“Congratulations Mayor Lili Bosse”

Congratulations to Lili Bosse on becoming the new Mayor of Beverly Hills. Lili has always had our city in her heart. Her generosity of giving whatever it took to make Beverly Hills the best it can be has been nothing short of amazing. You can go to the library, the Lily Pond and many other places here and see the impact Lili and her family has had in making our community better. Her leadership in our city over the years is proof that she is more than ready to lead us as Mayor. Lili is a true friend and we have put our trust in her and we believe in her.

This is an exciting year in Beverly Hills with our Centennial, the return of the Lily Pond, the new Roxbury Park Community Center, the many renovations, and on and on.

Now we have a new mayor who is so much a part of it all.

Yes, this is an exciting year indeed.

Courier’s appeal dropped

The Beverly Hills Courier’s appeal on two counts of prospective economic relations and negligent interference in a lawsuit against Beverly Hills was dismissed with prejudice last Friday, granting the SLAPP motion in favor of the Weekly.

“I am very happy that the Courier appears to be taking a more realistic approach to this poorly executed lawsuit,” The Weekly’s attorney Ronald Richards, from the Law Offices of Ronald Richards and Associates, A.P.C., said. “It appears their new counsel is attempting to guide them down a path of disengagement rather than foolishly causing them to proceed down a path of high risk, little reward.”

The Courier sought thousands of dollars in compensatory damages that they claimed were lost as a result of the Weekly’s business practices. The Los Angeles Superior Court ruled in favor of the Weekly in a SLAPP motion (Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation) last December on two of the three causes of action.

The SLAPP statute is a vehicle in which a defendant can file a motion if they were sued for matters related to freedom of speech.

Councilmember Nancy Krasne, Vice Mayor Julian Gold, Mayor Lili Bosse, Councilmembers Willie Brien and John Mirisch

Bosse sworn in as Mayor, Gold sworn in as Vice Mayor

Lili Bosse was sworn in as Mayor at the Installation Ceremony at the Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts Tuesday night. Julian Gold was sworn in as Vice Mayor

Outgoing Mayor John Mirisch delivered a final speech as Mayor, highlighting accomplishments made during his term which include forming the Southeast Task Force to revitalize the Southeast's arts and theatre district, and the Mayor's Sunshine Task Force to increase open government and citizen participation. He mentioned the City's improvements in historical preservation, future reforms to public employee pay and pension structure, improving the film industry and having more bike and pedestrian friendly streets.

"There's still much more for this council to do, and I'm looking forward to working with Mayor Bosse and Vice Mayor Gold and the rest of the council to achieve wonderful things for our residents," Mirisch said. "We may not always agree on all the issues, but this is a team sport and what we've achieved over the past few years, we've achieved together."

Bosse presented a gift from the City Council members and the City for "being the mayor that brought [Beverly Hills] into [its] Centennial year," with proclamations from the City, United States Senator Barbara Boxer, United States Senator Dianne Feinstein, Congressman Henry Waxman, and others.

Sidney Poitier, the first African American to win an Academy Award for Best Actor in 1963, swore-in Bosse as Mayor.

"This ray of sunshine standing here by me, by us, has spent a major part of her life investing in the welfare of this city and its people," Poitier said. "She grew up here, built a home here, and raised her remarkable family here, all the while spreading philanthropy, good will, and making concentrated efforts to enrich this community. It has become second nature for Lili to jump in and make a difference."

Bosse becomes Beverly Hills' ninth female mayor, and emphasized the importance of woman involvement in all levels of leadership. She brought former mayors Donna Ellman-Garber, Vicki Reynolds, MeraLee Goldman, Linda Briskman and Nancy Krasne on stage and listed their contributions and achievements for the City of Beverly Hills.

The late Phyllis Seaton became Beverly Hills' first female Mayor in 1973.

"Even though it's incredible to think that in 2014, we know that girls in school are still warned not to be 'bossy' while boys are told to be leaders," Bosse said. "Well, I'm not afraid of the 'B' word, and I'm here to tell you I am 'Bosse' and I am proud."

