“Court grants Weekly’s SLAPP motion; Courier to pay legal fees”

In its Dec.13 edition, the Courier flagrantly and deceptively reported the Superior Court’s decision in the Courier’s case against the Beverly Hills Weekly (LASC BC509955). Instead of reporting that the Court struck down two of the three causes of action alleged by the Courier, it deceptively reported that the Court found that the Weekly’s publishing practices were “Unfair.” Fair reporting would have required the Courier to report only, that in a preliminary hearing the Court found that there was sufficient evidence presented to permit the Courier to attempt to prove its case against the Weekly, when and if, the case ever went to trial.

If that were not bad enough, the Courier concealed from its readers that the Court found that the Courier lost, not won, its motion to strike because the Court ordered the Courier to pay the Weekly’s attorneys fees; the Court found that the Courier was entitled to nothing!!!

How can Mr. Smith, an experienced attorney, who should know better, ever think his paper is in the future to be believed???

Mayorkas nominated for No. 2 job at Homeland Security

Last Wednesday, the U.S. Senate approved President Barack Obama's nomination of Alejandro Mayorkas, a 1977 Beverly High graduate, for Deputy Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security. Mayorkas, former United States Attorney for Southern California and current lawyer and director of the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services, is one of the first cabinet nominees considered under new senate rules that permit confirmation with a majority vote.

The senate approved Mayorkas' nomination without a single Republican vote. In a letter to Sen. Thomas R.

Alejandro Mayorkas

Carper (D-Del.), the committee chairman, Senators John McCain (R-Ariz.) and Tom Coburn (R-Okla.) cited their objections on the grounds of an ongoing investigation into allegations that Mayorkas mismanaged the operation of a visa program for wealthy foreign investors. Mayorkas denies the charges.

The Washington Post reported that Mayorkas has strong backing from the White House, several advisers to former president George W. Bush, and former homeland security secretary Janet Napolitano.

If confirmed as deputy, Mayorkas would be responsible for managing the day-to-day operations of the Department of Homeland Security which includes the U.S. Border Patrol, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Transportation Security Administration and other agencies.

"I believe there is an overwhelming need for leadership at DHS and overwhelming case that Director Mayorkas will be an excellent Deputy Secretary and should be promptly confirmed," Carper wrote in his own letter last Tuesday.

As of Monday, the Department of Homeland Security Secretary is former Pentagon lawyer Jeh Johnson.

Planning Commission approves resolution on Kobor settlement

Last Thursday, the Planning Commission approved a resolution by the city staff which finalizes their Nov. 22 decision to deny applying a medical overlay zone to the Kobor Project Building located at 8767 Wilshire Boulevard.

The medical overlay zone would allow the building, initially designated for general office and commercial use, to be partially devoted to medical purposes, 45% of which would go to medical offices and a pharmacy. The Planning Commission also evaluated the proposal for a vehicle showroom on the ground floor of the building.

"The applicant insisted on a 'thumbs up/thumb down' settlement. Although there were different parts of the application—for example, the automobile dealership and the restaurant—they didn't want to present it in pieces," said Vice Chair Howard Fisher.

While the restaurant would have presented parking concerns for the building, other components might have been admissible to the commission. "The high-end auto dealership probably would have been approved, since it would have been low-volume use," Fisher said.

The building was originally approved by the Planning Commission on September 14, 2006, for general office, retail, and restaurant uses, specifically prohibiting medical uses among others.

This final decision of the Planning Commission is appealable to the city council within 14 days. Kobor's attorney, former mayor Tom Levyn, declined to comment on whether Kobor will appeal.

After hesitation, City Council approves resolution adopting 2014-2021 Housing Element Update

Director of Community Development Susan Healy Keene presented the 2014-2021 Housing Element Update to the City Council on Tuesday. Keene said the Update closely reflects the 2010-2014 Housing Element, with the same goals, accounting for the change in population as reflected in the Census. After a discussion of their hesitations, the Council unanimously approved the update, stipulating that certain issues would return to the Council for discussion.

