Clarification [Issue #711]

In the article "BHEF 'fundamentally broken, Korbatov says," Board of Education Vice President Noah Margo's statement during oral communications from board members should have read as follows. Margo said, "I know there's plenty of people out there that don't want to hear the word parcel tax, that don't want to hear the word bond acceleration, and how evil we are to bring these things up. I don't think we're evil. I think we're realists. As people say, 'How can you talk about a parcel tax? How can you talk about bond acceleration?' I say to them, 'How can you not?'"

Water Rate Ad Hoc Committee recommends five percent water rate increase

The Beverly Hills City Council will discuss adjusting the water utility rates for the next fiscal year at the formal meeting tonight. An ad hoc committee has recommended reducing the seven percent increase scheduled to take place later this year to five percent.

Councilmember Julian Gold said when the council was looking at increasing water rates about a year and a half ago; revenue was down because more people were conserving water.

"There are a number of components of what makes for our water rate," said Gold. "One is the rate we pay the [Metropolitan Water District] and then in addition to that, we have the cost of our own infrastructure because we do our own treatment and we have our own reservoirs."

The MWD was going to raise rates five percent and council had felt the city needed higher rates to address maintenance, according to Gold.

Water usage, cost of water, infrastructure maintenance and cost of operations all contribute to the cost of the water rates, according to the staff report.

The more successful the City is in promoting water conservation the more each unit of water costs the customers.

"As the number of gallons of water goes down, the actual cost of a gallon of water goes up, which is counterintuitive," said Gold. "If we use less water, it ought to cost us less, but because the fixed costs remain, the actual cost per gallon goes up."

Gold said the combination of fixed costs in the form of infrastructure maintenance and the variable costs, such as the price of water had led the council to approve the seven percent rate increase initially.

However, in the last year, the City had not conserved as much water and as a result, the amount of revenue was $2.9 million, which can be used to reduce the rate increase to five percent.

"The fixed costs are the same. We still have to pay for the wholesale cost of water but the net difference of that allowed us to reduce the water rate for next year," said Gold.

Amidst news of a $10.2 million City surplus, the city council directed staff to set aside $2.5 million to offset the seven percent water rate increase scheduled to take place later this year.

Adjudicated as a newspaper of general circulation for the County of Los Angeles. Case # BS065841 of the Los Angeles Superior Court, on November 30, 2000.

Then-Mayor Willie Brien created an ad hoc committee composed of himself, Gold, Treasurer Eliot Finkel and Public Works Commission Chair Barry Pressman.

The committee met in March and staff presented information regarding the Water Enterprise Fund. According to the staff report, the city could best contain costs from the fund by decreasing the rate increase previously agreed upon by the council from seven percent to five percent in the current year with three percent increases for the next four fiscal years. Rate adjustment will return next fiscal year as part of the two-year rate adjustment cycle.

Gold said it was unlikely the rate increase for the following year would be higher. He said a portion of it depends on the amount of water used throughout the year.

If the City Council accepts the ad hoc's recommendation, $2.5 million from the city's $10.2 million surplus that was set aside for this purpose can be allocated by the council elsewhere, if they choose.

Council to revisit AT&T antenna system installation

The City Council will address residents' concerns about a license agreement with AT&T to install 76 distributed antenna system nodes throughout the City at the formal meeting tonight.

"At the moment, the council simply asked for additional information concerning the agreement and regarding the concerns expressed by the residents," said City Attorney Larry Wiener. "If the council wants to take further action, then we would have to evaluate what options are available."

Though the City has already executed the agreement, the Council decided to address concerns raised by Municipal League Chairman Thomas White, Southwest Homeowner's Association President Ken Goldman, Marilyn Gallup, former Mayor Chuck Aronberg and realtor Michael Libow.

City staff has prepared answers to a series of questions, including some about the scope of the project, why the towers were not placed in alleyways, and why nodes are placed at a minimum of 250 feet separation from school entrances and playgrounds, but can be placed near residents' windows.

Vice Mayor Lili Bosse said at the formal meeting on May 7 that she was interested in finding out what would be involved in having an independent analysis. Councilmember Nancy Krasne and Mayor John Mirisch also supported discussing the item again. Councilmembers Willie Brien and Julian Gold did not respond to the public comments on May 7.

According to the staff report, an independent technology engineering or health study was not done. The engineering firm Hammet and Edison completed the health and noise study to ensure the radio frequency emissions met federal requirements and the noise met federal and local standards.

