“Board of Education Election”

I was amused to read Peter Ostroff’s long winded screed in last week’s edition and his poorly attempted hit job on BHUSD Board President Judy Manouchehri. Unlike Ostroff, I have three children in the school district who I am pleased to say are thriving - this is real skin in the game, where elections have real consequences for their best interests. Here are some facts about why I, and the majority of parents in BHUSD, support the re-election of Judy Manouchehri.

Academics. Ostroff states that BHUSD is ranked #174 without mentioning the source, or that the data is stale data from 2023-2024 and current 2025-2026 data shows outstanding progress. Don’t take my word for it – google “BHUSD academic results” and see for yourself. Now overlay that with I) Manouchehri’s tenure (from December 2022) II) that of Sigalie Sabag and Russell Stuart (both from December 2024), and III) one new superintendent, four new principals and six new assistant principals all with a focus on academic excellence and it is no surprise that results have increased so sharply.

Experience. Ostroff lauds Kruger for having been a student and parent of three children who graduated BHUSD. If this is a metric to judge board members by then he obviously forgot to mention that Manouchcheri, a product of BHUSD schools was Horace Mann Student Council President, and Beverly High ASB President and also has three children currently in BHUSD schools – again, real skin in the game. If we really want to talk about experience that matters (and fiscal responsibility) we can see how Manouchehri was instrumental in fixing the mess that was the massively over budget and delayed school renovation project. Her relevant real estate experience was instrumental in bringing in a whole new team that saved the taxpayers of Beverly Hills millions of dollars by bringing in a whole new construction team to complete the project.

Lawsuits. Ostroff points to lawsuits in progress as “disturbingly illustrative.” Since the lawsuits are in process and have not been adjudicated on their merits one has to wonder what he means here. I would expect an accomplished lawyer such as Ostroff to understand that an unsettled lawsuit, especially one without evidence out in the public domain, does not imply guilt on any party.

Character. Ostroff starts with it, I will end with it. It is not Manouchehri who is alleged in leaked chats to have written horrendous antisemitic slurs against a sitting board member, among other comments unbecoming of someone running for public office. Is this the character that Ostroff wants making decisions on the future of our children?

My daughter was invited to the October 13 BHUSD Board of Education meeting to be recognized alongside other National Merit Commended Students and Semifinalists. Instead, before these students were honored, board members used the meeting to defend their political records and attack their critics. My children were so uncomfortable that they wanted to leave. One had come to be celebrated.

At approximately 37 minutes into the meeting, Board of Education member Russell Stuart told the room: “There’s many people in the community right now who are trying to make sure that you believe, and the community thinks that you’re all failing.” He characterized claims that “everything is in the tank” and “everything is failing” as an insult to everyone in the district.

Later, Board President Judy Manouchehri specifically referenced her campaign for reelection and accused her competitors of trying to “flush this district down the drain.” She described the campaign as “quite disgusting” and accused opponents of spreading misinformation and lies.

Consider what these remarks communicated to the students and educators sitting in that room. Instead of simply celebrating students’ accomplishments, board members framed criticism of district performance as an attack on the students themselves, their teachers and their schools. Students who had come to be recognized for excellence were made part of a political argument they had no reason to be part of.

There is nothing wrong with celebrating academic progress. Recent improvements in test scores deserve recognition. But acknowledging those gains does not require dismissing every criticism of district leadership or suggesting that those who raise concerns are trying to undermine our students. A district can make progress and still have serious problems that deserve scrutiny. Students’ achievements belong to them; they should not be used as a shield against legitimate questions about the district.

This incident is particularly troubling in the context of the broader conduct surrounding this school-board race. Consider David Cienfuegos, a board candidate supported by Stuart and Manouchehri and politically aligned with Sabag. In connection with allegations involving stolen campaign lawn signs, Cienfuegos publicly posted identifying information about a student, including the student’s license plate and home address. His post was subsequently amplified by Street People of Beverly Hills, an Instagram account with a substantial following, exposing the information to a much wider audience.