"I am very happy with the update, except for the Historic Preservation section," said Councilmember Nancy Krasne. "Not all buildings fit all times."

Krasne, along with Councilmember Willie Brien, suggested that Historic Preservation codes be a matter of residents' choice.

"This is now imposing upon people the inability to make upgrades that cause loss to the historic value of the home," said Brien, alluding to Krasne's discussion of dual glazed windows, which improve the quality of life for residents but do not align with Historic Preservation codes in houses such as Krasne's.

"I don't think the point of the [cultural heritage] ordinance is to protect non-historical buildings. That being said, if someone is trying to tear down Greystone mansion, there will be a process they will have to go through," said Mayor John Mirisch.

Mirisch further stressed the importance of the city's authority to protect renters from abusive landlords. "I do think we need to take serious action on some of the violations we've seen against our ten-

Steve Zoet, Director of Community Services, and Barbara Linder at the California Parks and Recreation conference where Linder received the award

Linder receives "Champion of the Community" award

The City Council presented Barbara Linder with the highest honor given annually by California Parks and Recreations for dedicated non-parks officials.

"There's no one I can think of better than Barbara Linder," said Vice Mayor Lili Bosse. "She's educated the community on sustainable gardening."

Linder is the first "Champion of the Community" winner from Beverly Hills. The award is granted to individuals, agencies, community organizations, foundations, businesses or educational institutions for outstanding public service in the support of "Creating Community Through People, Parks and Programs."

Linder initiated the community demonstration garden at Greystone Mansion in 2011, which trains volunteers on growing sustainable food with urban farming techniques and donates all produce to local food banks.

Linder's other contributions to the city include six years on the Human Relations Commission, serving as the PTA president of Horace Mann, 12 years of volunteer work with All Saints Beverly Hills, and membership of the Friends of the Beverly Hills Public Library.

A Beverly Hills native, Linder has gardened in the city since she was seven years old

"My family has lived in Beverly Hills since the 1930's. We greatly value all the years of fine public education they have received," said Linder in her speech.

At the City Council meeting, Linder broke the news that corporate representatives from Armstrong will sponsor the Greystone garden project beginning Wednesday.

"I am honored to have been recognized for my 25 years of volunteer service to my city, and I plan to be there for the city for the foreseeable future," said Linder after the meeting.

ants," Mirisch said.

Public Works Commission mitigates driest year on record

Metropolitan Water District representative Demetri Polyzos presented an update to the Public Works Commission regarding the current water supply and water storage plan.

Polyzos reported that we are experiencing the driest year on record. In spite of that, "because of all the investments and the storage, our levels are good. We're doing well," said Polyzos.

The Department of Water Resources (DWR) on November 19 sent a memo to the State Water Contractors—which include the Metropolitan Water District—stating that their initial allocation is going to be 5% of their requests for water. Polyzos predicts the DWR will increase this allocation, because it is warranted by the year's developing hydrologic and water supply conditions. "[November 19's] allocation is a stark reminder that California's fickle weather demands that we make year-round conservation a way of life," said DWR Director Mark Cowin in a press release.

"Are there any discussions about restrictions or conservation efforts that we should talk about?" said Public Works Commissioner Steven Weinglass at Thursday's meeting.

Polyzos indicated that special conservation efforts would not likely be necessary.

“We’re in good shape with storage, but we’re also looking at purchasing water transfer supplies. So there are other things we can do to augment our allocation, and spread the pain downward,” Polyzos said. “It does put us in a position to meet our demand locally.”

Planning Commission approves two-story guest house

The Planning Commission unanimously agreed to grant a permit request for the building of a two-story accessory structure containing independent living facilities on the 700 block of North Linden drive.

Resident Mona Horadian urged the Commission to deny the permit on the grounds of the height of the guest house. The permit allows the construction of a 22 foot high accessory. Residents can build 14 feet as a matter of right.

“Who wants to be living in a house that somebody’s overlooking?” said Horadian.

The plans for the accessory include windows that are either translucent or stationary.