The item on the agenda at this point is informational to discuss the concerns raised at the May 7 formal meeting. If the council decides an independent study is necessary, staff estimates the work could be performed within a four-week timeframe and is estimated to cost roughly $18,200.

The City Council unanimously approved a Master License Agreement (MLA) between the City and AT&T for installation of 76 Distributed Antenna System throughout the City at the formal meeting on April 11.

The project was initially spearheaded by the Beverly Hills Police Department to increase the performance of their mobile computers. There are holes in various areas of the community and the BHPD use mobile computers and tablets that require an active connection.

The program is expected to improve first responder wireless communication and provide safer 9-1-1 coverage. The equipment will be housed in a cabinet on the ground and the antennas will be distributed on Beverly Hills street light poles or free-standing poles.

Those who use AT&T in the City would have better cell phone coverage within the City of Beverly Hills.

The project comes at no extra cost to the City and AT&T would pay an annual licensing fee of $184,850 to the City's general fund, under the terms of the agreement.

Planning Commission to review noticing requirements

The Beverly Hills Planning Commission will review noticing requirements for development projects and may propose revisions at their meeting today at 1:30 p.m.

According to the staff report, the 2012/2013 planning division budget plan called for an evaluation of expanding the area noticed from the surrounding 300-feet.

City councilmembers have expressed interest at study sessions and formal meetings to expand the noticing so residents can be better informed about projects proposed in the city of Beverly Hills.

In April, after the Planning Commission approved a conditional use permit for Infiniti at 9031 Olympic Boulevard, some residents said they had concerns about Infiniti in the neighborhood and some felt there had been a lack of process for resident involvement. The criteria for noticing had been met.

All councilmembers have advocated expanding the level of outreach to community members.

Applications for conditional use permits, variances, tentative maps, and general plan, zoning maps, and text amendments require newspaper notices, site posting and mailed notices to property owners within 300 feet of the project.

Notice is not required for projects coming up for architectural review. Mailed notices are required for sign accommodations within 100 feet of the project. Design review applications, reviewed by the Design Review Commission, are required to be noticed via site posting and mailed notices for owners and occupants within 100 feet of the property.

The city does not have current requirements to post notices on the website or use email to notice the public and the website does not currently post any public notices for projects.

In comparing Beverly Hills to neighboring cities such as Culver City, Pasadena, Santa Monica and West Hollywood, staff found that all cities provide public notices on a webpage and provide the public the option to sign up for emails to receive public notices and announcements.

The commission will discuss options and staff recommendations which include consolidating requirements in one section of the city's code for better organization and expanding the radius for mail noticing.

Horace Mann auditorium dedication will be held today at 3:30 p.m.

Horace Mann will hold the rededication for the newly renovated Ron Brown Auditorium today at 3:30 p.m.

"One of the best things I heard from my staff was, 'I know they were here all these months but it's like they were never here,'" said Principal Steve Kessler, who said he was pleased with the project.

The late Ron Brown, who the auditorium is named for, was a Horace Mann social studies teacher who passed away suddenly in 1994. Kessler said Brown was "an absolute leader of our school" and a personal, close friend of his. Following his passing in 1994, the-then Board of Education dedicated the auditorium and named it the Ron Brown auditorium.

"I'm really excited that the name of Mr. Brown goes on and I will have some words [today for] those who remember Horace Mann at the time of Mr. Brown, which is basically in the late 60's, 70's, 80's and 90's, that many of the things that he promoted to be so successful, his good friend and now principal are making sure still go forward at Horace Mann now," said Kessler.

The Horace Mann PTA sold personalized bricks for Horace Mann students and alumni as a fundraiser to line the walkway of the Ron Brown auditorium. The personalized bricks are currently in the flower bed to the left of the auditorium's main entrance.

When the entire school has been remodeled and the middle school building is demolished, Kessler said the contractors will install the bricks into the concrete in the main entry way of the auditorium. If the bricks were installed now, they would break upon the school's renovation, said Kessler.

Kessler credited the building's completion to "Team Horace Mann," which includes Bernards construction, Jim Dicamillo, a Proposed façade remodel for 9953 South Santa Monica Boulevard

Architectural Commission OK's Mark Selwyn Art Gallery; Panera Bread

The Architectural Commission approved a façade remodel and sign accommodation for the applicant, Marc Selwyn Art Gallery, for the building located at 9953 South Santa Monica Boulevard at the commission's meeting on May 15.

"Gorgeous remodel of a garage," said Chair Zale Richard Rubins, who said the building had been an auto repair garage. "The art gallery was approved. It really came out a nice job."