Police have reportedly investigated campaign-sign thefts, but that is entirely separate from whether a candidate should publicly expose a student’s identifying information. Whatever the allegations, a student’s safety and well-being must never become collateral damage in an adult’s political dispute. Cienfuegos did not merely disregard a student’s privacy. By publishing identifying information that was then amplified to a wider audience, he created a foreseeable risk to the safety and well-being of a student in the very school district he is asking the community to entrust him with representing. That raises a fundamental question about his judgment and his understanding of the responsibility owed to the children of this community.

I contacted Stuart, Sabag and Manouchehri to ask whether they condemned the publication of the student’s identifying information and whether they believed such conduct reflected the judgment expected of a school-board member. As of this writing, I have received no response. Their continued support for Cienfuegos raises a reasonable question: will they hold political allies to the same standards of conduct they demand of their opponents? Their lack of response does not establish their agreement with his actions, but the community deserves clarity about their position on student privacy and safety.

These concerns are part of a larger set of questions facing BHUSD families, including the district’s handling of a controversial guest speaker at Beverly Hills High School, the decision to stop displaying Pride flags on district property, and findings concerning racial bullying and a hostile environment at Beverly Vista Middle School. The board has also faced litigation over its own governance. Each matter has its own facts and context, but together they underscore the need for transparency, consistency and leadership focused on students rather than political conflict.

Board members have every right to defend their records and disagree with critics. They also have a responsibility to model sound judgment, welcome legitimate scrutiny and protect the dignity and well-being of every student. A school-board meeting is not a campaign rally, and students are not props in a political dispute.

Our students deserved an evening in which their hard work was the focus. Instead, they witnessed adults turn their recognition into a backdrop for political grievances. That should concern every parent, regardless of political affiliation.

Our schools belong to the entire community, including those that disagree with the current board. Our students deserve better than to be used as instruments in a political fight.

Lifschitz Denies He is BHUSD Watch Blogger; NAACP Forum Underwhelms

Dan Lifschitz declined to confirm or deny whether he is behind BHUSD Watch. The website describes itself as providing "investigative reporting to document and counteract the right wing drift of the Beverly Hills USD Board." Lifschitz did confirm he has sent the blogging site documents for their work.

Lifschitz previously filed a lawsuit against the district challenging the board's vice president election. His wife, Kimberly Lifschitz, is running for the Board of Education.

In its most recent blog post, titled "BHUSD's 2026 Board Race Has Gone Completely Off the Rails," the anonymous writer criticized Board President Judy Manouchehri.

"The toxic campaign Manouchehri and her running mate David Cienfuegos are now waging to cling to power despite this exodus of support is proof enough that neither deserve your vote on November 3rd," the blog post reads.

"I will not be ... confirming or denying the identities of anyone involved in the operation of BHUSD Watch, though I have obviously sent them material for their work," Lifschitz said.

The NAACP Beverly Hills chapter held a forum Monday for candidates in the Nov. 3 Board of Education election. All five candidates were invited, but Manouchehri and David Cienfuegos did not attend.

A video circulating online criticizes Manouchehri and features remarks from a February board meeting. The video presents her statement, "You got to do what you got to do, baby," which the video implies is about a lawsuit filed in Aug. 2026 by Black students' families alleging racial harassment at BHUSD. However, the remarks are presented out of context, as Manouchehri made the comment before the lawsuit was even filed during an exchange with Jackie Kruger, who is also running for one of two seats on the Board of Education. In the exchange, Kruger attempted to raise concerns about a campus speaker during the student board member report. Manouchehri said the topic belonged in the general public comment period. After Kruger continued speaking, Manouchehri asked her to leave.

Separately, comments candidate Kimberly Lifschitz made in a group message in January about board member Russell Stuart have resurfaced. The comments followed Stuart's post about visiting Jerusalem's Western Wall. Lifschitz wrote, "Maybe he can bust out the kip-pah from his dress up trunk" and "He probably used it to store his complimentary in-flight nuts."

