"Remembering Sol Levine" [Issue #1296]

In 1995, when I became the Subject Area Specialist for the Middle School English Department, Mr. Levine visited with me at Beverly Vista School. While we were discussing curriculum related issues, he asked me whether our English curriculum targeted the high, middle or low achieving students.

My "middle level " response was met with a slow, negative shaking of his head. "No Merle! We must provide the students of BHUSD with an academically enriched curriculum. Our students must be challenged academically!"

He then proceeded to ask me why Shakespeare was not being taught at the 8th grade level. Nervously, I responded by telling him that the general consensus was that Shakespeare would be too challenging for our present student population. Somehow I do not believe that he heard my concerned voice, as he confidently instructed me to move forward with the incorporation of Shakespeare into the Middle School English Curriculum and the immediate purchase of the prescribed text for every 8th grade student in the District.

It is thanks to this dynamic superintendent that every incoming freshman at B.H.H.S. had already made an in depth study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

Based on this kind of leadership, I am reminded of a quote by Mark Anthony from The Tragedy of Julius Caesar:

"Here was a Caesar.

When comes such another?"

Rainbow Crosswalk Shows No Change in Driver Behavior

There has been no significant change in driver behavior before and after installation of the decorative crosswalks on Rexford Drive, regardless of the ly 10% of drivers when a pedestrian was not present," according to a city report.

Similar results were observed at the Civic Center Drive/Third Street crosswalks, where there was no significant change in driver behavior. At this location, drivers did come to a complete stop more frequently when pedestrians were present, and approximately half of all drivers stopped completely when pedestrians were crossing.

In addition to the collection of traffic data, staff conducted surveys at both intersections throughout the month of June to ask if people using the crosswalks noticed any changes in behavior from people.

The city interviewed 32 people in total, at both intersections.

"The majority of respondents said they liked the decorative crosswalks and did not think they made the crosswalks more confusing, as supported by the lack of change in before and after traffic data. Reasons for liking the crosswalks included a sense of increased visibility and safety, the vibrant colors, and the City's support for National Pride Month by use of a rainbow design. Four people said they did not like the crosswalks and expressed concern over potential confusion," according to the report.

The city installed two rainbow temporary decorative crosswalks on Rexford Drive in front of the library and City Hall, which was part of a study to determine if this can increase drivers yielding to pedestrians.

The city gathered traffic data before and after the installation to assess stop sign compliance with and without pedestrians present. Additionally, they conducted interviews to determine if people using the crosswalk observed any changes in behavior among pedestrians or drivers.

"It is important to note that the presence of a pedestrian in the crosswalk appears to increase the frequency at which drivers 9536 Wilshire Blvd come to a complete

Nuveen Sells Wilshire Rodeo Plaza for $211M, City's Largest Deal in Five Years

Tinder co-founder Justin Mateen, his brother Tyler Mateen, and their brother-in-law Pouya Abdi have acquired Wilshire Rodeo Plaza, a retail complex located at the corner of Rodeo Drive and Wilshire Blvd, for $211 million.

Purchased from Nuveen, the 300,000 sq. ft. property spans an entire city block and includes three six-story office and retail buildings at 9536 Wilshire Blvd. between Rodeo Drive and Camden Drive as well as a three-story office building along Rodeo Drive.

Nuveen, which was later acquired by TIAA Financial Services, purchased the property in 2006 for $193.6 million, according to The Real Deal. The property was listed for $350 million in 2019, but the sale fell through. This marks the city's highest-priced deal since the Montage Beverly Hills hotel traded in 2019 for $415 million, according to the outlet.

"Iconic buildings such as One Rodeo will continue to benefit from increased demand as the trend toward high-quality assets continues to unfold in a post-Covid world," said Tyler Mateen, CEO of Cannon TTM, a Los Angeles-based real estate investment firm. "We are excited to acquire and reposition one of Southern California's landmark retail and office buildings."

The property, located on the 100 block of Rodeo Drive will be rebranded as One Rodeo. The Mateens plan to upgrade and program the buildings to cater to retail and office tenants.

"We are grateful to be acquiring these buildings at a time when institutional investors feel pressure to reduce their office footprint," said Justin Mateen, Founder of Tinder and venture capital firm JAM Fund. "We look forward to giving the retail spaces the love and attention they deserve as Rodeo Drive retail is fully leased and our buildings are the only natural continuation."