“But after they get the permit, nobody will be coming to stop them from changing the plans,” said Horadian. “This will be sacrificing our privacy.”

Horadian also worries that the height of the accessory will set a precedent for the neighborhood. “Let them build it, but not 22 feet high. Most of the homes themselves are not even 24 feet,” Horadian said. “This is going to be humongous.”

The Commission explained the benefit of renting second units.

“Not only is it legal to rent these second units, but it’s encouraged by the state, because it counts toward our affordable housing requirements [by the state of California],” said Planning Commissioner Dan Yukelson.

“What is affordable housing? If you’re going to tell me that a two bedroom guest house on the 700 Linden block is going to be affordable housing, I doubt it,” said former Planning Commission Chair Rose Norton during the Study Session later in the meeting.

Norton spoke about accessory buildings that have resulted in crowding in her own neighborhood.

“We are ending up with parking lots instead of houses,” said Norton. “Please do not allow livable spaces to go over the garages.”

USPS to continue move to West Hollywood, lease back retail facility on Maple

The USPS has begun negotiation of the sale and lease-back of the Beverly Hills post office facility at 325 North Maple Drive for retail services.

“The Beverly Hills letter carriers will move to 820 San Vicente. The same letter carriers will be delivering the same route, but the letter carrier will pick up the mail at 820 San Vicente,” said Richard Maher, US Postal Service Spokesperson for LA and Orange counties.

“The Beverly Hills community would really not see any change. They’ll still buy their stamps on Maple, and their mail will be delivered by the same carrier,” Maher said.

All 53 carrier routes that are based at Maple Drive will move to the West Hollywood location on San Vicente.

The approval of the sale of the Maple Drive location with plans to lease a smaller facility for retail services was announced on October 30.

Maier said the sale and lease-back of the facility on Maple is still in negotiation, and will not be finalized until next year. Blake Mirkin, the property’s broker and Vice President of CBRE, did not return a phone call from the Weekly.

Morri Chowaiki “Shark Tank” contestant

Morri Chowaiki on the set of Shark Tank

Morri Chowaiki, a 1990 Beverly High graduate, has been selling popular Holiday items with his wife Marina since 2009. They brought their post popular product, the Hanukkah tree-topper, to Shark Tank on ABC last Saturday night. The episode can be seen online at www.abc.go.com/shows/shark-tank.

What was it like being on Shark Tank?

Nerve-wracking, amazing, and incredibly fulfilling at the same time. I didn't know what to expect. They were incredibly professional, nurturing, and—honestly—what you see is what you get. Before you get there there's a lot of prep, and you're kind of waiting behind the doors. It's kind of funny, because when I walked down the hallway and took my mark, it was almost as if, rather than looking into their eyes, I was looking into a television. I'm so used to that view from seeing the show so many times, that it's very surreal to be standing there.

Other than the actual event of getting on the show, it was really an amazing experience because everyone was so kind, friendly, and professional. Obviously they take these segments that are much longer—in my case it was over an hour—and edit down to eight minutes, but they captured the gist well. It was a tremendous amount of fun.

What are some other ways Shark Tank was different than other venture capital pitches?

It's a real negotiation, but even in huge negotiations with executives from Walmart and the likes of that, you have a paper, notes, and a calculator. On the show, you have nothing. You do your pitch, and then you get grilled. You have to know what your business is all about. You have to know your margins, and if you fudge on an evaluation, they'll catch it. Sometimes, they'll throw these offers back at you, and you have to compute in your head, “What does that mean in dollars and cents?” They'll throw things in like interest and royalties, and you basically have to decide right there and then whether or not that makes good business sense. You don't have the opportunity to go talk about it with somebody and come back after the meeting. You're right there on the spot, marketing your business. I think they respect you if you come in with real numbers.

It's a tremendously entertaining platform, but it is real business. The people who I've seen be very successful are not the ones who just say “yes” or “no” to questions. That's your time to shine: it's an interview and a venture capitalist presentation all at the same time. They're looking to see how you dance.

These people are brilliant millionaire and billionaire investors, they'll see right through you if you're not real.