Bosse announced a healthy city initiative, which includes healthy people, a healthy economy, and a healthy government. She encouraged people to participate in a Walk with the Mayor program starting next week, every Monday at 8:30 a.m. that will meet at City Hall. As an incentive to start walking, free pedometers were passed out to the audience.

To encourage local business support and growth, there will be a 60 second shout out to a local business at every City Council meeting. Bosse announced plans for a dog park by the end of the year, to continue efforts towards budget sustainability, and introduced textBH, a city phone number that receives texts at (310) 596 - 4265, to encourage active civic participation and contribution.

Beverly High's marching band performed after Bosse's speech, and The Voice's Chris Mann sang "You Raise Me Up," and "Roads."

Rebecca Gold swore in her father as Vice Mayor.

"I just want to say congratulations to my dad," Rebecca Gold said. "You're amazing for everything you do for the city and more importantly for everything you've done for me and will continue to do for me."

Gold compared Beverly Drive's vacant streets when he first started his campaign three years ago, to the more vitalized area it has become today. He talked about continuing his campaign goals of maintaining fiscal responsibility, supporting the city's small businesses, and developing a city wide plan for parking while maintaining the residential quality of life. He also noted the achievements of removing e-cigarettes in restaurants, updating the in-lieu parking program, the creation of the Cultural Heritage Commission, and Beverly Gardens Park and Roxbury Park renovations.

"We are very fortunate to live here [and] sometimes we lose sight of that and the day's issues obscure our understanding of how fortunate we really are," Gold said. "As a city, we need to work to constantly get better, but we should ever lose sight of all that is good around us and all that could make us happy."

of the appeal of the trial courts granting the SLAPP motion in favor of the Weekly, that dismissal now becomes final and the attorney fee motion also becomes non-appealable.

The Weekly is appealing the third cause of action, unfair business practice, which is the last remaining count in the Courier's lawsuit against the Weekly.

The remaining cause of action for unfair business practices also seeks relief which is not authorized by law, according to Richards. Specifically, a court cannot order a newspaper on how to publish notices that are dictated by the newspaper's clients.

If the Weekly wins the remaining claim on appeal, then the Courier will be liable for additional attorney's fees and the case will be over.

"I expect to fully vindicate Beverly Hills' most important newspaper as to the remaining count and end this tragic case of bullying by a competing business," Richards said. "Beverly Hills needs two papers to work in harmony for the betterment of our community."

Three valid signatures needed for Mirisch's nomination papers

Mayor John Mirisch is three valid signatures short on his nominating papers in order to be placed on the California State Senate District 26 ballot as a candidate.

By order of the Sacramento Superior Court on March 21, the Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder would first need to verify 40 valid signatures to appear on Mirisch's nominating papers before placing him on the ballot.

Mirisch had a total of 49 signatures, but 12 of those signatures were invalid according to LA County Registrar Public Information Officer Elizabeth Knox.

"Both sides have reviewed the documents and signatures," Knox said. "Nothing has changed since our determination that the paperwork was insufficient."

Invalid signatures came from addresses that were registered outside the district, and also from elderly couples who allowed another person to fill in their address according to Mirisch.

"It's the voter's intent that counts and clearly these are qualified people who wanted to sign," Mirisch said.

According to the California Legislative Elections Code Chapter 2 Section 100, each signer at the time of signing the petition or paper must personally sign "his or her signature, printed name, and place of residence" which includes a street and number "and if no street or number exists, then a designation of the place of residence which will enable the location to be readily ascertained."

"Even if you are within the district [and] they find your name, but you listed a different address, let's say it's [a] work [address], they disqualify that signature," Mirisch said.

In Section 100.5 in the same code, if a voter is unable to him or herself write the requested information required by section 100 on a petition or paper, the voter "may request another person to print the voter's name and place of residence on the appropriate spaces of the petition or paper," but the voter still needs to personally sign "his or her mark or signature on the appropriate space of the petition or paper, which shall be witnessed by one person by subscribing his or her name thereon."

"It just seems a little bit odd," Mirisch said. "I think what they're going to have to try and do is seek clarification on some of those signatures."

GOP lawyers sued the Secretary of State Debra Bowen and Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder Dean Logan last week for blocking Mirisch's candidacy. Mirisch's paperwork was originally rejected due to faxed signatures that were sent in on the day of the deadline. Mirisch filed as the only Republican on the ballot using the Courier's address.