Pustilnikov to Acquire Large Homeless Housing Portfolio on Skid Row

Developer Leo Pustilnikov has agreed to pay $10 million to purchase one of the largest collections of homeless housing properties in Los Angeles.

Pustilnikov is set to purchase 17 buildings from the nonprofit Skid Row Housing Trust, which fell into financial troubles last year. These properties, consisting of single-room occupancy hotels and small apartment complexes, include 1,200 units designated for formerly homeless tenants.

The agreement is pending judicial approval.

According to the Los Angeles Times, under the terms of the agreement, Pustilnikov will pay $19 million for the portfolio. He will then receive $9 million back to cover further renovations and repairs. Additionally, Pustilnikov will have access to an extra $1.3 million reserved for litigation costs related to habitability and other ongoing lawsuits against the properties.

The City Council recently denied an appeal to construct a new 19-story residential and commercial mixed use building at 125-129 South Linden Drive, which was backed by Pustilnikov. Californians for

Leo Pustilnikov

Homeownership, a nonprofit organization sponsored by the California Association of Realtors that aims to address housing issues through litigation, filed a lawsuit against the city for rejecting the project.

Hamilton Drive LLC and SDLP Holdings LLC have also submitted a preliminary application on April 26 for an eight-story, 99-unit multi-family residential building located at 214-216 South Hamilton Drive, according to the current development project list. The entities are owned by Pustilnikov, which is the sixth pending case relying on the builder's remedy in Beverly Hills for Pustilnikov, according to The Real Deal.

Purple Line Construction Continues

Restoration work on Wilshire Boulevard between San Vicente and La Cienega Boulevards is complete, including new pavement and removal of deck panels around the La Cienega station site, according to an informational city staff report.

The south sidewalk is now open to pedestrians, and additional structures on the south side have been raised to sidewalk level, except for the area in front of the Renal Center, which is expected to be finished this month. Permanent restoration on the north side, including new curbs and gutters, began on October 16, and will now continue into fall or winter due to schedule changes.

The La Cienega station's access hatch is set to be completed by early October, with traffic temporarily reconfigured to two lanes in each direction during this phase. Restoration of the south side and final street resurfacing between Stanley Drive and San Vicente Boulevard is expected to be completed by early 2025.

Construction at the Rodeo station under Wilshire Boulevard is progressing with daily material deliveries and concrete placement, according to a city staff report. Ground improvements for Concrete placement is continuing in the tunnel segment between Crescent Drive and Stanley Drive. Major station elements are complete, with ongoing work on interior walls, the roof deck, and cross passages. Future activities include constructing appendages and auxiliary structures along Wilshire Boulevard, which will reduce traffic to two lanes in each direction.

South Beverly Drive and South Cañon Drive are also undergoing construction, with some areas needing temporary closures.

Traffic and Parking Commission to Provide Input for On-Campus Stop at UCLA

The Traffic and Parking Commission is expected to provide input regarding an on-campus stop at UCLA for the Metro Sepulveda Transit Corridor, at its Thursday meeting.

In 2016, Los Angeles County voters approved the Measure M Expenditure Plan, aiming to enhance transit connections between the San Fernando Valley, the Westside, and Los Angeles International Airport (LAX).

The plan includes the Sepulveda Transit Corridor Project, which will be executed in two phases.

The first phase focuses on connecting the San Fernando Valley to the Westside, while the second phase extends this connection to LAX.

Metro initially evaluated six alternatives to connect the San Fernando Valley and the Westside. Currently, five of these alternatives have advanced to the environmental review stage.

The set of five five proposed routes includes both aerial and underground configurations. The aerial routes generally adhere to existing roadway rights-of-way, while the underground routes may not.

City staff was approached by the advocacy group Sepulveda Transit Corridor for All (STC4All), which is seeking support for an alignment that meets their two main objectives: incorporating a direct on-campus UCLA station into the Sepulveda Transit Corridor Metro line and ensuring a seamless connection to the D Line (Purple) at Westwood Village, according to a city staff report.

Organizations supporting the alternatives include the Westwood Village Improvement Association, UCLA, the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles Community College District, and the West Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

There is no fiscal impact to the city.

Traffic and Parking Commission to Discuss Portable Signage

The Traffic and Parking Commission is expected to discuss potential regulations for portable signage and blade signage in the public right of way, at its Thursday meeting.

Portable signage is a type of business sign that is typically moveable and not affixed to the ground. This type of sign is often used to advertise special information for the business, such as specials or a sale.