Why I Am Voting for Jared Gonzales

My fellow concerned citizens,
As one who served our community in elected office for many years, I am astonished to witness the ongoing dysfunction of our school board. Their incivility to each other and to the public is disgusting and terrible role modeling for our students. Their inability to govern based on basic rules of order is staggering. And the impacts, in lawsuits, budget deficits and performance, are substantial. Our schools are too precious a resource to be destroyed by a school board's poor performance.

There are five candidates running in this school board election. Two have joined together to support the current school board-(Judy Manouchehri, current school board member) and David Cienfuegos- and two are joined to oppose it -Jackie Kruger and Kim Lifschitz. Only one, Jared

Gonzales is running as a non-combatant. He is talking about the students. How refreshing! A working schoolteacher, he speaks about motivating children, helping them be resilient and improving their learning skills to create a path for them to find success. As Ms. Marcus did for many years, Jared's focus is that of the educator, on the academic performance of our entire student body. He is the only one who is not slinging mud at others, is not attacking anyone, but continues to discuss a path to improving our school district.

I would ask that you learn more about Jared and give him serious consideration as you vote. I know that he is not well known in the community which is why I am writing this column. I think he is the only one who is running for the right reasons and has the greatest capacity to help our district. Your second vote? Up to you but I would suggest someone committed to restoring the civility, decorum and credibility of our school board.

Please consider casting your vote for Jared Gonzales. Here is a link to his website: www.jaredgonzales.org.

Thank you.

Gridiron Conquest et al.

Hats off to the Beverly Hills Football Normans for a big win over Hawthorne on Friday. Noteworthy contributors to the victory were two-way standout center and defensive lineman Brody Bell (I knew his late grandfather, Beverly Hills resident and prominent lawyer Les Bell), running back Eli Strzelecki who scored four touchdowns, quarterback Luca Brenner and Ethan Norsworthy who made a key interception.

Notwithstanding my local bias, however, my favorite current southern California football player is Santa Margarita running back Petero.

In other sports news, on Wednesday October 21, the Normans girls volleyball team faced Whittier High in the CIF Southern Section Playoffs.

The Wall Street Journal reported on October 13 about an unusual form of funding for the fabulous One Beverly Hills project under construction on the City's western border.

At the outset, I should explain that I am a big fan of this project and believe that, when completed, will provide great benefits to the City and all of its residents, whether or not they ever visit it.

Most of what I will be describing is based on the WSJ article and my own legal research and other internet research that may or may not be accurate. I have not been able to verify much of the facts with the developer. In fact, I am not entirely clear on the identity of the developer. The City's own CFD documents identify Oasis BH, LLC, a Delaware LLC, as the "Developer." They further state that Oasis BH is the indirect parent of BH Luxury Residences, LLC, which owns approximately 13.24 acres of the property included in the proposed CFD. Then, the project director is Larry Green who is Senior Managing Director, Cain Development/Cain International. For simplicity, I will refer to the developer as "Cain".

The headline of the WSJ story is "The Luxury Beverly Hills Condo Project Borrowing Money From Its Future Residents" The reference to borrowing is the sale of bonds, called "founder bonds" by the developer, to persons who have entered into contracts to buy condominium units once they have been constructed.

More specifically, purchasers of the roughly 150 condominium units are being offered Founder Bonds paying 5%. The 5% interest rate is lower than market – US Treasury bonds, regarded as the most risk-free bonds that you can buy, currently pay more than 5%. The bonds are generally about 30% of the condominium purchase price. Participation is described as voluntary, but every buyer so far had agreed to buy them. As a result Cain had raised approximately $350 million through sale of these bonds and reportedly hopes to raise in total more than $1.6 billion.

The WSJ reports that Cain says it already has sufficient funding to complete the project without the Founder Bonds, and that Founder Bond proceeds would replace some of the equity Cain committed to the project. This funding reportedly includes $2.8B from J.P. Morgan and $1.5B from VICI, a total of $4.3B in addition to the hoped-for $1.6B from the sale of Founder Bonds which brings the Cain borrowing to $5.9B.