The commission also approved a façade remodel, sign modifications, and outdoor dining elements for Panera Bread, which is moving into the former Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce building on Beverly Drive.

The commission asked that the applicants remove a logo from the window and center the logo in a stone wall, according to Architectural Commission Chair Zale Richard Rubins.

The commission was presented with plans for a new police vehicle storage facility on Rexford Drive. The commission had given some input on the project and the City made the changes the commission had requested, said Rubins.

"We asked them to better match the building and create a natural progression in the way the original architect had. We asked them to not use metal doors. We asked them to paint it, so it was a little softer look," said Rubins. "We asked them to increase the vegetation around it, so it would soften the extension."

Lucky Brand Jeans had previously appeared before the commission. The project was sent to subcommittee. The commission had been concerned with the brightness of the neon sign.

The neon sign is now adjustable. The brightness of the sign will be dimmable. The commission will review the signage once it is installed to verify the adjustments, but the project was approved.

Pussy and Pooch, a retail pet store, requested a façade remodel and business sign at 9388 South Santa Monica Boulevard.

"They're basically going to have to do a whole big change in signage," said Rubins. "We asked them to downsize the sign; there was no sense of arrival at the proposed entrance, and we asked them to put another sign by the door so that people would not be confused."

The commission also asked the applicant to paint the side of the building to better differentiate the building from adjacent properties.

The commission also approved façade modification for Writer's Guild of America located at 135 South Doheny Drive.

principal of WLC architects, Kessler and the school administration, facilities director and the district administration.

Kessler said they held meetings every Tuesday at 7 a.m. to make sure the project was on schedule.

"I'm so pleased at how it went. They really held the contractor to the terms of the agreement," said Kessler.

The $62 million Horace Mann construction and renovation project for the remainder of the school is scheduled to begin in February of 2014.

"We took a preliminary run with the auditorium and really got along well with each other and everything worked out great," said Kessler. "Since we have that same team for the big one, I'm looking forward to it."

Horace Mann will also be showing the Wizard of Oz following the rededication at 4 p.m. Proceeds from the movie showing will be dedicated to a fund for the relief of those affected by the tornado in Oklahoma. Horace Mann's open house is also tonight at 6 p.m.

coverstory RED ALERT

The Weekly's exclusive interview with Beverly Hills Firefighters' Association President Kurt Versteeg

By Andrea Aldana

How did you get involved with the Beverly Hills Firefighter's Association?

Well, back when I first got hired, I was drawn to it. I respected the individuals who were running it at the time and I just, very early on, grew a great appreciation for what they developed and laid out. When we get hired, [everyone] becomes a member of the association. I think everyone is involved; some just choose to take that to the next level. I think one of the things that really instilled it in me was back when I was hired in 1990, there was serious economic issues to the point where they were talking about laying off people and being one of the newest members in the department and having the fire chief call you in and saying, "Hey, it's not happening yet, but I've been told to tell you that you may be one of the ones laid off" is somewhat unnerving. But then the response from the association and going to the city council meetings and seeing our president at the time, who was Stan Speth, get up there and speak so eloquently about the importance of public safety and just seeing the overwhelming community support from that -- and the fact that I'm still here so obviously those layoffs didn't happen -- that was a true benchmark for me and that happened so early in my career, it just seemed like the natural progression. From that moment on, I had a real deep sense of wanting to get back and showing my appreciation not only for the association but for the community, as well.

What does the association do?

The association basically represents 77 full-time professional firefighters, paramedics, engineers and battalion chiefs and we represent the members as far as wages, hours and working conditions, but our organization has evolved also into an active part of the community and that arm of the association is the one you see at the school carnivals [serving] hot dogs and stuff.

What led you to run for the board?

Like I said, I had that feeling in me that at some point, I would be a board member but at the time, my kids were young. Just having young kids at home and working the kind of schedule we work, it was something that I had to wait to do, so about five or six years ago, with the kids getting older and my wife buying off on it, the opening came up and I felt like, well, it's at least time to put my name in the hat and see what happens and start to take that next step in my involvement with the association.

You've been a part of the Beverly Hills Fire Department for 22 years. What are some of the changes you've seen within the department in that time?