There are certain types of signs for which a permit may be issued over the counter, however, if a sign does not comply with certain requirements, the applicant would need to apply for a sign accommodation from the Architectural Commission, according to a city staff report.

The Planning Commission also previously discussed the topic and agreed that this type of signage is valuable for the community and business owners, and supported the creation of regulations to permit these signs. The Planning Commission also emphasized that there may be certain commercial areas where this signage is more appropriate. For example, Rodeo Drive might not be

The Architectural Commission also suggested specific design regulations and considered blade signs as an alternative for streets with narrow sidewalks. Blade signs, which are currently allowed with approval but not frequently used due to the complex approval process, could be a viable option for enhancing business visibility without cluttering sidewalks.

The city may create a pilot program to test a period in which these signs are allowed, and to allow tracking of the total number of these signs that are used by businesses.

Staff conducted surveys from April 12 to May 1, revealing that businesses value A-frame signs for their visibility and promotional use, while customers appreciate their attractiveness and utility.

The feedback from the Traffic and Parking Commission will be shared with an ad hoc committee, which will consist of members from both the Planning Commission and the Architectural Commission. A draft ordinance is expected to be presented at a future Planning Commission hearing after completing outreach and discussions with the ad hoc committee.

A zone text amendment will require review and a recommendation from the Planning Commission before being adopted by the City Council.

Beverly Hills Increases PeopleForBikes Score

The non-profit organization People-ForBikes has released its annual city ratings, assessing over 1,500 cities for bicycling, and Beverly Hills, included for the second consecutive year, earned a Network Score of 39. This score is above the average Network Score of 28 for all cities and up from 37 last year.

The Network Score ranges from 0 to 100, with a score of 50, indicating a city is considered excellent for bicycling.

Beverly Hills achieved a score of 39, which means there have been improvements in access to parks, trails, essential services, and shopping areas. However, the report states that more could be done to improve access to jobs, schools, transit, and other neighborhoods.

For comparison, Santa Monica earned a score of 61, up from 52; Culver City and West Hollywood both scored 30, with increases from 24 and 23; and Los Angeles improved to 25 from 19.

Former Beverly Hills Stock Analyst Charged with Securities Fraud in Major Indictment stock analyst and frequent guest on business television news channels has been charged in a 19-count indictment alleging he used his public platform to illicitly profit by manipulating stock market activity and trading contrary to the position he presented to the public, the Justice Department announced Friday.

Andrew Left, 54, formerly of Beverly Hills but who now resides in Boca Raton, Florida, is charged with one count of engaging in a securities fraud scheme, 17 counts of securities fraud, and one count of making false statements to federal investigators.

"This defendant allegedly used his platform as a securities commentator to manipulate the markets and enrich himself in the process," said United States Attorney Martin Estrada. "The integrity of our securities markets is essential to the health of our financial system, undermine that integrity imperil the savings hard-working people. My office's Corporate and Securities Fraud Strike Force will continue to protect the public by root-and those who

ing out malfeasance by corporate insiders who believe they are above the law."

According to the indictment, Left conducted business under the name "Citron Research," an online moniker he created as a vehicle for publishing investment recommendations. Citron's online presence included a website and a social media account on X.

Using Citron's online platform, Left commented on publicly traded companies and asserted that the market incorrectly valued the companies' stock, advocating that the current price was too high or too low. Left's recommendations often included an explicit or implicit representation about Citron's trading position and a "target price," which he represented as his own view of the security's true future value. Further alleged in the indictment, Left used his social media platform to earn at least $16 million in quick profits by fraudulently manipulating the stock market from at least March 2018 to October 2023.

Knowing that Citron's reputation with investors had the power to move markets, Left allegedly selected a publicity traded company about which he intended to publish commentary with the intention of manipulating its share price. Left prepared commentary about the company for dissemination through Citron.

According to the indictment, he also submitted limit orders to close his positions as soon as the company's shares reached a certain price — often at prices vastly different from the target prices Citron's commentary touted. Though Left represented to the public that his recommendations were to be trusted, behind the scenes, Left allegedly took contrary trading positions to reap quick profits off the stocks he either promoted or pilloried through Citron.

According to the indictment, Left also furthered his scheme by misrepresenting his trading positions during public appearances on news programs. After denouncing one company as a "fraud" on CNBC's "Fast Money," for example, Left allegedly falsely claimed to have covered only a "small size" of his position in the company's stock when, earlier that same day, he had already closed out the majority of his position following the publication of commentary through Citron.

utory maximum sentence of 25 years in federal prison for the securities fraud scheme count, up to 20 years in federal prison for each count of securities fraud, and up to five years in federal prison for the false statements count.