Are the sharks as imposing in person as they are on TV?

I have to be honest: they were very pleasant. Some people will say, “Kevin O'Leary was so tough on you!” But, you know what, he is a brilliant business man. I could have walked away and said, “Oh, no, he was so mean to me!” but instead I said, “He's given me some incredible business advice, and I'm going to take that to heart.” You could probably pay $1,000 an hour for advice like that. Yeah, they're pretty hard-core, but I think there's a mutual respect that develops. It really pays off in the end.

What was the biggest pay-off of the experience for you?

Well, outside of the deal that I struck, which was amazing because it opens doors into a whole new world, it was the people that I got to meet. I didn't do this just to get on television. That doesn't matter to me. What matters to me is that I now have exposure and relationships that have a greater return than any marketing I could have ever done, and in a platform that is priceless.

Tell us a little more about the deal you struck.

The original offer I made was $50,000 for 15% of my company. What I ended up agreeing on was an offer Daymond John for 35% of my company for $50,000.

Did you expect to increase the percentage that much?

First of all, I had no other offers. So I lost leverage. That [35%] was kind of my limit that I set for myself, but there's always a negotiation with any business you're trying to sell. When he jumped up to 35%, I said, “This is well worth it. A relationship with these guys is well worth it.” I wouldn't say I was blown away and surprised, but when you don't have leverage, for me, it was a slam dunk. There was no question.

What did you do to prepare?

I rehearsed my pitch tirelessly. I made sure that I knew all my numbers inside and out, by heart. That's the most important thing—that you really know your business, because you don't have the opportunity to take a break and look at a piece of paper.

What is a Hanukkah tree topper?

It's a Christmas tree topper in the shape of a Star of David. The catch phrase is that back in 2004 my wife and I reached for the star and found each other. It's kind of corny, but it's true. I grew up traditionally Jewish, and she grew up overseas in Australia, in an interfaith household that celebrated all the holidays. Once we got our own home she always wanted to put up Christmas decorations in the house, and I was really against it. Not because of my religious beliefs, but because of my upbringing growing up in LA with traditional parents.

Then, 2004 was a rough year for us personally. We had a lot of difficulties around our relationship, and I decided that year, around the holidays, to just let it go and stop focusing on my own needs and focus on us as a couple.

She went out, came back home, and told me to wait upstairs until she said I could come out. When I came down there was this little three foot tree with blue and white lights, ornaments, menorahs, and on the top of the tree was this traditional five pointed star. I said, “Where's the Jewish star?”

And she said, “Honestly, I looked, and I couldn't find one.”

I decided to create one. I hooked up with a guy I knew who was a graphic designer and another friend who was a patent attorney, and I filed for a design patent in 2005. In the next three years I didn't do much, and then in 2008 the patent was awarded. In 2009 I started getting into social media, and I noticed that Richard Branson of Virgin Airlines was offering something called Pitch TV. People could send in videos of their product and the top five videos every month would be played on all Virgin Atlantic flights for an entire month. Well, I pitched a video, got the top video, and all of a sudden the calls started rolling in. I said, “OK. I need to make a product.”

It quickly became the number one tree topper on Amazon, and that was it. It's been a thrill ride and a lot of fun.

One of the reasons that I focus on this is because I know what it did for us in our home. If we can help bridge that gap the way it was done in our home—if we can make the holidays a little more special for someone, and share that joy, that's what it's all about. I can't tell you how many emails I've gotten that say, “Thank you for finally bringing this to market.”

What's it like having your wife as a business partner?

Really good, most of the time. She's the boss, so you know. No, honestly—it's been mostly me up until about a month ago. She's always helped, but she's always had a job. Coincidentally, she lost her job about a month ago. At first we thought, “What are we gonna do?” but it's been the biggest blessing.

She does a lot of the logistical stuff—helping with shipping and filling orders and covering what needs to be covered here. She definitely had input on some of the creative aspects on the new product we just put out this year. It's actually fun. This new relationship we have, based on being together, has made us unstoppable in business together.

