own children.

Margo's background, as both a former LAUSD teacher and a general contractor, couldn't be more helpful given the issues the Board is likely to face in the next four years. It is this combination of deep roots in the community and personal expertise that make Margo an appealing candidate.

Finally, it takes tremendous courage to run as a write-in, but it was desperately needed when candidate Andy Licht dropped out of the race unexpectedly (see discussion below on the merits of voting for Licht anyway).

V. NONE OF THE ABOVE?

Challengers Frances Bilak and Lewis Hall have minimal experience with our schools. While we applaud both for running for office, we are unable to endorse either of them at this time because we simply don't know them.

Some voters intend to vote for Andy Licht, even though he dropped out of the race, because in the event he is elected, Licht has said he will resign, and the new board will appoint someone for a two-year, provisional appointment. While we are generally opposed to appointments, this option may have some merit this year. (In the event the Board appointed someone the community didn't like, the appointment could easily be cancelled with approximately 300 signatures). This happened in 1997 when Alissa Roston was briefly appointed to the Board (she later ran and won a seat in 1999).

VI. LOOKING AHEAD TO 2013

Looking ahead to the Council election in March 2013, we need to look no further than City Hall to see why newspapers and investigative reporting still matter, even in a world where "social media" and other fads have led some to question the need for old-fashioned print journalism.

Whichever City Council candidate speaks out loudest and clearest about right-sizing the ridiculous municipal salaries and benefits is the candidate that will get our endorsement. There is no question that the City salary scandal, covered extensively in both newspapers, including a Weekly cover story in Issue #617, is the story of the year.

At one point City staff, with a straight face, told us the City was so broke that they had to close the library early. Then we learned the kinds of salaries mid-level managers and metermaids are making. Now that's chutzpah!

We're disappointed that our city manager and the 4th floor of City Hall have been so politically tone-deaf in responding to this issue. Their duplicity continues to shatter our trust in City Hall.

Clearly, it also still matters who we elect to the City Council and the Board of Education.

Beverly Hills Weekly recommends a vote for Brian Goldberg, and a write-in vote for Noah Margo.

architects. The project will come before the City Council for final approval.

Another gateway project at Whittier and Wilshire, adjacent to El Rodeo, is ready to go out for bid, Block said. Plans were approved by the previous City Council in fall 2009, Director of Community Services Steve Zoet said.

"If everything goes well, that one may even start construction at the end of this year," Block said. "The money for that one is already in the budget. We already have building plans and all designs."

Zoet said preliminary construction might begin before the end of the year, but the City would be mindful of construction during the holiday season so as not to impact traffic, since the project plans include work on the center median strip.

Current designs for the Whittier and Wilshire gateway show landscaping featuring the Beverly Hills shield, palm trees and planter boxes on both sides of Wilshire Boulevard, and a City of Beverly Hills "monument" sign with a planter box on the center median strip.

Aspiring Beverly High fashion designer to showcase designs this weekend

For the past several months, Beverly High sophomore Nahal Yashar has been designing a dress and handbag to showcase in the Teen Vogue O'Neill Generation Next fashion show Oct. 15 at the Avalon Hollywood in Los Angeles.

Nahal Yashar

With the event just days away, Yashar said she learned from the experience that "there are so many doors you can open if you just really try and you find the motivation."

Yashar, who is interested in working in the fashion industry as a designer, journalist, or in marketing, was one of five finalists selected out of an applicant pool of thousands in Southern California. Each finalist's dress and handbag will be modeled by supermodel Elyse Taylor, and one winner's designs will be sold in O'Neill's upcoming line at PacSun and the winner will also earn a $5,000 scholarship, a summer internship with O'Neill and exposure in Teen Vogue.

Each finalist was assigned a general theme and Yashar's was Rio, Brazil. Yashar worked with O'Neill designer Anya Violet to design her Boho Brazilian-inspired dress and accompanying handbag.

"It's supposed to represent something that's very wearable—nothing that's high fashion—something you can wear to the beach or down the street, you can dress it up or dress it down," Yashar said.

When it comes to Yashar's style, she said she likes trying out different looks.

"I love going to Melrose and getting unique pieces or matching my mom's old vintage dresses," Yashar said. "One day I can go for an Audrey Hepburn classic look, and another day for a more army kind of punky rad look or a really artsy kind of look."

Yashar described the Generation Next experience as amazing. Over six months, Yashar met with her mentor to design and sketch the dress and handbag, create a blueprint of the dress with measurements, create a logo, learn marketing skills, and to work with a model on fitting the dress.

"My favorite part was actually seeing my dress and doing my fittings," Yashar said. "At that point when you have the measuring [tape] around your neck and pins in your hand, you really feel legit. You really feel like you're a designer."

To purchase tickets, visit wantickets. com and search "O'Neill Generation Next Presented by Teen Vogue." The event starts at 6 p.m. Tickets are $10 in advance and $15 at the door.