Importance of Local Newspapers

I have always been a print newspaper junkie. When I was a young child, my hometown of Washington, DC had four general circulation daily newspapers, The Washington Post (where I worked as a copy boy), the Evening Star, the Times-Herald and the Washington Daily News (where I worked as a reporter of high school sports). Jacqueline Bouvier was a "camera girl" photographer for the Times Herald when she met her future husband, John F. Kennedy.

I read every paper every day and worked at the Daily News and Post in the late 1950's and early 1960's.

Then I discovered that NYC had seven general circulation daily newspapers (not counting the Wall Street Journal or the Brooklyn Eagle; the Eagle was fatally injured when the Dodgers abandoned the borough of Brooklyn for LA) and Boston had four (not counting the Christian Science Monitor). One summer I spent several weeks with my grandmother Sophie Ostroff who then lived in Willimantic CT halfway between Boston and NYC. I had my pick of the best of both cities' papers and was in hog heaven.

Working my way through newspapers was the way that I learned to read and then how I learned about the world.

Most of these newspapers have now disappeared and the number has dwindled from 15 to five or six.

Major metropolitan newspapers were once the sole source for news about a community, a city, a region, the country and the world. The digital age has decimated daily newspapers.

A majority of the daily newspapers that existed fifty years ago no longer exist. People get much of their news from online news sites and social media. In the absence of robust local newspapers, local weekly newspapers are the only source for community news.

A July 24 LA Times story focused on the situation in Richmond, CA, a city of more than 100,000 in Contra Costa County in northern California. There are no daily or other independent newspapers covering events in Richmond. There is one weekly, the Richmond Standard, which is owned and published by Chevron Oil. Not coincidentally, Chevron is the largest employer, the largest taxpayer and, some say, the largest polluter. But, apart from the Standard, Richmond has no other source of local news.

What is that situation likely to provide regarding the city's most important commercial operation?

So what happens in the absence of an independent news source?

Most importantly, there is no public watchdog. There is no publication to report on local government or hold accountable officials for their action or inaction.

Notably, our city is governed by a five person Council. Our school district is governed by a five person Board. Simply put most charitably, this is government by committee.

I have some favorite sayings about committees. For example, a zebra was intended to be a horse but was built by a committee. More importantly, when a committee is in charge of something, no one is in charge. But this is what we have Given this situation, it is very difficult to hold anyone responsible or accountable for anything. The approach that our departments or staff play complicates matters further. Often the first time that Council or the Board is exposed in any meaningful way to an issue is when it receives a staff report in a public meeting. Often these staff reports (which are frequently prepared by outside consultants) are so lengthy and detailed that there is no time or energy remaining for meaningful examination. This, too, makes accountability a challenge.

Accountability is only possible when the public is aware of what our Council and Board are doing including the positions and is informed about actions of individual "committee" members. As a member of the Beverly Hills Planning Commission, I learned that while issues such as peace in the Middle East or secure borders are important to many of our residents, nothing is more important than whether there will be bike lanes that interfere with parking on residential streets or whether a large multifamily building will be erected near a street already impacted by heavy traffic.

Awareness and direction can come only from our robust weekly newspapers, perhaps assisted, for better or for worse, by social media chatter.

Let's look specifically at what public discourse in Beverly Hills would look like without the Courier, the Weekly and, to some degree, the Press. First and foremost, we would not have even basic information about what the Council and Commissions are doing about issues such as land use, plans for the arrival of the subway or park development. We would be less likely to have any information about what is on the Council agenda or whether vacancies exist on city commissions. The School Board now must also tackle vital issues. Without our local newspapers, it would be difficult to follow what the board is doing.

Our local newspapers, like newspapers everywhere, have been badly hurt by the digital age. Advertisers simply are not supporting print media. In the case of Beverly Hills, the newspapers are highly dependent on revenues from advertising by the City, specifically notices of openings on commissions, notices of proposed actions at upcoming meetings and other promotions of city events.

While the revenues are of vital importance, the heavy reliance on revenues from city advertising creates the opportunity for members of city government to reward newspapers that provide favorable coverage and punish those who do not. For this reason, it is important that there be long term arrangements between the city and the newspapers which provide for objective guidelines for advertising placement (e.g. all legally required ads in all three newspapers with rates set by the relative audited print circulation of the newspapers) and limits discretion of city officials or employees in ad placement.