Can you tell us more about your family?

I have two girls and a boy, and they're amazing. My son Jordy is an incredible student and a brainiac, and at 11 years old already has Stanford in his eyesight. My daughter Natalie is an artist, has kind of a free spirit. Hannah is a little athlete.

Part of doing what I did was to make sure my children knew that if you have an idea and stick with it, and never listen to the naysayers, that everything is possible. The night before the show my kids wrote me a letter and my son wrote, “Dad you had a vision and made it reality, and I'm so proud of you. I hope that one day I can do the same.”

It's a huge inspiration. You say you're proud of your kids all the time, but when they say it back to you, it's priceless.

Can you tell us about your (internet marketing) career?

I was a theater major in college, and when I moved back to LA, I thought I wanted to pursue film. What you don't realize is that when you're in college you get to play parts that you don't look like—older characters, things like that. But in film I was always playing the straight-laced young stock broker, and I didn't like that. I was cast as the plant in Little Shop of Horrors and I fell in love with that. I got into voice acting and loved it.

But I needed a steady paycheck, so I went to work with a buddy at an e-commerce company. We grew into a pretty serious business. When you work for a little start-up like that, you learn everything. I always had a bit of a business head because of my dad, who was an amazing entrepreneur.

We sold the business before the e-commerce bust in 1999. About two years later I was recruited to run the e-commerce division of a large multinational corporation. I've been into sales, marketing, and consumer package goods since 1994, always with a focus on the digital as a means for marketing and sales.

What advice would you give to others thinking about auditioning for Shark Tank?

I would tell anybody who's thinking about it: go for it. You never know what could happen. I heard that there was going to be an open audition, and I went out and sat on a curb at 3 a.m. to get my wrist-band. It's like the lottery. You never win if you don't try.

RUNNING THE ROADS

An interview with incoming Traffic and Parking Commission Chair Andy Licht

By Nicole Battaglia

What are your goals as Chair?

My goals are on two levels. One is that we as the city have some major decisions to make for the upcoming year as far as Santa Monica Boulevard, and the council has asked the Commission to oversee the mitigation of the traffic for the Santa Monica Boulevard construction. As chair I'll be leading the meetings for that, so that's probably my biggest issue: to make sure it's done well and goes smoothly.

Then there are more mundane tasks—mundane is probably not the right word—of dealing with various parts of the community that want permit parking, or the amount of time people can park on their street changed. We deal with special events like Halloween and the Golden Globes. There always seems to be something every month.

You're involved with Little League and basketball coaching, as well as teaching graduate students at the USC film school. Tell us what it's like juggling all these roles.

I think everybody wants to try to leave the world a little bit better than it was when they got to it. Traffic and Parking has been a commission that's always interested me. It's the only commission I ever wanted to be a part of, and the first two times I wasn't chosen. The third time was a charm.

I grew up in Beverly Hills and spent my whole life here and kind of feel like I know every nook and cranny—and pothole. I have a very good understanding of how the city works as far as traffic and parking.

I'm a father of three children and I wanted to be a part of their lives as much as possible. It's a small, great community and coaching is a really fun way to be a part of – and a little competitive. I even coached baseball while I was [a student] at Beverly High because in those days parents didn't coach, kids did, so I probably have more Little League years than anyone else.

Then 11 years ago I was asked to teach a course at USC at the Peter Stark Producing Program.

I like to work with young people—from five year olds in soccer to 25 year olds in graduate school—and if somebody thinks that I can be helpful, I really enjoy helping.

I consider it a privilege to live in Beverly Hills. I love this city and I enjoy being able to contribute.

You're also a film producer. Tell us about that.

I went to UC Berkeley for undergrad, and when I graduated I wanted to go into the film business, but I didn't know how. I found out about a graduate program at USC, the Peter Stark program, and I applied to that and got in.

I met a guy in the program and we became producing partners and we were lucky enough to be asked to be lot producers at Warner Brothers when we graduated. From there our career sort of blossomed and we ended up producing nine films together.