The training and just the types of things we've had to prepare for and train for is one of the biggest changes. Back in 1990, nobody ever dreamed of anything like 9/11. At that time, the [Gulf] War [had] just started. We were going on some bomb threats -- packages that were left around -- so there was a little feel for that. They all turned out to be nothing, but that threat, or that possibility started then, but 9/11 and some of the events prior to that just changed the landscape, so it's just the amount of things that we are trying to prepare for and be ready for. So I guess just the biggest change is the changing landscape of the world itself. We're called upon to do so many different things. We're kind of jack of all trades, so trying to train for everything is difficult, but we do the best we can to train for as many possibilities as we can.

What are your goals as president of the association?

I think my biggest goal is just to continue the legacy of what was established long before I was here and has been ongoing ever since I've been here, so just to continue that legacy and be able to pass it on to our new members. Our department is undergoing quite a bit of change in that we've had a number of retirements, so we're filling those spots with brand new people and just instilling in them the sense of community involvement and dedication to the folks we serve, not just on-duty but off-duty as well, to continue that legacy and to pass that on to the next generation that will be taking over after I'm gone.

Were you involved in the contract negotiations with the City last year?

Somewhat, but I was not one of the main negotiators.

The BHFA covers the medical costs for retired members. Can you explain how that works?

The Backdraft Ball is coming up [on June 11] and it's going to be our 21st annual ball. The first year the funds went to our relief fund, which basically takes care of anybody who has been injured off duty or has had a catastrophic event happen in their lives

"Our department is undergoing quite a bit of change in that we've had a number of retirements, so we're filling those spots with brand new people and [my goal as president is to instill] in them the sense of community involvement and dedication to the folks we serve, not just on-duty but off-duty as well."

-- BHFA President Kurt Versteeg

-- trying to help them out financially. Since there are not that many catastrophic events that happen to folks, the idea of a medical trust fund came up and that was from input from the current board of directors and from a lot of folks in town: I think [former Mayor] Frank Fenton was key with that.

Basically what it does is it assists retired members after they turn 65 with their medical insurance costs. Originally the goal was to fund it two-party, 100 percent, but we have not reached that goal. It's hard to say when or if that will happen. We give a portion to help those members out after they turn 65. Our members are covered until age 65 by the city, but at that age, that's when the medical trust fund starts assisting them with the cost.

Ralph Mundell is in a unique situation where if he promotes to deputy fire chief, he will no longer be covered by the association and potentially lose this benefit. Can you comment on this situation?

About three years ago, the City made those changes to the deputy chief spot and the fire chief spot [to no longer cover retirement lifetime medical coverage] and we had no input or discussions with the city. At the time, it was basically a big change that we didn't have any input in about potential effect on promotions and the possible impact on our medical trust fund. That's one of the reasons, they promote -- for that benefit. We've always seen it as a positive: good for the city, good for us to promote from within. That benefit for those spots in the city was a big plus. Police leadership in similar level ranks do get the lifetime medical so we feel that, it's pretty fair that our two guys receive that as well.

Some have said this will make it difficult from promoting within the department. Do you agree?

I think that is a very real possibility, yes.

The City approached the BHFA about covering Mundell's medical expenses after he turns 65 if he chooses to take the position. Why did the association refuse?

There were discussions about that. We have actuarials every three years and the amount we give to the members are based on those actuarials. The deputy chief and the fire chief are not members of our bargaining unit, so when they leave the affiliation with our organization, they are no longer eligible for that. What the city had always given them in the past was better. It was basically a financial decision and based on what the medical trust fund was always based on to do. To add more members didn't fit in with the current actuarial and to do another one and figure out those costs was very difficult at best.

What do you think is the appropriate response to this situation?

I think the appropriate response would be to give them the medical lifetime from the city just as the police department has and continue that encouragement to promote from within because I think that's what's best for the city and the community.

How do you respond to the belief that pensions and benefits for public safety employees are unsustainable?

We have always tried to be part of the solution. I think our association has a solid history of trying to be part of the solution and not part of the problem. We have a solid history, I believe, of trying to save the city money. For instance about eight years ago, we changed our medical insurance from PERS [Public Employee Retirement System] care program to the PORAC [Peace Officers Research Association of California] program and back then, that started out by saving the City about $600 to $700 per member a month and now with escalating insurance costs, that number has grown closer to $1,200 per employee per month.

In 2011, we gave money back to the city to eliminate furlough days so that essential services like the library could stay open — that was for all city employees. With this last contract, we've increased our retirement age; we're now paying part of the retirement cost; we've decreased medical costs by implementing the cafeteria plan. We've also eliminated the retirement medical cost for new hires. I think we see that issue. We know that it's out there. Not just in our community but state and nationwide and we are doing our best to be part of the solution and to do our part in helping out.

How did you get hired by the BHFD?