This is the only way to ensure that opinionated and provocative voices such as mine will continue to be heard.

An update on the school board election.

Last week I wrote about the upcoming election as I was concerned that there were only three announced candidates for three open seats. This was a concern because if there were only three candidates, the election would be canceled and the three current candidates would be deemed elected to the School Board.

Without a campaign there would be no real opportunity for a public discussion regarding the issues facing BHUSD and an assessment of the views of candidates regarding those issues.

This is an important race because the board must address some vital issues in the coming months and years. These include the smooth transition to El Rodeo, the completion of the construction at the high school, how best to use the now closed Hawthorne campus which is a great opportunity for the city and, most importantly, how to improve the quality of education at all of our schools.

The good news is that a fourth candidate, Sigalie Sabag, has announced her candidacy. And there may be others. The more the merrier.

Prospective candidates have until August 14 to file nomination papers with the County Registrar-Recorder. Filing information can be found at lavote.net.

On Friday August 23, Beverly Hills residents Myra Lurie and Dr. Justin Ranaan will present "Dancing like the Stars" at the Saban Theatre. This is a charitable event intended to help local underprivileged youth achieve a lifetime of healthy beautiful teeth. Ticket information can be found at www.events54. com/GASF is my fifth job in the company. I started in 2005 as the Director of Revenue. During that time, I made many trips to Beverly Hills working on revenue management. Then, I ran The Dorchester as acting general manager and hotel manager. Just over 26 months ago, I got an opportunity to come here.

What are some goals you have for the CVB?

I am new to the city and new to the CVB, and I am delighted to have the role and responsibility that I have working closely with [CEO Julie Wagner] and the board. My goal is to be collaborative with the other General Managers, supporting the CVB and attending meetings, as well as backing city initiatives.

My main objective is simple: to work [collectively] to [attract more visitors] to stay in Beverly Hills and support our hotels. We need to make the city more attractive as a destination, [highlighting] its remarkable history, iconic status, and beauty.

There are many choices for international and domestic travelers, so we need to enhance the city's attractiveness. [Beverly Hills offers excellent] shopping and [proximity] to neighboring cities like Santa Monica and West Hollywood. My goal is to bring more people to Beverly Hills in any way I can.

In Issue #1239, past Chair Scott Berger mentioned that tourism is "Not back in full force to where 2019 or 2018 numbers were." Have you noticed if tourism has returned since the pandemic?

The numbers are not back to [pre-pandemic levels], but in 2022, we had a very busy summer as people were eager to travel post-COVID. However, in 2023 and 2024, people have been choosing other destinations.

"We need to make

Beverly Hills

more appealing

as a destination,

highlighting its remarkable history, iconic status, and beauty"

The passenger numbers into LAX are down, and you can feel that impact in the city and across the board. We are not back to how we were. I think the strategy at many hotels has been to keep rates a bit higher while experiencing lower occupancy. We [definitely] want to increase occupancy.

Is safety still a concern with tourists?

Not so much. I think there's a lot happening in the city. You have your cameras at the point of entry, and the city is densely covered with [security measures]. It's very much focused on protecting the city and the people all the time. I think that's less of a concern now. In fact, I'm hearing about it less and less, and maybe it's time we stop talking about it ourselves.

What kind of questions do foreign tourists ask about Beverly Hills?

With The Beverly Hills Hotel itself they love the old Hollywood [charm]. The hotel is a Hollywood icon, it has that glamor of the golden era of Hollywood, which people find magical about coming here. There aren't many hotels in the world where you walk onto a red carpet upon arrival, and that is one of the many reasons it is so loved.

The entire city has some of that magic, including its buildings and beautiful architecture. People come here for the weather, the climate, the beach, and to dine out. It's a place for recreation, and this hotel is like an urban resort. Although it's very much a part of the city, it feels somewhat cut off by its location. I think people come here for the glamor of the destination, to dine, and to experience the iconic sites. There's so much to offer.

The City Council recently approved the annual work plan for the CVB, which includes funding for the 2025 Miami event. Tell us about that.

It's important to remind the travel community, travel agents, and industry [professionals] that Beverly Hills is a remarkable destination. If we're not out there talking about it and reminding people, we're doing ourselves a disservice.