What's going on with your film career now?

Producing films for me and most producers is about finding the right project and gathering the right materials, then finding a studio to fund the project. I have a number of projects in development that I'm trying to find the right combination of screenplay, actor, and whatever elements are needed to convince these studios to finance the production. I don't have any in production at the moment but hopefully that will change very soon.

What are your biggest concerns regarding the Santa Monica Blvd. reconstruction project?

I happen to be on the Blue Ribbon Committee, and our task is to determine what best plan is for Santa Monica. That really doesn't have a lot to do with being Chair of Traffic and Parking. I mean, I imagine one of the reasons I was chosen for the committee is because I'm Chair but it's not part of Traffic and Parking per se.

The Blue Ribbon Committee is 15 citizens chosen by the City Council to determine what the project goals are for the reconstruction of Santa Monica Boulevard—as we call it, 'Big Santa Monica.' We've had a couple meetings so far, and one sort of field trip where we went out and were shown by the experts what the issues were. We have at least one more meeting where we will determine and make our recommendations to the City Council as to how the project should be handled. There are certain givens with the project, such as the physical infrastructure of the street: pavement, drainage, sewer, waterlines, lighting. Everyone's pretty much in agreement about that.

The big questions seem to be whether or not there will be bike lanes, and if there are bike lanes, will there be one in each direction, and will there be a median on the boulevard. We've had a lot of input from residents and from the expert, and now, in our next meeting, we will discuss it publicly and give our recommendations.

At the Public Works Commission meeting last Thursday, Aaron Koonz of the Blue Ribbon Committee said that the Committee's first two meetings were "contentious and difficult." Could you elaborate on that?

I think there are just different factions of people that have very clear goals for how they see how the Boulevard should be rehabilitated. And most of the discussion revolved around whether there should be bike lanes or bike paths. That was really the only area where there seems to be disagreement, and the disagreement really is that we have to infringe upon the green parkway and even certain parts of the Boulevard to make Santa Monica wide enough to accommodate bike lanes.

And what are your concerns about the project as Traffic and Parking Commission Chair?

The city council really divided the Committee and the Commission to have two separate goals. The goal of the committee was to determine the look and the purpose and the ultimate visual outcome of the Boulevard, and Traffic and Parking was commissioned to determine the mitigation; in other words, when is this going to start, whether it will be during daytime or night time hours, and whether it will be done one stretch at a time. There are a number of different ways this can be handled, and Traffic and Parking will be working with the experts to determine which is the least impactful. If we do it at night, we have longer hours, but people will be impacted by the noise. If we do it during the day, we have less time to do it, and people will be less impacted by the noise, but the traffic will be worse.

In our interview with former Chair Alan Grushcow last year [Issue 695], he mentioned a bike lane pilot program that would go into effect in the spring of 2013. What's the status of this program?

Well the bike lanes have been implemented on Burton Way, Crescent Drive, and they're waiting for some studies to show about usage, which we've not gotten yet. How the city proceeds will be based somewhat on how we feel the usage is going. A lot of this also depends on the Santa Monica Boulevard decisions—whether that gets a bike lane or bike path.

Andy, Joey, Lucy, Danny, and Lisa Licht

What's your pet peeve of driving and parking in Beverly Hills?

The abuse of disabled placards. That's probably the single biggest issue that drove me—pardon the pun—to the Traffic and Parking Commission. I'm really bothered by the abuse of them. I've been on an ad-hoc committee for about two and a half years, researching the law, trying to understand the abuse, and trying to determine ways to mitigate the problem. We've made a little progress and the City Council is very much behind us. I hope in the future we'll continue to make strides toward alleviating the program.

I don't know why, it just really bugs me. I get emails and calls from friends quite a bit about whether there's something I can do. I walked to lunch with a friend a few weeks ago on Dayton, and I started pointing out to him how every car on Dayton had a disabled placard. Later he called me and said, "You've ruined my walks in Beverly Hills, because now all I see are the disabled placards." It's a lot of people abusing the system that was created for all the right reasons.