And that is what bears some analysis to determine just how much "skin in the game" Cain will have. In part, that depends on what it will cost to complete construction. I don't know that number. Commercial Observer articles dated February 19, 2025 and March 23, 2026 estimate $5.2B.

That information, if accurate, raises questions.

If before completion construction costs rise dramatically and/or condominium sales slow or do not generate revenues consistent with current projections that could cause a problem.

And if Cain has already drawn out substantial J.P. Morgan/VICI financing together with up to $1.6 billion—from Founder Bond purchasers Cain could have withdrawn or all or a substantial amount of its own – it will have spent $5.2B but recovered $5.9B.

Cain's economic position is then very different from a developer that still has $1–2 billion of its own unrecovered capital invested in the project. It will have already made a $700M profit.

That doesn't necessarily mean Cain would abandon the project. There are guarantees, reputational considerations, loan covenants and other incentives such as the prospect of future projects but undoubtedly its incentives would be diminished if all of the construction costs have been recovered.

And there is a further complication.

California law generally prohibits the use by a developer of buyer's deposits paid, as an example, as part of an agreement to buy a condominium once it has been constructed. Money "paid or advanced...for or on account of the purchase" of the condominium may not be used by the developer until the purchase has been completed.

If a California court was asked to determine whether the ostensible purchase of a "Founder Bond" was in reality a deposit, it would look to the substance and purpose of the payment, not just the label. Notably, I have not been able to identify any California transactions that resemble the Cain "Founder Bonds". It is fair to say that a determination that the amounts paid for the bonds and used by Cain for construction costs or return of its equity in the project, could cause complications.

The City has conditionally agreed to issue bonds ("Mello-Roos" bonds) that would be sold to reimburse Cain for certain infrastructure improvements after those improvements have been completed. Repayment of those bonds is not the responsibility of the City but, rather, solely the responsibility of the owners of the condominiums and other aspects of the project.

I do not intend to suggest that the issuance of the Founder Bonds could in any way subject the City to any additional responsibility or risk of liability.

I do suggest that, because of the importance of completion of this unique project to our City and our residents, that our City financial watchdogs stay apprised of the status of all aspects of the development of One Beverly Hills.

At present, we know nothing about the financial condition and status of Cain (or whatever entity is ultimately responsible) and no ability to have any influence over the use of funds.

Although, Cain financial representatives committed to answer my questions no later than October 20, they did not.

On October 20, Cain presented requests that the City Council grant special concessions regarding, among other things, short term rentals of condominium units. I understand that the Council tentatively (but, importantly, not finally) granted some concessions subject to reviewing the specific terms at a meeting in early November.

My strong recommendation to the Council is that any such concessions be subject to disclosure by Cain of financial position of the development and, perhaps, restrictions and conditions on its use of loan proceeds including the loans from JP Morgan, the mezzanine lender, the founder bonds purchasers and any other significant sources of funds.

On Sunday October 18, I attended a fundraiser for our California State Assemblymember, Rick Chavez Zbur.

Mr. Zbur, now running for re-election to a third term, is a prominent member of the state legislature and serves as Assembly Democratic Caucus Chair. There is no probability that he will be defeated and we can anticipate that he will have more authority as time goes on. Beverly Hills activists Thomas White and Ken Goldman are on his District 51 Neighborhood & Community Associations Advisory Committee.

He spoke about a number of important issues and gave a very strong endorsement to California Senate candidate Brian Goldsmith who is running to replace our termed out Senator Ben Allen who is running for California Insurance Commissioner.

Don't forget to vote.

A DREAM LOVE

Audrey Levian on Founding a Nonprofit at 14

By Danielle Berjikian

A Dream Love is a nonprofit fashion organization in Beverly Hills that provides financial support for breast cancer patients. It was founded by Beverly Hills resident Audrey Levian.

What inspired you to start “A Dream Love” at 14?