We're going to New York in October. These trips are important for building and maintaining relationships. This is a people's industry, and it's important we have strong relationships with those who influence travelers across the state or the world to come to the city. That's a very important part in helping drive business and by working in this industry, I know it's very effective.

What are some ways the Beverly Hills hotel market is different from Lon-

While both destinations are world-renowned and attract similar high-end travelers, there are considerable differences between the two. I believe the most significant one is that London, being a major international business hub, welcomes an expanded international clientele. What's more, it is centrally located to other major global cities in Europe, the Middle East, and beyond. London's hotel market tends to be more transient, catering to a mix of tourists, business travelers and international visitors. It is also an historic, expansive city with approximately 9 million people.

don?

Los Angeles, and thereby Beverly Hills, also has an element of this geographic draw, as it is a key gateway for visitors from regions such as Asia-Pacific, Australia and Hawaii. But it's fair to say it attracts a larger audience of leisure travelers. The Beverly Hills market is more community-based, entertainment industry focused, and celebrity-centric, thereby attracting more frequent visits from the local community. Incorporated in 1914, Beverly Hills is also relatively young by world standards and much smaller in scale than London with a population of only 31,000.

What do you hope to accomplish as CVB Chair?

As I mentioned earlier, I want to make sure we maintain a close working relationship with each of the hotels. With a collection of general managers sitting on the board, it's important we have a good, close relationship working with each other, supporting each other in the best interests of the city. And that we are working closely with Julie [Wagner] and the rest of the team on the board to support initiatives that market the destination and make it as appealing as possible. It's [essential] that we work hard to attract more visitors and business.

While I'm relatively new to the city, my focus has primarily been on The Beverly Hills Hotel. It's such a great hotel, and I have many plans to make it even better. My goal is to enhance the CVB's [effectiveness] and improve it in any way we can.

Traffic and Parking Commission to Discuss Assembly Bill 413

The Traffic and Parking Commission is expected to discuss Assembly Bill 413, also commonly known as the "Daylighting Bill," at its Thursday meeting.

Assembly Bill 413, introduced by Assemblymember Alex Lee and sponsored by the transportation advocacy group Streets For All, was signed into law by Governor Gavin Newsom in October 2023. The bill aims to tackle California's high pedestrian fatality rates, which are nearly 25% above the national average, making the state the leader in pedestrian deaths. By improving sight lines at intersections, the legislation seeks to reduce accidents and enhance road safety.

The Federal Highway Administration's 2022 report highlights that almost 40% of pedestrian fatalities and serious injuries in the U.S. occurred at intersections between 2015 and 2019. Enhancing pedestrian visibility at these critical points is a key component of the Safe System approach to minimizing crash risks.

Before AB 413, California was one of only seven states permitting parking near intersections. Most states prohibited parking within 20 feet of a crosswalk, a rule that was initially part of the Uniform Vehicle Code but was removed when it was incorporated into California's Vehicle Code. The new law, effective January 1, 2024, includes a grace period during the first year, where only warnings will be issued to allow for public education. Starting January 1, 2025, violations will result in citations. The law applies to all public roads in California, though local authorities can make exceptions for commercial vehicle loading/unloading and bicycle or motorized scooter parking through specific ordinances.

In the city, many intersections already restrict parking near corners, either through red curbs or limited space due to extra travel or turning lanes. With the new law, some locations may see a reduction of approximately one parking space closest to the intersection on the approach side.

The law does not require new signs or curb painting, but these measures might be needed in high-demand parking areas within the city. The Public Works Department will assess locations across Beverly Hills to identify priority areas, particularly focusing on school zones, where signage or curb painting may be necessary.

Staff will update residents about the new law through various channels, including newsletters, social media, and community events. Education efforts will be ongoing throughout the year to ensure broad awareness before citation enforcement starts in 2025.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWN-ER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearreconcorp. com, using the file number assigned to this case 122078-CA. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

In the event tender other than cash is accepted, the Trustee may withhold the issuance of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale until funds become available to the payee or endorsee as a matter of right. The property offered for sale excludes all funds held on account by the property receiver, if applicable. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call In Source Logic at 702-659-7766 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Website address listed below for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08001566-23-1. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the sched-uled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. Notice to Tenant NOTICE TO TENANT FOR FORECLOSURES AFTER JANUARY 1, 2021 You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 702-659-7766, or visit this internet website www.insourcelogic.com, using the file number assigned to this case CA08001566-23-1 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trust-ee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional imright to purchase.