High profile candidates already in the 26th State Senate District race include former Assemblymember Betsy Butler (D-Torrance), Santa Monica - Malibu Board of Education Member Ben Allen, and others. After five weeks of fundraising, Allen leads the pack with $235,000 in total contributions and $224,000 cash on hand.

The district is overwhelmingly Democratic in voter registration. The primary election is June 3.

and former Board of Education members, former superintendent Jerry Gross, TELACU and two law firms that represented BHUSD.

Board of Education members Brian Goldberg and Lisa Korbatov, and former Board of Education members Myra Demeter and Myra Lurie were named in the suit.

Christiansen was convicted of four counts of conflict of interest in Jan. 2012, with charges relating to negotiating contracts with BHUSD that benefited her company, Strategic Concepts. The convictions were reversed on appeal in May 2013, and the appellate court ruled that Christiansen was not an employee during the time the contracts were signed.

After Christiansen was found innocent in the appellate court, she sought judgment on the pleadings in a civil case, and also sued for malicious prosecution and fraud.

The Court cited that the appellate court left the conflict of interest statute open in a civil case. The Court also ruled that Christiansen failed to make a case out for fraud.

"The dismissal of the malicious prosecution case against current and former Board [of Education] members and former Superintendent, Jerry Gross, was dismissed in its entirety, which demonstrates that the claims were unmeritorious," BHUSD attorney Fred Fenster said.

"As for the underlying action, the court properly preserved the right of the Board to obtain the relief that is being sought to void the contracts and seek damages."

Christiansen's attorney Hillel Chodos said they will appeal and also file an ex parte application to postpone the trial date that was set on April 28.

Unattended stove causes fire on 500 block on North Linden Drive

BHPD firefighters containing stove fire

An unattended stove caused a fire in the kitchen and attic area in a house located on the 500 block on North Linden Drive at approximately 10:46 a.m. on Saturday.

"[The Beverly Hills Fire Department firefighters] didn't see a whole lot of visible smoke, but once they got inside, they determined there was a kitchen fire that had transmitted into the attic area and so essentially we had an attic fire," BHPD Fire Chief Ralph Mundell said.

A woman was assisted by BHPD firefighters to leave the building due to an environment that would have caused injury or death. There were no injuries to civilians or firefighters.

A passerby saw smoke coming from the roof and heard the fire alarms before making a call to the BHPD. The dispatcher sent BHPD resources and also contacted the Los Angeles County Fire Department and requested an engine company from West Hollywood, due to an automatic aid agreement.

BHPD contained the fire in 20 minutes, and the last unit cleared the scene at approximately 3:00 p.m.

"We do have food on the stove calls," Mundell said. "The pot will produce a significant amount of smoke into the building and then we get notified because the alarm is going off or because the resident sees the smoke, but it doesn't usually become a structure fire like this one did."

There was approximately $150,000 in property damage and $20,000 in contents, according to Mundell.

A message from the Beverly Hills North Homeowners Association

SAVE and Preserve Beverly Gardens Park

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this letter is to inform that City Hall is considering widening Santa Monica Boulevard (“SMBld”) by encroaching into and thereby diminishing Beverly Gardens Park. The inducing cause for this park intrusion is to provide bike lanes on both the north and south sides of SMBld.

While we support the re-paving and upgrading of SMBld, we oppose the misguided, unnecessary and cost excessive widening proposal. Accordingly, we urge the City Council to reject the proposed widening of SMBld into the park and offer the following reasons:

- Parkland is precious, in short supply and must be preserved;
- Bike lanes on heavily traffic-impacted streets create dangerous conditions; and
- Cost Excessive – the initial estimate to complete the proposed widening project was 15 million dollars. Shortly thereafter, City Hall increased the estimate to somewhere between 30-35 million dollars.

ANALYSIS

Our City has a deficit of greenspace. Public parkland must be preserved for the benefit of our community. To enhance the beneficial use of parks and increase parkland inventory, our City Council has crafted Joint Power Agreements over the years with the school district to lease the districts greenspace and athletic facilities for our residents when not interfering with any school activity. Seems self-evident that our existing parkland should be regarded as inviolate.