I noticed a real rift when I was getting my own breast exam done. There was a false positive, so they made me pay for an extra test. And I had recently gone to Peru and helped with MedLife. There, we helped with triaging, and we helped many different spaces up in Peru, which the higher you go, the more poverty there is. So we went to the heights of Peru to help in mobile clinics, and I really saw a rift in both of those experiences where a lot of people in my situation couldn't fund the extra test. And I thought that was absolutely unreasonable.

That's why I started A Dream Love.

I was a fashion designer from before, and I was in the Golden Globes with one of my first pieces. So I combined my love of fashion with my love of medicine. And then in the intersection, I found this problem where a lot of women aren't getting the care that they deserve because they can't pay for it. That's when I became an ambassador for the Pink Fund, which provides transportation and bill payments.

Tell us about Breast Dancer, the debut event of A Dream Love.

The Breast Dancer event was October 11. We raised $8,500 for underserved breast cancer women and breast cancer awareness. And we had an amazing group of 40 women from the ages of five all the way to 90 who came and danced with Annie DanceMoves from Exit 33 Dance Studio. They provided such an amazing environment and comfort.

One story that I had that really made me feel like this whole event and all the planning was worth it is when I stepped out for a couple minutes and I came back and I saw this amazing group of women from the outside. They've never met each other before, but they're all communicating, they're hugging, they're laughing. Something that wouldn't have normally become a connection just became one because all of these women came for the responsibility that they have to provide for women just like them who are underserved. And it was such a beautiful and fulfilling moment that all these women came together, and then also became friends with one another.

How will the money raised at the event help breast cancer patients?

The money that was raised is going to go into three different areas. One area is going to be covering the minimal costs that we've had. We had the amazing opportunity to have partnerships and have things donated to us. We have two ongoing partnerships right now. We have one with Not Today Cancer, and we have another with L George Designs, in which we're also selling jewelry on their behalf, and then we get a percent of it as well. From there, the funds that we raise also go to the Pink Fund. They provide the bills to underserved women who don't have the funding to get transportation, to pay for child support, to pay for their housing or electricity bills. So they are able to provide the majority of their

“Our main goal is not only to have an amazing experience, but it's also to give the majority of our funds to these underserved women”

Audrey Levian is at Center

salary for chemotherapy. And then we also have the awareness platform, in which this provides the fashion house to create more designs. We're going to do a commercial route, too, so we can raise even more funds. So it also goes to that, and also our future awareness campaigns in our marketing, as well as our New York Fashion Week 2027 debut.

What has been the biggest challenge of building a nonprofit?

The biggest challenge of building a nonprofit, especially this one, is making sure that you bring the atmosphere and bring as much highness as you can, as much luxury as you can, to really build the environment and build the connections. But then at the end of the day, we are trying to get as much money as possible for these women, so we need to cut down on costs. It is that balance, trying to figure out how do we make this as amazing as possible and then really cut back and say, let's see what is absolutely necessary, because our main goal is not only to have an amazing experience, but it's also to give the majority of our funds to these underserved women.

And then, especially being 16, there is another challenge. And a big thing that I've been seeing is not only amazing support from all the breast cancer survivors and the women that I've met along the way, especially from the Butterfly Strong Foundation, and from Kristi Funk, the Pink Lotus Foundation, and especially from the Pink Fund. They've really helped me build what I have right now.

But there were also setbacks in which people saw my age as a reason to discriminate against me. They used it as a telltale symbol of maturity, to either withhold funds or refuse to work with me, which is, of course, fine. It's completely their choice, but it was a setback that many people in their 20s or 30s wouldn't be able to experience.

What do you hope to accomplish with your nonprofit?

What we really are looking to achieve is a couple pillars. Pillar one is, of course, raising as much funds as possible for underserved women all over the nation.

Another one is going on the global health route. Eventually, we are going to branch out into South America and see how we can help diagnose and make sure that these women get the treatment and the care that we need. And we have a couple partnerships in the works.

And then, of course, awareness. We're bringing it to the stages of New York Fashion Week, Paris Fashion Week, LA Fashion Week, Milan Fashion Week, making sure that we can use the fashion platform and redirect some of it to awareness of breast cancer. I know that we're working with Runway 7, which has an amazing nonprofit, Project Lab Coat, in which they do have a little sector for breast cancer. That is specifically why we are working with them for New York Fashion Week. And, of course, boosting awareness, and making sure that women feel supported everywhere.