Do you think this is especially a problem in Beverly Hills?

I'm acutely aware of it in Beverly Hills. I do notice that there are certain areas that are worse than others. I'm sure there are a lot of theories why but it does seem like Beverly Hills has a cluster with an inordinate amount of disabled placards. People who didn't know better would think that it's the 'city of the disabled.' What I see is certain parts of the triangle—Dayton, Camden, Canon. I'm sure there are other parts of the city where it's seemingly abused and I'm sure there are other parts of the county where it's similar, but I just happen to know these areas very well.

Can you tell us about the decision process behind dropping out of the 2011 Board of Education race?

Well, one of the reasons I dropped out—and there were many—was because I was told I'd have to give up being on Traffic and Parking which I really didn't want to have to do, because I thought as many people as possible should be involved in the city. I also just decided at that moment that politics weren't for me. There was a lot of early discussion at that time about the subway going under Beverly High, and I wasn't really sure how I felt about it. I didn't know enough about it—I'm not sure I still know enough about it—but there were very strong feelings about the fact that it shouldn't go under the high school. I felt like I probably wasn't the right one to be on the school board because I wasn't going to say one way or another what I thought, and I didn't think that would make me a very good politician.

So there are less politics involved as a commission chair?

There's a lot less politics. You're certainly dealing with the public on a monthly basis, but it's much more manageable in my mind. I feel much more comfortable as a commissioner speaking my mind, and I do. So far it's gone well. I'm certain there will be times where it doesn't go well, especially as Chair. But it just didn't seem like the right time for me to be on the School Board.

Do you think you'd go back to the school board after your term as Traffic and Parking Chair?

I don't know. A few years away, I don't know what the future holds.

Can you tell us about your family?

Lisa is my wife and we've been married 22 years. We have three children, Lucy who's 20 at the University of Michigan, Danny who's 17 and a senior at Beverly High, and Joey who's in eighth grade at Beverly Vista.

Your son Danny is the co-editor of Beverly High's student newspaper Highlights. Will we be seeing any op-eds about your work as Commission Chair?

That's a good question. You're going to have to ask him.

BHHS Boys' Basketball Finishes Fourth in Tournament Norman boys' soccer team shuts out Warren

By Steven Herbert

A suffocating defense, torrid 3-point shooting and perfect free throw shooting late in the third quarter and early in the fourth by Cantwell-Sacred Heart were too much for the Beverly High boys' basketball team to overcome Saturday night.

The Cardinals made six of six free throws to take a one-point lead at the end of the third quarter then made three 3-point baskets as they scored the first 11 points of the fourth quarter in a 67-55 victory in the third-place game of the 73rd annual Beverly Hills Tournament in the Swim-Gym.

The Normans (6-3) led 41-36 when Cantwell-Sacred Heart (7-1) began its decisive 17-0 run with 58.4 seconds left in the third quarter on Andrew Martinez's two free throws. Gligorije Rakopcevic made four of four free throws over the final 27.4 seconds of the quarter to give the Cardinals a 42-41 lead.

Cantwell-Sacred Heart scored the first 11 points of the fourth quarter on two 3-point baskets by Adrian Martinez sandwiched around a layup by E.J. Mejia, followed by a 3-point basket by Joey Covarrubias that increased its lead to 53-41.

Norman forward Jalen Sands ended the run with a layup off a rebound, but Mejia responded with back-to-back 3-point baskets to give the Cardinals a 59-43 lead with about 3 minutes to play and end any doubt over the winner.

"Fatigue kind of caught up with us" in the fourth quarter, Beverly Hills coach Jarvis Turner said. "We just didn't have enough to compete in the fourth."

The Normans trailed 15-13 at the end of the first quarter, then outscored the Cardinals, 16-12 in the second to take a 29-27 halftime lead.

Beverly Hills guard Siavash Yektafar scored 16 of his team-high 18 points over the first three quarters.

Ronan Massana added 10, all in the first half, Trevor Bergher six on two 3-point baskets, Sands six, Brandon Neman five, Kyle Young four, Ben Cohen three, Max Walder two and Navid Rafalian one.