My dad was a firefighter, so I grew up knowing what the job was about and having a realistic view of it, but my parents were also very high on education and they were ones to always tell all of us -- I have an older brother and younger sister -- that "You can do whatever you want but we think, you should get an education first before you make your decision." With that in mind, after I graduated from high school, I went to junior college for a couple of years and then I worked my way through USC and I got a B.A. degree in journalism. Once I had my education, I started getting drawn to the fire department. During those next few years, I tested for probably close to two dozen departments. Fortunately, I ended up being hired by Beverly Hills.

Tell us about your family.

I live out in Canyon Lake [in Riverside County] with my wife Cynthia and we've been married for 22 years. We're the proud parents of two sets of twins. My oldest two are boy/girl, Bayley and Bryan, and they're just finishing their junior year in high school and then our youngest two are two boys, Trent and Tyler, and they're going to turn 13 right around the time of the ball. They'll be starting eighth grade next year. I have to say, my wife is a pretty remarkable lady. If you talk to enough firefighters, [they will tell you] the injuries, the illnesses, the things breaking always happen when we're at work, and she's able to handle all of that stuff and run a very tight ship around here, so it's pretty amazing. I'm very thankful for her.

Tell us about the Backdraft Ball on June 11.

It's our 21st annual ball and it's just our big fundraiser and like all the years past, this money is going to the medical trust fund. It's more than just a fundraiser though. It's a celebration. It's just a real special exchange between our members, the department and the community itself. The longevity is pretty amazing. We're starting our third decade with these balls and it's just a real way for us to show the commitment of the association to our citizens and in exchange, they show their support to us. It's a real special night.

The 21st Annual Backdraft Ball will take place at the Beverly Hilton on June11. For more information or to purchase tickets, call (310) 288-1755.

The Beverly Hills Bar Association will host the 59th annual Supreme Court Luncheon on June 4

The Beverly Hills Bar Association, in association with the Beverly Hills Bar Foundation and the Law Guild of Beverly Hills, will host the 59th annual supreme court luncheon on June 4 at 11:30 a.m. at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Chief Justice Tani G. Cantil-Sakauye will provide remarks on the current state of the judiciary.

Adam Winkler, professor of Constitutional Law at UCLA and author of Gunfight: The Battle over the Right to Bear Arms in America is the guest speaker. A specialist in constitutional law, his work has been cited in landmark Supreme Court cases, including opinions dealing with the Second Amendment and the rights of corporate political speech.

Proceeds from the event benefit the Beverly Hills Bar Foundation scholarship program, which provides scholarships to economically disadvantaged, academically qualified law students.

Tickets to the Beverly Hills Bar Association's Supreme Court Luncheon are $145 per person. Tickets will rise to $170 after May 24. For tickets and information, please call (310) 601-2422 or visit www.bhba.org.

Police Department to receive oversized vehicle storage facility

The Police Department will soon have a place to store two of its oversized vehicles with the construction of an oversized vehicle storage facility.

The facility will host the department's mobile command center and the department's armored vehicle referred to as a bearcat, according to Lt. Lincoln Hoshino.

"One of them is currently being stored inside the sally port inside the police station and the other one is held at an outside storage facility, so it's basically getting beaten up by the sun and it's away from our police station," said Hoshino.

According to the staff report, constructing a secure parking location accessible to the police department is a high priority to ensure timely access during emergencies. The loading dock at the east of the facility can be converted into this space, according to the staff report. A preliminary cost estimate prepared by the City's cost consultant estimates the cost of enclosing the loading area to create a storage facility to be between $450,000 and $500,000.

"One of [the vehicles] we have to move because we're going to put what is called our MATCC [Mobile Advanced Technology Control Center] vehicle inside the sally port where the bearcat currently resides and that vehicle holds a tremendous amount of hi-tech communications equipment and that vehicle is currently being stored outside and we want to get it inside because of the amount of equipment on the inside and sensitivity of the equipment," said Hoshino.

The MATCC and the mobile command center are currently stored at the Public Works' surface lot at the corner of Foothill Road and Third Street.

Hoshino said that the department wants to keep the mobile command center closeby to maintain it better.

The architectural commission reviewed the plans at the commission's last meeting.

The project was approved in the capital improvement budget for the 2012 to 2013 year. The city council approved an amendment to an agreement with RTK architects on April 2 so the consultant could provide full architectural and engineering services and prepare plans for construction. The item was on the consent calendar. The full cost of the original agreement and amendment with RTK is $72,600.