And one of our final pillars is building that connection and that network, making sure that women have connections all around the world. We are hosting luncheons, high tea events, and dance events like we did earlier, to make sure that we can expand and connect as many women as possible.

11 Students Earn National Merit Recognition

The Board of Education celebrated 11 Beverly High students at its October 13 meeting for earning national recognition in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Daniel Marmo and Arianna Matcuk earned Semifinalist standing. This is achieved by less than 1% of seniors.

Commended Students Scarlet Amidon, Alexander Fan, Nima Farnad, Jacob Gabayan, Justin Kim, Lea Levy, Sydel Nouray, Daria Serheyeva, and Yeonso Song earned recognition for scores placing them at the top of 4% of entrants.

“Our students are distinguishing themselves among the nation’s highest achievers, and that is a powerful reflection of a Beverly Hills education,” said Board of Education President Judy Manouchehri. “These 11 students have earned national recognition through their hard work, supported by teachers who challenge them, and families who encourage them. Their success brings pride to our entire community and shows what our students can achieve when high expectations are matched with opportunity and support.”

10 sculptures on Rodeo Drive, marking her first public outdoor exhibition on the West Coast.

“Beverly Hills is proud to welcome Carole Feuerman’s monumental sculptures to Rodeo Drive,” said Beverly Hills Mayor Craig Corman. “This exhibition offers residents and visitors an extraordinary opportunity to experience internationally acclaimed contemporary art in one of our city’s most iconic public spaces.”

The Beverly Hills installation follows Feuerman’s exhibitions on New York’s Park Avenue and at the Seaport.

“Public sculpture allows my art to become part of a city’s daily life, creating unexpected moments of beauty, reflection and human connection,” says Feuerman. “It does not wait for an audience. It meets people where they are.”

Beverly Hills Celebrates Reopening of La Cienega Park Playground and Play Area

On Monday, the City hosted a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the reopening of the new La Cienega Park Playground and Play Area. The community came together for a day of family-friendly activities.

“It is all about families and community today,” said Beverly Hills Mayor Craig Corman. “Our goal is to provide a safe, fun place where children can play and neighbors can gather outdoors, connect with nature and one another.”

The project features two distinct play areas: one for children aged 2-5 years old, and another for children ages 5-12 years old, providing age-appropriate equipment and interactive fun.

Our responsibility is to present the facts clearly, recognize the achievement, and keep raising expectations for every student.”

The percentage of tested students meeting or exceeding standards rose from 68% in math and from 42% to 56% in Science. In English, 75% of students met or exceeded standards, which is up from 68% in 2024.

“Behind every gain in this report are students who kept trying, teachers who believed in their potential, and families who encouraged them,” said Superintendent Alex Cherniss. “Their progress deserves to be seen and understood. We are proud of what our students have achieved and stand beside every student who needs our support. That is our commitment to every Beverly Hills family.”

Wallis to Present Contra-Tiempo

Dance at The Wallis will present Contra-Tiempo, an activist dance theater company that fuses Salsa, hip-hop, and contemporary dance with storytelling. Performance will take place Dec. 17-19. "Through athletic, emotionally charged movement, the dancers unearth ancestral memory, confront systems of oppression, and celebrate resilience, joy, and the sacred feminine. The experience begins with performers moving through the audience, transforming the theater into a shared, immersive space where the line between spectator and participant dissolves. Here, the audience is not separate from the story, but inside it — part of its rhythm, memory, and its healing," according to the play description. Visit <https://thewallis.org/show-details/contra-tiempo-azucar> for more information. --Briefs Compiled by Danielle Berjikian

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
ANDRE E. JAMES
CASE NO. 26STPB02908

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of ANDRE E. JAMES.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by KRISTINA R. JAMES in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that KRISTINA R. JAMES be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 11/18/26 at 8:30AM in Dept. 236 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