Bike lanes on heavily impacted boulevards create dangerous conditions. Of course, there are so-called “White Paper” analyses that argue just the opposite in theory. But would it offend your common sense to suggest that a bike lane on the north side of SMBld would create an un-safe condition when motorists make right hand turns across the bike lane to proceed in a northern direction while travelling in the west bound lane? Also, our common experience informs that we have a “blind spot” while driving that occurs in the rear right side which would necessarily endanger both the driver and the un-seen cyclist while making that right turn heading northbound.

New York City had in excess of four thousand bike related accidents/deaths last year. When these tragic and dangerous events occur on impacted streets, the City also incurs substantial additional liability. Common sense and common experience suggest that bike lanes are not appropriate for SMBld.

Proponents nevertheless argue that these SMBld bike lanes are necessary to promote and further a “green agenda.” Again, would it offend common sense to suggest that SMBld bike lanes would have a “de minimis,” if any, impact on traffic congestion, and/or pollution?

We suggest that our City Council probe alternative suitable routes for cyclists on less heavily trafficked streets to ensure the safety of all users.

Unfortunately, our City Council engaged consultants to advise with respect to the proposed “widening” of SMBld. That contract provides for the consultants to receive 1.9 million dollars. They have already received $193,000 as of the last City Council meeting on March 4, 2014.

In our judgment, this entire matter should be spear-headed by our Public Works staff. They have demonstrated over the years to be expert and technically skilled in working through to completion in excellent fashion the entire SMBld upgrading and re-surfacing project.

From them, we would expect to receive for public analysis and discussion the following:

- An inventory of all the pot-holes, cracked sidewalks, broken pipes and related issues;
- A time-line indicating the duration of the remedial construction period; and
- Construction costs.

The extra excessive expense for consultants, seems to us, to be unnecessary and wasteful. We have a superb staff quite capable to do the job.

Finally, we hold firm to the view, that a bike lane on SMBld that encroaches into Beverly Gardens Park, that is projected to be utilized by 70%-80% non-residents, that creates a dangerous condition for all operators and that is “cost excessive” is “NOT” in the best interests of our City. We must shepherd our resources. We have an obligation to enhance and preserve our parkland, for purposes both aesthetic and useful. To do otherwise would negatively impact our quality of life which we are committed to enhancing and enriching.

LEADING LAWYER

The Weekly interviews Beverly Hills Bar Association President Diane Karpman

By Nancy Yeang

How did you become Beverly Hills Bar Association's President?

When I was a young lawyer my mentors said that the way that you really become successful in the practice is to affiliate with bar associations. I was on the board with different bar associations like San Fernando Valley, LA County Bar, [and] Consumer Attorneys.

My area of practice is that I only represent lawyers and I'm a legal ethics expert. Having been on [the Board of different bar associations and] being on the Board of the Beverly Hills Bar [Association] I decided that the Beverly Hills Bar was the one that most spoke to my issues [and] my personal concerns because they are focused on civil rights which very few people know about. It's one of our core values.

We were founded 82 years ago and at that time the other more established bar associations did not welcome minorities, women, and people of certain religious persuasions. That's when a group of people got together and said, "We need a bar association that will encompass everybody," [and formed the Beverly Hills Bar Association]. That core value of civil rights still exists today. We were in the forefront of the same sex marriage issue and we have an amicus brief pending at the United States Supreme Court on that issue. We just recently had an amicus at the California Supreme Court on the Garcia case, which is the right of an undocumented alien to become a lawyer.

We're very proactive in terms of legislation. We have a resolutions committee and a legislation committee and during the year we meet and draft law for placement in Sacramento. Then we go to Sacramento once a year and try to lobby what laws we think ought to be there. We're going to Sacramento on April 2.

There are 280 bar associations [in California] but the difference at the Beverly Hills Bar Association is that they actively go up to Sacramento. At times we've hired full-time lobbyists, and that really distinguishes it from the other bar associations. For example, we sort of maintained that we don't lose cases, we change the law. Sometimes you lose a case because of a legal issue, and that's unfair. You can bring that issue to the resolutions committee and we will evaluate it and write a law about it and then take it to the California Conference of Delegates and see if it's passed. If it's passed there, it goes to the state bar lobbyists. But if it's not passed there, we'll still take it directly ourselves to Sacramento and look for [an] Assembly [member] or a senator to carry the bill. That's one of the reasons I chose the Beverly Hills Bar Association because other bar associations really don't go up to Sacramento and actively lobby.