Yektafar made two 3-point baskets, and Massana and Neman one each.

Mejia led all scorers with 22 points, including six of Cantwell-Sacred Heart's 11 3-point baskets.

Serra 61, Beverly Hills 58

Bergher had potential go-ahead and tying 3-point shots go "in and out" in the final minute of a championship semifinal game Friday night, Turner said.

The Normans led 29-27 at halftime, but were outscored, 20-14, in the third quarter and trailed 47-43 entering the fourth quarter.

"Our kids played really well, despite the fact we don't have the Division I high-caliber guys these other schools have," Turner said. "We played tough, we played well as a team."

Beverly Hills played better against the Cavaliers than it did in a 66-53 loss in a first-round game of the Trevor Ariza Tip-Off Classic Dec. 3, Turner said.

"At the end of the game it comes down to making shots and we weren't able to do that," Turner said.

Yektafar scored 13 points, Massana 10, Bergher and Young eight each, Cohen seven and Ryan Manoocheri and Sands six each.

Bergher and Manoocheri both made two 3-point baskets and Yektafar one.

Beverly Hills 64, View Park 60

The Normans built a 13-point third-quarter lead, then withstood the Knights comeback attempt in a championship quarterfinal game Dec. 11 at the Swim-Gym.

"I was extremely proud of our kids," Turner said. "They stuck to the game plan, they played tough and they beat one of the better teams in Los Angeles."

The game plan was to "make them shoot outside jumpers," Turner said.

"We knew that they weren't a great shooting team," Turner said. "They made some shots, but at the end, it kind of worked out in our favor" as "they missed a couple of jump shots which was kind of the difference in the game."

Beverly Hills led 12-11 at the end of the first quarter and 31-25 at halftime. View Park cut the lead to 48-45 entering the fourth quarter.

Yektafar led the Normans with 25 points, making three 3 point-baskets and 10 of 14 free throws. Young added 14 points, Cohen eight, Massana seven, Bergher and Rafalian three, each making a 3-point basket, and Manoocheri and Sands two each.

Boys' Soccer

Loyola 5, Beverly Hills 0

The Normans "were outclassed" in a South Bay/Westside Tournament game at Nickoll Field last Thursday by the "best Loyola team I've seen in 10 years," Beverly Hills coach Steve Rappaport said.

"They were absolutely terrific," Rappaport said. "Simple put, we didn't play particularly well, but we were playing a team that was far superior."

The Cubs led 3-0 at halftime.

The Normans were outshot 13-4. Beverly Hills goalkeeper Milton Joyner made eight saves.

Norman defender Jacob Price "was absolutely outstanding," Rappaport said.

"Jacob Price was basically our defense and our offense," Rappaport said. "He was playing at the level of Loyola."

The Normans have defeated the Cubs once and tied them twice since Beverly Hills' boys' soccer program began in the 1973-74 season, according to Rappaport, the Normans coach since the 1988-89 season.

Loyola was ranked second in the Southern Section Division 1 poll released Monday.

Beverly Hills 0, Warren 0

The Normans began to realize benefits from playing Loyola one day after their loss to the Cubs, playing "exceptional" in a nonleague game Friday night at Nickoll Field, Rappaport said.

"Learning how to play correctly the day before and trying to emulate it really helped our team," Rappaport said.

The Beverly Hills players learned from Loyola that "we had to put more pressure on the individual players defensively and move the ball quicker, play more one- and two-touch soccer," Rappaport said.

The Normans (2-3-1) led 7-6 in shots.

"I think we were unlucky that we didn't

Midfielders Sean McAlister, Phin Bauer and Miguel Ramirez all “had really strong games,” said Rappaport, who also praised the play of sweeper Roman Zaragoza and Price.

Natasha Allen added 12 points, Natasha Kashani five, Avital Simone three on a 3-point basket, Arianna Mazzarini and

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Darlynn Morgan in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Darlynn Morgan be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 18, 2013 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court.

If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