"Pursuing [law] right now takes a certain level of...courage, commitment, devotion, [and] devotion to justice."

--Beverly Hills Bar Association President Diane Karpman

What laws were successful in passing through this?

Oh hundreds.

What were some of the notable ones that you've seen passed?

I had one passed about maybe 15 to 20 years ago that dealt with the state bar court that lawyers are prosecuted for misconduct. Mine dealt with the duty of the prosecutors to give the lawyer exculpatory information. It's like a legal Brady Bill.

There's so many each year that we have about ten, maybe 20, covering all areas of the law.

Former BHBA President Lawrence Jacobson mentioned in the Weekly's Issue #672 cover issue that the Bar was affected by the sub prime mortgage crash and other economic crisis, which impacted the members in terms of what they could do to support the Bar, but the BHBA's membership still grew. You mentioned that one of the things that make Beverly Hills a bit different is that members go up to Sacramento to lobby. What other ways is Beverly Hills different from other organizations?

Well that's a big way, because other bar associations are [often] social clubs, dinner meetings, and some of them provide CLE [Continuing Legal Education].

The other thing about the Beverly Hills Bar is we provide more than 200 CLE programs a year. Lawyers are required to get a certain amount of units in CLE each year including a certain amount of ethics units, bias units, [and] substance abuse [units]. Those are the mandatory units and we offer multiple programs in all of those areas. [We offer] 200 programs a year, which is an extraordinary amount. There are 365 days in a year, [and] we'll have two or three programs going on in the same day. There will be a new case, and we'll immediately have a program on that case. Our practitioners not only are well known in the community [but] they're [also] well-educated on the currently breaking issues of the day.

What are some events coming up with the Beverly Hills Bar Association?

We have the largest entertainment bar association in the nation. In fact, we're having a big event on April 16 at the Beverly Hills Hotel where we're honoring Lee Phillips of Manatt, [Phelps and] Phillips as the entertainment lawyer of the year. He, for example, represents Barbra Streisand, Tracy Chapman, Burt Bacharach, Brian Wilson, and Neil Young. He is one of the profession and legal market has suffered and has still not fully recovered from the depression.

We have networking [events]. [On March 20] we had a reception for new admittees at our beautiful facility and we had more than 100 people [attend]. [Judge] Jay Gandhi, a federal magistrate judge, address[ed] the recent admittees [who] just passed the bar exam.

We [also] do advocacy and we always address key issues. Like right now, court funding is a crisis in our state, and there's evidence of that. We [have] a court house in Beverly Hills and it's closed.

Is it closed permanently?

At this point we don't know, but they had to close it because so many millions, billions [of dollars] were stripped from the court funding budget by the governor. This year, we hope we get back more money but I still don't think we'll get enough back in order to reopen the Beverly Hills court[house]. [The] Beverly Hills Bar [Association] was instrumental in getting that courthouse here so this is something that's very near and dear and close to our hearts.

Some of the people in Beverly Hills have to travel out to Torrance or to San Fernando Valley for unlawful detainers and other things. People are traveling two hours to get to the right courthouse and that's a tragedy. It really is so especially in the area of domestic violence when you need a restraining order.

It's important for citizens to be able to access justice in a reasonably close manner and we had all these neighborhood courts all throughout the Los Angeles area because Los Angeles is such a vast area. Many of those ancillary courts are now closed which is a terrible shame, and we're [actively] working on court funding.

Jacobson also said that he believes "the legal system should be available to anyone without an economic prequalification."

I absolutely agree with him, and that's known as Civil Gideon. The Gideon case decided that if you're in criminal issues then of course you have to have a lawyer or you don't get justice. Everyone should have access to a lawyer.

The American Bar Association and many others support what is known as Civil Gideon. It basically stands for the idea that regardless of what forum you're in, you ought to have a right to a lawyer. There [are] so many processes, procedures, and protocols that humans don't necessarily understand that. Lawyers sort of act as a translator [and] you ought to have access to a lawyer regardless of what the issue is.

At the time you were sworn in as president, women led the organization's three governing boards for the first time in the BHBA history. Tell us more about that.

We had our first woman president in 1975, and we've had many, many women presidents but it's the first time that the Barristers and the Foundation and the Association all had women presidents.

I mentioned the Barristers to you a few minutes ago and that's our young lawyer group.

We also have a charitable arm which is known as the Foundation and that's our organization for charitable giving. With that organization we fund scholarships. In fact, we have a big event coming up in June, which is our annual Supreme Court Luncheon where the entire Supreme Court is coming down here to have lunch with us at the Beverly Hills Hotel. This is our 60th annual Supreme Court Luncheon.

This year it's particularly special because there's a very famous justice on our Supreme Court known as Joyce Kennard and she is going to be the keynote speaker. She's someone who was in Indonesia when she was a child and then she moved to her home, which was in the Netherlands, and she lost a leg there. Then she came to the United States and she considers this to be the land of opportunity. She has served on the Supreme Court for approximately 20 years and to have her to come and talk to us is just extraordinary.

What are some of the other projects that the Foundation has been involved with?

One of the things that they fund are our legal clinics. We have several legal clinics in parks. It originated at Roxbury Park and now it's at La Cienega Park where we provide free legal services for the elderly or for whoever wants to come by and ask us questions. Which is like what Larry Jacobson said, anyone who needs legal advice [has] a right to get it, and so we have these legal clinics all over the parks in Beverly Hills.

Another thing we do is we feed the poor. They go [to a homeless shelter] once a month and they make food and feed the poor.

Our Barristers are the heart and soul of the organization and then of course our Association had a tremendous number of sections. We have entertainment, we have litigation, we have Court Appointed Counsel System, [and] we have trust in the State.

Tell us more about the range in membership in the BHBA.

We have a full range. The interesting thing about [the] Beverly Hills Bar [Association] that is I think unique [is that] we're one of the very few bars in the nation that is continuing to grow. Most bar associations are bleeding members because of the economic recession that Larry referred to.

We have a mandatory state bar - you cannot practice law unless you're a member of the [California] state bar. The Beverly Hills Bar [Association and] all these other bar associations are optional and you just chose if you want to be in one or not. Lots of lawyers decided that they could no longer be affiliated [in the economic decline of 2008] and yet our membership has continued to grow, which is really quite remarkable. The reason that our membership keeps growing is that we provide tremendous value and fabulous events.

Your law firm, Karpman and Associates, is focused on ethics counsel.

That's all we do.

Tell us more about that.

At this point I'm solo. Usually I have an associate. I've been in this area for about 25 years, and I only represent, defend, and in some instances prosecute lawyers, all my clients are lawyers. I write a monthly column in the California Bar Journal, on whatever is bothering me and I've been doing that for about 15 years. I was a state bar court referee, which is an adjudicative position [and] I did that for eight years. I provide counsel to the legal profession.

Tell us about your family.

I'm the mother of two children. My daughter [Fanny Karpman Gjonola] is 41, [and] my son [Aaron Karpman] is 40. [Aaron] is a psychologist. My daughter is married to a lawyer [and] works in the area of travel outfitting. I've been married to my husband [Steve Karpman] for about 42 years.

What advice would you give to people pursuing law?

I think pursuing it right now takes a certain level of courage. The job market isn't great right now. It takes dedication, and going to law school is really difficult. I was a law professor for a decade. It is a real struggle and the young people coming out of law school today have tremendous debt, like $150,000 in debt. So it takes a lot of courage, commitment, devotion, [and] devotion to justice.

But there's some new studies coming out that are indicating that there's going to be a real shortage of lawyers because the baby boomers are starting to retire. Massive amounts of lawyers are going to be retiring now. Although it's been a difficult market up until now, now you're going to have a massive number of people retiring every day. I think that the market is going to become much more robust.

Find someone to be your mentor. That's another thing Beverly Hills Bar offers, we have a new mentorship program. You are able to have an advisor help you along the way.

the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court.
